16 And it came to pass when all our enemies hoard of it, that all nations which were round about us, were afraid, and were cast down within themselves, for they perceived that this work was the work of God.

Nehemias appointeth watchmen in Jerusalem. The list of hose who came first from Babylon.

TOW * after the wall was built, and I had set up the doors, and numbered the porters and singing-men, and Levites:

2 I commanded Hanani my brother, and Hacanias ruler of the house of Jerusalem (for he seemed as a sincere man, and one that feared God above the rest),

3 And I said to them: Let not the gates of Jerusalem be opened till the sun be hot. And while they were yet standing by, the gates were shut, and barred: and I set watchmen of the inhabitants of Jerusalem, every one by their courses, and every man over-against his house.

4 And the city was very wide and great, and the people fow in the midst thereof, and the houses were not built.

5 But Godhad put in my heart, and I assembled the princes and magistrates, and common people, to number them: and I found a book of the number of them who came up at first, and therein it was found written:

6 † These are the children of the province, who came up from the captivity of them that had been carried away, whom Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon had carried away, and who returned into Judea, every one into his own city.

birk as readed, the law before the people. Nehemins con-formal them. They celebrat: the feast of tubernucks.

ND * the seventh month came: and the children of Israel were in their cities And all the people were gathered together a one man to the street which is before the water gate, and they spoke to Esdras the scribe, to bring the book of the law of Moses, which the Lord had commanded to Israel

2 Then Esdras the priest brought the law be fore the multitude of men and women, and all those that could understand, in the first day of the seventh month.

3 And he read it plainly in the street that was before the water-gate, from the morning until mid-day, before the men, and the women, and all those that could understand: and the ears of all the people were attentive to the book.

4 And Esdras the scribe cood upon a step of wood, which he had made to state upon: and there stood by him Mathathias, and Semeia, and Ania, and Uria, and Helcia, and Maasia, ou his right hand: and on the left, Phadaia, Misael, and Melchia, and Hasum, and Hasbadane, Zacharia and Mosollam.

5 And Esdras opened the book before all the people: for he was above all the people: and when he had opened it, all the people stood.

6 And Esdras blessed the Lord the great God: and all the people answered: Amen, amen: lifting up their hands: and they bowed down, and adored God with their faces to the ground.

7 Now Josue, and Bani, and Serebia, Jamir. Accub, Septhai, Odia, Maasia, Cellia, Azarias Jozabed, Hanan, Phalaia, the Levites, made silence among the people to hear the law: and the people stood in their place.

8 And they read in the book of the law c God distinctly and plainly to be understood: and they understood when it was read.

9 And Nehemias (he is Athersatha) and Esdras the priest and scribe, and the Levites who interpreted to all the people, said: This is a hely day to the Lord our God: do not mourn, nor weep: for all the people wept, when they heard the words of the law.

10 And he said to them: Go, eat fat meats and drink sweet wine, and send portions to them that have not prepared for themselves: because it is the holy day of the Lord, and be not sad: for the joy of the Lord is our strength.

11 And the Levites stilled all the people, saying: Hold you" peace, for the day is holy, and be not sorrowful.

12 So all the people went to eat and drint; and to send portions, and to make great mirth. because they understood the words that he had taught them.

13 And on the second day the chiefs of the families of all the people, the priests, and the Levites were gathered together to Esdras the scribe, that he should interpret to them tho words of the law.

14 And they found written in the law, that the Lord had commanded by the hand of Moses that the children of Israel should dwell in tabernacles, on the feast, in the seventh month.

15 And that they should proclaim and publish the word in all their cities, and in Jerusaler; saying: Go forth to the mount, and fetch branches of olive, and branches of beautiful rood, branches of myrtle, and branches of polin, and branches of thick trees, to make tapernacles, as it is written.

16 And the people went forth, and brought. And they made themselves tabernacles every man on the top of his house, and in their courts, and in the courts of the house of God, and in the street of the water-gate, and in the street of the gate of Ephraim.

17 And all the assembly of them that were eturned from the captivity, * made tabernacles and dwelt in tabernacles: for since the days of Josue the son of Nun the children of Israel had not done so, until that day: and there was exceeding great joy.

18 And he read in the book of the law of God day by day, from the first day till the last, and they kept the solemnity seven days, and in the eighth day a solemn assembly according to the manner.

CHAP. IX. The people repent with fasting and sack-cloth. The Lovies confess God's benefits, and the people's ingratitude: they pray for them, and make a covenant with God.

ND t in the four and twentieth day of the A month the children of Israel came together with fasting and with sack-cloth, and earth upon them.

2 And the seed of the children of Israel separated themselves from every stranger: and they stood, and confessed their sins, and the iniquities of their fathers.

3 And they rose up to stand: and they read in the book of the law of the Lord their God, four times in the day, and four times they confessed, and adored the Lord their God.

4 And there stood up upon the step of the Levites Josue, and Bani, and Cedmihel, Sabania, Bonni, Sarebias, Bani, and Chanani: and they cried with a loud voice to the Lord their God.

5 And the Levites Josue and Cedmihel, Bonni, Hasebnia, Serebia, Odaia, Sebnia, and Phathahia, said: Arise, bless the Lord your God from eternity to eternity; and blessed be the high name of thy glory with all blessing and praise. 6 Thou thyself, O Lord, aloze, thou hast made heaven, and the heaven of heavens, and all the host thereof: the earth and all things that are In it: the seas and all that are therein: and thou givest life to all these things, and the host of heaven adoreth thee.

7 Thou, O Lord God, art he who chosest Abram, I and broughtest him forth out of the fire of the Chaldeans, and gavest him the namo of Abraham.

8 And thou didst find his heart faithful before face: and thou madest a covenant with him, to give him the land of the Chanaanite, of the Hethite, and of the Amorrhite, and of the Pherezite, and of the Jebusite, and of the Gergesite, to give it to his seed: and thou hast ful-Alled thy words, because thou art just.

* Lev. 23, 39,- † A.M. 3551.- ; Gen. 11, 31.

CHAP. IX. Ver. 7. The fire of the Chaldeans. The air of Ur in Chaldea, the name of which signifies fire. Or out of the fire of the tribulations and temptations, to which he was there exposed. The ancient Rabbins undustood this literally, affirming that Abram was creat anothe fire by the idolaters, and brought out by a miracle without any hurt.

Ver. 17. And gave the head. That is, they set their band, or were bent to return to Egypt.

9 And they sawest the affliction of our fathere in Egypt: and thou dids, hear their cry b; the Red sea

10 And thou shewedst signs and wonders upon Pharao, and upon all his servants, and upon the people of his land: for thou knewest that they dealt proudly against them: and thou madest thyself a name, as it is at this day.

11 And thou didst divide the sea before them, and they passed through the midst of the sea on Iry land: but their persecutors thou threwest into the depth, as a stone into mighty waters.

12 And in a pillar of a cloud thou wast their leader by day, and in a pillar of fire by night, that they might see the way by which they went.

13 Thou camest down also to mount Sinal, and didst speak with them from heaven, and thou gavest them right judgments, and the law of truth, ceremonies, and good precepts.

14 Thou madest known to thein thy holy sabbath, and didst prescribe to them commandments, and ceremonies, and the law by the hand of Moses thy servant.

15 And thou gavest them bread from heaven in their hunger, and broughtest forth water for them out of the rock in their thirst, and thou saidst to them that they should go in, and possess the land, upon which thou hadst lifted up thy hand to give it them.

16 But they and our fathers dealt proudly, and hardened their necks and hearkened not to thy commandments.

17 And they would not hear, and they remembered not thy wonders which thos hadst done for them. And they hardened their necks, and gave the head to return to their bondage, as it were by contention. But thou, a forgiving God, gracious, and merciful, long-suffering, and full of compassion, didst not forsake them.

18 Yea when they had made also to themselves a molten calf, and had said: This is thy God, that brought thee out of Egypt: and had committed great blasphemies:

19 Yet thou, in thy many mercies, didst not leave them in the desert: the pillar of the cloud departed not from them by day to lead them in the way, and the pillar of fire by night to shew them the way by which they should go.

20 And thou gavest them thy good Spirit to teach them, and thy manna thou didst not withhold from their mouth, and thou gavest them water for their thirst.

21 Forty years didst thou feed them in the desert, and nothing was wanting to them: their garments did not grow old, and their feet were not worn.

22 And thou gavest them kingdoms, and nations, and didst divide lots for them: and they possessed the land of Sehon, and the land of the king of Hesebon, and the land of Og king of Basan.

23 And thou didst multiply their children as the stars of heaven, and broughtest them to the land concerning which thou hadst said to their fathers, that they should go in and possess it.

24 And the children came and possessed the land, and thou didst humble before them the inhabitants of the land, the Chanaanites, and gavest them into their hands, with their kings, and the people of the land, that they might de with them as !t pleased them.

25 And they took strong cities and a fat land, and possessed houses full of all goods: cisterns made by others, vine-yards, and clive-yards, and fruit-trees in abundance: and they eat, and were filled, and became fat, and abounded with delight in thy great goodness.

26 But they provoked thee to wrath, and departed from thee, and threw thy law behind their backs: and they killed thy prophets, who admonished them earnestly to return to thee: and they were guilty of great blasphemics.

27 And thou gavest them into the hands of their enemies, and they afflicted them. And in the time of their tribulation they cried to thee, and thou heardest from heaven, and according to the multitude of thy tender mercies thou gavest them saviours, to save them from the hands of their enemies.

28 But after they had rest, they returned to do evil in thy sight: and thou leftest them in the hand of their enemies, and they had dominion over them. Then they returned, and cried to thee: and thou heardest from heaven, and deliveredst them many times in thy mercies.

29 And thou didst admonish them to return to thy law. But they dealt proudly, and hearkened not to thy commandments, but sinned against thy judgments, which if a man do, he shall live in them: and they withdrew the shoulder, and hardened their neck, and would

30 And thou didst forbasr with them for many years, and didst testify against them by thy spirit by the hand of thy prophets: and they heard not, and thou didst deliver them into the hand of the people of the lands.

31 Yet in thy very many mercies thou dids: not utterly consume them, nor forsake them: because thou art a merciful and gracious God.

32 Now therefore our God, great, strong and terrible, who keepest covenant and mercy, turn not away from thy face all the labour which hath come upon us, upon our kings, and our orinces, and our priests, and our prophets, and our fathers, and all the people from the days of the king of Assur, until this day.

33 And thou art just in all things that have come upon us: because thou hast done truth, but we have done wickedly.

34 Our kings, our princes, our priests, and our fathers have not kept thy law, and have not minded thy commandments, and thy testimonies which thou hast testifled among them.

35 And they have not served thee in their kingdoms, and in thy manifold goodness, which thou gavest them, and in the large and fat land, which thou deliveredst before them, nor did they return from their most wicked devices.

36 Behold we ourselves this day are bondmen: and the land, which thou gavest our fathers, to eat the bread thereof, and the good things thereof, and we ourselves are servants in it.

37 And the fruits thereof grow up for the kings, whom thou hast set over us for our sins, and they have dominion over our bodies, and over our beasts, according to their will, and we am in great tribulation.

38 And because of all this we ourselves make a covenant, and write it, and our princes, our Levites, and our priests sign it.

20 Of Sellai, Celai: of Amoc, Heber:

21 Of Helcias, Hasebia: of Idaia, Nathanael. 22 The Levites the chiefs of the families in the days of Eliasib, and Jolada, and Johanan, and Jeddoa, were recorded, and the priests in the reign of Darius the Persian. 23 The sons of Levi, heads of the families were written in the book of Chronicles, even unto the days of Jonathan the son of Eliasib.

24 Now the chief of the Levites were Hasebia, Serebia, and Josuc the son of Cedmihel: and their brethren by their courses, to praise and to give thanks according to the commandment of David the man of God, and to wait equally in order.

25 Mathania, and Becbecia, Obedia, and Mosollam, Telmon, Accub, were keepers of the gates and of the entrances before the gates.

26 These were in the days of Joacim the son of Josuc, the son of Josedec, and in the days of Nehemias the governor, and of Esdras the priest and scribe.

27 And at the dedication of the wall of Jerusalem they sought the Levites out of all their places, to bring them to Jerusalem, and to keep the dedication, and to rejoice with thanksgiving, and with singing, and with cymbals, and psalteries and harps.

28 And the sons of the singing men were gathered together out of the plain country about Jerusalem, and out of the villages of Nethu-

29 And from the house of Galgal, and from the countries of Geba and Azmaveth: for the singing men had built themselves villages round about Jerusalem.

30 And the priests and the Levites were purified, and they purified the people, and the gates, and the wall.

81 And I made the princes of Juda go up upon the wall, and I appointed two great choirs to give praise. And they went on the right hand spon the wall towards the dunghill-gate.

32 And after them wont Osalas, and half of the princes of Juda, pets, Zacharias the son of Jonathan, the son of Semeia, the son of Mathania, the son of Michaia, the son of Zeehur, the son of Asaph, 35 And his brethren Semcia, and Azareel, Malalai, Galalai, Maai, Nathanael, and Judas, and Hanani, with the musical instruments of David the man of God: and Esdras the scribe before them at the fountain gate.

36 And they went up over-against them by the stairs of the city of David, at the going up of the wall of the house of David, and to the watergate eastward:

37 And the second choir of them that gave thanks went on the opposite side, and I after them, and the half of the people upon the wall, and upon the tower of the furnaces, even to the broad wall.

38 And above the gate of Ephraim, and above the old gate, and above the fish-gate and the the tower of Hananeel, and the tower of Emath, and even to the flock-gate: and they stood still in the watch-gate.

39 And the two choirs of them that gave praise stood still at the honse of God, and I and the half of the magistrates with me. 40 And the priests, Eliachim, Maasia, Miamin, Michea, Elioenai, Zacharia, Hanania with trumpets.

41 And Massia, and Semeia, and Eleazar. and Azzi, and Johanan, and Melchia, and Elam. and Ezer. And the singers sung loud, and Jezraia was their oversoer:

42 And they sacrificed on that day great sacrifices, and they rejoiced: for God had made them joyful with great joy: their wives also and their children rejoiced, and the joy of Jarusa-lem was heard afar off.

43 They appointed also in that day men over the store-houses of the treasure, for the libations and for the first-fruits, and for the tithes, that the rulers of the city might bring them in by them is nonour of thanksgiving, for the priests and Levites: for Juda was joyful in the priests and Levites that assisted.

44 And they kept the watch of their God, and the observance of expiation, and the singing men, and the porters, according to the com-mandment of David, and of Solomon his son. 45 For in the days of David and Asaph from the beginning there were chief singers appointed, to praise with canticles, and give thanks to God.

46 And all Israel, in the days of Zorobabel, and in the days of Nehemias gave portions to the singing men, and to the porters, day by day, and they sanctified the Levites, and the Levites sanctified the sons of Aarou.

5 And he made him a great store-room, where before him they laid up gifts, and frankincense, and vessels, and the tithes of the corn, of the wine, and of the oil, the portions of the Levites, and of the singing men, and of the porters, and the first-fruits of the priests.

6 But in all this time I was not in Jerusalem, because in the two and thirtieth year * of Artaxerxes king of Babylon I went to the king, and after certain days I asked the king:

7 And I came to Jerusalem, and I understood the evil that Eliesib had done for Tobias, to make him a store-house in the courts of the house of God.

8 And it seemed to me exceeding evil. I cast forth the vessels of the house of Tobias put of the store-house.

9 And I commanded and they cleansed the tore-houses: and I brought thither again the vessels of the house of God, the sacrifice, and the frankincense.

10 And I perceived that the portions of the Levites had not been given them: and that the Levites, and the singing men, and they that ministered were fled away every man to his own country: 11 And I pleaded the matter against the magistrates, and said: Why have we forsaken the house of God? And I gathered them together, and I made them to stand in their places.

12 And all Juda brought the tithe of the corn, and the wine, and the oil into the store-houses.

13 And we set over the store-houses Selemias the priest, and Sadoc the scribe, and of the Levites Phadaia, and next to them Hanan the son of Zachur, the son of Mathania: for they were approved as faithful, and to them were committed the portions of their brethren.

14 Remember me, O my God, for this thing, and wipe not out my kindnesses, which I have done relating to the house of my God, and his ceremonies.

15 In those days I saw in Juda some treadmg the presses on the sabbath, and carrying sheaves, and lading asses with wine, and grapes, and figs, and all manner of burthens, and bringing them into Jerusalem on the sabbath-day. TOBIAS of the tribe and city of Nephthali (which is in the upper parts of Galilee above Naason, beyond the way that leadeth to the west, having on the right hand the city of Sephet,)

2 * When he was made captive in the days of Salmanasar king of the Assyrians, even in his captivity, forsook not the way of truth, 3 But every day gave all he could get to his brethren his fellow-captives, that were of his kindred.

4 And when he was younger than any of the Tibe of Nephthali, yet did he no childish thing h his work.

5 Moreover when all went to the golden alves t which Jeroboam king of Israel had rade, he alone fled the company of all,

6 And went to Jerusalem to the temple of the ord, and there adored the Lord God of Israel, offering faithfully all his first fruits, and his ithes,

7 So that in the third year he gave all his thes to the proselytes, and strangers.

8 These and such like things did he observe when but a boy according to the law of God.

5 But when he was a man, he took to wife unna of his own tribe, and had a son by her, thom he called after his own name,

10 And from his infancy he taught him to ear God, and to abstain from all sin.

11 And when by the captivity he with his his and his son and all his tribe was come to he city of Ninive.

12 (When all eat of the meats of the Gentiles) e kept his soul, and never was defiled with heir mouts.

13 And because he was mindful of the Lord rith all his heart, God gave him favour in the ight of Salmanasar the king. 14 And he gave bim leave to go whither-sever he would, with liberty to do whatever he ad a mind. 15 He therefore went to all that were in capvity, and gave them wholesome admonitions.

16 And when he was come to Rages a city of ie Medes, and had ten talents of silver of that ith which he had been honoured by the king: 17 And when amongst a great multitude of is kindred, he saw Cabelos in want, who was

22 But when it was told the king, he com manded him to be slain, and took away all his substance.

23 But Tobias fleeing naked away with his son and with his wife, lay concealed, for many loved him.

24 T But after forty-five days, the king was killed by his own sons.

25 And Tobias returned to his house, and all his substance was restored to him.

CHAP. II.

Tobias leaveth his dinner to bury the dead: he loseth his sight by God's permission, for manifestation of his natione. patience

BUT after this, when there was a festival of the Lord, and a good dinner was prepared in Tobias's house.

2 He said to his son: Go, and bring some of our tribe that fear God, to feast with us

3 And when he had gone, returning he told him, that one of the children of Israel lay slain in the street. And he forthwith leaped up from his place at the table, and left his dinner, and came fasting to the body:

4 And taking it up carried it privately to his house, that after the sun was down, he might bury him cautiously.

5 And when he had hid the body, he ext bread with mourning and fear,

6 Remembering the word which the Lord spoke by Amos  the prophet: Your festival days shall be turned into lamentation and mourning.

7 So when the snn was down, he went and buried him.

8 Now all his neighbours blamed him, saying: Once already commandment was given for thee to be slain because of this matter, and thou didst scarce escape the sentence of death, and dost thou again bury the dead?

9 † Dut Tobias fearing God more than the king, carried off the bodies of them that were slain, and hid them in his house, and at mid night buried them.

10 Now it happened one day, that being wearied with burying, he came to his house, and cast himself down by the wall and slept.

11 And as he was sleeping, hot dung out of a swallow's nest fell upon his eyes, and he was made blind. ##

12 Now this trial the Lord therefore permitted to happen to him, that an example might be given to posterity of his patience, as also o holy Job.

13 For whereas he had always feared God from his infancy, and kept his commandments, he replaced not against God because the evil of blindness lind befallen him,

14 But continued immoveable in the fear of God, giving thanks to God all the days of his life.

15 For as the kings insulted holy Job: so his relations and kinsmen mocked at his life, saying 16 Where is thy hope, for which thou gavest alms, and buriedst the dead?

17 But Todias rebuked them, saying: Speak not so:

18 For we are the children of saints and look for that life which God will give to those that never change their faith from him.

21 And when her husband heard it bleating, be said: * Take heed, lest perhaps it be stolen, restore ye it to its owners, for it is not lawful for us either to eat or to touch any thing that cometh by theft.

22 † At these words his wife being angry, answered: It is evident thy hope is come to nothing, and thy alms now appear.

The prayer of Tobias, and of Sara, in their several afAictions, are heard by God, and the Angel Raphael is

THIPM TO. THEN Tobias sighed, and began to pray with tears,

2 Saying. Thou art just, O Lord, and all thy judgments are just, and all thy ways mercy, and truth, and judgment:

3 And now, O Lord, think of me, and take not revenge of my sins, neither remember my offences, nor those of my parents.

4 # For we have not obeyed thy commandments, therefore are we delivered to spoil and to captivity, and death, and are made a fable, and a reproach to all nations, amongst which thou hast scattered us.

5 And now, O Lord, great are thy judgments, because we have not done according to thy precepts, and have not walked sincerely before thee:

6 And now, O Lord, do with me according to thy will, and command my spirit to be received in peace: for it is better for me to die, than to

7 Now it happened on the same day, that Sara daughter of Raguel, in Rages a city of the Medes, received a reprouch from one of her father's servant-maids,

8 Because she had been given to seven husbands, and a devil named Asmodeus had killed them, at their first going in unto her.

9 So when she reproved the maid for her fault, she answered her, saying: May we never see son, or daughter of thee upon the earth, thou murderer of thy husbands.

10 Wilt thou kill me also, as thou hast already At these words sho killed seven husbands? went into an upper chamber of her house: and for three days and three nights did neither eat, nor drink:

11 But continuing in prayer with tears besought God, that he would deliver her from this reproach.

12 And it came to pass on the third day, when the was making an end of her prayer, blesting the Lord,

13 She said: Blessed is thy name, O God of our fathers: who when thou hast been angry, wilt shew mercy, and in the time of tribulation forgivest the sins of them that call upon thee.

15 I beg, O Lord, that thou loose me from the bond of this reproach, or else take me away from the earth.

16 Thou knowest, O Lord, that I never coveted a husband, and have kept my soul clean from all lust.

17 Never have I joined myself with them that play: neither have I made myself partaker with them that walk in lightness.

18 But a husband I consented to take, with thy fear, not with my lust.

19 And either I was unworthy of them, or they perhaps were not worthy of me: because perhaps thou hast kept me for another man. 20 For thy counsel is not in man's power.

21 But this every one is sure of that worshippeth thee, that his life, if it be under trial, shall be crowned: and if it be under tribulation, it shall be delivered: and if it be under correction, it shall be allowed to come to thy mercy.

22 For thou art not delighted in our being lost: because after a storm thou makest a calm, and after tears and weeping thou pourest in joyfulness.

23 Be thy name, O God of Israel, blessed for ever.

24 At that time the prayers of them both were heard in the sight of the glory of the most high God.

25 And the holy Angel of the Lord Raphael was sent to heal them both, whose prayers at one time were rehearsed in the sight of the Lord.

9 And the gall is good for anointing the eyes, In which there is a white speck, and they shall

12 * All his substance is due to thee, and thou must take her to wife.

13 Ask her therefore of her father, and he will give her thee to wife.

14 Then Tobias answered, and said: I hear that she hath been given to seven husbands, and they all died: moreover I have heard, that a devil killed them.

15 Now I am afraid, lest the same thing should happen to me also: and whereas I am the only child of my parents, I should bring down their old age with sorrow to hell.

16 Then the Angel Raphael said to him: Hear me, and I will shew thee who they are, over whom the devil can prevail.

17 For they who in such manner receive marimony, as to shut out God from themselves, and from their mind, and to give themselves to their lust, as the horse and mule, which have not understanding, over them the devil hath power.

mitted into the society of the holy Patriarchs. 21 And the third night thou shalt obtain a blessing that sound children may be born of you. 22 And when the third night is past, thou shalt take the virgin with the fear of the Lord, moved rather for love of children, than for lust that in the seed of Abraham thou mayst obtain a blassing in children.

Nabuchodonosor sendeth Holofernes to waste the countries of the west.

No the thirteenth year of the reign of Na-buchodonosor, the two and twentieth lay of the first month, the word was given out in the house of Nabuchodonosor king of the Assy rians, that he would revenge himself.

2 And he called all the ancients, and all the governors, and his officers of war, and communicated to them the secret of his counsel 3 And he said that his thoughts were to bring all the earth under his empire.

4 And when this saying pleased them all, Nabuchodonosor, the king, called Holofernes the general of his armies,

5 And said to nim: Go out against all the kingdoms of the west, and against them especially that despised my commandmen

6 Thy eye shall not spare any kingdom, and all the strong cities thou shalt bring under my yoke. 7 Then Holofernes called the captains, and officers of the power of the Assyrians: and he mustered men for the expedition, as the king commanded him, a hundred and twenty thousand fighting men on foot, and twelve thousand archers, horsemen.

8 And he made all his warlike preparations to go before with a multitude of innumerable camels, with all provisions sufficient for the armies in abundance, and herds of oxen, and flocks of sheep, without number.

9 He appointed corn to be prepared out of all Syria in his passage. 10 But gold and silver he took out of the king's house in great abundance.

11 And he went forth he and all the army, with the charlots, and horsemen, and archers, who covered the face of the earth, like locusts.

12 And when he had passed through the borders of the Assyrians, he came to the great mountains of Ange, which are on the left of Cilicia: and he went up to all their castles, and took all the strong places.

13 And he took by assault the renowned city of Melothus, and pillaged all the children of Tharsis, and the children of Ismahel, who were over-against the face of the desert, and on the south of the land of Cellon.

. 14 And he passed over the Euphrates, and came into Mesopotamla; and he forced all the stately cities that were there, from the torrent of Mambre, till one comes to the sea:

15 And he took the horders thereof, from Cilicia to the coasts of Japheth, which are towards the south.

16 And he carried away all the children of Madian, and stripped them of all their riches, and all that resisted him he slew with the edge of the sword.

17 And after these things he went down into the plains of Damascus in the days of the harvest, and he set all the corn on fire, and he caused all the trees and vineyards to be cut down:

18 And the fear of them fell upon all the inhabitants of the land.

2 Let thy indignation towards us cease: for It is better for us to live and serve Nabuchodonosor the great king, and be subject to thee, that to die and to perish, or suffer the miseries of slavery.

- 3 All our cities and our possessions, all mountains and hills, and fields, and herds of oxen, and flocks of sheep, and goats, and horses and camels, and all our goods, and families are in thy sight: 4 Let all we have be subject to thy law.
 - 5 Both we and our children are thy servants. 6 Come to us a peaceable lord, and use our rervice as it shall please thee. 7 Then he came down from the mountains with horsemen in great power, and made himself master of every city, and all the inhabi-ants of the land. 8 And from all the cities he took auxiliaries valiant men, and chosen for war.

9 And so great a fear lay upon all those provinces, that the inhabitants of all the cities, both princes and nobles, as well as the people went out to meet him at his coming.

10 And received him with garlands, and lights, and dances, and timbrels, and flutes.

11 And though they did these things, they could not for all that mitigate the fierceness of his heart.

12 For he both destroyed their cities, and at down their groves.

13 For Nabuchodonosor the king had comnanded him to destroy all the gods of the arth, that he only might be called god by aose nations which could be brought under im by the power of Holofernes.

14 And when he had passed through all yria Sobal, and all Apamea, and all Mesopoamia, he came to the Idumeans into the land f Gabaa

5 And Eliachim the priest wrote to all that were over-against Esdrelon, which faceth the great plain near Dothain, and to all by whom there might be a passage of way, that they should take possession of the ascents of the mountains by which there might be any way to Jerusalem, and should keep watch where the way was narrow between the mountains.

6 And the children of Israel did as the priest of the Lord Eliachim had appointed them.

7 And all the people cried to the Lord with great earnestness, and they humbled their souls in fastings and prayers both they and their wives.

8 And the priests put on hair-cloths, and they caused the little children to lie prostrate before the temple of the Lord, and the altar of the Lord they covered with hair-cloth.

9 And they cried to the Lord the God of Israel with one accord, that their children might not be made a prey, and their wives carried off, and their cities destroyed, and their holy things pro-faned, and that they might not be made a reproach to the Gentiles.

10 Then Eliachim the high priest of the Lorc went about all Israel and spoke to them

11 Saying: Know ye that the Lord will hear your prayers, if you continue with perseverance in fastings and prayers in the sight of the Lord.

12 Remember Moses the servant of the Lord. who overcame Amalec that trusted in his own strength, and in his power, and in his army, and in his shields, and in his chariots, and in his horsemen, not by fighting with the sword, but by holy prayers:

14 So they being moved by this exhortation of his, prayed to the Lord, and continued in the sight of the Lord.

15 So that even they who offered the holocausts to the Lord, offered the sacrifices to the Lord girded with hair-cloths, and with ashes upon their head.

16 And they all begged of God with all their heart, that he would visit his people Israel.

CHAP. V.

Achier gives Holofernes an account of the people of I rael.

ND it was told Holofernes the general of the army of the Assyrians, that the children of Israel prepared themselves to resist, and had shut up the ways of the mountains.

2 And he was transported with exceeding great fury and indignation, and he called all the princes of Moab and the leaders of Ammon

3 And he said to them: Tell me what is this people that besetteth the mountains: or what are their cities, and of what sort, and how great; also what is their power, or what is their multi. tude: or who is the king over their warfare:

4 And why they above all that dwell in the cost, have despised us, and have not come out.

5 Then Achier captain of all the children of Ammon answering, said: If then vouchsafe, my lord, to hear, I will tell the truth in thy sight concerning this people, that dwelleth in the mountains, and there shall not a false word come out of my mouth.

6 This people is of the offspring of the Chaldema.

They dwelt first in Mesopotantia, because they would not follow the gods of their fathers, who were in the land of the Chaldeans.

3 Wherefore forsaking the ceremonies of their fathers, which consisted in the worship of many

9 They worshipped one God of heaven, † who also commanded them to depart from thence, and to dwell in Charan. And when there was a famine over all the land, I they went down into Egypt, and there for four hundred years were so multiplied, that the army of them could not be numbered.

10 And when the king of Egypt oppressed them, and made slaves of them to labour in clay and brick, in the building of his cities, they cried to the Lord, and he struck the whole land of Egypt with divers plagues.

11 § And when the Egyptians had cast them oat from them, and the plague had ceased from them, and they had a mind to take them again, and bring them back to their service,

12 1 The God of heaven opened the sea to them in their flight, so that the waters were made to stand firm as a wall on either side, and they walked through the bottom of the sea and assed it dry foot

13 And when an innumerable army of the Egyptians pursued after them in that place, they were so overwhelmed with the waters, that there was not one left, to tell what had happened to posterity.

14 And after they came out of the Red sea, they abode in the deserts of mount Sina, in which never man could dwell, or son of man rested. 15 There bitter fountains were made sweet for them to drink, and for forty years they received food from heaven.

16 Wheresoever they went in without bow and arrow, and without shield and sword, their God fought for them and overcame. 17 And there was no one that triumphed over this people, but when they departed from the worship of the Lord their God.

18 But as often as beside their own God, they worshipped any other, they were given to spoil, and to the sword, and to reproach.

19 And as often as they were penitent for having revolted from the worship of their God, llie God of heaven gave them power to resist

20 So they overthrew the king of the Chanaanites, and of the Jebusites, and of the Pherezites, and of the Hethites, and of the Hevites, and of the Amorrhites, and all the mighty ones in Hesebon, and they possessed their lands, and their cities:

21 And as long as they sinned not in the Sight of their God, it was well with them: for dieir God hateth iniquity.

22 And even some years ago when they had revolted from the way which God had given, them to walk therein, they were destroyed in battles by many nations, and very many & them were led away captive into a strong's

23 Put of late returning to the Lord their God, from the different places wherein they were scattered, they are come together and are gone up into all these mountains, and possess Jerusalem again, where their holies are.

24 Now therefore, my lord, search if there be any iniquity of theirs in the sight of their God: let us go up to them, because their God will surely deliver them to thee, and they shall be brought under the yoke of thy power:

25 But if there be no offence of this people in the sight of their God, we cannot resist them, because their God will defend them: and we shall be a reproach to the whole earth.

26 And it came to pass when Achior had ceased to speak these words, all the great men of Holofernes were angry, and they had a mind to kill him, saying to each other:

27 Who is this, that saith the children of Israel can resist king Nabuchodonosor, and his armies, men unarmed, and without force, and without skill in the art of war?

28 That Achier therefore may know that he deceiveth us, let us go up into the mountains: and when the bravest of them shall be taken, then shall he with them be stabbed with the sword:

29 That every nation may know that Nabnchodonosor is god of the earth, and besides him there is no other.

CHAP. VI.

Holofernes in great rage sendeth Achiev to Bahulla, there to be slain with the Israelites.

ND it came to pass when they had left off A speaking, that Holofernes baing in a violent passion aid to Achier:

2 Because thou hast prophesied unto us, eaying, that the nation of Israel is defended by their God, to shew thee that there is no God, but Nabuchodonosor:

3 When we shall slay them all as one man, then thou also shalt die with them by the sword of the Assyrians, and all Israel shall perish with

thee:

4 And thou shalt find that Nabuchodonosor is lord of the whole earth: and then the sword of my soldiers shall pass through thy sides, and thou shalt be stabbed and fall among the wounded of Israel, and thou shalt breathe no more till thou be destroyed with them.

5 But if thou think thy prophecy true, let not thy countenance sink, and let the paleness that is in thy face, depart from thee, if thou imaginest these my words cannot be accom plished.

6 And that thou mayst know that thou shall experience these things together with them, behold from this hour thou shalt be associated to their people, that when they shall receive the punishment they deserve from my sword, thou mayst fall under the same vengeance.

Then Holofernes commanded his servants to take Achior, and to lead him to Bethulia, and to deliver him into the hands of the children of israel.

8 And the servante of Holofornes taking him, Went through the plains: hut when they came near the mountains, the slingers came out a-

9 Then turning out of the way by the side of the mountain, they tied Achior to a tree hand and foot, and so left him bound with ropes, and returned to their master.

10 And the children of Israel coming down from Bethulia, came to him. And loosing him they brought him to Bethulia, and setting him in the midst of the people, asked him what was the matter, that the Assyrians had left him

11 In those days the rulers there, were Ozias the son of Micha of the tribe of Simeon, and Charmi, called also Gothoniel.

12 And Achier related in the midst of the ancients, and in the presence of all the people, all that he had said being asked by Holofernes: and how the people of Holofernes would have killed him for this word.

13 And how Holofernes himself being angry had commanded him to be delivered for this cause to the Israelites: that when he should overcome the children of Israel, then he might command Achior also himself to be put to death by diverse torments, for having said: The God of heaven is their defender.

14 * And when Achior had declared all these things, all the people fell upon their faces, adoring the Lord, and all of them together mourning and weeping poured out their prayers with one accord to the Lord

15 Saying: O Lord God of heaven and earth, behold their pride, and look on our low condition and have regard to the face of thy saints. and shew that thou forsakest not them that trust on thee, and that thou humblest them that presume of themselves, and glory in their own strength.

16 So when their weeping was ended, and the people's prayer, in which they continued all the day, was concluded, they comforted Achior, 17 Saying: The God of our fathers, whose power thou hast set forth, will make this refurn to thee, that thou rather shalt see their destruction

18 And when the Lord our God shall give this liberty to his servants, let God be with thee also in the midst of us: that as it shall please thee, so thou with all thine mayst converse with us.

19 Then Ozias, after the assembly was broken up, received him into his house, and made him a great supper.

20 And all the ancients were invited, and they refreshed themselves together after their fast was over.

21 And afterwards all the people were called together, and they prayed all the night long within the church, desiring help of the God of israel.

Holofernes besiegeth Bethulia. The distress of the besieged. BUT Holofernes on the next day gave orders to his army, to go up against Bethulia. Now there were in his troops a hundred and twenty thousand footmen, and two and twenty thousand horsemen, besides the practions of those men who had been taken, and who had been brought away out of the provinces and cities, of all the youth.

3 All these prepared themselves together to fight against the children of Israel, and they came by the hill side to the top, which looketh toward Dothain, from the place which is called Belma, unto Chelmon, which is over-against Esdrelon.

4 But the children of Israel, when they saw the multitude of them, prostrated themselves upon the ground, putting ashes upon their heads, praying with one accord, that the God of Israel would shew his mercy upon his people.

5 And taking their arms of war, they posted themselves at the places, which by a narrow path-way lead directly between the mountains, and they guarded them all day and night.

6 Now Holofernes, in going round about, found that the fountain which supplied them with water, ran through an aqueduct without the city on the south-side: and he commanded their aqueduct to be cut off.

7 Nevertheless there were springs not far from the walls, out of which they were seen secretly to draw water, to refresh themselves a little rather than to drink their fill.

8 But the children of Ammon, and Moab came to Holofernes, saying: The children of Israel trust not in their spears, nor in their arrows, but he mountains are their defence, and the steep nills and precipices guard them.

9 Wherefore that thou mayst overcome them without joining battle, set guards at the springs that they may not draw water out of them, and thou shalt destroy them without sword, or as least being wearied out they will yield up their city, which they suppose, because it is situate in the mountains, to be impregnable.

10 And these words pleased Holoferries, and his officers, and he placed all round about a hundred men at every spring.

11 And when they had kept this watch for full twenty days, the cisterns, and the reserve of waters failed among all the inhabitants of Be thulia, so that there was not within the city, enough to satisfy them no not for one day, for water was daily given out to the people by measure.

12 Then all the men and women, young men and children, gathering themselves together to

Ozias, all together with one voice,

13 Said: † God be judge between us and thee for thou hast done evil against us, in that thou wouldst not speak peaceably with the Assyrians and for this cause God hath sold us into their hands.

14 And therefore there is no one to help us while we are cast down before their eyes in thirst, and sad destruction.

15 And now assemble ye all that are in the city, that we may of our own accord yield ourselves all up to the people of Holofernes.

16 For it is better, that being captives we should live and bless the Lord, than that we should die, and be a reproach to all flesh, after we have seen our wives, and our infants die before our eyes.

17 We call to witness this day heaven and earth, and the God of our fathers, who taketh vergeance upon us according to our sins, corjuring you to deliver now the city into the hand of the army of Holofernes, that our end may be short by the edge of the sword, which is made longer by the drought of thirst.

18 And when they had sald these things, there was great weeping and lamentation of all in the assembly, and for many hours with one voice they cried to God, saying:

19 * We have sinned with our fathers, we have done unjustly, we have committed iniquity:

20 Have thou mercy on us, because thou art good, or punish our iniquities by chastising us thyself, and deliver not them that trust in thee to a people that knoweth not thee,

21 That they may not say among the Gentiles:

Where is their God?

22 And when being wearied with these cries, and tired with these weepings, they held their peace.

23 Ozias rising up all in tears, said: Be of good courage, my brethren, and let us wait these five days for mercy from the Lord.

24 For perhaps he will put a stop to his indignation, and will give glory to his own name.

25 But if after five days be past there come no aid, we will do the things which you have spoken.

CHAP. VIII.

The character of Judith: her discourse to the ancients.

NOW it came to pass, when Judith a widow had heard these words, who was the daughter of Merari, the son of Idox, the son of Joseph, the son of Ozias, the son of Elai, the son of Jamnor, the son of Gedeon, the son of Raphaim, the son of Achitob, the son of Melchias, the son of Enan, the son of Nathanias, the son of Salathiel, the son of Simeon, the son of Ruben:

2 And her husband was Manasses, who died in the time of the barley harvest:

3 For he was standing over them that bound sheaves in the field; and the heat came upon his head, and he died in Bethulia his own city, and was buried there with his fathers.

4 And Judith his relict was a widow now three years and six months.

5 And she made herself a private chamber in the upper part of her house, in which she abode shut up with her maids,

6 And she wore hair-cloth upon her loins, and fasted all the days of her life, except the sabbaths, and new-moons, and the feasts of the house of Israel.

7 And she was exceedingly beautiful, and her husband left her great riches, and very many servants, and large possessions of herds of oxen, and flocks of sheep.

8 And she was greatly renowned among all, because she feared the Lord very much, neither was there any one that spoke an ill word of her.

9 When therefore she had heard that Ozias had promised that he would deliver up the city after the fifth day, she sent to the ancients Chabri and Charmi.

10 And they came to her, and she said to them: What is this word, by which Ozias hath consented to give up the city to the Assyrians, if within five days there come no aid to us?

11 And who are you that tempt the Lord?

12 This is not a word that may draw down mercy, but rather that may stir up wrath, and enkindle indignation.

13 You have set a time for the mercy of the Lord, and you have appointed him a day, according to your pleasure.

14 But forasmuch as the Lord is patient, le us be penitent for this same thing, and with many tears let us beg his pardon:

15 For God will not threaten like man, nor be inflamed to anger like the son of man.

16 And therefore let us humble our souls before him, and continuing in an humble spirit, in his service:

17 Let us ask the Lord with tears, that according to his will so he would shew his mercy to us: that as our heart is troubled by their pride, so also we may glorify in our humility.

18 For we have not followed the sins of our fathers, who forsook their God, and worshipped strange gods,

19 For which crime they were given up to their enemies, to the sword, and to pillage, and to confusion: but we know no other God but

20 Let us humbly wait for his consolation, and the Lord our God will require our blood of the afflictions of our enemies, and he will humble all the nations that shall rise up against us, and bring them to disgrace.

21 And now, brethren, as you are the ancients among the people of God, and their very soul resteth upon you: comfort their hearts by your speech, that they may be mindful how our fathers were tempted that they might be proved, whether they worshipped their God truly.

22 † They must remember how our father Abraham was tempted, and being proved by many tribulations, was made the friend of God

23 So Isaac, so Jacob, so Moses, and all that have pleased God, passed through many tribulations remaining faithful.

24 But they that did not receive the trials with the fear of the Lord, but uttered their impatience and the reproach of their murmuring against the Lord,

25 ‡ Were destroyed by the destroyer, and perished by serpents.

26 As for us therefore let us not revenge ourselves for these things which we suffer,

27 But esteeming these very punishments to be less than our sins deserve, let us believe that these scourges of the Lord, with which like servants we are chastised, have happened for our amendment, and not for our destruction.

28 And Ozias and the ancients said to her: All things which thou hast spoken are true, and there is nothing to be reprehended in thy words. 29 Now therefore pray for us, for thou art u holy woman; and one fearing God. 30 And Judith said to them: As you know that what I have been able to say is of God:

31 So that which I intend to do, prove ye if it be of God, and pray that God may strengthen my design.

32 You shall stand at the gate this night, and I will go out with my maid servant: and prayye, that as you have said, in five days the Lord may look down upon his people Israel.

ND when they were gone, Judith went into her oratory: and putting on hair-cloth, laid ashes on her head; and falling down prostrate before the Lord, she cried to the Lord, mying:

2 O Lord God of my father Simeon, who gavest him a sword to execute vengeance against strangers, who had defiled by their uncleanness, and uncovered the virgin unto confusion:

3 And who gavest their wives to be made a prey, and their daughters into captivity: and all their spoils to be divided to thy servants, who were zealous with thy zeal: assist, I beseech thee, O Lord God, me a widow.

4 For thou hast done the things of old, and hast devised one thing after another: and what thou hast designed hath been done.

5 For all thy ways are prepared, and in thy providence thou hast placed thy judgments.

ness wearied them.

Judith goeth out towards the camp, and is taken, and brought to Holofernes.

A ND it came to pass, when she had ceased to cry to the Lord, that she rose from the place wherein she lay prostrate before the Lord.

2 And she called her maid, and going down into her house she took off her hair-cloth, and put away the garments of her widowhood,

? And she washed her body, and anointed herself with the best clutment, and plaited the hair of her nead, and put a bounet upon her head, and clothed herself with the garments of her gladness, and put sandals on her feet, and took her bracelets, and lilies, and earlets, and rings, and adorned herself with all her ornaments.

4 And the Lord also gave her more beauty: because all this dressing up did not proceed from sensuality, but from virtue: and therefore the Lord increased this her beauty, so that she appeared to all men's eyes incomparably lovely.

5 And she gave to her maid a bottle of wine to carry, and a vessel of oil, and parched corn, and dry figs, and bread and cheese, and went Ont

6 And when they came to the gate of the city, they found Ozias, and the ancients of the city waiting.

7 And when they saw her they were astonished, and admired her beauty exceedingly.

8 But they asked her no question, only they let her pass, saying: The God of our fathers give thee grace, and may he strengthen all the counsel of thy heart with his power, that Jerusalem may glory in thee, and thy name may be in the number of the holy and just.

9 And they that were there said, all with one voice: So be it, so be it.

10 But Judith praying to the Lord, passed through the gates, she and her maid.

11 And it came to pass, when she went down the hill, about break of day, that the watchmen of the Assyrians met ber, and stopped her, saying: Whence comest thou? or whither goost thou?

12 And she answered: I am a daughter of the Hebrews, and I am fled from them, because I knew they would be made a prey to you, because they despised you, and would not of their own accord yield themselves, that they nught find mercy in your sight.

13 For this reason I thought with myself, saying: I will go to the presence of the prince Holofernes, that I may tell him their secreta, and shew him by what way he may take them, without the loss of one man of his army.

14 And when the men had beard her words, they beheld her face, and their eyes were amazed, for they wondered exceedingly at her

15 And they said to her: Thou hast saved thy life by taking this resolution, to come down to our lord.

16 And be assured of this, that when thou shalt stand before him, he will treat thee well, and thou wilt be most acceptable to his heart. And they brought her to the tent of Holofernes, telling him of her.

17 And when she was come into his presence, forthwith Holofernes was caught by his eyes.

18 And his officers said to him: Who can despise the people of the Hebrews, who have such beautiful women, that we should not think worth our while for their sakes to fight against them?

19 And Judith seeing Holofernes sitting under a canopy, which was woven of purple and gold, with emeralds and precious stones: 20 After she had looked on his face, bowed down to him, prostrating herself to the ground. And the servants of Holofernes lifted her up, by the command of their master.

Judith's speech to Holofernes.

3 But now tell me, for what cause hast thou left them, and why it hath pleased thee to come to us? 4 And Judith said to him: Receive the words of thy handmaid, for if thou wilt follow the words of thy handmaid, the Lord will do with thee a perfect thing.

5 For as Nabuchodonosor the king of the earth weth, and his power liveth which is in thee for chastising of all straying souls: not only men serve him through thee, but also the beasts of the field obey him.

6 For thy industry of the mind is spoken of among all nations, and it is told through the whole world, that thou only art excellent, and mighty in all his kingdom, and thy discipline is cried up in all provinces.

7 * It is known also what Achier said, nor are we ignorant of what thou hast commanded to be done to him.

- 8 For it is certain that our God is so offended with sins, that he hath sent word by his prophets to the people, that he will deliver them up for their sins.
- 9 And because the children of Israel know they have offended their God, thy dread is upon - them. 10 Moreover also a famine hath come upon them, and for drought of water they are already to be counted among the dead.

11 And they have a design even to kill their Jettle, and to drink the blood of them.

12 And the consecrated things of the Lord their God which God forbid them to touch, in corn, wine, and oil, these have they purposed to make use of, and they design to consume the things which they ought not to touch with their hands: therefore because they do these things it is certain they will be given up to destruction.

13 And I thy handmaid knowing this, am fled from them, and the Lord hath sent me to tell thee these very things.

14 For I thy handmaid worship God even now that I am with thee, and thy handmaid will go out, and I will pray to God,

15 And he will tell me when he will repay them for their sins, and I will come and tell thee, so that I may bring thee through the midst of Jerusalem, and thou shalt have all the people of Israel, as sheep that have no shepherd and there shall not so much as one dog bark against thee:

16 Because these things are told me by the providence of God.

17 And because God is angry with them, I am sent to tell these very things to thee.

18 And all these words pleased Holofernes, and his servants, and they admired her wisdom, and they said one to another:

19 There is not such another woman upon earth in look, in beauty, and in sense of words.

20 And Holofernes said to her: God hath done well who sent thee before the people, that thou mightest give them into our hands:

21 And because thy promise is good, if thy God shall do this for me, he shall also be my God, and thou shalt be great in the house of Nabuchodonosor, and thy name shall be renowned through all the earth.

CHAP. XIL.

Judith goeth out in the night to pray: she is invited to a banquet with Holofernes.

THEN he ordered that she should go in where his treasures were laid up, and bade her tarry there, and he appointed what should be given her from his own table.

2 And Judith answered him and said: Now I cannot eat of these things which thou commandest to belgiven me, lest sin come upon me: but I will eat of the things which I have brought

3 And Holofernes said to her: If these things which thou hast brought with thee fail thee, what shall we do for thee?

4 And Judith said: As thy soul liveth, my lord, thy hand-maid shall not spend all these things till God do by my hand that which l have purposed. And his servants brought her into the tent which he had commanded.

5 And when she was going in, she desired that she might have liberty to go out at night and before day to prayer, and to beseech the Lord.

6 And he commanded his chamberlains, that she might go out and in, to adore her God as she pleased, for three days.

7 And she went out in the nights into the valley of Bethulia, and washed herself in a foun tain of water

8 And as she came up, she prayed to th Lord the God of Israel, that he would direc her way to the deliverance of his people.

9 And going in, she remained pure in th tent, until she took her own meat in the evening

10 And it came to pass on the fourth day that Holofernes made a supper for his servant and said to Vagao his eunuch: Go, and page suade that Hebrew woman, to consent of he own accord to dwell with ma

11 For it is looked upon shameful among the Assyrians, if a woman mock a man, by doing so as to pass free from him.

12 Then Vagao went in to Judith, and said: Let not my good maid be afraid to go in to my lord, that she may be honoured before his face, that she may eat with him and drink wine and be merry.

13 And Judith answered him: Who am I.

that I should gainsay my lord?

14 All that shall be good and best before his yes, I will do. And what soever shall please him, that shall be best to me all the days of my life.

15 And she arose and dressed herself out with her garments, and going in she stood before his face.

16 And the heart of Holofernes was smitten, fer he was burning with the desire of her.

17 And Holofernes said to her: Drink now and sit down and be merry; for thou hast found favour before me.

18 And Judith said: I will drink, my lord, because my life is magnified this day above all

19 And she took and eat and drank before him what her maid had prepared for her.

20 And Holofernes was made merry on her occasion, and drank exceeding much wine so much as he had never drunk in his life.

CHAP. XIII.

Judith cutteth off the head of Holofernes, and returneth to Bethulia.

ND when it was grown late, his ser ants made haste to their lodgings, at a 20 thut the chamber-doors and went his

2 And they were all overcharged with wine.

8 And Judith was alone in the chamber. 4 But Holofernes lay on his bed, fast asleep, being exceedingly drunk.

5 And Judith spoke to her maid to stand without before the chamber, and to watch:

6 And Judith stood before the bed praying with tears, and the motion of her lips in silence,

7 Saying: Strengthen me, O Lord God of brael, and in this hour look on the works of my hands, that as thou hast promised, thou mayst raise up Jerusalem thy city: and that I may bring to pass that which I have purposed, having a belief that it might be done by thee.

8 And when she had said this, she went to the pillar that was at his bed's head, and loosed his sword that I ung tied upon it.

9 And when she na drawn it out, she took him by the hair of his head, dsaid: Strengthen me, O Lord God, at this hour.

10 And she struck twice upon his neck, and rut off his head, and took off his canopy from the pillars, and rolled away his headless body.

11 And after a while she went out, and deivered the head of Holofernes to her maid, and ade her put it into her wallet.

2 And they two went out according to their justom, as if it were to prayer, and they passed he camp, and having compassed the valley, hey came to the gate of the city.

13 And Judith from afar off cried to the ratchmen upon the walls: Open the gates, for lod is with us, who hath shewn his power in 14 And it came to pass, when the men had card her voice, that they called the ancients £ the city.

15 And all ran to meet her from the least to the greatest: for they had now no hopes that she would come.

16 And lighting up lights they all gathered round about her: and she went up to a higher place, and commanded silence to be made And when all had held their peace, 17 Judith said: Praise ye the Lord our God, who hath not forsaken them that hope in him,

18 And by me his handmaid he hath fulfilled his mercy, which he promised to the house o. Israel: and he hath killed the enemy of his people by my hand this night.

19 Then she brought forth the head of Holofernes out of the wallet, and shewed it them, saying: Behold the head of Holofernes the general of the army of the Assyrians, and behold his canopy, wherein he lay in his drunker ness, where the Lord our God slew him by the hand of a woman.

20 But as the same Lord liveth, his Angel hath been my keeper both going hence, and abiding there, and returning from thence hither: and the Lord hath not suffered me his handmaid to be defiled, but hath brought me back to you without pollution of sin, rejoicing for his vio tory, for my escape, and for your deliverance, 21 * Give all of you glory to him, because he is good, because his mercy endureth for ever.

22 And they all adored the Lord, and said to her: The Lord hath blessed theo by his power because by thee he hath brought our enemies to nought.

23 And Ozias the prince of the people of Is. rael, said to her: Blessed art thou, O daughter by the Lord the most high God, above all women upon the earth.

24 Blessed be the Lord who made heaven and earth, who hath directed thee to the cutting off the head of the prince of our enemies

25 Because he hath so magnified thy name this day, that thy praise shall not depart out of the mouth of men who shall be mindful of the power of the Lord for ever, for that thou hast not spared thy life, by reason of the distress and tribulation of thy people, but hast prevented our ruin in the presence of our God.

26 And all the people said: So be it, so be

27 And Achier being called for eame, and Judith said to him: The God of Israel to whom thou gavest testimony, that he revengeth him-self of his enemies, he hath cut off the head of all the unbelievers this night by my hand.

28 And that thou mayst find that it is so, behold the head of Holofernes, who in the contempt of his pride despised the God of Israel and threatened thee with death, saying: Wher the people of Israel shall be taken, I will command thy sides to be pierced with a sword.

29 Then Achier seeing the head of Holofernes being seized with a great fear he fell on his face upon the earth, and his soul swooned away.

30 But after he had recovered his spirits he fell down at her feet, and reverenced her, and 31 Blessed art thou by thy God in every taber nacle of Jacob, for in every nation which shall hear thy name, the God of Israel shall be magnified on occasion of thee.

CHAP. XIV.

The Israelites assault the Assyrians, who finding their go neral slain, are seized with a panic fear.

JUDIT B.

ND Judith said to all the people: Hear me, A my brethren, hang ye up this head upon our walls :

2 And as soon as the cun shall rise, let every man take his arms, and rush ye out, not as going down beneath, but as making an assault.

3 Then the watchmen must needs run to wake th eir prince for the battle.

4 And when the captains of them shall ran to Holofernes, and shall find him withhe tent ead wallowing in his blood, fear shall out his fill upon them.

5 And when you shall know that they are leeing, go after them securely, for the Lord will lestroy them under your feet.

6 Th en Achior seeing the power that the God of Isra el had wrought, leaving the religion of the Ge tiles, he believed God, and circumcised the fles h of his foreskin, and was joined to the people of Israel, with all the succession of his kindre d until this present day.

7 And immediately at break of day, they bung up the head of Holofernes upon the walls, and every man took his arms, and they went out with a great noise and shouting.

8 And the watchmen seeing this, ran to the tent of Holofernes.

And they that were in the tent came, and ma de a noise before the door of the chamber to avake him, endeavouring by art to break his 13st, that Holofernes might awake, not by their calling him, but by their noise.

10 For no man durst knock, or open and go into the chamber of the general of the Assyrians.

11 But when his captains and tribunes were come, and all the chiefs of the army of the king of the Assyrians, they said to the chamberlains:

12 Go in, and awake him, for the mice coming out of their holes, have presumed to challenge us to tight.

13 Then Vagao going into his chamber, stood before the curtain, and made a clapping with his hands; for he thought that he was sleeping with Judith.

14 But when with hearkening, he perceived no motion of one lying, he came near to the curtain, and lifting it up, and seeing the body of Holofarnes, lying upon the ground, without the head, weltering in his blood, he cried out with a loud voice, with weeping, and rent his . garments.

15 And he went into the tent of Judith, and not finding her, he run out to the people,

16 And said: One Hebrow woman hath made confusion in the house of king Nabuchodonosor: for behold Holofernes lieth upon the ground, and his head is not upon him.

17 Now when the chiefs of the army of the Assyrians had heard this, they all rent their garments, and an intolerable fear and dread fell upon them, and their minds were troubled exceedingly.

18 And there was a very great cry in the midst of their camp.

CHAP. XV.

The Assyrians fee: the Hebrews purewe after them, and are enriched by their spoils.

ND when all the army heard that Holofernes was beheaded, courage and counsel fled from them, and being seized with trembling end fear they thought only to save themselves by flight:

2 So that no one spoke to his neighbour, but hanging down the head, leaving all things be-hind, they made haste to escape from the He brews, who, as they heard, were coming armed upon them, and fled by the ways of the fields, and the paths of the hills.

3 So the children of Israel seeing them fleeing, followed after them. And they went down sounding with trumpots and shouting after them.

4 And because the Assyrians were not united together, they went without order in their flight; but the children of Israel pursuing in one body, defeated all that they could find.
5 And Ozias sent messengers through all the cities and countries of Israel.

6 And every country, and every city, sent their chosen young men armed after them, and they pursued them with the edge of the sword until they came to the extremities of their confines.

And the rest that were in Bethulia went into the camp of the Assyrians, and took away the spoils, which the Assyrians in their flight had left behind them, and they were loaden exceed-

8. But they that returned conquerors to Be thulia, brought with them all things that were theirs, so that there was no numbering their cattle, and beasts, and all their moveables, insomuch that from the least to the greatest all were made rich by their spoils.

9 And Joachim the high priest came from Jerusalém to Bethulia with all his ancients to see Judith.

10 And when she was come out to him, they all blessed her with one voice, saying, Thou art the glory of Jerusalem, thou art the joy of Israel, thou art the houour of our

11 For thou hast done manfully, and thy heart has been strengthened, because thou hast loved chastity, and after thy husband hastnot known any other; therefore also the hand of the Lord hath strengthened thee, and therefore thou shalt be blessed for ever

12 And all the people said: So be it, so be it 13 And thirty days were scarce sufficient for the people of Israel to gather up the spoils of the Assyrians.

14 But all those things that were proved to be the peculiar goods of Holofernes, they gave to Judith in gold, and silver, and garments and precious stones, and all household stuff, and they all were delivered to her by the people.

15 And all the people rejoiced, with the women, and virgins, and young men, playing on instruments and harps.

CHAP. XVI. The canticle of Judith: her virtuous life and death. THEN Judith sung this canticle to the Lord, saving: saying:

2 Begin ye to the Lord with timbrels, sing ye to the Lord with cymbals, tune unto him a new psalm, extol and call upon his name.

3 The Lord putteth an end to wars, the Lord is his name.

4 He hath set his camp in the midst of ids people, to deliver us from the hand of all our enemies.

5 The Assyrian came out of the mountair from the north in the multitude of his strength. his multitude stopped up the torrents, and their korses covered the valleys.

6 He bragged that he would set my borders on fire, and kill my young men with the sword, to make my infants a prey, and my virgins captives.

7 But the almighty Lord hath struck him, and hath delivered him into the hands of a woman, and hath slain him.

8 For their mighty one did not fall by goung men, neither did the sons of Titan strike him, nor tall giants oppose themselves to him, but Judith the daughter of Merari weakened him with the beauty of her face.

9 For she put off her the garments of widowhood, and put on her the garments of joy, to give joy to the children of Israel.

10 She anointed her face with ointment, and bound up her locks with a crown, she took a new robe to deceive him.

11 Her sandals ravished his eyes, her beauty made his soul her captive, with a sword she cut off his head.

12 The Persians quaked at her constancy, and the Medes at her boldness.

13 Then the camp of the Assyrians howled when my lowly ones appeared, parched with 14 The sons of the damsels have pierced them through, and they have killed them like children fleeing away: they perished in battle before the face of the Lord my God.

15 Let us sing a hymn to the Lord, let us sing a new hymn to our God.

16 O Adonai Lord, great art thou, and glorious in thy power, and no one can overcome thee.

17 * Let all thy creatures serve thee; because thou hast spoken, and they were made: thou didst send forth thy Spirit, and they were created, and there is no one that can resist thy voice.

* Ps. 32, 9.

CHAP. XVI. Ver. 23. An anathema of oblivion: that is, a gift or offering made to God, by way of an everlastmg monument, to prevent the oblivion or forgetting so great & benefit.

18 The mountains shall be moved from the foundations with the waters: the rocks shall melt as wax before thy face.

19 But they that fear thee, shall be great with thee in all things.

20 Woe be to the nation that riseth up against my people: for the Lord almighty will take revenge on them, in the day of judgment he will visit them.

21 For he will give fire and worms into their flesh, that they may burn, and feel for ever. 22 And it came to pass after these things, that all the people, after the victory, came to Jerusalem to adore the Lord: and as soon as they were purified they all offered holocausts and vows, and their promises.

28 And Judith offered for an anathema of oblivion, all the arms of Holofernes, which the people gave her, and the canopy that she had taken away out of his chamber.

24 And the people were joyful in the sight of the sanctuary and for three months the joy of this victory was celebrated with Judith.

25 And after those days every man returned to his house, and Judith was made great in Bethulia, and she was most renowned in all the land of Israel.

26 And chastity was joined to her virtue, so that she knew no man all the days of her life, after the death of Manasses her husband.

27 And on festival days she came forth with great glory.

28 And she abode in her husband's house a hundred and five years, and made her handmaid free, and she died and was buried with her husband in Bethulia.

29 And all the people mourned for seven days.

30 And all the time of her life there was none that troubled Israel, nor many years after her death.

31 But the day of the festivity of this vice tory is received by the Hebrews in the number of holy days, and is religiously of served by the Jews from that time until this day.

BOOK OF ESTHER.

This Book takes its name from Queen Esther, whose history is here recorded. The general opinion of almost all commentators on the Holy Scripture makes Mardochai the writer of it: which also may be collected below from chap. ix. ver. 26.

CHAP. I.

King Assuerus maketh a great feast. Queen Vasthi being sent for refuseth to come: for which disobedience she is deposed.

N the days of Assuerus, who reigned from India to Ethiopia over a hundred and twenty-seven provinces:

2 When he sat on the throne of his kingdom, the city Susan was the capital of his kingdom.

3 Now in the third year of his reign he made a great feast for all the princes, and for his servants, for the most mighty of the Persians, and the nobles of the Medes, and the gofernors of the provinces in his sight.

* A.M. 3485. A.C. 319.

4 That he might shew the riches of the glory of his kingdom, and the greatness, and boasting of his power, for a long time, to wit, for a hundred and fourscore days.

5 And when the days of the feast were expired, he invited all the people that were ound in Susan, from the greatest to the least: and commanded a feast to be made seven days in the court of the garden, and of the wood, which was planted by the care and the hand of the king.

6 And there were hung up on every side sky coloured, and green and violet hangings, fastened with cords of silk and purple which were put into rings of ivory, and were held up with marble pillars. The beds also were of gold and saver, placed in order upon a floor paved with perphyry and white marble: which was embellished with painting of wonderful variety.

7 And they that were invited, drank in golden cups, and the meats were brought in divers vessels one after another. Wine also in abundance and of the best was presented, as was worthy of a king's magnificence.

8 Neither was there any one to compel them to drink that were not willing, but as the king had appointed, who set over every table one of his nobles, that every man might take what he would.

9 Also Vasthi the queen made a feast for the women in the palace, where king Assuerus was used to dwell.

10 Now on the seventh day, when the king was merry, and after very much drinking was well warmed with wine, he commanded Mauman, and Bazatha, and Harbona, and Bagatha, and Abgatha, and Zethar, and Charcas, the seven ennuchs that served in his presence,

11 To bring in queen Vasthi before the king, with the crown set upon her head, to shew her beauty to all the people and the princes: for she was exceeding beautiful.

12 But she refused, and would not come at the king's commandment, which he had signified to her by the eunuchs. Whereupon the king, being angry, and inflamed with a very great fury,

13 Asked the wise men, who according to the custom of the kings, were always near his person, and all he did was by their counsel, who knew the laws, and judgments of their fore-lathers:

14 (Now the chief and nearest him were, Charsens, and Sethar, and Admatha, and Tharsis, and Mares, and Marsana, and Mamuchan, seven princes of the Persians, and of the Medes, who saw the face of the king, and were used to at first after him:)

15 What sentence ought to pass upon Vasthi the queen, who had refused to obey the commandment of king Assuerus, which he had sent to her by the eunuchs?

16 And Mamuchan answered, in the hearing of the king and the princes: Queen Vasthi hath not only injured the king, but also all the people and princes that are in all the provinces of king Assuerus.

17 For this deed of the queen will go abroad to all women, so that they will despise their husbands, and will say: King Assuerus commanded that queen Vasthi should come in to him, and she would not.

18 And by this example all the wives of the princes of the Persians and the Medes will slight the commandments of their husbands: wherefore the king's indignation is just.

19 If it please thee, let an edict go out from thy presence, and let it be written according to the law of the Persians and of the Medes, which must not be altered, that Vasthi come in no more to the king, but another, that is better than he, be made queen in her place.

20 And let this be published through all the provinces of thy empire (which is very wide) and let all wives, as well of the greater as of the lesser, give honour to their husbands.

" intra, 11. 2-+ 4 Kings 24 16. Infra, 11. 4-1 A.M.

21 His counsel pleased the king, and the princes: and the king did according to the counsel of Mamuchan.

22 And he sent letters to all the provinces of his kingdom, as every nation could hear and read, in divers languages and characters, that the husbands should be rulers and masters in their houses: and that this should be published to every people.

CHAP. II.

Esther is advanced to be queen. Mardochal detecteh a plut against the king.

A FTER this, when the wrath of king Assuerus was appeased, he remembered Vasthi, and what she had done and what she had suffered:

2 And the king's servants and his officers said: Let young women be sought for the king.

virgins and beautiful,

3 And let some persons be sent through all the provinces to look for beautiful maidens and virgins: and let them bring them to the city of Susan, and put them into the house of the women under the hand of Egeus the eunuch, who is the overseer and keeper of the king's women: and let them receive women's ornaments, and other things necessary for their use.

4-And whoseever among them all shall please the king's eyes, let her be queen instead of Vasthi. The word pleased the king: and he commanded it should be done as they had suggested.

5 There was a man in the city of Susap, a Jew, named Mardochai, the son of Jair, the son of Semei, the son of Cis, of the race of Jemini,

6 Who had been carried away from Jerusalem at the time that Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon carried away † Jechonias king of Juda, ‡

7 And he had brought up his brother's daughter Edisca, who by another name was called Eather: now she had lost both her parents: and was exceeding fair and beautiful. And her father and mother being dead, Mardochai adopted her for his daughter.

8 And when the king's ordinance was noised abroad, and according to his commandment many beautiful virgins were brought to Susan, and were delivered to Egeus the eunuch: Esther also among the rest of the maidens was delivered to him to be kept in the number of the women.

9 And she pleased him, and found favour in his sight. And he commanded the eunuch to hasten the women's ornaments, and to deliver to her her part, and seven of the most beautiful maidens of the king's house, and to adorn and deck out both her and her waiting-maids.

10 And she would not tell him her people nor her country. For Mardochai had charged her to say nothing at all of that:

1) And he walked every day before the court of the house, in which the chosen virgins were kept, having a care for Esther's welfare, and desiring to know what would befall her.

12 Now when every virgin's turn came to go in to the king, after all had been done for setting them off to advantage, it was the twelfth month: so that for six months they were anounted with oil of myrrh, and for other six months they used certain perfumes and sweet spices.

13 And when they were going in to the king, whatsoever they asked to adorn themselves they roceived: and being decked out, as it pleased them, they passed from the chamber of the wermen to the king's chamber.

14 And she that went in at evening, came out in the morning, and from thence she was conducted to the second house, that was under the hand of Susagaz the cunuch, who had the charge over the king's concubines: neither could she return any more to the king, unless the king desired it, and had ordered her by name to come.

15 And as the time came orderly about, the day was at hand, when Esther, the daughter of Abihail the brother of Mardochai, whom he had adopted for his daughter, was to go in to the king. But she sought not women's ornaments, but whatsoever Egeus the eunuch the keeper of the virgins had a mind, he gave her to adorn For she was exceeding fair, and her incredible boauty made her appear agreeable and amiable in the eyes of all.

16 So she was brought to the chamber of king Assuerus the tenth month, which is called Tebeth, in the seventh year * of his reign.

17 And the king loved her more than all the women, and she had favour and kindness before him above all the women, and he set the royal crown on her head, and made her queen instead

18 And he commanded a magnificent feast to be prepared for all the princes, and for his servants, for the marriage and wedding of Esther. And he gave rest to all the provinces, and bestowed gifts according to princely magnificence.

19 And when the virgins were sought the second time and gathered together, Mardochai stayed at the king's gate,

20 Neither had Esther as yet declared her country, and people, according to his commandment. For whatsoever he commanded, Esther-observed: and she did all things in the same manner as she was wont at that time when he brought her up a little one.

21 At that time therefore, when Mardochai abode at the king's gate, Bagathan and Thares, two of the king's eunnchs, who were porters, and presided in the first entry of the palace, were angry: and they designed to rise up against the king, and to kill him.

22 And Mardochai had notice of it, and immediately he told it to queen Esther: and she to the king in Mardochai's name, who had reported the thing unto her.

23 It was inquired into, and found out: and they were both hanged on a gibbet. And it was put in the histories, and recorded in the chronicles before the king.

Aman advanced by the king, is offended at Mardochai, and therefore procureth the king's decree to destroy the whole nation of the Jews.

A FTER these things, king Assuerus advanced Aman the son of Amadathi, who was of the race of Agag: and he set his throne above all the princes that were with him.

2 And all the king's servants, that were at the doors of the palace, bent their knees, and worshipped Aman: for so the emperor had commanded them, only Mardochai dld not bend his knee, nor worship him.

2 And the king's servents that were chief at the doors of the palace, said to him: Why dost thou alone not observe the king's command-

4 And when they were saying this often, and he would not hearken to them, they told Aman, desirous to know whether he would continue in his resolution: for he had told them that he was

5 Now when Aman had heard this, and had proved by experience that Mardochai did not bend his knee to him, ner worship him, he was exceedingly angry.

6 And he counted it as nothing to lay his hands upon Mardochai alone: for he had heard that he was of the nation of the Jews, and he chose rather to destroy all the nation of the Jews that were in the kingdom of Assuerue.

7 In the first month (which is called Nisan) in the twelfth year † of the reign of Assuerus, the lot was cast into an urn, which in Hebrew is called Phur, before Aman, on what day and what month the nation of the Jews should be destroyed: and there came out the twelfth month, which is called Adar.

8 And Aman said to king Assuerus: There is a people scattered through all the provinces of thy kingdom, and separated one from another, that use new laws and ceremonles and moreover despise the king's ordinances: and thou knowest very well that it is not expedient for thy kingdom that they should grow insolent by impunity.

9 If it please thee, decree that they may be destroyed, and I will pay ten thousand talents to thy treasurers.

10 And the king took the ring that he used, from his own hand, and gave it to Aman the son of Amadathi of the race of Agag, the enemy of the Jews,

11 And he said to him: As to the money which thou promisest, keep it for thyself: and as to the people do with them as seemeth good to thee.

12 ‡ And the king's scribes were called in the first month Nisan, on the thirteenth day of the same month: and they wrote, as Aman had commanded, to all the king's lieutenants, and to the judges of the provinces, and of divers nations, as every nation could read, and hear according to their different languages, in the name of king Assuerus: and the letters sealed with his ring

13 Were sent by the king's messengers to all provinces, to kill and destroy all the Jews, both young and old, little children, and women, in one day, that is, on the thirteenth of the twelfth month, which is called Adar, and to make a spoil of their goods.

14 And the contents of the letters were to this effect, that all provinces might know, and be ready against that day.

15 The couriers that were sent made haste to fulfil the king's commandment. And immediately the edict was hung up in Susan, the king and Aman feasting together, and all the Jows that were in the city weeping.

Mardochai desireth Esther to petition the king for the Jews. They join in fasting and prayer.

Now when Mardochal had heard these things, he rent his garments, and put on sack-cloth, strewing ashes on his head: and he cried with a loud voice in the street in the midst of the city, shewing the anguish of his mind.

2 And he came lamenting in this mann's even to the gate of the palace: for no one clothed with sack-cloth might enter the king's co.irt

3 And in all the provinces, towns, and places, to which the king's cruel edict was come, there was great mourning among the Jews, with fasting, wailing, and weeping, many using sack-cloth and ashes for their bed.

4 Then Esther's maids and her eunuchs went in and told her. And when she heard it she was in a consternation: and she sent a garment, to clothe him, and to take away the sack-cloth:

but he would not receive it.

5 And she called for Athach the eunuch, whom the king had appointed to attend upon her, and she commanded him to go to Mardochai, and to learn of him why he dld this.

6 And Athach going out went to Mardochai, who was standing in the street of the city, before the palace-gate:

7 And Mardochai told him all that had happened, how Aman had promised, to pay money into the king's treasures to have the Jews destroved.

8 Hc gave him also a copy of the edict which was hanging up in Susan, that he should shew It to the queen, and admonish her to go in to the king, and to intreat him for her people.

9 And Athach went back and told Esther all that Mardochai had said.

10 She answered him, and bade him say to 11 All the king's servants, and all the provinces that are under his dominions know, that whosoever, whether man or woman, cometh into the king's inner court, who is not called for, is immediately to be put to death without any delay: except the king shall hold out the golden sceptre to him, in token of clemency, that so he may live. How then can I go in to the king, who for these thirty days now have not been called unto him?

12 And when Mardochal had heard this,

13 He sent word to Esther again, saying: Think not that thou mayst save thy life only, because thou art in the king's house, more than all the Jews:

14 For if thou wilt now held thy peace, the Jews shall be delivered by some other occasion: and thou, and thy father's house shall perish. And who knoweth whether thou art not therefore come to the kingdom, that thou mightest be ready in such a time as this?

15 And again Esther sent to Mardochai in these words:

16 Go, and gather together all the Jews whom thou shalt find in Susan, and pray ye for me. Neither eat, nor drink for three days and three nights: and I with my handmaids will fast in like manner, and then I will go in to the king, against the law, not being called, and expose myself to death and to danker.

17 So Mardochai went, and did all that Esther had commanded him.

A ND and on the third day Esther put on her royal apparel, and stood in the inner murt of the king's house, over-against the king's hall: now he sat upon his throne in the hall of the palace, over-against the door of the house.

2 And when he saw Esther the queen standing, she pleased his eyes, and he held out toward her the golden sceptre, which he held in his hand: and she drew near, and kissed the top of his sceptre.

3 And the king said to ber: What wilt thou, queen Esther? what is thy request? if thov shouldst even ask one half of the kingdom, it shall be given to thee.

4 But she answered: If it please the king, I beseech thee to come to me this day, and Aman with thee to the banquet which I have prepared

5 And the king said forthwith: Call ye Aman quickly, that he may obey Esther's will. So the king and Aman came to the banquet which the queen had prepared for them.

6 And the king said to her, after he drunk wine plentifully: What dost thou desire should be given thee? and for what thing askest thou? although thou shouldst ask the half of my king-·lom, thou shalt have it.

7 And Lather answered: My petition and request is this:

8 If I have found favour in the king's sight, and if it please the king to give me what I ask, and to fulfil my petition: let the king and Aman come to the banquet which I have prepared them, and to-morrow I will open my mind to the king.

9 So Aman went out that day joyful and merry. And when he saw Mardochai sitting before the gate of the palace, and that he not only did not rise up to honour him, but did not so much as move from the place where he sat, he was exceedingly angry:

10 But dissembling his anger, 'and returning into his house, he called together to him his friends, and Zares his wife:

11 And he declared to them the greatness of his riches, and the multitude of his children, and with how great glory the king had advanced him above all his princes and servants

12 And after this he said: Queen Esther also hath invited no other to the banquet with the king, but me: and with her I am also to dine tomorrow with the king.

13 And whereas I have all these things, I think I have nothing, so long as I see Mardochai the Jcw sitting before the king's gate.

14 Then Zares his wife, and the rest of his friends answered him: Order a great beam to be prepared, fifty cubits high, and in the morning speak to the king, that Mardochai may be hang. ed upon it, and so thou shalt go full of joy with the king to the banquet. The counsel pleased him, and he commanded a high gibbat to be prepared.

4 And the king said immediately: Who is in the court? for Aman was coming in to the inner court of the king's house, to speak to the king, that he might order Mardochai to be ranged upon the gibbet which was prepared for him.

5 The servants answered: Aman standeth in the court. And the king said: Let him come in.

6 And when he was come in, he said to him: .Vhat ought to be done to the man whom the king is desirous to honour? But Aman thinking in his heart, and supposing that the king would honour no other but himself,

3 And not content with these things, she fell down at the king's feet and wept, and speaking to him besought him, that he would give orders that the malice of Aman the Agagite, and he most wicked devices which he had invented against the Jews, should be of no effect.

4 But he, as the manner was, held out the golden sceptre with his hand, which was the sign of clemency: and she arose up and stood before him,

5 And said: If it please the king, and if I have found favour in his sight, and my request be not disagreeable to him, I beseech thee, that the former letters of Aman the traitor and enemy of the Jews, by which he commanded that they should be destroyed in all the king's provinces, may be reversed by new letters.

6 For how can I endure the murdering and of his name increased daily, and was spread abroad through all men's mouths.

5 So the Jews made a great slaughter of their enemies, and killed them, repaying according to what they had prepared to do to them:

6 Insomuch that even in Susan they killed five hundred men, besides the ten sons of Aman the Agagite the enemy of the Jews: whose names are these:

7 Pharsandatha, and Delphon, and Esphatna. 8 And Phoratha, and Adalla, and Aridatha, 9 And Phermesta, and Arisai, and Aridai, and Jezatha

10 And when they had slain them, they would not touch the spoils of their goods.

11 And presently the number of them that were killed in Susan was brought to the king

12 And he said to the queen: The Jews have killed five hundred men in the city of Susan, besides the ten sons of Aman: how many dost thou think they have slain in all the provinces? What askest thou more, and what wilt thou have me to command to be done?

13 And she answered: If it please the king, let it be granted to the Jews, to do to-morrow in Susan as they have done to-day, and that the ten-sons of Aman may be hanged upon gibbets.

14 And the king commanded that it should be so done. And forthwith the edict was hung up in Susan, and the ten sons of Aman were hanged.

15 And on the fourteenth day of the month Adar the Jews gathered themselves together, and they killed in Susan three hundred men:

but they took not their substance.

16 Moreover through all the provinces which were subject to the king's dominion the Jews. stood for their lives, and slew their enemies and persecutors: insomuch that the number of them that were killed amounted to seventy-five thousand, and no man took any of their goods.

17 Now the thirteenth day of the month Adar was the first day with them all of the slaughter, and on the fourteenth day they left off. Which they ordained to be kept holy-day, so that all times hereafter they should celebrate it with feasting, joy, and banquets.

18 But they that were killing in the city of Susan, were employed in the slaughter on the thirteenth and fourteenth day of the same month: and on the fifteenth day they rested. And therefore they appointed that day to be a holy-day of feasting and gladness.

19 But those Jews that dwelt in towns not walled and in villages, appointed the fourteenth day of the month Adar for banquets and glad ness, so as to rejoice on that day, and send on another portions of their banquets and meats.

20 And Mardochai wrote all these things, and sent them comprised in letters to the Jews that abode in all the king's provinces, both those that lay near and those afar off, 21 That they should receive the fourteenth and fifteenth day of the month Adar for helydays, and always at the return of the year should celebrate them with solemn honour:

22 Because on those days the Jews revenged themselves of their enemies, and their mourning and sorrow were turned into mirth and joy and that these should be days of feasting are gladness, in which they should send one to ano ther portions of meats, and should give gits v the poor.

23 And the Jews undertook to Observe with solemnity all they had begun to do at that time, which Mardochai by letters had commanded to be done.

24 For Aman, the son of Amadathi of the race of Agag, the enemy and adversary of the Jews, had devised evil against them, to kill them and destroy them: and had cast Phur, that is, the lot.

25 And afterwards Esther yent in to the king, beseeching him that his endeavours might be made void by the king's letters: and the evil that he had intended against the Jews, might teturn upon his own head. And so both he and his sons were hanged upon gibbets.

26 And since that time these days are called Phurim, that is, of Lots: because Phur, that is, the lot, was cast into the urn. And all things that were done, are contained in the volume of this epistle, that is, of this book.

27 And the things that they suffered, and that were afterwards changed, the Jews took upon themselves and their seed, and upon all that had a mind to be joined to their religion, so that it should be lawful for none to pass these days without solemnity: which the writing testifieth, and certain times require, as the years continually succeed one another.

28 These are the days which shall never be forgot: and which all provinces in the whole world shall celebrate throughout all generations: neither is there any city wherein the days of Phurim, that is, of lots, must not be observed by the Jews, and by their posterity, which is ound to these ceremonies.

29 And Esther the queen the daughter of Abihail, and Mardochai the Jew, wrote also a second epistle, that with all diligence this day should be established a festival for the time to come.

30 And they sent to all the Jews that were in the hundred and twenty-seven provinces of king Assnerus, that they should have peace, and receive truth,

31 And observe the days of lots, and celchrate them with joy in their proper time: as Mardochai and Esther had appointed, and they undertook them to be observed by themselves and by their seed, fasts, and cries, and the days of lots, 19 O God, who are mighty above all, hear the voice of them, that have no other hope, and deliver us from the hand of the wicked, and deliver me from my fear.

CHAP. XV.

Exther comes into the king's presence: she is terrifled, but God turns his heart.

A ND he commanded her (no doubt but he was Mardochai) to go to the king, and petition for her people, and for her country.

2 Remember (said he) the days of thy low estate, how then wast brought up by my hand, because Aman the second after the king hath spoken against us unto death.

3 And do thou call upon the Lord, and speak to the king for us, and deliver us from death.

4 And on the third day she laid away the garments she wore, and put on her glorious apparel.

5 And glittering in royal robes, after she had called upon God the ruler and saviour of all, she took two maids with her,

6 And upon one of them she leaned, as if for delicateness and overmuch tenderness, she were not able to bear up her own body:

7 And the other maid followed her lady, bearing up her train flowing on the ground. 8 But she with a rosy colour in her face, and with gracious and bright eyes, hid a mind full of anguish, and exceeding great fear.

9 So going in she passed through all the doors in order, and stood before the king, where he sat upon his royal throne, clothed with his royal robes, and glittering with gold, and precions stones, and he was terrible to behold.

16 And when he had lifted up his counte-nance, and with burning eyes had shewn the wrath of his heart, the queen sunk down, and her colour turned pale, and she rested her weary bead upon her hand-maid.

11 And God changed the king's spirit into uilldness, and all in haste and in fear he leaped. from his throne, and holding her up in his arms, till she came to herself, caressed her with these Words:

12 What is the matter, Esther? I am thy brother, fear not.

17 For thou, my lord, art very admirable, and thy face is full of graces. 18 And while she was speaking, she fell down again, and was almost in a swoon.

A copy of the king's letter in favour of the Java

VHE † great king Artaxerxes, from India to Ethiopia, to the governors and princes of a hundred and twenty-seven provinces, which obey our command, sendeth greeting.

2 Many there abused unto pride the goodness of princes, and the honour that hath been bestowed upon them:

3 And not only endeavour to oppress the king's subjects, but not bearing the glory that is given them, take in hand to practise also against them that gave it.

4 Neither are they content not to return thanks for benefits received, and to violate in themselves the laws of humanity, but they think they can also escape the justice of God who seeth all things.

5 And they break out into so great madness, as to endeavour to undermine by lies such as observe diligently the offices committed to them, and do all things in such manner as to be worthy of all men's praise,

6 While with crafty fraud they deceive the ears of princes that are well-meaning, and judge of others by their own nature.

7 Now this is proved both from ancient histories, and by the things which are done daily, how the good designs of kings are depraved by the evil suggestions of certain men.

8 Wherefore we must provide for the peace of all provinces.

9 Neither must you think, if we command different things, that it cometh of the levity of our mind, but that we give sentence according to the quality and necessity of times, as the profit of the commonwealth requireth.

10 Now that you may more plainly understand what we say, § Aman the son of Amadathi, a Maccdonian both in mind and country, and having nothing of the Persian blood, but with his cruelty staining our goodness, was received being a stranger by us: 11 And found our humanity so great towards him, that he was called our father, and was wershipped by all as the next man after the king:

12 But he was so far puffed up with arrogancy, as to go about to deprive us of our kingdom and life.

13 For with certain new and unbeard of devices he hath sought the destruction of Mardochai, by whose fidelity and good services our life was saved, and of Esther the partner of our kingdom, with all their nation:

14 Thinking that after they were slain, he might work treason against us left alone with cut friends, and might transfer the kingdom of 1 the Persians to the Macedonians.

15 But we have found that the Jews, who were by that most wicked man appointed to be Main, are in no fault at all, but contrariwise use just laws.

16 And are the children of the highest and the greatest, and the ever-living God, by whose benefit the kingdom was given both to our fathers and to us, and is kept unto this day.

17 Wherefore know ye that those letters which he sent in our name, are void and of no effect.

18 For which crime both he himself that devised it, and all his kindred hang on gibbets, pefore the gates of this city Susan: not we, but God repaying him as he deserved.

19 But this edict, which we now send, shall be published in all cities, that the Jews may freely follow their own laws.

20 And you shall aid them that they may kill those who had prepared themselves to kill them, on the thirteenth day of the twelth month, which is called Adar.

21 For the almighty God hath turned this day of sadness and mourning into joy to them.

22 Wherefore you shall also count this day among other festival days, and celebrate it with all joy, that it may be known also in times to come,

23 That all they who faithfully obey the Persians, receive a worthy reward for their fidelity: but they that are traitors to their kingdom, are destroyed for their wickedness.

24 And let every province and city, that will not be partaker of this solemnity, perish by the sword and by fire, and be destroyed in such manner as to be made unpassable, both to men and beasts, for an example of contempt, and disobedience.

BOOK OF JOB.

This Book takes its name from the holy man of whom it treats: who, according to the more probable opinion, was of the race of Esan; and the same as Johah, king of Edom, mentioned Gen, xxxvi. 33. It is uncertain who was the writer of it. Some attribute it to Joh himself; others to Moses, or some one of the prophets. In the Hebrew it is written in verse, from the beginning of the third chapter to the forty-second chapter.

Jol's virtue and riches. Satan by permission from God strippeth him of all his substance. His patience.

THERE * was a man in the land of Hus, whose name was Job, and that man was simple and upright, and fearing God, and avoiding evil.

2 And there were born to him seven sons and three daughters.

3 And his possession was seven thousand sheep, and three thousand camels, and five hundred yoke of oxen, and five hundred she-asses, and a family exceeding great: and this man was great among all the people of the east.

4 And his sons went, and made a feast by houses every one in his day. And sending they called their three sisters to eat and drink with them.

5 And when the days of their feasting were gone about, Job sent to them, and sanctified them: and rising up early offered holocausts for every one of them. For he said: Lest perhaps my sons have sinned, and have blessed God in their hearts. So did Job all days.

6 Now on a certain day when the sons of God came to stand before the Lord, Satan also was present among them.

7 And the Lord said to him: Whenee comest thou? And he answered and said: I have gone round about the earth, and walked through it.

8 And the Lord said to him: Hast thou coneidered my servant Job, that there is none like him in the earth, a simple and upright man, and fearing God, and avoiding evil?

9 And Satan answering, said: Doth Job fear

God in vain?

10 Hast not thou made a fence for him, and his house, and all his substance found about, blessed the works of his hands, and his possession hath increased on the earth?

11 But stretch forth thy hand a little, and touch all that he hath, and see if he blesseth thee not to thy face.

12 Then the Lord said to Satan: Behold, all that he hath is in thy hand: only put not forth thy hand upon his person. And Satan went forth from the presence of the Lord.

13 Now upon a certain day when his sons and daughters were eating and drinking wine in the house of their eldest brother,

14 There came a messenger to Job, and seid: The oxen were ploughing, and the asses feeding beside them.

15 And the Sabeans rushed in, and took all away, and slew the servants with the sword, and

I alone have escaped to tell thes.

16 And while he was yet speaking, another came, and said: The fire of God fell from hearven, and striking the sheep and the servants hatn consumed them, and I alone have occur a to tell thee.

1: And while ne also was yet speaking, there came another, and said: The Chaldeans made three troops, and have fallen upon the camels, and taken them, moreover they have slain the servants with the sword, and I alone have escaped to tell thee.

18 He was yet speaking, and behold another came in, and said: Thy sons and daughters were eating and drinking wine in the house of their elder brother,

19 A violent wind came on a sudden from the side of the desert, and shook the four corners of the house, and it fell upon thy children and they are dead, and I alone have escaped to tell thee.

20 Then Job rose up, and rent his garments, and having shaven his head fell down upon the ground and worshipped

21 And said: * Naked came I out of my mother's womb, and naked shall I return thither: the Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away: as it hath pleased the Lord, so is it done: blessed be the name of the Lord.

22 In all these things Job sinned not by his lips, nor spoke he any foolish thing against God.

CHAP. II.

Satan, by God's permission, striketh Job with ulcers from head to foot: his patimee is still invincible.

ND it eame to pass when on a certain day A the sons of God came, and stood before the Lord, and Satan came among them, and stood in his sight,

2 That the Lord said to Satan Whence comest thou? And he answered, and said: I have gone round about the earth, and walked through it.

- 3 And the Lord said to Satan. Hast thou considered my servant Job, that there is none like hlm in the earth, a man simple, and upright, and fearing 'God, and avoiding evil, and still keeping his innocence? But thou hast moved me against him, that I should afflict him without cause.
- 4 And Satan answered, and said: Skin for skin, and all that a man hath he will give for his life:
- 5 But put forth thy hand, and touch his bone and his flesh, and then thou shalt see that he will bless thee to thy face.

6 And the Lord said to Satan: Behold he is in thy hand, but yet save his life.

7 So Satan went forth from the presence of the Lord, and struck Job with a very grievous nlcer, from the sole of the foot even to the top of his head:

8 And he took a potsherd and scraped the corrapt matter, sitting on a dunghill.

9 And his wife said to him: Dost thou still continue in thy simplicity? bless God, and die.

10 And he said to her: Thou hast spoken like one of the foolish women: if we have received good things at the hand of God, why should we not receive evil? In all these things Job did cot sin with his lips.

11 Now when Job's three friends heard all the evil the' had befallen him, they came every one from Lat own place, Eliphaz the Themanite, and Baldad the Suhite, and Sophar the Naama-

12 And when they had lifted up their eyes afar off, they knew him not, and crying out they wept, and rending their garments they sprinkled dust upon their heads toward heaven

13 And they sat with him on the ground seven days and seven nights, and no man spoke to him. a word: for they saw that his grief was very great

CHAP. IIL

Job expresseth his sense of the miseries of man's life, by cursing the day of his birth.

FTER this Job opened his mouth, and cursed A his day,

2 And he said:

3 † Let the day perish wherein I was born, and the night in which it was said: A manchild is conceived.

4 Let that day be turned into darkness, let not God regard it from above, and let not the light shine upon it.

5 Let darkness, and the shadow of death cover it, let a mist overspread it, and let it be wrapped up in bitterness.

6 Let a darksome whirlwind seize upon that night, let it not be counted in the days of the year, nor numbered in the months.

7 Let that night be solitary, and not worthy of praise.

8 Let them curse it who curse the day, who are ready to raise up a Leviathan:

9 Let the stars be darkened with the mist thereof: let it expect light and not see it, nor the rising of the dawning of the day:

10 Because it shut not up the doors of the womb that bore me, nor took away evils from my eyes 11 Why did I not die in the womb, why did

I not perish when I came out of the belly?

12 Why received upon the knees? why suck led at the breasts? 13 For now I should have been asleep and still, and should have rest in my sleep: 14 With kings and consuls of the earth, who build themselves solitudes:

15 Or with princes, that possess gold, and fill their houses with silver:

16 Or as a hidden untimely birth I should not be, or as they that being conceived have not seen the light.

17 There the wicked cease from tumult, and there the wearied in strength are at rest.

18 And they sometime bound together without disquiet, have not heard the voice of the oppressor.

19 The small and great are there, and the servant is free from his master.

20 Why is light given to him that is in misery, and life to them that are in bitterness of soul?

21 That look for death, and it cometh not, as they that dig for a treasure:

22 And they rejoice exceedingly when they have found the grave.

23 To a man whose way is hidden, and God hath surrounded him with darkness?

24 Before I eat I sigh: and as overflowing waters, so is my roaring:

25 For the fear which I feared, hath come upon me: and that which I was afraid of, hath befallen me.

26 Have I not dissembled? have I not kept sllence? have I not been quiet? and indignation la come upon ma.

CHAP, III. Ver. 1. Cursed his day. Job cursed the ay of his birth, not by way of wishing evil to any thing foot's creation; but only to express in a stronger canner his sense of human inseries in general, and of its own calamitage in usuriouse. is own calaminisc in particular.

JOB

HAP. IV.

Bliphan charges Job with impatience, an presents that God never afflicts the innocent.

THEN Eliphaz the Themanite answered, and said:

2 If we begin to speak to thee, perhaps thou wilt take it ill, but who can withhold the words Le hath conceived?

3 Behold thou hast taught many, and thou hast strengthened the weary hands:

4 Thy words have confirmed them that were staggering, and thou hast strengthened the rembling knees:

5 But now the scourge is come upon thee, and thou faintest: it hath touched thee, and

'hou art troubled.

6 Where is thy fear, thy fortitude, thy patience, and the perfection of thy ways?

7 Remember, I pray thee, who ever perished being innocent? or when were the just destroyed?

8 On the contrary I have seen those who work iniquity, and sow sorrows, and reap them, 9 Perishing by the blast of God, and consumed by the spirit of his wrath.

10 The roaring of the lion, and the voice of the lioness, and the teeth of the whelps of lions are broken:

11 The tiger hath perished for want of prey, and the young lions are scattered abroad.

12 Now there was a word spoken to me in private, and my ears by stealth as it were received the veins of its whisper.

13 In the horror of a vision by night, when deep sleep is wont to hold men,

14 Fear seized upon me and trembling, and all my bones were affrighted: 15 And when a spirit passed before me, the hair of my flesh stood up. 16 There stood one whose countenance knew not, an image before my eyes, and I heard the voice as it were of a gentle wind:

17 * Shall man be justified in comparison of God, or shall a man be more pure than his maker?

18 † Behold they that serve him are not stead fast, and in his angels he found wickedness:

19 How much more shall they that dwell in houses of clay, who have an earthly foundation, be consumed as with the moth?

20 From morning till evening they shall be cut down: and because no one understandeth, they shall perish for ever.

21 And they that shall be left, shall be taken away from them: they shall die, and not in wisdom.

CHAP. V. Eliphaz proceeds in his charge, and exharts Job to acknowledge his sins.

ALL now if there be any that will answer thee, and turn to some of the saints.

2 Anger indeed killeth the foolish, and envy alayeth the little one.

3 I have seen a fool with a strong root, and I cursed his beauty immediately.

CHAP. IV. Ver. 17. Shall man be justified in comparison of God, &c These are the words which Eliphaz had bard from an Angel, which, ver. 18. he calls a spirit.
CHAP. VI. Ver. 2. My sins, &c. He does not mean to compare his sufferings with his real sins; but with the imaginary crines which his friends imputed to him: and especially with his wrath or grief, expressed it the third chapter, which they so much accused. Though a he tells them here, it hore to proportion with the greatness of his calamity

4 His children shall be far from safety, and shall be destroyed in the gate, and there shall be none to deliver them.

5 Whose harvest the hungry shall eat, and the armed man shall take him by violence, and the thirsty shall drink up his riches.

6 Nothing upon earth is done without a causa, and sorrow doth not spring out of the ground. 7 Man is born to labour and the bird to fly. 8 Wherefore I will pray to the Lord, and address my speech to God:

9 Who doth great things and unsearchable and wonderful things without number:

10 Who giveth rain upon the face of the earth, and watereth all things with waters:
11 Who setteth up the humble on high, and comforteth with health those that mourn.

12 Who bringeth to nought the designs of the malignant, so that their hands cannot accomplish what they had begun:

13 t Who catcheth the wise in their craftiness, and disappointeth the counsel of the wicked:

14 They shall meet with darkness in the day, and grope at noon-day as in the night.

15 But he shall save the needy from the sword of their mouth, and the poor from the hand of the violent.

16 And to the needy there shall be hope, but iniquity shall draw in her mouth.

17 Blessed is the man whom God correcteth. refuse not therefore the chastising of the Lord: 18 For, he woundeth, and cureth: he striketh, and his hands shall heal. 19 In six troubles he shall deliver thee, and in the seventh, evil shall not touch thee.

20 In famine he shall deliver thee from death; and in battle, from the hand of the sword. 21 Thou shalt be hidden from the scourge of the tongue: and thou shalt not fear calamity when it cometh.

22 In destruction and famine thou shalt laugh: and thou shalt not be afraid of the beasts of the earth.

23 But thou shalt have a covenant with the stones of the lands, and the beasts of the earth shall be at peace with thee.

24 And thou shalt know that thy tabernacie is in peace, and visiting thy beauty thou shalt not sin.

25 Thou shalt know also that thy seed shall be multiplied, and thy offspring like the grass

Job maintains his innocence, and complaine of his friends.

UT Job answered, and said:

2 O that my sins, whereby I have deserved wrath, and the calamity that I suffer, were weighed in a balance.

3 As the sand of the sea this would appear heavier: therefore my words are full of sorrow:

4 For the arrows of the Lord are in me, the rage whereof drinketh up my spirit, and the terrors of the Lord war against me.

and that God may give me what I look for? 9 And that he that hath begun may destroy me, that he may let loose his hand, and cut me

CHAP. VII. Jod declares the miseries of man's life: and addresses himself to God.

THE life of man upon earth is a warfare, and his days are like the days of a hireling. 2 As a servant longeth for the shade, as the hireling looketh for the end of his work,

3 So I also have had empty months, and have numbered to myself wearisome nights.

4 If I lie down to sleep, I shall say: When shall I arise? and again I shall look for the evening, and shall be filled with sorrows even till darkness.

5 My flesh is clothed with rottenness and the filth of dust, my skin is withered and drawn together.

6 My days have passed more swiftly than the web is cut by the weaver, and are consumed without any hope.

7 Remember that my life is but wind, and my eye shall not return to see good things.

8 Nor shall the sight of man behold me: thy eyes are upon we, and I shall be no more.

9 As a cloud is consumed, and passeth away: so he that sligh go down to hell shall not come up.
10 Nor sligh he return any more into his house, neither shall his place know him any more. 11 Wherefore I will not spare my mouth, I will speak in the affliction of my spirit: I will talk with the bitterness of my soul.

12 Am I a sea, or a whale, that thou hast enclosed me in a prison?

13 If I say: My bed shall comfort me, and I shall be relieved speaking with myself on my couch: 14 Thou wilt frighten me with dreams and terrify me with visions.

15 So that my soul rather chooseth hanging, and my bones death.

16 I have done with hope, I shall now live no longer: spare me, for my days are nothing.

17 What is a man that thou shouldst magnify him? or why dost thou set thy heart upon him? 18 Thou visitest him early in the morning, and thou provest him suddenly.

19 How long wilt thou not spare me, nor suf-

Baldad, under pretence of defending the justice of God, accuses Job, and exhorts him to return to God.

THEN Baldad the Suhite answered, and said: 2 How long wilt thou speak these things, and how long shall the words of thy month be like a strong wind?

3 Doth God pervert judgment, or doth the Almighty overthrow that which is just?

4 Although thy children have sinned against him, and he hath left them in the hand of theu iniquity:

5 Yet if thon wilt arise early to God, and wilt beseech the Almighty:

6 If thou wilt walk clean and upright, he will presently awake unto thee, and will make the dwelling of thy justice peaceable:
7 Insomuch, that if thy former things were small, thy latter things would be multiplied exceedingly.

8 For inquire of the former generation, and search diligently into the memory of the fathers:

9 (For we are but of yesterday, and are ignorant * that our days upon earth are but a shadow:)

CHAP. IX. Job acknowledges God's justice: although he often afficia the innocent.

ND Job answered and said:

2 Indeed I know it is so, and that man cannot be justified compared with God.

3 If he will contend with him, he cannot an-WET him one for a thousand.

4 He is wise in heart, and mighty in strength: who hath resisted him, and hath had peace?

14 What am I then, that I should answer him, and have words with him?

15 I, who although I should have any just thing, would not answer, but would make supplication to my judge.

16 And if he should hear me when I call, I should not believe that he had heard my voice. 17 For he shall crush me in a whirlwind, and multiply my wounds even without cause. 18 He alloweth not my spirit to rest, and he filleth me with bitterness.

19 If strongth be demanded, he is most strong: if quity of judgment, no man dare boar witness for me.

20 If I would justify myself, my Jul mound shall condemn nie: If I would shew mysolf innocent he shall prove me wicked.
21 Although I should be simple, even this my soul shall be ignorant of, and I shall be weary of my life.

22 One thing there is that I have spoken, both the innocent and the wicked he consumeth.

23 If he scourge, let him kill at once, and not laugh at the pains of the innocent.

24 The earth is given into the hand of the wicked, he covereth the face of the judges thereof: and if it be not he, who is at then?

25 My days have been swifter than a post. they have fled away and have not seen good.

26 They have passed by as ships carrying fruits, as an eagle flying to the prey.

27 If I say: I will not speak so: I change my face, and am tormented with sorrow.

28 I feared all my works, knowing that thou didst not spare the offender. 29 But if so also I am wicked, why have I laboured in vain?

30 If I be washed as it were with snow-waters, and my hands shall shine ever so clean:

31 Yet thou shalt plunge me in filth, and my garments shall abhor me.

32 For I shall not answer a man that it like myself: nor one that may be heard with me equally in judgment.

33 There is none that may be able to reprove both, and to put his hand between both.

34 Let him take his rod away from me, and let not his fear terrify me.

35 I will speak, and will not fear him: for I cannot answer while I am in fear.

CHAP. X.

Tob laments his afflictions and begs to be delivered. Y soul is weary of my life, I will let go my speech against myself, I will speak in the bitterness of my soul.

2 I will say to God: Do not condemn rue: tell me why thou judgest me so.

3 Doth it seem good to thee that thon shouldst calumniate me, and oppress me, the work of thy own hands, and help the counsel of the wicked?

4 Hast thou eyes of flesh: or, shalt thou see as man seeth?

5 Are thy days as the days of man, and are thy years as the times of men:
6 That thou shouldst inquire after my iniquity, and search after my sin?

7 And shouldst know that I have done no wicked thing, whereas there is no man that can deliver out of thy hand.

8 Thy hands have made me, and fashioned me wholly round about, and dost thou thus cast me down headlong on a sudden?

9 Remember, I beseech thee, that thon has made me as the clay, and thon wilt bring me into dust again.

10 Hast thou not milked me as milk, and cur.

dled me like cheese?

11 Thou hast clothed me with skin and flesh. thon hast put me together with bones and sinews; 12 Thou hast granted me life and mercy, and thy visitation hath preserved my spirit. 13 Although thou conceal these things in thy heart, yet I know that thou rememberest all things 14 If I have sinned and thou hast spared me for an hour: why dost thou not suffer me to be clean from my iniquity ?

17 Thou renewest thy witnesses against me, and multipliest thy wrath upon me, and pains war against me.

18 Why didst thou bring me forth out of the womb; O that I had been consumed that eye might not see me!

19 I should have been as if I had not been carried from the womb to the grave.

20 Shall not the fewness of my days be ended shortly? suffer me, therefore, that I may lament my sorrow a little.

21 Before I go, and return no more, to a land that is dark and covered with the mist of death:

. And doet thou think it meet to open thy eyes upon such an one, and to bring him into judgment with thee?

4 † Who can make him clean that is conceived of unclean seed? is it not thou who only art?

5 The days of man are short, and the number of his months is with thee: thou hast appointed his bounds which cannot be passed.

6 Depart a little from him, that he may rest, until his wished for day come, as that of the hireling.

7 A tree hath hope: if it be cut, it groweth green again, and the boughs thereof sprout.

ped and consumed, I pray you where is he? 11 As if the waters should depart out of the sea, and an emptied river should be dried up: 12 So man when he is fallen asleep shall not rise again till the heavens be broken, he shall not awake, nor rise up out of his sleep.

Job expostulates with his friends: and appeals to the judgment of God.

THEN Job answered, and said:

2 I have often heard such things as these: you are all troublesome comforters. 3 Shall windy words have no end? or is it any trouble to thee to speak?

4 I also could speak like you; and would your soul were for my soul.

5 I would comfort you also with words, and would wag my head over you.

6 I would strengthen you with my mouth, and would move my lips, as sparing you.
7 But what shall I do? If . speak, my pain will not rest: and if I hold my peace, it will not depart from me.

8 But now my sorrow hath oppressed me, and all my limbs are brought to nothing. 9 My wrinkles bear witness against me, and a false speaker riseth up against my face, contradicting me.

10 He hath gathered together his fury against me, and threatening me he hath gnashed with his teeth upon me: my enemy hath beheld me with terrible eyes

11 They have opened their mouths upon me, and reproaching me they have struck me on the cheek, they are filled with my pains.

12 God hath shut me up with the unjust man, and hath delivered me into the hands of the wicked.

13 I that was formerly so wealthy, am all on a sudden broken to pieces: he hath taken me by my neck, he hath broken me, and hath set mo up to be his mark.

14 He hath compassed me round about with his lances, he hath wounded my loins, he hath not spared, and hath poured out my bowels on the earth.

15 He hath torn me with wound upon wound, he hath rushed in upon me like a giant.

16 I have sowed sack-cloth upon my skin, and have covered my flesh with ashes.

17 My face is swoln with weeping, and my eye-lids are dim.

18 These things have I suffered without the iniquity of my hand, when I offered pure prayers to God.

19 O earth, cover not thou my blood, neither let my cry find a hiding place in thee.

20 For behold my witness is in heaven, and he that knoweth my conscience is on high.

Job's hope in God: he expects rest in death. MY spirit shall be wasted, my days shall be shortened, and only the grave remained Inceent shall be raised up against the hypocrite. 9 And the just man shall hold on his way, and he that hath clean hands shall be stronger and stronger.

11 My days have passed away, my thoughts are dissipated, tormenting my heart.

12 They have turned night into day, and after darkness I hope for light again.

13 If I wait hell is my house, and I have made my bed in darkness.

14 I have said to rottenness: Thou art my father; to worms, my mother and my sister,

Ver. 25, 26, & 27. Show Job's explicit belief in his Redsemer, and also of the resurrection of the flesh; not as esemer, and also of the resurrection of the flesh: not as one tree riseth in place of another, but that the self same yets shally rise at the last day, by the power of God, changed in quality but not in substance, every one to receive sentence according to his works in this life.

CHAP. XX. Ver. 18. According to the multitude of his direct. That is, his stratagems to gratify his producted and to opprove and destroy the poor.

19 Because he broke in and stript the poor: he hath violently taken away a house which he did not build.

20 * And yet his belly was not filled: and when he hath the things he coveted, he shall not be able to possess them.

21 There was nothing left of his meat and therefore nothing shall continue of his goods: 22 When he shall be filled, he shall be straitened, he shall burn, and every sorrow shall fall upon him.

23 May his belly be filled, that God may send forth the wrath of his indignation upon him and rain down his war upon him.

24 He shall flee from weapons of iron, and shall fall upon a bow of brass.

25 The sword is drawn out, and cometh forth from its scabbard, and glittereth in his bitterness: the terrible ones shall go and come upon him.

26 All darkness is hid in his secret pizces: a fire that is not kindled shall devour him, he shall be afflicted when left in his tabernacle.

27 The heavens shall reveal his iniquity, and the earth shall rise up against him.

28 The offspring of his house shall be ex posed, he shall be pulled down in the day or God's wrath.

29 This is the portion of a wicked man from God, and the inheritance of his doings from the Lord.

CHAP. XXI.

Tobsbews that the wicked often prosper in this world, even to the end of their life: but that their judyment is in another world.

HEN Job answered, and said: 2 Hear, I beseech you, my words, and do penance. 3 Suffer me, and I will speak, and after, if you please, laugh at my words.

4 Is my debate against man, that I should not have just reason to be troubled?

5 Hearken to me and be astonished, and lay your finger on your mouth.

6 As for me, when I remember, I am afraid and trembling taketh hold on my flesh.

7 † Why then do the wicked live, are they advanced, and strengthened with riches?

8 Their seed continueth before them, a multitude of kinsmen, and of children's children ir their sight.

9 Their houses are secure and peaccable, and the rod of God is not upon them.

10 Their cattle have conceived, and failed not: their cow has calved, and is not deprived of her fruit.

11 Their little ones go out like a flock, and their chadren dance and play.

12 They take the timbrel, and the harp, 21.d rejoice at the sound of the organ.

13 They spend their days in wealth, and in moment they go down to hell.

14 Who have said to God: Depart from us we desire not the knowledge of thy ways.

18 They shall be as chaff before the face of the wind, and as ashes which the whirlwind scattereth.

19 God shall lay up the sorrow of the father or his children: and when he shall repay, then shall he know.

20 His eyes shall see his own destruction, and he shall drink of the wrath of the Almighty

21 For what is it to him what befalleth his house after him: and if the number of his months be diminished by one half!

22 Shall any one teach God knowledge, who judgeth those that are high.

23 One man dieth strong, and hale, rich and happy.

24 His bowels are full of fat, and his bouce are moistened with marrow.

25 But another dieth in bitterness of soul without any riches: 26 And yet they shall sleep together in the dust, and worms shall cover them.

27 Surely I know your thoughts, and your unjust judgments against me.

- 28 For you say: Where is the house of the prince? and where are the dwelling-places of the wicked?
- 29 Ask any one of them that go by the way, and you shall perceive that he knoweth these same things.
- 30 Because the wicked man is reserved to the day of destruction, and he shall be brought to the day of wrath.

31 Who shall reprove his way to his face? and who shall repay him what he hath done?

32 He shall be brought to the graves, and shall watch in the heap of the dead.

Lithkas falsely imputes many crimes to Job: but promises him prosperity if he will repent.

THEN Eliphaz the Themanite answered, and said: 2 Can man be compared with God, even though he were of perfect knowledge?

3 What doth it profit God if thou be just? or what dost thou give him if thy way be unspotted ?

4 Shall he reprove thee for fear? and come with thee into judgment:

5 And not for thy manifold wickedness, and thy infinite iniquities?

6 For thou hast taken away the pledge of thy brethren without cause, and stript the naked of their clothing.

7 Thou hast not given water to the weary, thou hast withdrawn bread from the hungry.

8 In the strength of thy arm thou didst possess the land, and being the most mighty thou holdest it.

9 Thou hast sent widows away empty, and the arms or the inthoders then hast broken in pieces

10 Therefore art thou surrounded with suspecand sudden fear troubleth thee.

11 And didst thou think that thou shouldst not see darkness, and that thou shouldst not on covered with the violence of overflowing waters !

12 Dost not thou think that God is higher than heaven, and is elevated above the height of the stars? 13 And thou sayst: What doth God know? and he judgeth as it were through a mist.

14 The clouds are his covert, and he doth not consider our things, and he walketh about the poles of heaven.

15 Dost thou desire to keep the path of ages, which wicked men have trodden?

16 Who were taken away before their time, and a flood hath overthrown their foundation.

17 Who said to God: Depart from us: and looked upon the Almighty as if he could do no-torrents of gold.

25 And the Almighty shall be against thy enemies, and silver shall be heaped together for thee.

26 Then shalt thou abound in delights in the Almighty, and shalt lift up thy face to God.

27 Thou shalt pray to him, and he will hear thee, and thou shalt pay vows.

28 Thou shalt decree a thing, and it shall come to thee, and light shall shine in thy ways.

29 † For he that hath been humbled, shall be in glory: and he that shall bow down his eyes, he shall be saved, 30 The innocent shall be saved, and I:c shall be saved by the cleanurs of his hands.

CHAP. XXIII. Job wishes to be tried at God's tribunar. THEN Job answered, and said:

2 Now also my words are in bitterness, and the hand of my scourger is more grievous than my mourning.

3 Who will grant me that I might know and find him, and come even to his throne?

4 I would set judgment before him, and would fill my mouth with complaints.

5 That I might know the words that he would answer me, and understand what he would say to me.

6 I would not that he should contend with me with much strength, nor overwhelm me with the weight of his greatness.

7 Let him propose equity against me, and 2. my judgment come to victory.

8 But if I go to the east, he appeared not: L to the west, Ishall not understand him.

CHAP. XXL Ver. 33. Acceptable to the grave: of Cocyass. The Hebrew word, which St. Jerome has here rendered by the name Cocyas (which the poets represents a river in hell) signifies a valley or a terrent: and in this place, is taken for the low region of death, and hell: which willingly, as it were, receives the wicked at their chath: who are ushered in by innumerable others that Pawe goes before them; and are followed by multitudes obove namber.

9 If to the left hand, what shull I do? I shall not take hold on him: if I turn myself to the right hand, I shall not see him.

10 But he knoweth my way, and has tried me as gold that passeth through the fire:

11 My foot hath followed his steps, I have kept his way, and have not declined from it.

12 I have not departed from the commandments of his lips, and the words of his mouth I have hid in my bosom.

13 For he is alone, and ro man can turn away his thought: and whatsoever his soul hath iesired, that hath he done.

14 And when he shall have fulfilled his will in me, many other like things are also at hand with him.

15 And therefore I am troubled at his presence, and when I consider him I am made pensive with fear.

16 God hath softened my heart, and the Almighty hath troubled me.

17 For I have not perished because of the darkness that hangs over me, neither hath the mist covered my face.

CHAP. XXIV.

God's providence often suffers the wicked to go on a long time in their sins: but punisheth them in another life.

TIMES are not hid from the Ahnighty: but they that know han, know not his days.

2 Some have removed land-marks, have taken away flocks by force, and fed them.

3 They have driven away the ass of the fatherless, and have taken away the widow's ox for a pledge.

4 They have everturned the way of the poor, and have oppressed together the meek of the earth

5 Others like wild asses in the desert go forth to their work : by watching for a prey, they get bread for their children.

6 They reap the field that is not their own, and gather the vintage of his vineyard whom by violence they have oppressed.

7 They send men away naked, taking away thair clothes who have no covering in the cold:

8 Who are wet with the showers of the monntains, and having no covering embrace the stones.

9 They have violently robbed the fatherless, and stript the roor common people.

10 From the naked and them that go without clotning, and from the hungry they have taken away the ears of corn. II They have taken their rest at noon among the stores of them, who after having trodden the wine-presses suffer thirst.

12 Out of the cities they have made men to groan, and the soul of the wounded hath cried cut, and God doth not suffer it to pass unrevenged.

13 They have been rebellious to the light, they have not known his ways, neither have hey returned by his paths.

14 The murderer riseth at the very break of day, he killeth the needy, and the poor man: but in the night he will be as a thief.

17 If the morning suddenly appear, it is to them the shadow of death: and they walk in darkness as if it were in light.

18 He is light upon the face of the water: cursed be his portion on the earth, let him not walk by the way of the vineyards.

19 Let him pass from the snow waters to encessive heat, and his sin even to hell.

20 Let mercy forget him: may worms be his sweetness: let him be remembered no more but be broken in pieces as an unfruitful tree. 21 For he hath fed the barren that beareth not, and to the widow he hath done no good. 22 He hath pulled down the strong by his might: and when he standeth up, he shall net trust to his life.

23 * God hath given him place for penanca and he abuseth it unto pride: but his eyes are upon his ways.

24 They are lifted up for a little while and shall not stand, and shall be brought down as all things, and shall be taken away, and as the tops of the ears of corn they shall be broken.

25 And if it be not so, who can convince me that I have lied, and set my words before God?

CHAP. XXV.

Baldad represents the justice of God, before whom no man can be justified.

MEN Baldad the Subite answered, and said: 2 Power and terror are with him, who maketh peace in his high places.

3 is there any numbering of his soldiers? and upon whom shall not his light arise? 4 Can man be justified compared with God

CHAP, XXVI. Job declares his sentiments of the wisdom and power

MIEN Job answered, and said:

2 Whose helper art than? is it of him that is weak? and dost thou hold up the arm of him that has no strength?

3 To whom hast thou given counsel? perhaps to him that hath no wisdom, and thou hast shewn thy very great prudence.

4 Whom hast thou desired to teach? was it not him that made life?

5 Behold the giants groan under the waters, and they that dwell with them.

6 Hell is naked before him, and there is no covering for destruction.

7 He stretched out the north over the empty space, and hangeth the earth upon nothing.

8 He bindeth up the waters in his clouds, so that they break not out and fall down together:

9 He withholdeth the face of his throne, and spreadeth his cloud over it. 10 He hath set bounds about the waters, til light and darkness come to an end. 11 The pillars of heaven tremble, and dread at his beck.

Job persists in asserting his own innocence, and that hypocrites will be punished in the end.

JOB also added, taking up his parable, and said:

3 As God liveth, who hath taken away my bdgment, and the Almighty, who hath brought my soul to bitterness,

3 As long as breath remaineth in me, and the Spirit of God in my nostrils,

6 My justification, which I have begun to hold, I will not forsake: for my heart doth not reprehend me in all my life.

7 Let my enemy be as the ungodly, and my adversary as the wicked one.

8 For what is the hope of the hypocrite if through covetousness he take by violence, and God deliver not his soul?

9 Will God hear his cry, when distress shall zome upon him?

10 Or can he delight himself in the Almighty, and call upon God at all times?

11 I will teach you by the hand of God, what the Almighty hath, and I will not conceal it.

12 Behold you all know it, and why do you epeak vain things without cause?

13 This is the portion of a wicked man with God, and the inheritance of the violent, which they shall receive of the Almighty.

14 If his sons be multiplied, they shall be for the sword, and his grandsons shall not be filled with bread.

15 They that shall remain of him, shall be buried in death, and his vidows shall not weep. 16 If he shall heap together silver as earth, and prepare raiment as clay:

17 He shall prepare indeed, but the just man Shall be clothed with it: and the innocent shall divide the silver.

18 He hath built his house as a moth, and as a keeper he hath made a booth.

19 * The rich man when he shall sleep shall · take away nothing with him: he shall open his eyes and find nothing.

20 Poverty like water shall take hold on him, a tempest shall oppress him in the night:

Job relates his former happiness, and the respect that all men showed him.

JoB also added, taking up his parable, and said:

2 Who will grant me, that I might be accord. ing to the months past, according to the days in which God kept me?

3 When his larap shined over my head, and I walked by his light in darkness?

4 As I was in the days of my youth, when God was secretly in my tabernacle?

5 When the Almighty was with me: and my servants round about me?

6 When I washed my feet with butter, and the rock poured me out rivers of oil?

When I went out to the gate of the city, and in the street they prepared me a chair?

8 The young men saw me, and hid themselves: and the old men rosc up and stood.

9 The princes ceased to speak, and laid the finger on their mouth.

10 The rulers held their peace, and their tengue cleaved to their throat.

11 The ear that heard me blessed me, and the eye that saw me gave witness to me:

12 Because I had delivered the poor man that cried out; and the fatherless, that had no helper.

13 The blessing of him that was ready to perish came upon me, and I comforted the heart of the widow.

14 I was clad with justice: and I clothed myself with my judgment, as with a robe and a diadem.

15 I was an eye to the blind, and a foot to the lame.

16 I was the father of the poor: and the cause which I knew not, I searched out most diligently.

17 I broke the jaws of the wicked man, and out of his teeth I took away the prey.

18 And I said: 1 shall die in my nest, and as a palm-tree shall multiply my days.

19 My root is opened beside the waters, and dew shall continue in my harvest.

20 My glory shall always be renewed, and my bow in my hand shall be repaired.

21 They that heard me, waited for my sentence, and being attentive held their peace at my counsel.

22 To my words they durst add nothing, and my speech dropped upon them.

23 They waited for me as for rain, and they opened their mouth as for a latter shower.

24 If at any time I laughed on them, they selieved not, and the light of my countenance fell not on the earth. 25 If I had a mind to go to them, I sat first, Eliuis angry both with Job and his friends. Ke boasts of himself. So these three men ceased to answer Job, because he seemed just to himself.

2 And Eliu the son of Baraehel the Buzite, of the kindred of Ram, was angry and was moved to indignation: now he was angry against Job, because he said he was just before

3 And he was angry with his friends, because they had not found a reasonable answer, but only had condemned Job.

4 So Eliu waited while Job was speaking. beeause they were his elders that were speaking.

5 But when he saw that the three were not able to answer, he was exceedingly angry.

6 Then Eliu the son of Barachel the Buzite answered, and said: I am younger in days, and you are more ancient, therefore hanging down my head, I was afraid to shew you my opinion.

7 For I hoped that greater age would speak and that a multitude of years would teach wis-

8 But, as I see, there is a spirit in men, and the inspiration of the Almighty giveth understanding.

9 They that are aged are not the wise mon, neither do the ancients understand judgment.

10 Therefore I will speak: Hearken to me, I also will shew you my wisdom.

11 For I have waited for your words, I have given ear to your wisdom, as long as you were disputing in words.

12 And as long as I thought you said some thing, I considered: but, as I see, there is none of you that can convince Job, and answer ble words.

13 Lest you should say: We have found wisdom, God hath east him down, not man.

14 He hath spoken nothing to me, and I will not answer him according to your words.

15 They were afraid, and answered no mora and they left off speaking.

15 Therefore because I have waited and the have not spoken: they stood, and answered no

17 I also will answer my part, and will show my knowledge.

18 For I am full of matter to speak of, and the spirit of my bowels straiteneth me.

19 Behold my belly is as new wine which wanteth vent, which bursteth the new vessels. 20 I will speak, and take breath a little: I will open my lips, and will answer.

21 I will not accept the person of man, and will not level God with man.

22 For I knownot how long I shall continue, and whether after a while my maker may take CHAP. XXXIII.

Eliu blames Job for asserting his own innocence. EAR therefore, O Job, my speeches, and hearken to all my words.

2 Behold now I have opened my mouth, let my tongue speak within my jaws.

3 My words are from my upright heart, and my lips shall speak a pure sentence.

4 The Spirit of God made me, and the breath of the Almighty gave me life.

5 If thou caust, answer me, and stand up against my face. 6 Behold God hath made me as well as thee, and of the same clay I also was formed. 7 But yet let not my wonder terrify thee, and let not my eloquence be burdensome to thee. 8 Now thou hast said in my hearing, and I have heard the voice of thy words: 9 I am clean, and without sin: I am unspotted, and there is no iniquity in me. 10 Because he hath found complaints against me, therefore he hath counted me for his enemy. 11 He hath put my feet in the stocks, he hath observed all my paths.

12 Now this is the thing in which thou art not justified: I will answer thee, that God is greater than man.

13 Dost flion strive against him, because he hath not answered thee to all words?

14 God speaketh onco, and repeateth not the self same thing the second time.

19 He rebuketh also by sorrow in the bed, and he maketh all his bones to wither.

20 Bread becometh abominable to him in his life, and to his soul the meat which before he desired.

21 His flesh shall be consumed away, and his dones that were covered shall be made bare.

22 Ilis soul hath drawn near to corruption, and his life to the destroyers.

CHAP, XXXII. Ver. 21. I will not level God with snan. Here Eliu considers that Job hath put himself on a level with God, by the manner he assumed to justify his own life in speaking to God as if he spoke to an equal: Eliu appears in the following, ver. 22., his four of punishment have less than attempts.

23 If there shall be an Angel speaking fir him, one among thousands, to doclare man's uprightness, 24 He shall have mercy on him, and shall say: Deliver him, that he may not go down to corruption: I have found wherein I may be merciful to him.

25 His flesh is consumed with punishments. let it return to the days of his youth.

26 He shall pray to God, and he will be gracious to him: and he shall see his face with joy. and he will render to man his justice.

27 He shall look upon men, and shall say: I have sinned, and indeed I have offended, and I have not received what I have deserved.

28 He hath delivered his soul from going into destruction, that it may live and see the light. 29 Behold, all these things God worketh three times within every one.

30 That he may withdraw their souls from corruption, and enlighten them with the light of the living.

31 Attend, Job, and hearken to me: and hold thy peace, whilst I speak.

32 But if thou hast any thing to say, answer me, speak: for I would have thee to appear just.

33 And if thou have not, hear me: nold the peace, and I will teach thee wisdom.

CHAP. XXXIV. Eliu charges Job with blasphemy: and sets forth the power and justice of God.

ND Eliu continued his discourse, and said: 2 Hear ye, wise men, my words, and ye learned, hearken to me:

3 * For the ear trieth words, and the mouth discerneth meats by the taste

4 Let us choose to us judgment, and let us see among ourselves what is the best. 5 For Job hath said : I am just, and God hath overthrown my judgment. 6 For injudging me there is a ne: my arrow is violent without any sin. 7 What man is there like Job, who drinketh up scorning like water?

8 Who goeth in company with them that work iniquity, and walketh with wicked men?

9 For he hath said: Man shall not please God, although he run with him. 10 Therefore, ye men of understanding, hear me: far from God be wickedness, and iniquity from the Almighty.

11 For he will render to a man his work, and according to the ways of every one he will reward them.

12 For in very deed God will not condema without cause, neither will the Almighty pervert judgment.

13 What other hath he appointed over the earth? or whom hath he set over the world which he made?

14 If he turn his heart to him, he shall draw his spirit and breath unto himself.

15 All flesh shall perish together, and man shall return into as 1es.

le If then thou hast understanding, hear what is said, and hearken to the voice of my Words.

17 Can he be healed that loveth not judgment? and how dost thou so far condemn him that is just?

18 Whosaith to the king: Thou art an apcotate: who calleth rulers ungodly:

19 1 Who accepteth not the persons of princes:

nor hath regarded the tyrant, when he conmended against the poor men: for all are the work of his hands.

20 They shall suddenly die, and the people shall be troubled at midnight, and they shall pass, and take away the violent without hand.

21 For his eyes are upon the ways of men, and he considereth all their steps.

22 There is no darkness, and there is no shadow of death, where they may be hid who work injouity.

23 For it is no longer in the power of man, to enter into judgment with God.

24 He shall break in pieces many and innumerable, and shall make others to stand in their

25 For he knoweth their works: and therefore he shall bring night on them, and they shall be 26 He hath struck them as being wicked, in open sight.

27 Who as it were on purpose have revolted from him, and would not understand all his Xavs:

28 So that they caused the ery of the needy to come to him, and he heard the voice of the poor.

29 For when he granteth peace, who is there that can condemn? When he hideth his countenance, who is there that can behold him, whether it regard nations, or all men?

30 Who maketh a man that is a hypocrite to reign for the sins of the people?

51 Seeing then I have spoken of God, I will not hinder thee in thy turn.

32 If I have erred, teach thou me: If I have poken iniquity, I will add no more.

23 Doth God require it of thee, because it hath displeased thee? for thou begannest to speak, and not I: but if thou know any thing better, speak.

34 Let men of understanding speak to me, and let a wise man hearken to me.

25 But Job hath spoken foolishly, and his words sound not discipline.

36 My father, let Job be tried even to the end:

cease not from the man of iniquity.

37 Because he addeth blasphemy upon his sins, let him be tied fast in the mean time among us: and then let him provoke God to judgment with his speeches.

CHAP. XXXV.

Eliu declares that the good or evil done by man cannot reach God.

TOREOVER Elin spoke these words:

2 Doth thy thought seem right to thee, that thea shouldst say: I am more just than God?

3 For thou saidst: That which is right doth not please thee: or what will it profit thee if I In ?

4 Therefore I will answer thy words, and thy friends with thee.

5 Look up to heaven and see and behold the tky, that is higher than thee.

6 If thou sin, what shalt thou burt him? and if thy iniquities be multiplied, what shalt thou do against him?

7 And if thou do justly, what shalt thou give him, or what shall he receive of thy hand?

8 Thy wickedness may hurt a man that & like thee: and thy justice may help the son of 9 By reason of the multitude of oppressors they shall ery out: and shall wail for the violence of the army of tyrants.

10 And he hath not said: Where is God, who made me, who hath given songs in the night?

11 Who teacheth us more than the beasts of the earth, and instructett us more than the fowls of the air.

12 There shall they ery, and he will not hear, because of the pride of evil men.

13 God therefore will not hear in vain, and the Almighty will look into the causes of every one.

14 Yea when thou shalt say: He considereth not: be judged before him, and expect him.

15 For he doth not now bring on his fury, neither doth he revenge wickedness exceedingly.

16 Therefore Job openeth his mouth in vain, and multiplieth words without knowledge.

CHAP. XXXVI.

Eliu proceeds in setting forth the justice and powers

LIU also proceeded, and said:

2 Suffer me a little, and I will shew thee: for I have yet somewhat to speak in God's behalf.

3 I will repeat my knowledge from the beginning, and I will prove my maker just. 4 For indeed my words are without a lie, and perfect knowledge shall be proved to thee. 5 God doth not east away the mighty, whereas he himself also is mighty.

6 But he saveth not the wicked, and he giveth judgment to the poor. He will not take away his eyes from tha just, and he placeth kings on the throne for ever, and they are exalted.

8 And if they shall be in chains, and be bound with the cords of poverty:

9 He shall shew them their works, and their wicked deeds, because they have been violent.

10 He also shall open their ear, to correct them: and shall speak, that they may return from iniquity.

11 If they shall hear and observe, they shall accomplish their days in good, and their years

12 But if they hear not, they shall pass by the sword, and shall be consumed in folly. 13 Dissemblers and crafty men prove the wrath of God, neither shall they cry when they are bound.

14 Their soul shall die in a storm, and their life among the effeminate.

15 He shall deliver the poor out of his distress, and shall open his ear in affliction.

16 Therefore he shall set thee at large out of the narrow mouth, and which hath no foundation under it: and the rest of thy table shall be full of fatness.

17 Thy cause hath been judged as that of the wicked, cause and judgment thou shalt recover.

18 Therefore let not anger overcome thee, to oppress any man: neither let multitude of gifts turn thee aside.

19 Lay down thy greatness without tribuiltion, and all the mighty of strength.

CHAP, XXXVI. Ver. 16. Out of the narrow mouth. That m, out of hell, whose entrance is narrow, and its depth bottomless; but figuratively meant here, that is, from his miseries and calamity to be restored to his for-Cer stato of bappiness. 290

20 Prelong not the night, that people may | come up for them.

21 Beware theu turn not aside to iniquity: for this thou hast begun to follow after misery. 22 Behold, God is high in his strength, and none is like him among the law-givers. 23 Who can search out his ways? or who can say to him: Thou hast wrought iniquity? 24 Remember that thou knowest not his work, concerning which men have sung. 25 All men see him, every one beholdeth afar

26 Behold, God is great exceeding our knowledge: the number of his years is inestimable.

27 He lifteth up the drops of rain, and poureth cut showers like floods:

28 Which flow from the clouds that cover all above

29 If he will spread out clouds as his tent, 30 And lighten with his light from above, he shall cover also the ends of the sea.

31 For by these he judgeth people, and giveth food to many mortals. 32 In his hands he hideth the light, and com-mandeth it to come again.

33 He sheweth his friend concerning it, that it is his possession, and that he may come up to it.

5 God shall thunder wonderfully with his voice, he that doth great and unsearchable things.

6 He commandeth the snow to go down upon the earth, and the winter rain, and the shower of his strength.

7 He sealeth up the hand of all men, that every one may know his works.

8 Then the beast shall go into his covert, and shall abide in his den.

9 Out of the inner parts shall a tempest come, and cold out of the north.

or in what place soever of his mercy he shall command them to be found.

14 Hearken to these things, Job: Stand, and consider the wondrous works of God.

15 Dost thou know when God commanded the rains, to shew his light of his clouds?

16 Knowest thou the great paths of the clouds and the perfect knowledges? 17 Are not thy garments hot, when the south-wind blows upon the earth?

18 Thou perhaps hast made the heavens with him, which are most strong, as if they were of molten brass. 19 Shew us what we may say to him: for we are wrapped up in darkness.

20 Who shall tell him the things I speak? even if a man shall speak, he shall be swallowed up.

21 But now they see not the light: the air on a sudden shall be thickened into clouds, and the wind shall pass and drive them away.

22 Cold cometh out of the north, and to God praise with fear.

23 We cannot find him worthily: he is great in strength, and in judgment, and in justice, and he is ineffable.

24 Therefore men shall fear him, and all that seem to themselves to be wise, shall not dare to behold him.

CHAP. XXXVIII.

God interposes and shews from the things he hath made, that man cannot comprehend his power and wisdom. THEN the Lord answered Job out of a whirlwind, and said:

2 Who is this that wrappeth up sentences in

CHAP. XLII.

Job submits himself. God pronounces in his favour. Job offers sacrifice for his friends. He is blessed with riches and children, and dies happily.

CHAP. XLI. Ver. 16. Angels. Ellin, Hebrew: which signifies here, the mighty, the most valiant, shall feat this monstrous fish, and in their fear shall seek to be purified.

Ver 2t. Under him. He shall not value the Leame of Ver 2t. Under him. He shall be like mire.
Ver. 23. The deep as growing old. Growing hoary as it were, with the froth which he leaves behind him.
Ver. 25. He is king, &c. He is superior in strength and that are great and strong amongst living ereatures; mystically, it is understood of the devil, who is king over all the proud.

THEN Job answered the Lord, and said:
2 I know that thou canst do all things, and no thought is hid from thee.

3 Who is this that hideth counsel without knowledge? Therefore I have spoken unwisely, and things that above measure exceeded my knowledge.

4 Hear, and I will speak: I will ask thee, and do thou tell me.

5 With the hearing of the ear, I have heard thee, but now my eye seeth thee.

6 Therefore I reprehend myself, and do penance in dust and ashes.

- 7 And after the Lord had spoken these words to Job, he said to Eliphaz the Themanite: My wrath is kindled against thee, and against thy two friends, because you have not spoken the thing that is right before me, as my servant Job hath.
- 8 Take unto you therefore seven oxen, and seven rams, and go to my servant Job, and offer for yourselves a holocaust: and my servant Job shall pray for you: his face I will accept, that folly be not imputed to you: for you have not spoken right things before me, as my servant Job hath.

9 So Eliphaz the Themanite, and Baldad the Suhite, and Sophar the Naamathite went, and did as the Lord had spoken to them, and the Lord accepted the face of Job.

10 The Lord also was turned at the penauco of Job, when he prayed for his friends. And the Lord gave Job twice as much as he had before.

11 And all his brethren came to him, and all his sisters, and all that knew him before, and they eat bread with him in his house: and bemoaned him, and comforted him upon all the evil that God had brought upon him. And every man gave him one ewe, and one ear-ring of gold.

12 And the Lord blessed the latter end of Job more than his beginning. And he had fourteen thousand sheep, and six thousand camels, and a thousand yoke of oxen, and a thousand she-asses.

13 And he had seven sons, and three daughters.

14 And he called the name of one Dies, and the name of the second Cassia, and the name of the third Cornustibij.

15 And there were not found in all the earth women so beautiful as the daughters of Job: and their father gave them inheritance among their brethren.

16 And Job lived after these things, a hundred and forty years, and he saw his children, and his children's children, unto the fourth generation, and he died an old man, and fall of days.

BOOK OF PSALMS.

Psains are called by the Hebrews Tehlelim, that is, hymns of praise. The author, of a great part of them at least, was king David: but many are of opinion that some of them were made by Asaph, and others, whose names are profixed in the titles.

PSALM I. Beatus vir.

Pre-happiness of the just: and the evil state of the wicked.

Pressed is the man who hath not walked in the counsel of the ungodly, nor stood in the way of sinners, nor sat in the chair of pestilence.

2 * But his will is in the law of the Lord, and on his kaw he shall meditate day and night.

3 † And he shall be like a tree which is planted near the running waters, which shall bring forth its fruit, in due season.

And his leaf shall not fall off: and all what-30ever he shall do shall prosper.

4 Not so the wicked, not so: but like the dust, which the wind driveth from the face of the earth.

5 Therefore the wicked shall not rise again in judgment: nor sinners in the council of the just.
6 For the Lord knoweth the way of the just:

and the way of the wicked shall perish.

LORD my God, in thee have I put my trust: save me from all them that persecute me, and deliver me.

3 Lest at any time he seize upon my soul like Alion, while there is no one to redeem me, nor to save.

4 O Lord my God, if I have done this thing,

if there be iniquity in my hands:

5 If I have rendered to them that repaid me ovils, let me deservedly fall empty before my enemics.

6 Let the enemy pursue my soul, and take it, and tread down my life on the earth, and bring down my glory to the dust.

7 Rise up, O Lord, in thy anger: and be thou exalted in the borders of my enemies.

And arise, O Lord my God, in the precept which thou hast commanded: 8 and a congregation of people shall surround thee.

And for their sakes return thou on aigh.

9 The Lord judgeth the people.

5 For thou hast maintained my judgmen and my cause: thou hast sat on the throne, whr judgest justice.

6 Thou hast rebuked the Gentiles, and the wicked one hath perished: thou hast blotted out their name for ever and ever.

7 The swords of the enemy have failed unto the end: and their cities thou hast destroyed. Their memory hath perished with a noise:

3 But the Lord remaineth for ever.

He hath prepared his throne in judgment: 9 and he shall judge the world in equity, he shall judge the people in justice.

10 And the Lord is become a refuge for the poor: a helper in due time in tribulation.

11 And let them trust in thee who know thy name: for thou hast not forsaken them that seek thee, O Lord.

12 Sing ye to the Lord, who dwelleth in Sion:

declare his ways among the Gentiles:

13 For requiring their blood he hath remembered them; he hath not forgotten the cry of the poor.

14 Have mercy on me, O Lord: see my humiliation which I suffer from my enemies.

15 Thou that liftest me up from the gates of death, that I may declare all thy praises in the gates of the daughter of Sion.

16 I will rejoice in thy salvation: the Gentiles have stuck fast in the destruction which they prepared.

Their foot hath been taken in the very snan which they hid.

17 The Lord shall be known when he executeth judgments: the sinner hath been caught it the works of his own hands.

18 The wicked shall be turned into hell, all the nations that forget God.

19 For the poor man shall not be forgotten to the end: the patience of the poor shall not perish for ever.

PSALM XVII.

Diligam te, Domine.

David's thunks to God for his delivery from all his enemies. 1 Unto the end, for David the servant of the Lord, whe spoke to the Lord the words of this canticle, in the day that the Lord delivered him from the hands of all his enemies, and from the hand of Saul. [2 Kings xxii.]

WILL love thee, O Lord, my strength: 3 The Lord is my firmament, my refuge, and my deliverer.

* My God is my helper, and in him will I put my trust.

My protector and the horn of my salvation, and my support.

4 Praising I will call upon the Lord: and I shall be saved from my enemics. 5 The sorrows of death surrounded me: and the torrents of iniquity troubled me. 6 The sorrows of hell encompassed me; and the snares of death prevented me. 7 In my affliction I called upon the Lord, and

I cried to my God:

And he heard my voice from his holy temple: and my cry before him came into his ears.

8 The earth shook and trembled: the foundations of the mountains were troubled and were moved, because he was angry with them.

9 There went up a smoke in his wrath: and a fire flamed from his face: coals were kindled by it.

10 He bowed the heavens, and came down:

and darkness was under his feet.

11 And he ascended upon the cherubim, and he flew upon the wings of the winds.

12 And he made darkness his covert, his pavilion round about him: dark waters in the clouds of the air.

13 At the brightness that was before him the cionds passed, hail and coals of fire.

14 And the Lord thundered from heaven, and the highest gave his voice: hail and coals of fire.

15 And he sent forth his arrows, and he scattered them: he multiplied lightnings, and troubled them.

16 Then the fountains of waters appeared, and the foundations of the world were discovered:

At thy rebuke, O Lord, at the blast of the spirit of thy wrath.

17 He sent from on high, and took me: and received me out of many waters.

18 He delivered me from my strongest enemies, and from them that hated me: for they were too strong for me.

19 They prevented me in the day of my affliction: and the Lord became my protector.

20 And he brought me forth into a large place: he saved me, because he was well pleased with me.

21 And the Lord will reward me according to my justice: and will repay me according to the cleanness of my hands:

22 Because I have kept the ways of the Lord; and have not done wickedly against my God.

23 For all his judgments are in my sight: and his justices I have not put away from me. 24 And I shall be spotless with him: and shall keep myself from my iniquity. 25 And the Lord will reward me according of my hands before his eyes.

26 With the holy, thou wilt be holy; and with the innocent man thou wilt be innocent:

27 And with the elect thou wilt be elect: and with the perverse thou wilt be perverted.

28 For thou wilt save the humble people but wilt bring down the eyes of the proud.

29 For thou lightest my lamp, O Lord: O my God, enlighten my darkness.

30 For by thee I shall be delivered from temptation; and through my God I shall go over a wall.

21 As for my God, his way is undefiled: the words of the Lord are fire-tried: he is the pro tector of all that trust in him.

32 For who is God but the Lord? or who is God but our God?

33 God who hath girt me with strength; and made my way blameless.

34 † Who hath made my feet like the feet of harts: and who setteth me upon high places.

35 $ Who teacheth my hands to war: and thou hast made my arms like a brazen bow.

36 And thou hast given me the protection of thy salvation: and thy right hand hath held me up:

Aul thy discipline hath corrected me unto the end: and thy discipline, the same shall teach me.

37 Thou hast enlarged my steps under me, and my feet are not weakened.

38 I will pursue after my enemies, and overtake them: and I will not turn again till they are consumed.

39 I will break them, and they shall not be able to stand: they shall fall under my feet.

40 And thou hast girded me with strength unto battle; and hast subdued under me them that rose up against me-

41 And thou hast made my enemies turn their back upon ms, and hast destroyed them that hated me.

42 They cried, but there was none to save them, to the Lord: but he heard them not.

43 And I shall beat them as small as the dust before the wind; I shall bring them to nought, like the dirt in the streets.

44 Thou wilt deliver me from the contradictions of the people: thou wilt make me head of the Gentiles.

45 A people, which I knew not, hath served me: at the hearing of the ear they have obeyed

46 The children that are strangers have lied to me, strange children have faded away, and have halted from their paths.

The Lord liveth, and blessed be my God, and let the God of my salvation be exalted.

48 O God, who avengest me, and subduest the people under me, my deliverer from my enemies.

49 § And thou wilt lift me up above them that rise up against me: from the unjust man thou wilt deliver me.

50 | Therefore will I give glory to thee, O Lord, among the nations, and I will sing a psalm to thy name.

51 Giving great deliverance to his king, and shewing mercy to David his anointed: and to his seed for ever.

PSALM XVIII.

Cell enarrant.
The works of God shew forth his glory: his law is greatly to be extermed and loved.

1 Unto the end. A psalm for David. 309

THE heavens shew forth the glory of God. and the firmament declareth the work of cis hands.

3 Day to day attereth speech, and night to night sheweth knowledge.

4 There are no speeches nor languages, where their voices are not heard.

5 * Their sound hath gone forth into all the earth; and their words unto the ends of the world.

6 He hath set his tabernacle in the sun: † and he as a bridegroom coming out of his bride chamber,

Hath rejoiced as a giant to run the way. 7 His going out is from the end of heaven,

And his circuit even to the end thereof: and there is no one that can hide himself from his feat.

8 The law of the Lord is unspotted, convertmg sculs: the testimony of the Lord is faithful, giving wisdom to little ones.

9 The justices of the Lord are right, rejoicing hearts: the commandment of the Lord is light-ome, enlightening the eyes.

10 The fear of the Lord is holy, enduring for ever and ever: the judgments of the Lord are true justified in themselves.

11. More to be desired than gold and many precious stones: and sweeter than honey and the honey-comb.

12 For thy servant keepeth them, and in Eseping them there is a great reward.

13 Who can understand sins? frem my searet ones cleanse me, O Lord: 14 and from those

A prayer for the king.

Unto the end. A psalm for David. AY the Lord hear thee in the day of tribulation: may the name God of Jacob protect thee.

3 May he send thee help from the sanctuary : and defend thee out of Sion.

4 May he be mindful of all thy sacrifices: and may thy whole burnt-offering be made fat.

5 May he give thee according to thy own beart: and confirm all thy counsels.

6 We will rejoice in thy salvation; and in the name of our God we shall be exalted.

7 The Lord fulfil all thy petitions: now have I snown that the Lord hath saved his anointed.

PSALM XX.

Domine, in virtute,
Praise to God for Christ's exaltation after asis passion. 1 Unto the end. A psalm for David.

In the strength, O Lord, the king shall joy; and in thy salvation he shall rejoice exceedingly.

3 Thou hast given him his heart's desire: and hast not withholden from him the will of his lips.

4 For thou hast prevented him with blessings of sweetness: thou hast set on his head a crown of precious stones.

5 He asked life of thee: and thou hast giron him length of days for ever and ever.

6 His glory is great in thy salvation: glory and great beauty shalt thou lay upon him.

7 For thou shalt give him to be a blessing for ever and ever: thou shalt make him joyful in giadness with thy countenance.

8 For the king hopeth in the Lord: and through the mercy of the most High he chall not be moved.

9 Let thy hand be found by all thy enemics: let thy right hand find out ail them that hate thee.

10 Thou shalt make them as an oven of tre in the time of thy anger: the Lord shall trouble them in his wrath, and fire shall devour them.

II Their fruit shalt thou destroy from the earth: and their seed from among the children of men.

12 For they have intended evils against thee: they have devised counsels which they have not been able to establish.

13 For theu shalt make them turn their back: in thy remnants thou shalt prepare their face.

14 Be thou exalted, O Lord, in thy own strength: we will sing and praise tuy power.

For thou hast regarded my humility, thou hast saved my soul out of distresses.

9 And thou hast not shut me up in the hands of the enemy: thou hast set my feet in a spa, clous place.

10 Have mercy on me, O Lord, for I am afflieted: my eye is troubled with wrath, my soul, and my belly:

11 For my life is wasted with grif: and my years in sighs.

My strength is weakened through poverty, and my bones are disturbed. 12 l'am become a reproach among all my enemics, and very much to my neighbours; and a fear to my acquaintance.

They that saw me without fled from me. I am forgottten as one dead from the heart.

I am become as a vessel that is destroyed. 14 For I have heard the blame of many that dwell round about.

While they assemble together against me, they consulted to take away my life.

15 But I have put my trust in thee, O Lord: I said: Thou art my God. 16 My lots are in thy hands.

Deliver me out of the hands of my enemics; and from them that persecute me.

17 Make thy face to shine upon thy servant, save me in thy mercy.

18 Let me not be confounded, O Lord, for L have called upon thee.

Let the wicked be ashamed, and be brought down to hell. 19 Let deceitful lips be made dumb.

Which speak iniquity against the just, with pride and atuse.

20 O now great is the multitude of thy sweetness, O Lord, which thou hast hidden for them that fear thee!

PSALM XXVIII. Ver. 6. Stall reduce them to pieces, &c. In Pebrew, shall make them to skip like a calf. The psalmist here describes the effects of thunder (which he ealls the volce of the Lord) which sometimes breaks down the tailest and strongest trees; and makes their broken branches skip, &c. All this is to be understood mystically, of the powerful voice of God's word in his shurch; which hims broke the pride of the great ones of this world, and brought many of them meekly and joyfally to submit their necks to the sweet yoke of Christ.

Which thou hast wrought for them that hope in thee, in the sight of the sons of men.

21 Thou shalt hide them in the secret of thy Ace, from the disturbance of men.

Thou shalt protect them in thy tabernacle from the contradiction of tongues. 22 Blessed be the Lord, for he hath shewn his wonderful mercy to me in a fortified city. 23 But I said in the excess of my mind: I am cast away from before thy eyes. Therefore thou hast heard the voice of my prayer, when i cried to thee.

24 O love the Lord, all ye his saints: for the Lord will require truth, and will repay them abundantly that act proudly.

25 Do ye manfully, and let your heart be Sirengthened, all ye that hope in the Lord.

Exultate, justi.

a exhortation to praise God, and to trust in him.

1 A psalm for David.

That is, I turn and roil about in my bed, to seek for ease in my pain, whilst the thorn of thy justice pierces my flesh, and sileks fast in me. Or I am turned; that Is, I am converted to thee my God, by being brought to a better understanding by thy chastisements. In the Hebrew It is, my moisture is meaned into the droughts of the runner

3 Sing to him a new canticle, sing we'l unto him with a loud noise.

4 For the word of the Lord is right, and all his works are done with faithfulness.

5 He loveth mercy and judgment; the earth is full of the mercy of the Lord.

6 By the word of the Lord the heavens were established; and all the power of them by the spirit of his mouth:

7 Gathering together the waters of the sea, as in a vessel; laying up the depths in store-houses.

8 Let all the earth fear the Lord, and let all the inhabitants of the world be in awe of him. 9 $ For he spoke and they were made: he commanded and they were created.

10 The Lord bringeth to nought the ceunsels of nations; and he rejecteth the devices of people, and casteth away the counsels of princes. 11 But the counsel of the Lord standeth for ever: the thoughts of his heart to all generations. 12 Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord: the people whom he hath chosen for his inheritance.

13 The Lord hath looked from heaven: lie hath beheld all the sons of men.

14 From his habitation which he hath prepared, he hath looked upon all that dwell on the earth. 15 He who hath made the hearts of every one of them: who understandeth all their works.

16 The king is not saved by a great army: nor shall the giant be saved by his own great strength.

17 Vain is the horse for safety: neither shall he be saved by the abundance of his strength.

18 Behold the eyes of the Lord are on them that fear him: and on them that hope in his mercy.

Benedicam Dominum.

An exhortation to the praise, and service of God. 1 For David when he changed his countenance before Achimelech, who dismissed him, and he went his way. [1 Kings, xxi.]

WILL bless the Lord at all times, his praise shall be always in my mouth. 3 In the Lord shall my soul be praised; let the meek hear and rejoice. 4 O magnify the Lord with me; and let us extol his name together. 5 I sought the Lord, and he heard me; and he delivered me from all my troubles. 6 Come ye to him and be enlightered: and your faces shall not be confounded. 7 This poor man cried, and the Lord heard him: and saved him out of all his troubles. 8 The angel of the Lord shall encamp round is no want to them that fear him.

11 § The rich have wanted, and have suffered hunger: but they that seek the Lord shall not be deprived of any good.

12 Come, children, hoarken to me: I will teach you the fear of the Lord.

13 * Who is the man that desireth life: who loveth to see good days?

14 Keep thy tongue from evil, and thy lips I'm speaking guile.

15 Turn away from evil and do good: seek after peace and pursue it.

16 The eyes of the Lord are † upon the just:

and his ears unto their prayers.

17 But the countenance of the Lord is against them that do evil things: to cut off the remembrance of them from the earth.

18 The just cried, and the Lord heard them: and delivered them out of all their troubles.

19 The Lord is nigh unto them that are of 2 contrite heart: and he will save the humble of spirit.

20 Many are the afflictions of the just; but out of them all will the Lord deliver them.

21 The Lord keepeth all their bones, not one

23 The Lord will redeem the souls of his servants: and none of them that trust in him shall offend.

shall fall upon them.

1 For David himself.

PSALM XXXV.

Dixit injustus. The malice of sinners, and the goodness of God. 1 Unto the end, for the servent of God David himself.

2 THE unjust hath said within himself, that he would sin; there is no fear of God before his eyes.

3 | For in his sight le hath done deceifully, that his iniquity may be found unto hatred.

4 The words of his mouth are iniquity and guile: he would not understand that he migh do well.

hands; nor condemn him when he shall be judged. 34 Expect the Lord and keep his way: and he will exalt thee to inherit the land; when the sinners shall perish thou shalt see.

35 I have seen the wicked highly exalted, and lifted up like the cedars of Libanus.

36 And I passed by, and lo he was not: and I sought him and his place was not found.

37 Keep innocence, and behold justice; for there are remnants for the peaceable man.

38 But the unjust shall be destroyed together: the remnants of the wicked shall perish.

I A psalm of a canticle, for the sons of Core on the second day of the week.

REAT is the Lord, and exceedingly to be praised in the city of our God, in his poly mountain.

3 With the joy of the whole earth is mount Sion founded, on the sides of the north, the city of the great king.

4 In her houses shall God be known, when ne shall protect her.

5 For behold the kings of the earth assembled themselves: they gathered together.

6 So they saw, and they wondered, they were troubled, they were moved: 7 trembling took bold of them.

There were pains as of a woman in labour. 8 With a vehement wind thou shalt break in pieces the ships of Thursis.

9 As we have heard, so have we seen, in the city of the Lord or hosts, in the city of our God: God hath founded it for ever.

10 We have received thy mercy, O God, in the midst of thy temple.

11 According to thy name, O God, so also is thy praise unto the ends of the earth: thy right hand is full of justice,

12 Let mount Sion rejoice, and the daughters of Juda be glad; because of thy judgments O

Lord.

13 Surround Sion, and encompass her: tell ye in her towers.

14 Set your hearts on her strength; and distribute her houses, that ye may relate it in another generation.

8 He abideth for ever in the sight of God: his mercy and truth who shall search?

9 So will I sing a psalm to thy name for ever and ever: that I may pay my vows from day to dey.

PSALM LXL

Nonne Den. The prophet encourageth himself and all others to trust in God, and serve him.

1 Unto the end, for Idithun, a psalm of David. SHALL not my soul be subject to God? for from him is my salvation.

3 For he is my God and my saviour: he is my protector, I shall be moved no more.

4 How long do you rush in upon a man? you all kill, as if you were thrusting down a leaning wall, and a tottering fence.
5 But, they have thought to cast away my price, I ran in thirst: they blessed with their mouth, but cursed with their heart.

6 But be thou, O my soul, subject to God: for from him is my patience. 7 For he is my God and my saviour: he is my helper, I shall not be moved. 8 In God is my salvation and my glory he is the God of my help, and my hope is in God. 9 Trast in him, all ye congregation of people: our out your hearts before him; God is our heiper for ever.

10 But vain are the sons of men, the sons of men are liars in the balances: Liat by varity they may together deceive.

The prophet aspireth after God.

1 A psalm of David when he was in the deser of Edom.

GOD my God, to thee do I watch at break of day.

For thee my soul hath thirsted; for thee m flesh, O how many ways !

3 In a desert land, and where there is no way and no water: so in the sanctuary have I com before thee, to see thy power and thy glory.

4 For thy mercy is better than lives: theem lips shall praise.

5 Thus will I bless thee all my life long: at in thy name I will lift up my hands.

6 Let my soul be filled as with marrow at fatness: and my mouth shall praise thee w. joyful lips.

I If I have remembered thee upon my bed.

will meditate on thee in the morning; 8 Because thou hast been my helper.

And I will rejoice under the covert of thy wings: 9 my soul hath stuck close to thee: thy right hand hath received me.

10 But they have sought my soul in vain, they shall go into the lower parts of the earth: 11 They shall be delivered into the hands of the sword, they shall be the portions of foxes.

12 But the king shall rejoice in God, all they shall be praised that swear by him: because the mouth is stopped of them that speak wicked things.

PSALM LXIII.

Exaudi, Deus, orationem.

4 prayer in afficion, with confidence in God that he will bring to nought the muchinations of persecutors.

1 Unto the end, a psalm for David.

HEAR, O God, my prayer, when I make supplication to thee; deliver my soul from the fear of the enemy.

3 Thou hast protected me from the assembly of the malignant; from the multitude of the workers of iniquity.

4 For they have whetted their tongues like a sword; they have bent their bow a bitter thing, 5 to shoot in secret the undefiled.

6 They will shoot at him on a sudden, and will not fear: they are resolute in wickedness.

They have talked of hiding snarcs; they have said: Who shall see them?

7 They have searched after iniquities: they have failed in their search.

A psalm for Asaph.

Tow good is God to Israel, to them that are of a right heart!

2 But my feet were almost moved; my steps had well nigh slipt.

3 Lecause I had a zeal on occasion of the wicked, seeing the prosperity of sinners.

4 For there is no regard to their death, nor is there strength in their stripes.

5 They are not in the labour of men: neither shall they be scourged like other men.

6 Therefore pride hath held them fast: they are covered with their iniquity and their wick-

7 Their iniquity hath come forth, as it were from fatness: they have passed into the affection of the heart.

8 They have thought and spoken wickedness.

they have spoken iniquity on high.

9 They have set their mouth against heaven, and their tongue hath passed through the earth.

10 Therefore will my people return here: and full days shall be found in them.

11 And they said: How doth God know ? and is their knowledge in the Most High?

12 Behold these are sinners; and yet abound ing in the world they have obtained riches.

13 And I said: Then have I in vain justified my heart, and washed my hands among the in nocent.

21 For my heart hath been inflamed, and my reins have been changed: 22 and I am brought to nothing, and I knew not.

23 I am become as a beast before thee: and

I am always with thee.

24 Thou hast held me by my right hand; and by thy will thou hast conducted me, and with thy glory thou hast received me.

25 For what have I in heaven? and besides thee what do I desire upon earth?

26 For thee my flesh and my heart hath ainted away: thou art the God of my heart, and the God that is my pertion for ever.

Ord's great benefits to the people of Israel, notwithstanding their ingrasitude.

1 Understanding for Asaph.

TTEND, O my people, to my law: incline 1 your ears to the words of my month.

2 I will open my mouth in parables: I will utter propositions from the beginning.

3 How great things have we heard and known, and our fathers have told us.

4 They have not been hidden from their children, in another generation. Declaring the praises of the Lord, and bis powers, and his wonders which he hath done. 5 And he set up a testimony in Jacob: and made a law in Israel.

How great things he commanded our fatherthat they should make the same known to their children: 6 that another generation might know

The children that should be born and should rise up, and declare them to their children.

7 That they may put their hope in God, and may not forget the works of God: and may seek his commandments.

8 That they may not become like their fathers, a perverse and exasperating generation.

A generation that set not their heart aright;

and whose spirit was not faithful to God.

9 The sons of Ephraim who bend and shoot with the bow: they have turned back in the day of battle.

10 They kept not the covenant of God: and in his law they would not walk.

11 And they forgot his benefits, and his wonders that he had shewn them.

12 Wonderful things did he do in the sight o their fathers, in the land of Egypt, in the field of Tanis. 13 † He divided the sea and brought them through: and he made the waters to stand as in a vessel. 14 And he conducted them with a cloud by day: and all the night with a light of fire.

15 $ He struck the rock in the wilderness and gave them to drink, as out of the great deep.

16 He brought forth water out of the rock: and made streams to run down as rivers.

17 And they added yet more sin against him: they provoked the most High to wrath in the piace without water.

18 And they tempted God in their hearts, by asking meat for their desires.

19 And they spoke ill of God: they said: Can God furnish a table in the wilderness?

20 Because he struck the rock, and the waters gushed out, and the streams overflowed.

Can he also give bread, or provide a table for ais people?

21 * Therefore the Lord heard, and was anery: and a fire was kindled against Jacob, and wrath came up against Israel.

22 Because they believed not in God: and trusted not in his salvation.

23 And he had commanded the clouds from above, and had opened the doors of heaven.

24 † And had rained down manna upon them to eat, and had given them the bread of heaven.

25 1 Man eat the bread of angels: he sent them provisions in abundance.

26 § He removed the south wind from heaven: and by his power brought in the southwest wind.

27 And he rained upon them flesh as dust: and feathered fowls like as the sand of the sea.

28 And they fell in the midst of their camp, round about their pavilions.

29 So they did eat, and were filled exceedingly, and he gave them their desire: 30 they were not defrauded of that which they craved. As yet their meat was in their mouth: 31 and the wrath of God came upon them.

And he slew the fat ones amongst them, and brought down the chosen men of Israel.

32 In all these things they sinned still: and they believed not for his wondrous works.

33 And their days were consumed in vanity, and their years in haste. 34 When he slew them, then they sought him: and they returned, and came to him early in the morning.

35 And they remembered that God was their telper: and the most high God their redeemer. 36 And they loved him with their mouth: and with their tongue they lied unto him:

37 But their heart was not right with him: nor were they counted faithful in his covenant.

38 But he is merciful, and will forgive their sins: and will not destroy them.

And many a time did he turn away his anger:

and did not kindle all his wrath.

39 And he remembered that they are flesh:

a wind that goeth and returneth not

40 How often did they provoke him in the desert : and move him to wrath in the place without water?

LORD, the God of my salvation: I have cried in the day, and in the night before thee.

3 Let my prayer come in before thee: incline thy ear to my petition.

4 For my soul is filled with evils: and my life hath drawn nigh to hell.

5 I am counted among them that go down to the pit: I am become as a man without help, 6 free among the dead.

Like the slain sleeping in the sepulchres, whom thou rememberest no more: and they are east off from thy hand.

7 They have laid me in the lower pit: in the dark places, and in the shadow of death. 8 Thy wrath is strong over me: and all thy waves thou hast brought in upon me. 9 Thou hast put away my acquaintance f 1 from me: they have set me an abomination to themselves

I was delivered up, and came not forth. 10 my eyes languished through poverty.

But as this psalm evidently relates to Christ, and the new testament, where the ark has no place, the holy fathers understand this text, of the worship paid by the church to the body and blood of Christ in the sacred mysteries; inasmuch as the lumanity of Christ is, as it were, the footstool of the divinity. So St. Ambrose, L. 3. De Spirith Sancto, e. 12. And St. Augustine upon this psalm.

PSALM C

Misericordiam et judicium. The prophet exhorteth all by his example, to follow mercy and justice.

1 A psalm for David himself.

MERCY and judgment I will sing to thee, O Lord:

1 will sing, 2 and I will understand in the unspotted way, when thou shalt come to me.

I walked in the innocence of my heart, in the midst of my house.

3 I did not set before my eyes any unjust thing: I hated the workers of iniquities.

4 The perverse heart did not cleave to me: and the malignant, that turned aside from me, I would not know.

5 The man that in private detracted his peighoour, him did I persecute.

With him that had a proud eye, and an un-satiable heart, I would not eat.

6 My eyes were upon the faithful of the earth, to sit with me: the man that walked in the perfect way, he served me.

7 He that worketh pride shall not dwell in the midst of my house: he that speaketh unjust things did not prosper before my eyes.

8 In the morning I put to death all the wicked of the land: that I might cut off all the workers ofiniquity from the city of the Lord.

PSALM CVIII.

Deux, hauden meam
David in the person of Christ prayeth against his persocutors; n-re especially the trailor Judas; fortelling and approving his just munishment for his obstinacy in sin, and final impenitence.

1 Unto the end, a psalm for David. GOD, be not thou silent in my praise: for the mouth of the wicked and the mouth of the deceitful man is opened against

3 They have spoken against me with deceitful tongues; and they have compassed me about with words of hatred; and have fought against me without cause.

4 Instead of making me a return of love, they detracted me: but I gave myself to prayer. 5 And they repaid me evil for good: and hatred for my love 6 Set thou the sinner over him: and may the devil stand at his right hand.

7 When he is judged, may he go out condemned; and may his prayer be turned to sin

8 May his days be few: and his bishopric let another take.

9 May his children be fatherless, and his wife a widow.

10 Let his children be carried about vagabonds, and beg; and let them be cast out of their dwellings.

11 May the usurer search all his substance and let strangers plunder his labours.

12 May there be none to help him; nor non to pity his fatherless offspring.

13 May his posterity be cut off; in one gene ration may his name be blotted out.

14 May the iniquity of his fathers be reme.

bered in Diesight of the Lord: and let not the Ein of his mether be blotted out.

15 May they be before the Lord continually, and let the memory of them perish from the earth: 16 because he remembered not to show

17 But persecuted the poor man and the beg. gar; and the broken in heart, to put him to death.

18 And he loved cursing, and it shall come anto lifm; and he would not have blessing, and It shall be far from him.

And he put on cursing, like a garment: and it went in like water into his entrails, and like oil in his bones.

19 May it be unto him like a garment which covereth him; and like a girdle with which he is girded continually.

20 This is the work of them who detract me before the Lord; and who speak evils against my soul

21 But thou, O Lord, do with me for thy name's sake: because thy mercy is sweet. Do then deliver me, 22 for I am poor and needy, and my heart is troubled within me. 23 I am taken away like the shadow when it declineth: and I am shaken off as locusts.

24 My knees are weakened through fasting:

and my flesh is changed for oil.

25 And I am become a reproach to them: they saw me and they shaked their heads.

26 Help me, O Lord my God: save me according to thy mercy.

27 And let them know that this is thy hand: and that thou, O Lord, hast done it.

28 They will curse and thou wilt bless: let them that rise up against me be confounded: but thy servant shall rejoice.

29 Let them that detract me be clothed with shame: and let them be covered with their confusion as with a double cloak.

30 I will give great thanks to the Lord with my month; and in the midst of many I will praise him.

31 Because he hath stood at the right hand of the poor, to save my soul from persecutors.

PSALM CIX. Dixit Domlnus.

Christ's exaltation, and everlusting Priesthood.

1 A psalm of David.

THE * Lord said to my Lord: Sit thou at my right hand:

t Until I make thy enemies thy footstool. 2 The Lord will send forth the sceptre of thy power out of Sion: rule thou in the midst of thy enemies.

3 With thee is the principality in the day of thy strength; in the brightness of the saints:

from the womb before the day-star I begot thee. 4 The Lord hath sworn, and he will not reent: ! Thou art a priest for ever according to he order of Melchisedech.

134 Redeem me from the calumnies of mon: that I may keep thy commandments.

135 Make thy face to shine upon thy servant: and teach mo thy justifications.

136 My eyes have sent forth springs of water: because they have not kept thy law.

SADE.

137 Thou art just, O Lord: and thy judgment is right.

138 Thou hast commanded justice thy testimonies: and thy truth exceedingly.

139 My zeal hath made me pine away: because my enemies forgot thy words.

140 Thy word is exceedingly refined: and thy servant hath loved it.

141 I am very young and despised; but I forget not thy justifications.

142 Thy justice is justice for ever: and thy law is the truth.

155 Salvation is far from sinners; because they have not cought thy satisfications.

156 Many, O Lord, are thy mercies; quicken me according to thy judgment.

157 Many are they that persecute me, and afflict me; but I have not declined from thy testimonies.

158 I beheld the transgressors, and I pined away; because they kept not thy word.

159 Behold I have loved thy commandments,

O Lord; quicken me thou in thy mercy. 160 The beginning of thy words is truth: all the judgments of thy justice are for ever.

SIN.

161 Princes have persecuted me without cause: and my heart hath been in awe of thy words.

162 I will rejoice at thy words, as one that hath found great spoil.

163 I have hated and abhorred iniquity; but I have loved thy law.

164 Seven times a day I have given praise to thee, for the judgments of thy justice. 165 Much peace have they that love thy law; and to them there is no stumbling-block. 166 I looked for thy salvation, O Lord; and I loved thy commandments.

167 My soul hath kept thy testimonies, and hath loved them exceedingly.

168 I have kept thy commandments and thy testimonies; because all my ways are in thy sight.

TAU.

169 Let my supplication, O Lord, come near to thy sight: give me understanding according to thy word.

170 Let my request come in before thee; de-ever thou me according to thy word.

171 My lips shall utter a hymn, when thou shalt teach me thy justifications. 172 My tongue shall pronounce thy word:

because all thy commandments are justice. 173 Let thy hand be with me to save me: for

I have chosen thy precepts.

174 I have longed for thy salvation, O Lord; and thy law is my meditation.

175 My soul shall live, and shall praise thee: and thy judgments shall help me.
176 I have gone astray like a sheep that is lost: seek thy servant, because I have not forgotten thy commandments.

> PSALM CXIX. Ad Dominum.
> A prayer in tribulation. A gradual canticle.

IN my trouble I cried to the Lord: and he heard me.

2 O Lord, deliver my soul from wicked lips, and a deceitful tengue. 3 What shall be given to thee, or what shall be added to thee, to a deceitful tongue? 4 The sharp arrows of the mighty, with oals that lay waste.

5 Wo is me, that my sojourning is prolonged! PSALM CXIX. A gradual conticle. The following psalms, in number fifteen, are called gradual psalms or canticles. from the word gradus, signifying steps, ascensions, or degrees: either because they were appointed to be sung on the fifteen steps, by which the people ascended to the temple: or, that in the singing of them, the voice was to be raised by certain st ps or ascensions: or, that they were to be sung by the people returning from their captivity and ascending to Jerusalem, which was seated amougst mountains. The holy fathers, in a mystical seense understand these steps, or ascensions, of the degrees by which christians spiritually ascend to virtue and perfection; and to the true temple of God

I have dwelt with the inhabitants of Cedar: & my soul hath been long a sojourner.

T with them that hated peace I was peacegole: when I spoke to them they fought agains: me without cause.

PSALM CXX. Levavi ocules.

God is the keeper of his servants.

A gradual canticle.

HAVE lifted up my eyes to the mountaine, from whence help shall come to me.

2 My help is from the Lord, who made hea ven and earth.

3 May he not suffer thy foot to be moved neither let him slumber that keepeth thee.

4 Behold he shall neither slumber nor sleep, that keepeth Israel.

5 The Lord is thy keeper, the Lord is thy protection upon thy right hand.

6 The sur shall not burn thee by day: not the moon by night.

7 The Lord keepeth thee from all evil: may the Lord keep thy soul.

8 May the Lord keep thy coming in and thy going out; from henceforth now and for ever.

PSALM CXYI.

Lietatus 8 m in his.

The desire and hope of the just for the coming of the kingdom of God, and the peace of his church. A gradual canticle.

REJOICED at the things that were said to me: We shall go into the house of the Lord. 2 Our feet were standing in thy courts, U

Jerusalem. 3 Jerusalem, which is built as a city, which is compact together.

4 For thither did the tribes go up, the tribe. of the Lord; the testimony of Israel, to praise the name of the Lord.

5 Because their scats have sat in judgment, seats upon the house of David.

6 Pray ye for the things that are for the peace of Jerusalem: and abundance for them that love thee. 7 Let peace be in thy strength: and abun dance in thy towers.

8 For the sake of my brethren and of my neighbours, I spoke peace of thee.

9 Because of the house of the Lord our God, I have sought good things for thee

PSALM CXXIL

Ad te levavi.

A prayer in affliction, with confidence in God.

A gradual canticle.

O thee have I lifted up my eyes, who dwellest in heaven.

2 Behold as the eyes of servants are on the hands of their masters,

As the eyes of the hand-maid are on the hands of her mistress: so are our eyes unto the Lord our God, until he have mercy on us. 3 Have mercy on us, O Lord, have mercy or us; for we are greatly filled with contempt.

4 For our soul is greatly filled: we are a repreach to the rich, and contempt to the proud

PSALM CXXIII.

Nisi quia Dominus.

The church giveth glory to God for her deliverance on the hands of her enemies. A gradual canticle.

IF it had not been that the Lord was with us let Israel now say: 2 If it had not been that the Lord was with us,

When men rose up against us 3 perhaps (12) had swallowed us up adve.

When their fury was enkindled against us, 1 perhaps the water had swallowed us up.

5 Our soul hath passed through a torrent: perhaps our soul had passed through a water tusupportable.

6 Blessed be the Lord, who hath not given us to be a prey to their teeth.

7 Our soul hath been delivered, as a sparrow bat of the snare of the fowlers.

The snare is broken, and we are delivered. 8 Our help is in the name of the Lord, who made heaven and earth,

PSALM CXXIV.

Qui confiduct. The just are always under God's protection. A gradual canticle.

THEY that trust in the Lord shall be as mount Sion: he shall not be moved for ever that dwelleth 2 in Jernsalem.

Mountains are round about It: so the Lord is round about his people from henceforth now and for ever.

3 For the Lord will not leave the rod of sinners upon the lot of the just; that the just may not stretch forth their hands to iniquity.

4 Do good, O Lord, to those that are good, and to the upright of heart.

5 But such as turn asi e into bonds, the Lord shall lead out with the workers of iniquity: peace upon Israel.

PSALM CXXV.

In convertendo.

The people of God rejoice at their delivery from captivity. A gradual canticle.

HEN the Lord brought back the captivity of Sion, we became like men comforted.

2 Then was our mouth filled with gladness; and our tongue with joy.

Then shall they say among the Gentiles: The Lord hath done great things for them.

3 The Lord hath done great things for us: we are become joyful.

4 Turn again our captivity, O Lord, as a stream in the south.

5 They that sow in tears shall reap in joy. 6 Going they went and wept, casting their seeds

7 But coming they shall come with joyful-Ress, carrying their sheaves.

PSALM CXXVI.

Nisi Dominus.
Nothing can be done without God's grace and blessing.

A gradual canticle of Solomon.

TNLESS the Lord build the house, they labour in vain that build it.

Unless the Lord keep the city, he watcheth in min that keepeth it.

2 It is vain for you to rise before light: rise e after you have sitten, you that eat the bread f sorrow.

When he shall give sleep to his beloved: 3 ehold the inheritance of the Lord are children: he reward, the fruit of the womb.

4 As arrows in the hand of the mighty so the hildren of them that have been shaken. 5 Blessed is the man that hath filled his dere with them; he shall not be confounded when shall speak to his enemies in the gate.

PSALM CXXVI. Ver. 2. It's vain for you to rise be-re light. That is, your early rising, your labour and rildly solicitude, will be cath, that is, will avail you thing, without the light, grace, and blessing of God

PSALM CXXVIL

Beatt omnes
The fear of God is the way to happinee. A gradual canticle.

B LESSED are all they that fear the Lord; that walk in his ways.

2 For thou shalt eat the labours of thy hands. blessed et thou, and it shall be well with thee,

3 Thy wife as a fruitful vine, on the sides of thy house.

Thy children as olive plants, round about thy table.

4 Behold, thus shall the man be blossed that feareth the Lord.

5 May the Lord bless thee out of Sion: and mayst thou see the good things of Jerusalem all the days of thy life.

6 And mayst thou see thy children's children, peace upon Israel.

PSALM CXXVIIL

The church of God is incincible: her persecutors come : expuznaverunt. nothing. A gradual cantiele.

FTEN have they fought against me from my youth, let Israel now say.

2 Often have they fought against me from my yeuth: but they could not prevail over me.

3 The wicked have wrought upon my back:

they have lengthened their iniquity.

4 The Lord who is just will cut the necks on sinners: 5 let them all be confounded and turned back that hate Sion.

6 Let them be as grass upon the tops of houses: which withereth before it be plucked

7 Wherewith the mower filleth not his hand, nor he that gathereth sheaves, his bosom.

8 And they that passed y have not said: The blessing of the Lord be upon you: we have blessed you in the name of the Lord.

PSALM CXXIX.

De profundis.

A prayer of a sinner, trusting in the mercies of God.

The sixth penicalist pedm.

A gradual cantiele.

UT of the depths I have cried to thee, O Lord: 2 Lord, hear my voice.

Let thy ears be attentive to the voice of my supplication.

3 If thou, O Lord, wilt mark iniquities; Lord who shall stand it?

4 For with thee there is inerciful forgiveness. and by reason of thy law, I have waited for thee, O Lord.

My soul hath relied on his word: 5 my soul hath hoped in the Lord.

6 From the morning watch even until night, let Israel hope in the Lord. 7 Because with the Lord there is mercy: and with him plentiful redemption. 8 And he shall redeem Israel from all his ini-quities.

Memento, Domine.

A grayer for the fulfilling of the promise made to David.

A gradual canticle. LORD, remember David, and all his meekness.

2 How he swore to the Lord, he vowed a vow to the God of Jacob.

3 * If I shall enter into the tabernacle of my house: If I shall go up into the bed wherein I lie: 4 If I shall give sleep to my eyes, or slumber to my eye-lids,

5 Or rest to my temples: nntil I find out a place for the Lord, a tabernacle for the God of Jacob.

6 Behold we have heard of it in Ephrata: we have found it in the fields of the wood. 7 We will go into his tabernacle: we will adore in the place where his feet stood.

8 † Arise, O Lord, into thy resting place: thou and the ark, which tou hast sane-field.

9 Let thy priests be clothed with justice: and let thy saints rejoice.

10 For thy servant David's sake, turn not away the face of thy anointed.

11 The Lord hath sworn truth to David, and he will not make it void: ‡ of the fruit of thy womb I will set upon thy throne.

12 If thy children will keep my covenant, and these my testimonies which I shall teach them: Their children also for evermore shall sit upon thy throne.

13 For the Lord hath chosen Sion: he hath shosen it for his dwelling.

14 This is my rest for ever and ever: here will I dwell for I have chosen it.

15 Blessing I will bless her widow: I will satisfy her poor with bread.

16 I will clothe her priests with salvation: and her saints shall rejoice with exceeding great joy.

17 & There will I bring forth a horn to David: I have prepared a lamp for my anointed.

18 His enemies I will clothe with confusion: but upon him shall my sanctification flourish.

PSALM CXXXII.

Ecce quain bonum.

The happiness of brotherly love and concord.

A gradual cantiele of David.

BEHOLD how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity:

2 Like the precious ointment on the head, that ran down upon the beard, the beard of Aaron,

Which ran down to the skirt of his garment: 3 as the dew of Hermon, which descendeth upon mount Sion.

PSALM CXXXIX. Eripe mo, D. mine.

A prayer to be delivered from the wicked.

1 Unto the end, a psalm of David. ELIVER me, O Lord, from the evil man: rescue me from the unjust man.

3 Who have devised iniquities in their hearts: all the day long they designed battles.

4 * They have sharpened their tongues like a serpent: the venom of asps is under their lips.

5 Keep me, O Lord, from the hand of the wicked: and from unjust men deliver me.

Who have proposed to supplant my steps: 6 the proud have hidden a net for me.

And they have stretched out cords for a snare: they have laid for me a stumbling-block by the viay side.

7 I said to the Lord: Thou art my God: hear, O Lord, the voice of my supplication.

8 O Lord, Lord, the strength of my salvation: thou hast overshadowed my head in the day of battle.

9 Give me not up, O Lord, from my desire to the wicked: they have plotted against me; do not thon forsake me, lest they should triumph.

10 The head of them compassing me about: the labour of their lips shall overwhelm them.

11 Burning coals shall fall upon them; thou wilt cast them down into the fire; in miseries they shall not be able to stand.

12 A man full of tongue shall not be established in the earth: evils shall catch the unjust man unto destruction.

5 I remembered the days of old, I meditated on all thy works: I meditated upon the works of thy hands.

6 I stretched forth my hands to thee: my soul is as earth without water unto thee.

7 Hear me speedly, O Lord: my spirit hath cunted away.

Turn not away thy face from me, lest I be like unto them that go down 'nto the pit. 8 Cause me to hear thy mercy in the morning; for in thee have I hoped.

Make the way known to me, wherein I should walk: for I have lifted up m, soul to thee.

9 Deliver me from my enemies, O Lord, to thee have I fied: 10 teach me to do thy will, for thou art my God.

Thy good spirit shall lead me into the right land: 11 for thy Lame's sake, O Lord, thou wilt quicken me in thy justice.

Thou wilt bring my soul out of trouble: 12 and in thy mercy thou wilt destroy my

PSALM CXLV.

Lauda, anima.
We cre tut to trust in men, but in God alone, 1 Alleluia, of Aggecs and Zachar's DRAISE* the Lord, Omy soul, in my life I will praise the Lord: I will sing to my God as long as I shall be.

Put not your trust in princes: 3 in the children of men, in whom there is no salvation.

4 His spirit shall go forth, and he shall return into his earth: ir that day all their thoughts shall perish.

5 Blessed is he who hath the God of Jacob for his helper, whose hope is in the Lord his God: 6t who made heaven and earth, the sea, and all things that are in them.

Who keepeth truth for ever, who executeth judgment for them that suffer wrong: who giveth food to the nungry.

The Lord looseth them that are fettered: 8

the Lord enlighteneth the blind.

The Lord lif eth up them that are cast down; the Lord loveth the just.

9 The Lord keepeth the strangers, he will support the fatherless and the widow; and the ways of sinners he will destroy.

10 The Lord shall reign for ever; thy God, O Sion, unto generation and generation.

PSALM CXLVI. Laudate Dominum.

An exhortation to praise God for his benefits.

BOOK OF PROVERBS.

This Book is so called, because it consists of wise and weighty sentences: regulating the morals of men: and directing them to wisdom and virtue. And these sentences are also called PARABLES, because great truths are often couched them under extain figures and similitudes.

CHAP. I.

The use and end of the proverbs. An exhariation to Ace the company of the wicked: and to hearken to the voice

HE parables of Solomon, the son of David. king of Israel.

2 To know wisdom, and Instruction:

3 To understand the words of prudence: and to receive the instruction of doctrine, justice, and judgment, and equity.

4 To give subtilty to little ones, to the young man knowledge and understanding.

- b A wise man snall near and shall be wisor: and he that understandeth, shall possess governments.
- 6 He shall understand a parable, and the interpretation, the words of the wise, and their mysterious sayings.

7 * The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom. Fools despise wisdom and instruction.

8 My son, hear the instruction of thy father, and forsake not the law of thy mother: 9 That grace may be added to thy head, and a chain of gold to thy neck. 10 My son, if sinne.s shall entice thee, consent not to them. 11 If they shall say: Come with us, let us lie in wait for blood, let us hide snares for the innocent without cause: 12 Let us swallow him up alive like hell, and whole as one that goeth down into the pit. 13 We shall find all precious substance, we shall fill our houses with spoils.

14 Cast in thy lot with us: let us all have one purse.

15 My son, walk not thou with them, restrain thy foot from their paths. 16 † For their feet run to evil, and make isste to shed blood.

17 But a net is spread in vain before the wes of them that have wings.

18 And they themselves lie in wait for their wn blood, and practise deceits against their wn souls.

19 So the ways of every covetous man detroy the souls of the possessors.

20 Wisdom preacheth abroad, she uttereth er voice in the streets:

- 21 At the head of multitudes she crieth out in the entrance of the gates of the city she attereth her words, saying:
- 22 O children, how long will you love childishness, and fools covet those things which are hurtful to themselves, and the unwise hate knowledge?

23 Turn ye at my reproof: behold I will utter my spirit to you, and will shew you my words. 24 ‡ Because I called, and you refused: I stretched out my hand, and there was none that regarded.

25 You have despised all my counsel, and have neglected my reprehensions.

- 26 I also will laugh in your destruction, and will mock when that shall come to you which you feared. 27 When sudden calamity shall fall on you
- and destruction, as a tempest, shall be at hand. when tribulation and distress shall come upon
- 28 Then shall they call upon me, and I wil not hear: they shall rise in the morning and shall not find mc:
- 29 Because they have hated instruction, and received not the fear of the Lord,
- 30 Nor consented to my counsel, but despised all my reproof.
- 31 Therefore they shall eat the fruit of their own way, and shall be filled with their own
- 32 The turning away of little ones shall kill them, and the prosperity of fools shall destroy
- 33 But he that shall hear me, shall rest withont terror, and shall enjoy abundance, without

CHAP. II.

The advantages of wisdom, and the evils from which d delivers.

Y son, if thou wilt receive my words, and wilt hide my commandments with thee,

2 That thy ear may nearken to wisdom: in-cline thy heart to know prudence.

3 For if thou shalt call for wisdom, and incline thy heart to prudence: 4 If thou shalt seck her as moncy, and shall dlg for her as for a treasure: 5 Then shalt thou understand the fear of the Lord, and shalt find the knowledge of Got:

6 Because the Lord giveth wisdom: and out of his mouth cometh prudence and knowledge.

7 He will keep the salvation of the righteous, and protect them that walk in simplicity.

8 Keeping the paths of justice, and guarding the ways of saints.

9 Then shalt thou understand justice, and fudgment, and equity, and every good path.

10 If wisdom shall enter into thy heart, and knowledge please thy soul:

11 Counsel shall keep thee, and prudence shall preserve thee,

12 That thou mayest be delivered from the evil way, and from the man that speaketh per-Gerse things:

13 Who leave the right way, and walk by lark ways:

14 Who are glad when they have done evil, and rejoice in most wicked things: 15 Whose ways are perverse, and their steps infamous.

16 That thou mayst be delivered from the strange woman, and from the stranger, who softeneth her words:

17 And forsaketh the guide of her youth, 18 And hath forgotten the covenant of her

God; for her house inclineth unto death, and her paths to hell. 19 None that go in unto her, shall return again, neither shall they take hold of the paths of life. 20 That thou mayest walk in a good way:

and mayest keep the paths of the just. 21 For they that are upright, shall dwell in the earth: and the simple shall continue in it.

22 * But the wicked shall be destroyed from the earth: and they that do unjustly shall be taken away from it

CHAP. III.

An exhortation to the practice of virtue. Y son, forget not my law, and let thy heart keep my commandments.

2 For they shall add to thee length of days, and years of life and peace.

3 Let not mercy and truth leave thee, put them about thy neck, and write them in the tables of thy heart:

4 And thou shalt find grace, and good understanding before God and men.

5 Have confidence in the Lord with all thy heart, and lean not upon thy own prudence 6 In all thy ways think on him, and he will · direct thy steps.

7 + Be not wise in the own conceit: fear God, and depart from evil:

3 For it shall be health to thy naval, and moistening to thy bones.

9 ! Honour the Lord with thy substance, and give him of the first of all thy fruits:

10 And thy barns shall be filled with abunlance, and thy presses shall run over with wine.

11 § My son, reject not the correction of the Lord: and do not faint when thou art chastised by him:

12 For whom the Lord loveth, he chastiseth: ind as a father in the son he pleaseth himself. 13 Blessed is the man that findeth wisdom and is rich in prudence:

14 The purchasing thereof is better than the merchandise of silver, and her fruit than the chiefest and purest gold:

15 She is more precious than all riches: and all the things that are desired, are not to bo compared with her.

16 Length of days is in her right hand, and in her left hand riches and glory.

17 Her ways are beautiful ways, and all her paths are peaceable.

18 She is a tree of life to them that lay hold on her; and he that shall retain her is blessed. 19 The Lord by wisdom hath founded the earth hath established the heavens by prudence 20 By his wisdom the depths have broken out, and the clouds grow thick with dew. 21 My son, let not these things depart from thy eyes: keep the law and counsel:

22 And there shall be life to thy soul, and grace to thy mouth.

23 Then shalt thou walk confidently in thy way, and thy foot shall not stumble.

24 If thou sleep, thou shalt not fear: thou shalt rest, and thy sleep shall be sweet. 25 Be not afraid of sudden fear, nor of the power of the wicked falling upon thee.

26 For the Lord will be at thy side, and will keep thy foot that thou be not taken. 27 Do not withhold him from doing good, who is able: if thou art able, do good thyself 28 Say not to thy friend: Go, and come again:

and to-morrow I will give to thee: when thou canst give at present.

29 Practise not evil against thy friend, when he hath confidence in thee.

30 Strive not against a man without cause, when he hath done thee no evil.

31 || Envy not the unjust man, and do not follow his ways:

32 For every mocker is an abomination to the Lord and his communication is with the simple.

33 Want is from the Lord in the house of the wicked: but the habitations of the just shall be blessed.

34 He shall scorn the scorners, and to the meek he will give grace.

35 The wise shall possess glory: the promotion of fools is disgrace.

CHAP. IV.

A further exhortation to seek after wisdom. EAR, ye children, the instruction of father, and attend that you may know prudence.

2 I will give you a good gift, forsake no my law.

3 For I also was my father's son, tender and as an omy son in the sight of my mother.

4 And he taught me, and said: Let the heart receive my words, keep my command ments, and thou shait live.

5 Get wisdom, get prudence: forget not neither decline from the words of my mouth

6 Forsake her not, and she shall keep that love her, and she shall preserve thee.

7 The beginning of wisdom, get wisdom, an with all thy possessions purchase prudence. 8 Take hold on her, and die shall exalt the thou shalt be glorified by her, when thou sha embrace her. 9 She shall give to thy head increase graces, and protect thee with a noble crown

10 Hear, O my son, and receive my wore that years of life may be multiplied to thee 11 I will shew thee the way of wisciom will lead thee by the paths of equity.

12 Which when thon shalt have entered thy steps shall not be straitened, and when thou runnest thou shalt not meet a stumbling block.

18 Take hold on instruction, leave it not:

keep It, because it is thy life.

14 Be not delighted in the paths of the wickad, neither let the way of evil men please thee 15 Flee from it, pass not by it: go aside, and forsake it.

16 For they sleep not except they have done evil: and their sleep is taken away unless they have made some to fall.

17 They eat the bread of wickedness, and drink the wine of iniquity. 18 But the path of the just, as a shining light, goeth forwards and increaseth even to perfect

19 The way of the wicked is darksome: they know not where they fall.

20 My son, hearken to my words, and incline thy ear to my sayings.

21 Let them not depart from thy eyes, keep them in the midst of thy heart:

22 For they are life to those that find them, and health to all flesh.

23 With all watchfulness keep thy heart, because life issueth out from it.

24 Remove from thee a froward month, and let detracting lips be far from thee.

25 Let thy eyes look straight on, and let eyelids go before thy steps.

26 Make straight the path for thy feet, and all thy ways shall be established.

27 Decline not to the right hand, nor to the left turn away thy foot from evil. For the Lord knoweth the ways that are on the right hand: out those are perverse which are on the left hand. But he will make thy courses straight, e will bring forward thy ways in peace. CHAP. V.

An exhortation to fly unlawful lust, and the occasions of it. Y son, attend to my wisdom, and incline thy ear to my prudence.

2 That thou mayst keep thoughts, and thy lips may preserve instruction. Mind not the deceit of a woman.

3 For the lips of a harlot are like a honeyomb dropping, and her throat is smoother than oil.

4 Rnt her end is bitter as wormwood, and harp as a two-edged sword.

5 Her feet go down into death, and her steps go in as far as hell.

6 They walk not by the path of life, her steps ire wandering, and unaccountable.

7 Now therefore, my son, hear me, and depart not from the words of my mouth.

8 Remove thy way far from her, and come ot nigh the doors of her house,

9 Give not thy honour to strangers, and thy ears to the cruel.

10 Lest strangers be filled with thy strength, ad thy labours be in another man's honse,

11 And thou mourn at the last, when thou talt have spent thy flesh and thy body, and say: 12 Why have I hated instruction, and my eart consented not to reproof,

13 And have not heard the voice of them at taught me, and have not inclined my ear

14 I have almost been in all evil, in the midst the church and of the congregation.

Documents on several heads. MY son, if thou be surety for thy friend, thou hast engaged fast thy hand to a stranger.

2 Thou art ensnared with the words of thy mouth, and caught with thy own words.

3 Do therefore, my son, what I say, and deliver thyself: because thou art fallen into the hand of thy neighbour. Run about, make haste, stir up thy friend:

4 Give not sleep to thy eyes, neither let thy oye-lids slumber.

5 Deliver thyself as a doe from the hand, and as a bird from the hand of the fowler.

6 Go to the ant, O sluggard, and consider her ways, and learn wisdom:

7 Which, although she hath no guide, nor master, nor captain, 8 Provideth her meat for herself in the summer, and gathereth her food in the harvest. 9 How long wilt thou sleep, O sluggard? when wilt thou rise out of thy sleep?

10 † Thou wilt sleep a little, thou wilt slumber a little, thou wilt fold thy hands a little to 11 And want shall come upon thee, as a traveller, and poverty as a man armed. But it thou be diligent, thy harvest shall come as a fountain, and want shall flee far from thee.

12 A man that is an apostate, an amprofitable man walketh with a perverse mouth the foot, speaketh with the finger. 14 With a wicked heart he deviseth evil, and at all times he soweth discord. 15 To such a one his destruction shall presently come, and he shall suddenly be destroyed, and shall no longer have any remedy.

16 Six things there are which the Lord hateth, and the seventh his soul detesteth:

17 Haughty eyes, a lying tongue, hands that shed innocent blood.

18 A heart that deviseth wicked plots, feet that are swift to run into mischief

19 A deceifful witness that uttereth lies, and him that soweth discord among brethren 20 My son, keep the commandments of the father, and forsake not the law of thy mother 21 Bind them in thy heart continually, and put them about thy nech

- 27 Can a man hide fire in his bosom, and his Enrments not burn?

28 Or can he walk upon hot coals, and his feet not be burnt?

- 29 So he that goeth in to his neighbour's wife, shall not be clean when he shall touch her. 30 The fault is not so great when a man hath
- stolen: for he stealeth to fill his hungry soul: 31 And if he be taken he shall restore seven-

32 But he that is an adulterer, for the folly of his heart shall destroy his own soul:

The sin of theft is not so great as to be compared with adultry: especially when a person pressed with hunger, (which is the case here spoken of) steals to satisfy nature. Moreover the damage done by theft may much more easily be repaired, than the wrong done by adultory. But this does not hinder, but that theft also is a cortal sin, forbidden by one of the ten commendation. 450

23 Till the arrow pierce his liver: as if a bird should make haste to the snare, and knoweth not that his life is in danger.

24 Now therefore, my son, hear me, and attend to the words of my mouth.

25 Let not thy mind be drawn away in her ways: neither be thou deceived with her paths, 26 For she hath cast down many wounded and the strongest have been slain by her. 27 Her house is the way to hell, reaching even to the inner chambers of death.

The preaching of wisdom. Her excellence.

OTH not wisdom cry aloud, and prudence put forth her voice?

2 Standing in the top of the highest places by the way, in the midst of the paths,

3 Beside the gates of the city, in the very doors she speaketh, saying:

4 O ye men, to you I call, and my voice is to the sons of men. 5 O little ones, understand subtilty, and, ye unwise, take notice.

6 Hear, for I will speak of great things: and my lips shall be opened to preach right things.

7 My mouth shall meditate truth, and my hps shall hate wickedness. 8 All my words are just, there is nothing wicked, nor perverse in them. 9 They are right to them that understand, and just to them that find knowledge. 10 Receive my instruction, and not money:

choose knowledge rather than gold.

11 For wisdom is hetter than all the most precious things: and whatsoever may be desired cannot be compared to it.

12 I wisdom dwell in counsel, and am present in learned thoughts. 13 The fear of the Lord hateth evil: I hate arrogance, and pride, and every wicked way and a mouth with a double tongue.

14 Counsel and equity is mine, prudence is mine, strength is mine. 15 By me kings reign, and lawgivers decree just things, 16 By me princes rule, and the mighty decree justice.

17 I love them that love me. and they that in the morning early watch for me, shall find me. -

18 With me are riches and glory, glorious riches and instice.

19 For my fruit is better than gold and the proclous stone, and my blossoms than choice

20 I walk in the way of justice, in the midst of the paths of judgment, 21 That I may enrich them that love me, and may fill their treasures.

22 The Lord possessed me in the beginning of his ways, before he made any thing from the beginning.

23 I was set up from eternity, and of old be-ore the carth was made.

24 The depths were not as yet, and I was already conceived, neither had the fountains of waters as yet sprung out:

25 The mountains with their huge bulk had not as yet been established: before the hills I was brought forth:

26 He had not yet made the earth, nor the rivers, nor the poles of the world.

27 When he prepared the heavens, I was present: when with a certain law and compass he enclosed the depths:

28 When he established the sky above, and poised the fountains of waters:

29 When he compassed the sea with its bounds, and set a law to the waters that they should not pass their limits: when he balanced the foundations of the earth.

30 I was with him forming all things: and was delighted every day, playing before him at

The vanity of all temporal things.

THE words of Ecclesiastes, the son of David, king of Jerusalem.

2 Vanity of vanities, said Ecclesiastes: vanity of vanities, and all is vanity.

3 What hath a man more of all his labour, that he taketh under the sun?

4 One generation passeth away, and anothergeneration cometh: but the earth standeth for iver.

5 The sun riseth, and goeth down, and returnall to his place: and there rising again,

6 Maketh his round by the south, and turneth again to the north: the spirit goeth forward surveying all places round about, and returneth to his circuits.

7 All the rivers run into the sea, yet the sea doth not overflow: unto the place from whence the rivers come, they return, to flow again.

8 All things are hard: man cannot explain them by word. The eye is not filled with seeing, neither is the ear filled with hearing.

9 What is it that hath been? the same thing that shall be. What is it that hath been done? the same that shall be done.

10 Nothing under the sun is new, neither is any man able to say: Behold, this is new: fcr it bath already gone before, in the ages that were tefore us. 11 There is no remembrance of former things: aor indeed of those things which hereafter are g come, shall there be any remembrance with them that shall be in the latter end.

12 I Ecclesiastes was king over Israel in jerusalem,

13 And f proposed in my mind to seek and search out wisely concerning all things that are done under the sun. This painful occupation bath God given to the children of men, to be exercised therein.

14 I have seen all things that are done under the sun, and tehold all is vanity, and vexation

15 The perverse are hard to be corrected, and the number of fools is infinite.

16 I have spoken in my heart, saying: Behold I am become great, and have gone beyond all in wisdom, that were before me in Jerusalem: and my mind hath contemplated many things wisely, and I have learned.

17 And I have given my heart to know prudence, and learning, and errors, and folly: and I have perceived that in these also there was labour, and vexation of spirit, 18 Because in much windom there is much indignation: and he than addeth knowledge, addeth also labour.

CHAP. II.

The vanity of pleasure's, riches, and worldly labours.

SAID in my heart: I will go, and abound with delights, and enjoy good things. I saw that this also was vanity.

2 Laughter I counted error: and to mirth I said: why art theu vainly deceived?

3 I thought in my neart, to withdraw my fesh from wine, that I might turn my mind to wisdom, and might avoid folly, till I might see what was profitable for the children of men: and what they ought to do under the sun, all the days of their life.

4 1 made me great works, I built me houses, and planted vineyards,

5 I made gardens, and orchards, and set them with trees of all kinds,

6 And I made me ponds of water, to water herewith the wood of the young trees,

7 I got me men-servants, and maid-servants, and lad a great family: and herds of oxen, and great flocks of sheep, above all that were before me in Jerusalem:

8 * I heaped together for myself silver and gold, and the wealth of kings, and provinces: I made me singing men, and singing women, and the delights of the sons of men, cups and vessels to serve to pone out wine:

9 And I surpassed in riches all that were beore me in Jerusalem: my wisdom also remained with me.

10 And whatsoever my eyes desired, I refused them not: and I withheld not my heart from enoying every pleasure, and delighting itself in the things which I had prepared; and esteemed his my portion, to make use of my own labour.

11 And when I turned myself to all the works which my hands had wrought, and to the labours wherein I had laboured in vain, I saw in all things vanity, and vexation of mind, and that nothing was lasting under the sun.

12 I passed further to behold wisdom, and errors and folly. (What is man, said I, that bo can follow the King his maker?)

13 And I saw that wisdom excelled folly, as much as light differeth from darkness.

14 | The eyes of a wise man are in his head: the fool walketh in darkness: and I learned that they were to die both alike.

15 And I said in my heart: If the death of the fool and mine shall be one, what doth it avail me, that I have applied myself more to the study of wisdom? And speaking with my own mind, I perceived that this also was vanity.

16 For there shall be no remembrance of the wise no more than of the fool for ever, and the times to come shall cover all 'hings together with oblivion: the learned dieth in like manner as the unlearned.

17 And therefore I was welly of my life, when I saw that all things under the san are evil, and all vanity and versation of spirit.

18 Again I hated all my application wherewith I had earnestly laboured under the sun, being like to have an heir after me,

19. Whom I know not whether he will be a wise man or a fool, and he shall have rule over all my labours with which I have laboured and been solicitous; and is there any thing so vain? 20 Wherefore I left off and my heart re-

Lounced labouring any more under the sun. 21 For when a man laboureth in wisdom, and knowledge, and carefulness, he leaveth what he hath gotten to an idle man: so this also is vanity, and a great evil.

22 For what profit shall a man have of all his labour, and vexation of spirit, with which he hath been tormented under the sun?

23 All his days are full of sorrows and miseries, even in the night he doth not rest in mind:

and is not this vanity?

24 Is it not better to eat and drink, and to shew his soul good things of his labours? and this is from the hand of God.

25 Who shall so feast and abound with delights as I?

26 God hath given to a man that is good in his sight, wisdom and knowledge, and joy: but to the sinner he hath given vexation, and superfluous care, to heap up and to gather together, and to give it to him that hath pleased God: but this also is vanity, and a fruitless solicitude of the mind.

4 And it is much better not to vow, than after a vow not to perform the things promised.

5 Give not thy mouth to cause thy flesh a sin: and say not before the angel: There is no providence: lest God be angry at thy words, and destroy all the works of thy hands.

6 Where there are many dreams, there are many vanities, and words without number: but do thou fear God.

7 If thou shalt see the cupressions of the poor, and violent judgments, and justice perverted in the province, wonder not at this matter: for he that is high hath another higher, and there are others still higher than these 8 Moreover there is the king that reigneth over all the land subject to him.

money; and he that loveth riches shall reap no truit from them: so this also is vanity.

10 Where there are great riches, there are also many to eat them. And what doth it profit the owner, but that he seeth the riches with his syes?

11 Sleep is sweet to a labouring man, whether he eat little or much: but the fulness of the rich will not suffer him to sieep

12 * There is also another grievous evil which I have seen under the sun: riches kept to the burt of the owner.

13 For they are lost with very great affliction he hath begotten a son, who shall be in extremity of want.

that he hath laboured for the wind?

16 All the days of his life he eateth in darkness, and in many cares, and in misery, and sorrow.

17 This therefore hath seemed good to me, that a man should eat and drink, and enjoy the fruit of his labour, wherewith he hath laboured under the sun, all the days of his life, which God hath given him: and this is his portion.

18 And every man to whom God hath given riches, and substance, and hath given him power to eat thereof, and to enjoy his portion, and to rejoice of his labour: this is the gift of God.

9 For he shall not much remember the days of his life, because God entertaineth his heart with delight.

CHAP. VI.

The misery of the covetous man.

THERE is also another evil, which I have seen under the sun, and that frequent smong men:

2 A man to whom God hath given riches, and substance, and honour, and his soul wanteth nothing of all that he desireth: yet God doth not give him power to eat thereof, but a stranger shall eat it up. This is vanity and a great miscry.

3 If a man beget a hundred children, and live many years, and attain to a great age, and his soul make no uso of the goods of his substance, and he be without burial: of this man I pronounce, that the untimely born is better than he

4 For he came in vain, and goeth to darkness. and his name shall be wholly forgotten.

5 He hath not seen the sun, nor known the listance of good and evil: 6 Although he lived two thousand years, and ath not enjoyed good things; do not all make heste to one place?

7 All the labour of man is for his mouth: but ais soul shall not be filled.

CHAP. VIL

Prescriptions against worldly vanities · mortification, pa-tience, and seeking wisdom.

WHAT needeth a man to seek things that are above him, whereas he knoweth not what is profitable for him in his life, in all the days of his pilgrimage, and the time that passeth like a shadow? Or who can tell him what shall be after him under the sun?

2 § A good name is better than precious ointments: and the day of death than the day of one's birth.

3 It is better to go to the house of mourning, than to the house of feasting: for in that we are put in mind of the end of all, and the living thinketh what is to come.

4 Anger is better than laughter; because by the sadness of the countenance the mind of the offender is corrected.

5 The heart of the wise is where there is mourning, and the heart of fools where there is mirth.

6 It is better to be rebuked by a wise man, than to be deceived by the flattery of fools.

7 For as the crackling of thorns burning under a pot, so is the laughter of a fool: now this also is vanity.

8 Oppression troubleth the wise, and shall destroy the strength of his heart.

9 Better is the end of a speech, than the beginning. Better is the patient man than the presumptuous.

10 Be not quickly angry: for anger resteth in the bosem of a fool.

11 Say not: What thinkest thou is the cause that former times were better than they are now? for this manner of question is foolish.

12 Wisdom with riches is more profitable, and bringeth more advantage to them that see the sun.

13 For as wisdom is a defence, so money is a defence: but learning and wisdom excel in this, that they give life to him that possesset them.

14 Consider the works of God, that no man can correct whom he hath despised.

15 In the good day enjoy good things, and beware beforehand of the evil day: for God hath made both the one and the other, that man may not find against him any just complaint.

16 These things also I saw in the days of my vanity: A just man perisheth in his justice, and a wicked man liveth a long time in his wicked

17 Be not over just: and be not more wisi than is necessary, lest thou become stupid.

18 Be not overmuch wicked: and be no foolish, lest thou die before thy time.

19 It is good that thou shouldst hold up the just, yea and from him withdraw not thy hand for he that feareth God, neglecteth nothing.

20 Wisdom hath strengthened the wise mon than ten princes of the city.

21 || For there is no just man upon earth, the doth good, and sinneth not.

22 But do not apply thy heart to all words that are spoken: lest perhaps thou hear thy servant reviling thee.

23 For thy conscience knoweth that thou also nast often spoken evil of others,

24 I have tried all things in wisdom. I have said: I will be wise: and it departed farther from me.

25 Much more than it was: it is a great depth, who shall find it out?

26 I have surveyed all things with my mind, to know, and consider, and seek out wisdom and reason: and to know the wickedness of the fool, and the error of the imprudent:

27 And I have found a woman more bitter than death, who is the hunter's snare, and her heart is a net, and her hands are bands. He that pleaseth God shall escape from her: but he that is a sinner, shall be caught by her.

28 Lo this have I found, said Ecclesiastes, weighing one thing after another, that I might find out the account,

29 Which yet my soul seeketh, and I have not found it. One man among a thousand I have found, a woman among them all I have not found.

30 Only this I have found, that God made man right, and he hath entangled himself with an infinity of questions. Who is as the wise man? and who listh known the resolution of

CHAP. VIII.

True wisdom is to observe God's commandments. The ways of God are unsearchable.

THE * wisdom of a man shineth in his conntenance, and the most mighty will change his face.

2 I observe the mouth of the king, and the commandments of the oath of God.

3 Be not hasty to depart from his face, and do not continue in an evil work: for he will do all that pleaseth him:

4 And his word is full of power: neither can any man say to him: Why dost thou so?

He that keepeth the commandment, shall find no evil. The heart of a wise man under-standeth time and answer. 6 There is a time and opportunity for every business, and great affliction for man:

7 Because he is ignorant of things past, and things to come he cannot know by any mes-

8 It is not in man's power to stop the spirit, neither hath he power in the day of death, neither is he suffered to rest when war is at hand, neither shall wickedness save the wicked.

· Supra, 2, 14,

Ver. 30. Of the word. That is, of this obscure and difficult matter.

CHAP, VIII. Ver. 15. No good for a man, &c. Some commentators think the wise man here speaks in the person of the liberthies: representing the objections of these men against divine providence, and the inferences hery draw from thence, which he takes care afterwards to refus. But it may also be said, that his meaning is occurrend the noderate use of the goods of this world, treferably to the cares and solicitudes of worldings, their artachment to vanity and curiosity, and presumptionally diving into the cursearchable ways of divine providence.

CHAP. IX. Ver. 5. Know nothing more. Viz., As to the transactions of this world, in which they have now to part, missa it be revealed to them; neither have hey any knowledge or power now of doing any thing to cure their eternal state, (if they have not taken care of in their life-time;) nor can they now procare themely now procare themely no good, as the living always may do, by, the grace Good.

9 All these tnings I have considered, and applied my heart to all the works that are done under the sun. Sometimes one man ruleth over another to his own hurt.

10 I saw the wicked buried: who also when they were yet living were in the holy place and were praised in the city as men of just works: but this also is vanity.

11 For because sentence is not speedily pr nounced against the evil, the children of men commit evils without any fear.

12 But though a sinner do evil a hundred times, and by patience be borne withal, I know from thence that it shall be well with them that fear God, who dread his face.

13 But let it not be well with the wicked neither let his days be prolonged, but as a shadow let them pass away that fear not the face of the Lord.

14 There is also another vanity, which is done npon the carth. There are just men to whom evils happen, as though they had done the works of the wicked: and there are wicked men, whe are as secure, as though they had the deeds of the just: but this also I judge most vain.

15 Therefore I commended mirth, because there was no good for a man under the sun, but to eat, and drink, and be merry: and that he should take nothing else with him of his labour in the days of his life, which God hath given him under the sun.

16 And I applied my heart to know wisdom. and to understand the distraction that is upon earth: for there are some that day and night take no sleep with their eyes.

17 And I understood that man can find no reason of all those works of God that are dom under the sun: and the more he shall labour to seek, so much the less shall he find: yea, though the wise man should say, that he knoweth it, he shall not be able to find it.

CHAP. IX.

Man knows not certainly that he is in God's grace. After death no more work or merit.

LL these things have I considered in my heart, that I might carefully understand them: There are just men and wise men, and their works are in the hand of God: and yer man knoweth not whether he be worthy of love or hatred:

2 But all things are kept uncertain for the time to come, because all things equally happen to the just and to the wicked, to the good and to the evil, to the clean and to the unclean, to him that offereth victims, and to him that despiseth sacrifices. As the good is, so also is the sinner as the perjured, so he also that sweareth truth.

3 This is a very great evil among all things that are done under the sun, that the same things happen to all men : whereby also the hearts of the children of men are flied with evil, and with contempt while they live, and afterwards they shall be brought down to hell

4 There is no man that liveth always, or that hopeth for this: a living dog is better than t dead lion.

5 For the living know that they shall die, but the dead know nothing more, neither have the a reward any more: for the memory of them forgotten.

6 Their love also, and their hatred, and their cuvy are all perished, neither have they any part in this world, and in the work that is done under the sun

7 Go then, and eat thy bread with joy, and drink thy wine with gladness: because thy works please God.

8 At all times let thy garments be white, and ist not oil depart from thy head.

9 Live joyfully with the wife whom thou ovest, all the days of thy unsteady life, which are given to thee under the sun, all the time of thy vanity: for this is thy portion in iffe, and in thy labour wherewith thou labourest under the

10 Whatsoever thy hand is able to do, do it earnestly: for neither work, nor reason, nor wisdom, nor knowledge shall be in hell, whither thou art hastening.

11 I turned me to another thing, and I saw tuat under the sun, the race is not to the swift, cor the battle to the strong, nor bread to the wise, nor riches to the learned, nor favour to the skilful: but time and chance in all.

12 Man knoweth not his own end: but as fishes are taken with the hook, and as birds are caught with the snare, so men are taken in the evil time, when it shall suddenly come upon them.

13 This wisdom also I have seen under the sun, and it seemed to me to be very great:

14 A little city, and few men in it: there came against it a great king, and invested it, and built bulwarks round about it, and the siego was perfect.

15 Now there was found in it a man poor and wise, and he delivered the city by his wisdom, and ne man afterward remembered that poor man.

16 And I said that wisdom is better than strength: how then is the wisdom of the poor man slighted, and his words not heard?

17 The words of the wise are heard in dlence, more than the cry of a prince among 18 * Better is wisdom, than weapons of war: and he that shall offend in one, shall lose many good things.

2 The heart of a wise man is in his right hand, and the heart of a fool is in his left hand. 3 Yea, and the fool when he walketh in tho way, whereas he himself is a fool, esteemeth all men fools.

4 If the spirit of him that hath power, ascend tpon thee, leave not thy place: because care will make the greatest sins to cease.

5 There is an evil that I have seen under the ann as it were by an error proceeding from the face of the prince:

But this does not exclude a place of temporal punshments for such souls as die in the state of grace; yet sot so as to be entirely pure: and therefore shey shall be saved, indeed, yet so as by fire. 9 Rejoice therefore, O young man, in thy youth, and let thy heart be in that which is good in the days of thy youth, and walk in the ways of thy heart, and in the sight of thy eyes: and know that for all these God will bring thee into judgment.

10 Remove anger from thy heart, and put away evil from thy flesh For youth and pleasure are vain.

CHAP. XII.

The Creator is to be remembered in the days of our youth; all worldly things are vain: we should fear God and nimandments.

REMEMBER thy creator in the days of thy youth, before the time of affliction come, and the years draw nigh of which thou shalt say: They please me not:

8 Vanity of vanities, said Ecclesiastes, and all things are vanity.

9 And whereas Ecclesiastes was very wise, he taught the people, and declared the things that he had done: and seeking out, he set forth many parables.

10 He sought profitable words, and wrote words most right, and full of truth.

11 The words of the wise are as goads, and as nails deeply fastened in, which by the counsel of masters are given from one shepherd.

12 More than these, my son, require not. Of making many books there is no end; and much study is an affliction of the flesh.

13 Let us all hear together the conclusion of the discourse. Fear God, and keep his commandments: for this is all man: 14 And all things that are done, God will bring to judgment for every error, whether it be good or evil.

SOLOMON'S

CANTICLE OF CANTICLES.

Unis Book is called the Canticle of Cauticles, that is to say, the most excellent of all contactes: because it is full of high mysteries, reloting to the happy union of Christ and his spouse; which is here begun by love; and is to be eternal in heaven. The spouse of Christ is the church: nore especially as to the happiest part of it, viz., perfect souls, every one of which is his beloved, but, above all others, the immaculate and ever blessed viryin mother.

CHAP. L.

The spouse aspires to an union with Christ, their musual love for one another.

ET him klss me with the kiss of his mouth: I for thy breasts are better than wine.

2 Smelling sweet of the best ointments. Thy name is as oil poured out: therefore young maidens have loved thee.

3 Draw me: we will run after thee to the odour of thy ointments. The king hath brought me into his store-rooms: we will be glad and rejoice in thee, remembering thy breasts more than wine: the righteous love thee.

CHAP. I. Ver. 1. Let him kiss me. The Church, the sponse of Christ, prays that he may love and have peaco with her, which the spouse prefers to every thing how-cover delicious: and therefore expresses (ver. 2.) that young massiser, that is, the souls of the faithful, have loved thee. Ver. 3. Drate me. That is, with thy grace; otherwise I should not be able to come to thee. This metaphor should not be able to come to thee. This metaphor shows that we cannot of ourselves come to Christ our lord, unless he draws us by his grace, which is laid up in his store-reome: that is, in the mysteries of Faith, which God in his grootness and love for markind bath thou art fair, thy eyes are as those of doves.

15 Behold thou art fair, my beloved, and comely. Our bed is flourishing.

16 The beams of our houses are of cedar, our rafters of cypress trees.

CHAP. II.

Christ caresses his spouse : he invites her to him. AM the flower of the field, and the lily of the valleys.

2 As the lily among thorns, so is my love among the daughters.

3 As the apple-tree among the trees of the woods, so is my beloved among the some. I sat down under his shadow, whom I desired: and his fruit was sweet to my palate.

4 He brought me into the cellar of wine, he set in order charity in me.

5 Stay me up with flowers, compass me about with apples: because I languish with love.

Ver. 8. The voice of my belowed that is, the preaching of the gospel surmounting difficulties, figuratively here expressed by mountains and little hills.

Ver. 15. Catch us the little forces. Christ commands his pastors to catch false teachers, by holding forth their fallacy and erroneous doctrine, which like foxes would to and doctroy the vines eth among the lilies,

17 Till the day break, and the shadows retire. Return: be like, my beloved, to a roe, or to a young hart upon the mountains of Bether.

CHAP. III.

The spouse seeks Christ. The glory of his humanity.

In my bed by night I sought him whom my soul loveth: I sought him and for the little with the soul loveth. soul leveth: I sought him, and found him not.

2 I will rise, and will go about the city: in the streets and the broad ways I will seek him whom my soul loveth: I sought him, and I found him not.

3 The watchmen who kept the city, found me: Have you seen him, whom my soul loveth?

4 When I had a little passed by them, I found him whom my soul leveth: I held him: and I will not let him go, till I bring him into my mother's house, and into the chamber of her that bore me.

5 I adjure you, O daughters of Jerusalem, by the roes and the harts of the fields, that you stir not up, nor awake my beloved, till she please.

6 Who is she that goeth up by the desert, as a piliar of smoke of aromatical spices, of myrrh, and frankinceuse, and of all the powders of the perfumer?

7 Behold threescore valuant ones of the most valiant of Israel, surround the bed of Solomon:

8 All holding swords, and most expert in war: every man's sword upon his thigh, because of fears in the night.

9 King Solomon hath make him a litter of the wood of Libanus:

10 The pillars thereof he made of silver, the seat of gold, the going up of purple: the midst he covered with charity for the daughters of Jerusalem.

11 Go forth, ye daughters of Sion, and see king Solomon in the diadem, wherewith his mother crowned him in the day of his espousals, and in the day of the joy of his heart.

CHAP. IV.

Christ sets forth the graces of his spouse: and declares his love for her.

HOW beautiful art thou, my love, how beautiful art thou! thy eyes are doves' eyes, besides what is hid within. Thy hair is as flocks of goats, which come up from mount Gelaad.

2 Thy teeth as flocks of sheen, that are shern, which come up from the washing, all with twins. and there is none barren among them.

CHAP, IV. Ver. 1. How beautiful art thou. Christ again praises the beauties of his Church, which, through the whole of this chapter, are exemplified by a variety of metaphors cetting forth mer purity, her simplicity and hir stabilities.

5 Thy two breasts like two young roes that are twins, which feed among the lilies.

6 Till the day break, and the shadows retire, I will go to the mountain of myrrh, and to the till of frankincense.

7 Thou art all fair, O my love, and there is not a spot in thee.

8 Come from Libanus, my spouse, come from Libanus, come: thou shalt be crowned from the top of Amana, from the top of Sanir and Hermon, from the dens of the lions, from the mountains of the leopards.

9 Thou hast wounded my heart, my sister, my spouse, thou hast wounded my heart with one of thy eyes, and with one hair of thy neck.

10 How beautiful are thy breasts, my sister, my spouse I thy breasts are more beautiful than wine, and the sweet smell of thy ointments above all aromatical spices.

11 Thy lips, my spouse, are as a dropping honeycomb, honey and milk are under thy tongue: and the smell of thy garments, as the smell of frankinceuse.

12 My sister, my spouse is a garden enclosed, fountain sealed up.

13 Thy plants are a paradise of pomegranates with the fruits of the orchard. Cyprus with spikenard.

9 What manner of one is thy beloved of the beloved, O thou most beautiful among women? what manner of one is thy beloved of the beloved, that thou hast so adjured us?

10 My beloved is white and ruddy, chosen out of thousands.

11 His head is as the finest gold: his locks as branches of palm trees, black as a raven.

12 His eyes as doves upon brooks of waters, which are washed with milk, and sit beside the plentiful streams.

13 His cheeks are as beds of aromatical spicer set by the perfumers. His lips are as lilies dropping choice myrrh.

14 His hands are turned and as of gold, full of hyacinths. His belly as of ivory, set with sapphires.

15 His legs as pillars of marble, that are set upon bases of gold. His form as of Libanus excellent as the cedars.

16 His throat most sweet, and he is all lovely: such is my beloved, and he is my friend, O ye daughters of Jerusalem.

17 Whither is thy beloved gone, O thou most beautiful (among women? whither is thy be-loved turned aside and we will seek him with thee?

The spouse of Christ is but one: she is fair and terrible.

Ver. 10. My beloved, &c. In this and the following verses, the Church mystically describes Christ to those who know him not, that is, to initiales, in order is outset them to the true thith.

CHAP. VI. Ver. 1. My beloved is gone down into the garden. Christ, pleased with the good works of his holy and devout servenus labouring in his garden, is all ways present with them, but the words is gone down are to be understood, that after trying his church by permitting persecution, he comes to her actisticans and 8 One is my dove, my perfect one is but one, she is the only one of her mother, the chosen of her that bore her. The daughters saw her, and declared her most blessed: the queens and concubinea, and they praised her.

9 Who is she that cometh forth as the morning rising, fair as the moon, bright as the sun, perrible as an army set lu army?

10 I went down into the garden of nnts, to see the fruits of the valleys, and to look if the vineyard had dourished, and the pomegranates budded.

11 I knew not: my soul troubled me for the charlots of Aminadab.

12 Return, return, O Sulamitess: return, return that we may behold thee.

CHAP. VII.

A further description of the graces of the church, the spouse of Christ.

WHAT shalt thou see in the Sulamitess but the companies of course? However, are thy steps in shoes, O prince's daughter! The joints of thy thighs are like jewels, that are made by the hand of a skilful workman.

2 Thy navel is like a round bow, never wanting cups. Thy belly is like a heap of wheat, set about with lilies.

3 Thy two breasts are like two young rocs

5 Who is this that cometh up from the desert flowing with delights, leaning upon her beloved? Under the apple-tree I raised thee up: there thy mother was corrupted, there she was defloured that bore thee.

6 Put me as a seal upon thy heart, as a seal upon thy arm: for love is strong as death: jealousy is hard as hell, the lamps thereof are fire and flames.

7 Many waters cannot quench charity, usither can the floods drown it: if a man should give all the substance of his house for love, he shall despise it as nothing.

8 Our sister is little, and hath no breasts. What shall we do to our sistor in the day when she is to be spoken to?

9 If she be a wall, let us build upon it bulwarks of silver: if she be a door, let us join it together with boards of cedar.

BOOK OF WISDOM.

This book is so called, because it treats of the excellence of WISDOM, the means to obtain it, and the happy fruits it produces. It is written in the person of Solomon, and contains his sentiments. But it is uncertain who was the writer. It abounds with instructions and exhortations to kings and all magniturates to mister justice in the commonwealth, teaching all kinds of virtues under the general names of justice and wisdom. It contains also many prophecies of the six first chapters, the author admonishes all superiors to love and exercise justice and wisdom. In the next three, he teacheft that wisdom proceeds to only from G. d, and is procured by prayer and a good life. In the other ten chapters, he showeth the excellent effects, and utility of wisdom and justice.

CHAP. I.

An exhortation to seek God sincerely, who cannot be de-ceived, and desireth not our death.

OVE * Justice, you that are the judges of the earth. Think of the Lord in goodness, and seek him in simplicity of heart.

2 + For he is found by them that tempt him not: and he sheweth himself to them that have faith in him.

3 For perverse thoughts separate from God: and his power, when it is tried, reproveth the unwise:

4 For wisdom will not enter into a malicions soul, nor dwell in a body subject to sins.

5 For the Holy Spirit of discipline will flee from the deceitful, and will withdraw himself from thoughts that are without understanding, and he shall not abide when iniquity cometh in.

6 ‡ For the spirit of wisdom is benevolent, and will not acquit the evil speaker from his lips: § For God is a witness of his reins, and he is a true searcher of his heart, and a hearer of his tongue.

7 | For the Spirit of the Lord hath filled the whole world: and that, which containeth all things, hath knowledge of the voice.

8 Therefore he that speaketh unjust things cannot be hid, neither shall the chastising judgment pass him by.

9 For inquisition shall be made into the thoughts of the ungodly: and the hearing of his words shall come to God, to the chastising of his iniquities.

10 For the ear of jealousy heareth all things, and the tumult of murmuring shall not be hid.

11 Keep yourselves therefore from murnuring, which profteth nothing, and refrain your tongue from detaction, for an obscure speech shall not go for nought: and the mouth that belieth, killeth the soul.

12 Seek not death in the error of your life, aeither procure ye destruction by the works of your hands.

13 ¶ For God made not death, neither hath se pleasure in the destruction of the living, 14 For he created all things that they might e: and he made the nations of the earth for icalth: and there is no poison of destruction in hem, nor kingdom of hell upon the earth.

15 For justice is perpetual and immortal.

16 But the wicked with works and words are called it  to them; and esteening it a rend, have fallen away, and have made a co-enant with it: because they are worthy to be the part thereof.

CHAP. II.

The vasn reasonings of the wicked: their personning the just, especially the Son of God.

OR they have said, reasoning with themselves, but not right: # The time of our life is short and tedious, and in the end of a man there is no remedy, and no man hath been known to have returned from hell:

2 For we are born of nothing, and after thi. we shall be as if we had not been: for the breath in our nostrils is smoke: and speech a spark to move our heart,

3 Which being put out, our body shall be ashes, and our spirit shall be poured abroad as soft air, and our life shall pass away as the trace of a cloud, and shall be dispersed as a mist, which is driven away by the beams of the sun, and overpowered with the heat thereof:

4 And our name in time shall be forgotten and no man shall have any remembrance of our

5 ## For our time is as the passing of a shadow, and there is no going back of our end: for it is fast sealed, and no man returneth.

6 $$ Come therefore, and let us enjoy the good things that are present, and let us speedily use the creatures as in youth.

7 Let us fill ourselves with costly wine, and ointments: and let not the flower of the time pass by us.

8 Let us crown ourselves with roses, before they be withered: let no meadow escape our riot.

9 Let none of us go without his part in luxury: let us every where leave tokens of joy: for this is our portion, and this our lot.

10 Let us oppress the poor just man, and not spare the widow, nor honour the ancient grey hairs of the aged.

11 But let our strength be the law of justicefor that which is feeble, is found to be nothing worth.

12 Let us therefore lie in wait for the just, because he is not for our turn, and he is contrary to our doings, and uporaideth us with transgressions of the law, and divulgeth against us the sins of our way of life.

13 ||| He boasteth that he hath the knowledge of God, and calleth himself the son of God.

14 ¶¶ He is become a censurer of thoughts.

15 He is grievous unto us, even to behold. for his life is not like other men's, and his ways are very different.

16 We are esteemed by him as triflers, and he abstaineth from our ways as from filthiness and he preferreth the latter end of the just, and glorieth that he hath God for his father.

17 Let us see then if his words be true, and let us prove what shall happen to him, and we shall know what his end shall be.

18 * For if me be the true son of God, he will defend hiri, and will deliver him from the hands of his enemies.

19 Let us examine him by outrages and tortures, that we may know his meekness and try his patience.

20 † Let us condemn him to a most shameful death: for there shall be respect had unto him by his words.

21 These things they thought, and were deceived: for their own malice blinded them.

22 And they knew not the secrets of God, nor hoped for the wages of justice, nor esteemed the honour of holy souls.

23 ‡ For God created man incorruptible, and to the image of his own likeness he made him.

24 & But by the envy of the devil, death came into the world:

25 And they follow him that are of his side.

CHAP. III.

The happiness of the just: and the unhappiness of the wicked.

BUT I the souls of the just are, in the hand of God, and the terment of death shall not touch them.

2 In the sight of the unwise they seemed to die: and their departure was taken for misery:

3 And their going away from us, for utter destruction: but they are in peace.

4 And though in the sight of men they suffered torments, their hope is full of immortality.

5 Afflicted in few things, in many they shall be well rewarded: because God hath tried them, and found them worthy of himself.

6 As gold in the furnace he hath proved them, and as a victim of a holocaust he hath received them, and in time there shall be respect had to 7  The just shall shine, and shall run to and tro like sparks among the reeds.

8 †† They shall judge nations, and rule over people, and their Lord shall reign for ever.

9 They that trust in him, shall understand the truth: and they that are faithful in love shall rest in him: for grace and peace is to his elect.

10 But the wicked shall be punished according to their own devices: who have neglected the just, and have revolted from the Lord.

11 For he that rejecteth wisdom, and disci-. pline, is unhappy: and their hope is vain, and their labours without fruit, and their works unprofitable.

12 Their wives are foolish, and their children

wicked.

13 Their offspring is cursed: for happy is the barren: and the undefiled, that hath not known bed in sin: she shall have fruit in the visitation of holy souls.

14 $$ And the eunuch, that hath not wrought iniquity with his hands, nor thought wicked things against God: for the precious gift of with shall be given to him, and a most acceptable lot in the temple of God.

15 For the fruit of good labours is glorious, and the root of wisdom never falleth.

16 But the children of adulterers shall not come to perfection, and the seed of the uniawful bed shall be rooted out.

17 And if they live long, they shall be nothing regarded, and their last old age shall be without honour.

18 And if they die quickly, they shall have no hope, nor speech of comfort in the day of trial.

19 For dreadful are the ends of a wicked race.

CHAP. IV.

The difference between the chaste and the adulterous gene-rations: and between the death of the just, and the

HOW beautiful is the chaste generation with glory: for the memory thereof is immortal: because it is known both with God and with men.

2 When it is present, they imitate it: and they desire it when it hath withdrawn itself, and it triumpheth crowned for ever, winning the reward of undefiled conflicts.

3 But the multiplied brood of the wicked shall not thrive, and bastard slips shall not take deep root, nor any fast foundation.

4 $$ And if they flourish in branches for a time, yet standing not fast, they shall be shaken with the wind, and through the force of winds they shall be rooted out.

5 For the branches not being perfect, shall be broken, and their fruits shall be unprofitable, and sour to eat, and fit for nothing.

6 For the children that are born of unlawful beds, are witnesses of wickedness against their parents in their trial.

7 But the just man, if he be prevented with death, shall be in rest.

8 For venerable old age is not that of long time, nor counted by the number of years: but the understanding of man is grey hairs,

9 And a spotless life is old age.

10 || He pleased God and was beloved, and living among sinners he was translated.

11 He was taken away lest wickedness should alter his understanding, or deceit beguile his soul.

12 For the bewitching of vanity obscureth good things, and the wandering of concupiscence overturneth the innocent mind.

13 Being made perfect in a short space, he fulfilled a long time:

14 For his soul pleased God: therefore he hastened to bring him out of the midst of iniquities: but the people see this, and understand not, nor lay up such things in their hearts:

15 That the grace of God, and his mercy is with his saints, and that he hath respect to his chosen.

16 But the just that is dead, condemneth the wicked that are living, and youth soon ended, the long life of the unjust.

17 For they shall see the end of the wise man, and shall not understand what God hath designed for him, and why the Lord hath set him in safety.

18 They shall see him, and shall despise him but the Lord shall laugh them to scorn.

19 And they shall fall after this without honear, and be a reproach among the dead for ever: for he shall burst them puried up and speechless and shall shake them from the foundations, and they shall be utterly laid waste they shall be in sorrow, and their memory shall perish.

CHAP. V.

The frictless repentance of the wicked in another world the reward of the just.

THEN shall the just stand with great constancy against those that have afflicted them, and taken away their labours.

2 These seeing it, shall be troubled with terrible fear, and shall be amazed at the suddenness of their unexpected salvation,

3 Srying within themselves, repenting, and groaning for angulsh of spirit: These are they, whom we had some time in derision, and for a parable of reproveh

9 But a greater punishment is ready for the more mighty.

10 To you, therefore, O kings, are these my words, that you may learn wisdom, and not fall from it.

11 For they that have kept inst things justly, shall be justified: and they that have learned these things, shall find what to answer.

12 Covet ye therefore my words, and love them, and you shall have instruction. 13 Wisdom is glorious, and never fadeth away, and is easily seen by them that love her, and is found by them that seek her.

desire of discipline.

19 And the care of discipline is love: and love is the keeping of her laws: and the keeping of her laws is the firm foundation of incorruption:

20 And incorruption bringeth near to God.

21 Therefore the desire of wisdom bringeth to the overlasting kingdom.

22 If then your delight be in thrones, and ceptres, O ye kings of the people, love wisdom, that you may reign for ever.

23 Love the light of wisdom, all ye that bear

"ale over peoples.

24 Now what wisdom is, and what was her origin, I will declare: and I will not hide from you the mysteries of God, but will seek her out from the beginning of her birth, and bring the knowledge of her to light, and will not pass over the truth:

25 Neither will I go with consuming envy: for such a man shall not be partaker of wisdom.

26 Now the multitude of the wise is the weltare of the whole world: and a wise king is the upholding of the people.

27 Receive therefore instruction by my words, and it shall be profitable to you.

CHAP. VII.

The excellence of wisdom: how she is to be found.

MYSELF also am a mortal man, like all others, and of the race of him, that was first made of the earth, and in the womb of my mother I was fashioned to be flesh.

2 In the time of ten months I was compacted in blood, of the seed of man, * and the pleasure of sleep concurring.

- 3 And being born I drew in the common air, and fell upon the earth, that is made alike, and the first voice which I uttered was crying, as all others do.
- 4 I was nursed in swaddling clothes, and with - great cares. 5 For none of the kings had any other begin-spirit of wisdom came upon me:

8 And I preferred her before kingdoms and thrones, and esteemed riches nothing in comparison of her. 9 ‡ Neither did I compare unto her any precious stone: for all gold in comparison of her, is as a little sand, and silver in respect to her shall be counted as clay.

10 I loved her above health and beauty, and · chose to have her instead of light: for her light cannot be put out.

11 & Now all good things came to me together with her, and innumerable riches through ber hands, 12 And I rejoiced in all these: for this wisdom went before me, and I knew not that she was the mother of them all.

13 Which I have learned without guile, and communicate without envy, and her riches I Lide not.

14 For she is an infinite treasure to men! which they that use, become the friends of God, being commended for the gift of discipline.

15 And God hath given to me to speak as I would, and to conceive thoughts worthy of those things that are given me: because he is the mide of wisdom, and the director of the wise: 16 For in his hand are both we, and our words, and all wisdom, and the knowledge are skill of works.

17 For he hath given me the true knowledge of the things that are: to know the disposition of the whole world, and the virtues of the ola positions of the stars,

20 The natures of living creatures, and ruga of wild beasts, the force of winds, and reason ings of men, the diversities of plants, and the virtues of roots,

21 And all such things as are hid and not foreseen, I have learned: for wisdom, which is the worker of all things, taught me.

22 For in her is the spirit of understanding. holy, one, manifold, subtile, eloquent, active, un defiled, sure, sweet, loving that which is good quick, which nothing hindereth, beneficent, 23 Gentle, kind, steadfast, assured, secure having all power, overseeing all things, and containing all spirits: intelligible, purc, subtile.

24 For wisdom is more active than all active things: and reacheth every where by reason or her purity.

25 For she is a vapour of the power of God, and a certain pure emanation of the glory of the almighty God: and therefore no defiled thing cometh into her.

26 | For she is the brightness of eternal light and the unspotted mirror of God's majesty, and the image of his goodness.

27 And being but one, she can do all things: and remaining in herself the same, she reneweth all things, and through nations conveyeth herself into holy souls, she maketh the friends of God and prophets.

28 For God loveth none but him that dwelleth with wisdom.

29 For she is more beautiful than the sun and above all the order of the stars: being compared with the light, she is found before it 30 For after this cometh night, but no evil can overcome wisdom.

CHAP. VIII.

Further praises of wisdom: and her fruits. CHE reacheth therefore from end to end inightily, and ordereth all things sweetly.

2 Her have I loved, and have sought her out from my youth, and have desired to take her for my spouse, and I became a lover of her beauty.

3 She glorifieth her nobility by being verant with God: yea and the Lord of all things hath loved her.

4 For it is she that teacheth the knowledge of God, and is the chooser of his works.

5 And if riches be desired in life, what is richer than wisdom, which maketh all things? 6 And if sense do work: who is a more artful worker than she of those things that are?

7 And if a man love justice: her labours have great virtues: for she teacheth temperance, and prudence, and justice, and fortitude, which are such things as men can have nothing more profitable in life.

8 And if a man desire much knowledge: she knoweth things past, and judgeth of things to come: she knoweth the subtilties of speechs and the solutions of arguments: see knoweth signs and wonders before they be done, and the events of times and ages.

9 I purposed therefore to take her to me to live with me: knowing that she will communicate to me of her good things, and will be a comfort in my cares and grief.

10 For her sake I shall have glory among the multitude, and honour with the ancients, though

I be young:

11 And I shall be found of a quick conceit in judgment, and shall be admired in the sight of the mighty, and the faces of princes shall wonder at me.

12 They shall wait for me when I hold my peace, and they shall look upon me when I speak, and if I talk much they shall lay their hands on their mouth.

13 Moreover by the means of her I shall have immortality: and shall leave behind me an everlasting memory to them that come after me.

14 I shall set the people in order: and nations shall be subject to me.

15 Terrible kings hearing shall be afraid of me: among the multitude I shall be found good, and valiant in war.

16 When I go into my house, I shall repose myself with her: for her conversation hath no bitterness, nor her company any tediousness, but joy and gladness.

17 Thinking these things with myself, and pondering them in my heart, that to be allied to wisdom is immortality,

18 And that there is great delight in her friendship, and inexhaustible riches in the works of her hands, and in the exercise of conference with her, wisdom, and glory in the communication of her words: I went about seeking, that I might take her to myself.

19 And I was a witty child, and had received a good soul.

20 And whereas I was more good, I came to 10 For when they were tried, and chastised with mercy, they knew how the wicked were judged with wrath and tormented.

11 For thou didst admonish and try them as a father: but the others, as a severe king, thou didst examine and condemn.

12 For whether absent or present, they were

22 Therefore whereas thou chastisest us, thou sconrgest our enemies very many ways, to the end that when we judge we may think on thy goodness: and when we are judged, we may hope for thy mercy.

23 Wherefore thou hast also greatly tormented them who in their life have lived foolishly and anjustly, by the same things which they worshipped.

24 § For they went astray for a long time in the ways of error, holding those things tor gods which are the most worthless among beasts, living after the manner of children without understanding.

25 Therefore thon hast sent a judgment upon

9 For if they were able to know so much, as to make a judgement of the world: how did they not more easily find out the Lord thereof?

10 But unhappy are they, and their hope is among the dead, who have called gods the works of the hands of men, gold and silver, the inventions of art, and the resemblances of beasts, or an unprofitable stone the work of an ancient hand.

11 † Or if an artist a carpenter hath cut down a tree, proper for his use in the wood, and skilfully taken off all the bark thereof, and with his art diligently formeth a vessel profit-

9 But to God the wicked and his wickedness are hateful alike.

10 For that which is made, together with him that made it, shall suffer torments.

11 Therefore there shall be no respect had even to the idols of the Gentiles: because the creatures of God are turned to an abomination, and a temptation to the souls of men, and a snare to the feet of the unwisc.

12 For the beginning of fornication is the devising of idols: and the invention of them is the corruption of life,

13 For neither were they from the beginning, neither shall they be for ever. 14 For by the vanity of men they came into the world: and therefore they shall be found to come shortly to an end, 15 For a father being afflicted with bitter grief, made to himsel, the Image of his son who was quickly taken away: and him who then had died as a man, he began now to worship as a god, and appointed him rites and sacrifices among his servants.

16 Then in process of time, wicked custom prevailing, this error was kept as a law, and statues were worshipped by the commandment of tyrants.

17 And those whom men could not honour in presence, because they dwelt far off, they brought their resemblance from afar, and made an express image of the king whom they had a mind to henour: that by this their diligence, they might honour as present, him that was absent.

18 And to the wors ipping of these, the singular diligence also of the artificer helped to set forward the ignorant

19 For he being wi ling to please him that employed him, laboured with all his art to make the resemblance in the best manner.

20 And the multitude of men, carried away by the beauty of the work, took him now for a god that a little before was but honoured as a man. 21 And this was the occasion of deceiving human life: for men serving either their affections, or their kings, gave the incommunicable names to stones and wood.

22 And it was not enough for them to err about the knowledge of God, but whereas they lived in a great war of ignorance, they call so many and so great evil; peace.

23 TFor either they sacr fice their own children, or use hidden sacrifices, or keep 28 For either they are mad when they are merry: or they prophesy lies, or they live unjusty, or easily forswear themselves.

29 For whilst they trust in idols, which are without life, though they swear amiss, they look not to be hurt.

30 But for two things they shall be justly punished, because they have thought not well of God, giving heed to idols, and have sworn

The servants of God praise him who hath delivered them from idolatry; condemning both the makers and the from idolatry; condemning both the makers and the worshippers of idola.

BUT thou, our God, art gracious and true, patient, and ordering all things in mercy. 2 For if we sin, we are thine, knowing thy reatness: and if we sin not, we know that pared to these, are worse than they.

these things, and by the like things to these, they were worthily punished and were destroyed by a multitude of beasts.

2 Instead of punishment, dealing well with thy people ‡ thou gavest them their desire of delicious food, of a new taste, preparing for them quails for their meat:

3 To the end that they indeed desiring

3 To the end that they indeed desiring food, by means of those things that were shown and sent among them, might loathe even that which was necessary to satisfy their desire. But these, after suffering want for a short time, tasted a new meat.

4 For it was requisite that inevitable destruction should come upon them that exercised tyranny: but to these it should only be shewn how their enemies were destroyed.

5 For when the fierce rage of beasts came upon these, they were destroyed with the bitings of crooked serpents.

6 But thy wrath endured not for ever, but they were troubled for a short time for their correction, having a sign of salvation to put them in remembrance of the commandment of thy law.

7 For he that turned to it, was not healed by that which he saw, but by thee the 8 And in this thou didst shew to our enemies, that thou art he who deliverest from all evil.

9 || For the bitings of locusts, and of flies killed them, and there was found no remedy for their life: because they were worthy to be destroyed by such things.

10 But not even the teeth of venomous serpents overcame thy children: for thy mercy came and healed them.

11 For they were examined for the remem brance of thy words, and were quickly healed, lest falling into deep forgetfulness, they might not be able to use thy help,

12 For it was neither herb, nor mollifying plaster that healed them, but thy word, O

Lord, which healeth all things.

13 * For it is thou, O Lord, that hast power of life and death, and leadest down to the gates of death, and bringest back again

14 A man indeed killeth through malice, and when the spirit is gone forth, it shall not return, neither shall he call back the soul that is received:

15 But it is impossible to escape thy hand. 16 + For the wicked that denied to know thee, were scourged by the strength of thy arm, being persecuted by strange waters, and hail, and rain, and consumed by fire

17 And which was wonderful, in water, which extinguisheth all things, the fire had more force: for the world fighteth for the just.

18 For at one time, the fire was mitigated, that the beasts which were sent against the wicked might not be burnt, but that they might see and perceive that they were prosecuted by the judgment of God

19 And at another time the fire, above its own power, burnt in the midst of water, to destroy the fruits of a wicked land.

20 # Instead of which things thou didst feed thy people with the food of Angels, and gavest them bread from heaven prepared without labour: having in it all that is delicious, and the sweetness of every taste.
21 For thy sustenance shewed thy sweetness to thy children, and serving every man's will, it was turned to what every man liked.

22 But snow and ice endured the force of fire, and melted not: that they might know that fire burning in the hail and flashing in the rain destroyed the fruits of the enemies.

23 But this same again, that the just might be nourished, did even forget its own strength.

24 For the creature serving thee the Creator, is made fierce against the unjust for their punishment: and abated its strength for the benefit of them that trust in thee.

25 Therefore even then it was transformed into all things, and was obedient to thy grace that nourisheth all, according to the will of them that desireth it of thee:

26 That thy children, O Lord, | whom thou lovedst, might know that it is not the growing of fruits that nourisheth men, but thy word preserveth them that believe in thee.

27 For that which could not be destroyed by fire, being warmed with a little sun-beam presently melted away:

28 That it might be known to all, that we ought to prevent the sun to bless thee, and adore thee at the dawning of the light

29 For the hope of the unthankful shall melt away as the winter's ice, and shall run off as unprofitable water.

to have dominion over the holy nation, they themselves being fettered with the bonds of darkness, and a long night, shut up in their houses, lay there exiled from the eternal providence.

3 And while they thought to lie hid in their obscure sins, theywere scattered under a dark veil of forgetfulness, being horribly afraid and troubled with exceeding great astonishment.

4 For neither did the den that held them keep them from fear: for noises coming down troubled them, and sad visions appearing to them, affrighted them.

5 And no power of fire could give them light, neither could the bright flames of the stars enlighten that horrible night.

6 But there appeared to them a sudden fire, very dreadful: and being struck with the fear of that face which was not seen, they thought the things which they saw to be worse:

7  And the delusions of their magic art were put down, and their boasting of wisdom.

was reproachfully rebuked.

8 For they who promised to drive away fears and troubles from a sick soul, were sick themselves of a fear worthy to be laughed at.

9 For though no terrible thing disturbed them: yet being scared with the passing by of beasts, and hissing of serpents, they died for fear: and denying that they saw the air, which could by no means be avoided.

10 For whereas wickedness is fearful, it beareth witness of its condemnation: for a troubled conscience always forecasteth grieyous things.

11 For fear is nothing else but a yielding up of the succours from thought.

12 And while there is less expectation from within, the greater doth it count theignorance of that cause which bringeth the torment.

13 But they that during the night, in which nothing could be done, and which came upon them from the lowest and deepest hell, slept the same sleep.

14 Were sometimes molested with the fear of monsters, sometimes fainted away, their soul failing them: for a sudden and unlooked for fear was come upon them.

15 Moreover if any of them had fallen down he was kept shut up in prison without irons. 16 For if any one were a husbandman, or a shepherd, or a labourer in the field, and was suddenly overtaken, he endured a necessity from which he could not fly.

17 For they were all bound together with one chain of darkness. Whether it were a whistling wind or the melodious voice of birds. among the spreading branches of trees, or & fall of water running down with violence.

18 Or the mighty noise of stones tumbling down, or the running that could not be seen of beasts playing together, or the roaring voice of wild beasts, or a rebounding eche from the highest mountains: these things made them to swoon for fear.

19 For the whole world was enlightened with a clear light, and none were hindered in their labours.

20 But over them only was spread a heav night, an image of that darkness which wa to come upon them. But they were to them selves more grievous than the darkness.

21 I For a blameless man made haste t pray for the people, bringing forth the shield of his ministry, prayer, and by incense making supplication, withstood the wrath, and put an end to the calamity, shewing that he was thy servant.

22 And he overcame the disturbance, not by strength of body nor with force of arms, but with a word he subdued him that punished them, alleging the oaths and covenant made with the fathers.

BUT as to the wicked, even to the end there came upon them wrath without mercy. For he knew before also what they would do:

2 For when they had given them leave to depart, and had sent them away with great care, they repented, and pursued after them.

3 † For whilst they were yet mourning, and lamenting at the graves of the dead, they took up another foolish device; and pursued them as fugitives whom they had pressed to be gone:

4 For a necessity, of which they were worthy, brought them to this end: and they lost the remembrance of those things which had happened, that their punishment might fill up what was wanting to their torments:

5 And that thy people might wonderfully pass through, but they might find a new death.

6 For every creature according to its kind, was fashioned again as from the beginning, obeying thy commandments, that thy children might be kept without hurt.

7 For a cloud overshadowed their camp, and where water was before, dry land appeared, and in the Red Sea a way without hindrance, and out of the great deep a springing field:

8 Through which all the nation passed which was protected by thy hand, seeing thy miracles and wonders.

9 For they fed on their food like horses, and they skipped like lambs, praising thee, O Lord, who hadst delivered them.

10 For they were yet mindful of those things which had been done in the time of their sojourning, how the ground brought forth flies instead of cattle, and how the river cast up a multitude of frogs instead of fishes.

11 1 And at length they saw a new genera-tion of birds, when being led by their appelite they asked for delicate meats.

12 For to satisfy their desire, the quail came up to them from the sea: and punishments came upon the sinners, not without foregoing signs by the force of thunders: for they suffered justly according to their own wickedness.

13 For they exercised a more detestable inhospitality than any: others indeed received not strangers unknown to them, but these brought their guests into bondage that had deserved well of them.

14 And not only so, but in another respect also they were worse: for the others against their will received the strangers.

ECCLESIASTICUS.

This Book is so called from a Greek word that signifies preacher: because, like an excellent preacher, it gives admiable lessons of all virtues. The author was Jesus the son of Sirach of Jerusalem, who flourished about two hundrivers before Christ. As it was written after the time of Endras, it is not in the Jewish canon: but is received a canonical and divine by the catholic church, instructed by apostolical tradition, and directed by the Spirit of Go It was first wrote in the Hebrew, and afterwards translated into Greek by another Jesus, the grandson of the authouchose prologue to this Book is the following:

THE PROLOGUE.

In knowledge of many and great things hath been shewn us by the law, and the prophets, and others the have followed them; for which things Israel is to be commended for doctrine and wisdom; because not on they that speak must needs be skilful, but strangers also, both speaking and writing, may by their mean become most learned. My grandfather Jesus, after he had much given himself to a diligent reading of the way, and the prophets, and other books, that were delivered to us from our fathers, had a mind also to writing himself, pertaining to doctrine and wisdom; that such as are desirous to learn, and are maken which is the same the strengthened to live according to the law. I entreat you therefore to come with henevolence, and to read with attention, and to parke to the law. I entreat you therefore to come with henevolence, and to read with attention, and to parke to so the same shore in them when translated into another to so the same force in them when translated into another when the same shore in them when translated into another when the same shore in the sighth and thirtieth year combinated. And not only these, but the law also itself, and the prophets, and the rest of the books, have small difference, when they are spoken in their own language. For in the eighth and thirtieth year combined to the same shore the same shore the seeds were small nor contemptible learning. Therefore I thought it good, and necessary for me to bestow so diligence and labour to interpret this book; and with much watching and study in some space of time brought the book to an end, and set it forth for the service of them that are willing to apply their mind, at the law they ought to conduct themselves who purpose to lead their life according to the law of the law. to learn how they ought to conduct themselves who purpose to lead their life according to the law of Lord.

17 And what will they do, when the Lord shall begin to examine.

18 They that fear the Lord, will not be incredulous to his word: I and they that love him will keep his way.

19 They that fear the Lord, will seek after the things that are well pleasing to him: and they that love him, shall be filled with his law.

20 They that fear the Lord, will prepare their hearts, and in his sight will sanctify their souls.

21 They that fear the Lord, keep his commandments, and will have patience even unto his visitation, 22 Saying: If we do not penance, we shall fall into the hands of the Lord, and not into the hands of men.

23 For according to his greatness, so also is his mercy with him.

CHAP. III.

Lessons concerning the honour of parents, and humility, and avoiding curiosity.

THE sons of wisdom are the church of the just: and their generation, obedience and love.

2 Children, hear the judgment of your father, and so do that you may be saved.

3 For God hath made the father honourable to the children: and seeking the judgment of the mothers, hath confirmed it upon the children.

4 He that loveth God, shall obtain pardon for his sins by prayer, and shall refrain himself from them, and shall be heard in the prayer of days.

5 And he that honoureth his mother is as one that layeth up a treasure.

6 He that honoureth his father shall have joy in his own children, and in the day of his prayer he shall be heard.

7 He that honoureth his father shall enjoy a long life: and he that obeyeth the father, shall be a comfort to his mother.

8 He that feareth the Lord, honoureth his parents, and will serve them as his masters that brought him into the world 9 * Honour thy father, in work and word, and all patience,

10 That a blessing may come upon thee from him, and his blessing may remain in the latter end.

11 +The father's blessing establisheth the houses of the children: but the mother's curse rooteth up the foundation.

12 Glory not in the dishonour of thy father:

for his shame is no glory to thee.

13 For the glory of a man is from the honour of his father, and a father without hopour is the disgrace of the son.

14 Son, support the old age of thy father, and grieve him not in his life

15 And if his understanding fail, have patience with him, and despise him not when thou art in thy strength: for the relieving of the father shall not be forgotten.

16 For good shall be repaid to thee for the sin of thy mother.

17 And in justice thou shalt be built up, and in the day of affliction thou shalt be remembered: and thy sins shall melt away as the ice in the fair warm weather.

18 Of what an evil fame is he that forsaketh his father: and he is cursed of God that angereth his mother.

19 My son, do thy works in meekness, and thou shalt be beloved above the glory of men.

20 t The greater thou art, the more humble thyself in all things, and thou shalt find grace before God:

21 For great is the power of God alone, and he is honoured by the humble.

22 (Seek not the things that are too high for thee, and search not into things above thy ability: but the things that God hath commanded thee, think on them always, and in many of his works be not curious.

23 For it is not necessary for thee to see with thy eyes those things that are hid.

24 In unnecessary matters be not overcurious, and in many of his works thou shalt not be inquisitive.

25 For many things are shewn to thee

26 And the suspicion of them hath deceived many, and hath detained their minds in vanity.

27 A hard heart shall fear evil at the last: and he that loveth danger shall perish in it.

28 A heart that goeth two ways shall not have success, and the perverse of heart shall be scandalized therein.

29 A wicked heart shall be laden with sorrows, and the sinner will add sin to sin.

30 The congregation of the proud shall not be healed: for the plant of wickedness shall take root in them, and it shall not be perceived.

CHAP. IV. Ver. 18t-In templation, &c. The meaning is that before wisdom will choose any for her favour ite, she will try them by leading them through contradictions, afflictions, and temptations, the usual noviceship of the children of God.

31 The heart of the wise is understood in wisdom, and a good ear will hear wisdom with all desire.

32 A wise heart, and which hath understanding, will abstain from sins, and in the works of justice shall have success.

33 || Water quencheth a flaming fire, and alms resisteth sins:

34 And God provideth for him that sheweth favour: he remembereth him afterwards, and in the time of his fall he shall find a sure stay.

CHAP. IV.

An enhortation to works of mercy, and to the love of wisdom.

YON, I defraud not the poor of alms, and turn not away thy eyes from the poor.

2 Despise not the hungry soul: and provoke not the poor in his want.

3 Afflict not the heart of the needy, and defer not to give to him that is in distress.

4 Reject not the petition of the afflicted; and turn not away thy face from the needy.

5 Turn not away thy eyes from the poor for fear of anger: and leave not to them that ask of thee to curse thee behind thy back.

6 For the prayer of him that curseth thee in the bitterness of his soul, shall be heard for he that made him will hear him. 7 Make thyself affable to the congregation of the poor, and humble thy soul to the ancient, and bow thy head to a great man. 8 Bow down thy ear cheerfully to the poor and pay what thou owest, and answer hin peaceable words with mildness.

CHAP. V.

We must not presume of our wealth or strength; nor of the nercy of God, to go on in sin; we must be steadfast in virtue and truth.

SET not thy heart upon unjust possessions, and say not: I have enough to live on: for it shall be of no service in the time of vengeance and darkness.

2 Follow not in thy strength the desires of thy heart:

3 And say not: How mighty am I? and who shall bring me under for my deeds? for God will surely take revenge.

4 Say not: I have sinned, and what harm hath befallen me? for the most High is a paient rewarder.

15 Honour and glory is in the word of the wise, but the tongue of the fool is his ruin.

Of true and false friends: and of the fruits of wisdom

NSTEAD of a friend become not an enemy to thy neighbour: for an evil man shall inherit reproach and shame, so shall every sinner that is envious and double-tongued.

2 Extol not thyself in the thoughts of thy soul like a bull: lest thy strength be quashed

4 For a wicked soul shall destroy him that hath it, and maketh him to be a joy to shis enemies, and shall lead him into the lot of the wicked.

5 A sweet word multiplieth friends, and appeaseth enemies, and a gracious tongue in a good man aboundeth.

6 Be in peace with many, but let one of a thousand be thy counsellor.

7 If thou wouldst get a friend, try him before thou takest him, and do not credit him

8 For there is a friend for his own occasion, and he will not abide in the dayof thy trouble.

9 And there is a friend that turneth to enmity: and there is a friend that will disclose hatred and strife and reproaches.

10 And there is a friend a companion at the table, and he will not abide in the day of dis-

11 A friend if he continue steadfast, shall be to thee as thyself, and shall act with confidence among them of thy household.

12 If he humble himself before thee, and hide himself from thy face, thou shalt have unanimous friendship for good.

13 Separate thyself from thy enemies, and take heed of thy friends.

14 A faithful friend is a strong defence: and he that hath found him hath found a treasure.

15 Nothing can be compared to a faithful friend, and no weight of gold and silver is able to countervail the goodness of his fidelity

16 A faithful friend is the medicine of life and immortality: and they that fear the Lord, shall find him.

17 He that feareth God, shall likewise have good friendship: because according to him shall his friend be.

18 My son, from thy youth up receive instruction, and even to thy grey hairs thou shalt find wisdom.

19 Come to her as one that plougheth, and soweth, and wait for her good fruits.

20 For in working about her thou shalt labour a little, and shall quickly eat of her fruits.

22 She shall be to them as a mighty stone of trial, and they will cast her from them be-

23 For the wisdom of doctrine is according to her name, and she is not manifest unto many, but with them to whom she is known she continueth even to the sight of God.

24 Give ear, my son, and take wise counsel, and east not away my advice.

25 Put thy feet into her fetters, and thy neck into her chains :

26 Bow down thy shoulder, and bear her, and be not grieved with her bands.

27 Come to her with all thy mind, and keep her ways with all thy power.

28 Search for her, and she shall be made known to thee, and when thou hast gotten her, let her not go:

29 For in the latter end thou shalt find rest in her, and she shall be turned to thy joy.

30 Then shall her fetters be a strong defence for thee, and a firm foundation, and her chain a robe of glory:
31 For in her is the beauty of life, and her bonds are a healthful binding.

32 Thou shalt put her on as a robe of glory and thou shalt set her upon thee as a crown of joy.

33 My son, if thou wilt attend to me, thou shalt learn: and if thou wilt apply thy mind thou shalt be wise.

34 If thou wilt incline thy ear, thou shalt receive instruction: and if thou love to hear,

thou shalt be wise.

35 * Stand in the multitude of ancients that are wise, and join thyself from thy heart to their wisdom, that thou mayst hear every discourse of God, and the sayings of praise may not escape thee.

36 And if thou see a man of understanding, go to him early in the morning, and let thy foot wear the steps of his doors.

37 † Let thy thoughts be upon the precepts of God, and meditate continually on his commandments: and he will give thee a heart, and the desire of wisdomshall be given to thee.

the prudence of the rulers.

4 The power of the earth is in the hand of God, and in his time he will raise up a profitable ruler over it.

5 The prosperity of man is in the hand of God, and upon the person of the scribe he shall lay his honour.

6 Remember not any injury done thee by thy neighbour, ; and do thou nothing by deeds of injury. 7 Pride is hateful before God and men:

and all iniquity of nations is execrable. 8 & A kingdom is translated from one people to another, because of injustices, and wrongs, and injuries, and divers deceits.

9 But nothing is more wicked than the covetous man. Why is earth and ashes proud?

10 There is not a more wicked thing than to love money: for such a one setteth even his own soul to sale: because while he liveth he hath cast away his bowels.

11 All power is of short life. A long sickness is troublesome to the physician.

12 The physician cutteth off a short sickness: so also a king is to-day, and to-morrow he shall die.

16 Therefore hath the Lord disgraced the assemblies of the wicked, and hath utterly destroyed them.

17 God hath overturned the thrones of proud princes, and hat h set up the meek in their stead.

4 He put the fear of him upon all flesh, and he had dominion over beasts and fowls.

5 tHe created of him a helpmate like to himself: he gave them counsel, and a tongue, and eyes, and ears, and a heart to devise: and he filled them with the knowledge of understanding.

6 He created in them the science of the spirit, he filled their heart with wisdom, and shewed them both good and evil.

7 He set his eye upon their hearts to shew

the greatness of his works:

8 That they might praise the name which he hath sanctified: and glory in his wondrous acts, that they might declare the glorious things of his works.

9 Moreover he gave them instructions, and 20 There is a subtle wickedness, and the same is detestable: and there is a man that is foolish, wanting in wisdom.

21 Better is a man that hath less wisdom, and wanteth understanding, with the fear of God, than he that aboundeth in understanding, and transgresseth the law of the Most High.

22 There is an exquisite subtilty, and the same is unjust.

23 And there is one that uttereth an exact word telling the truth. There is one that humbleth himself wickedly, and his interior is full of deceit.

24 And there is one that submitteth himself exceedingly with a great lowliness: and there is one that casteth down his countenance, and maketh as if he did not see that which is

25 And if he be hindered from sinning for want of power, if he shall find opportunity to do evil, he will do it.

OW much better is it to reprove, than to be angry, and not to hinder him that confesseth in prayer!

2 * The lust of an eunuch shall deflower a young maiden :

3 So is he that by violence executeth unjust judgment.

4 How good is it, when thou art reproved, to shew repentance! for so thou shalt escape wilful sin.

5 There is one that holdeth his peace, that is found wise: and there is another that is hateful, that is bold in speech.

6 There is one that holdeth his peace, because he knoweth not what to say: and there is another that holdeth his peace, knowing the proper time.

7 A wise man will hold his peace till he see opportunity; but a babbler, and a fool, will regard no time.

8 He that useth many words shall hurt his own soul: and he that taketh authority to himself unjustly, shall be hated.

9 There is success in evil things to a man without discipline, and there is a finding that turneth to loss.

10 There is a gift that is not profitable: and there is a gift, the recompense of which is double.

11 There is an abasement because of glory and there is one that shall lift up his head from a low estate.

12 There is that buyeth much for a small price, and restoreth the same sevenfold.

13 A man wise in words shall make himself beloved: but the graces of fools shall be poured out.

14 The gift of the fool shall do thee no good: for his eyes are sevenfold.

15 He will give a few things, and upbraid much, and the opening of his mouth is the kindling of a fire.

16 To-day a man lendeth, and to-morrow he asketh it again: such a man as this is hateful. 17 A fool shall have no friend, and there shall be no thanks for his good deeds.

18 For they that eat his bread, are of a false tongue. How often, and how many will laugh him to scorn?

19 For he doth not distribute with right understanding that which was to be had: in like manner also that which was not to be had.

20 The slipping of a false tongue is as one that falleth on the pavement: so the fall of the wicked shall come speedily.

21 A man without grace is as a vain fable, It shall be continually in the mouth of the unwise. 22 A parable coming out of a fool's mouth shall be rejected: for he doth not speak in due season. 23 There is that is hindered from sinning through want, and in his rest he shall be not allowed to be good : and there is one that | an unwise person he will destroy it : and by respect of persons he will destroy himself. 25 There is that for bashfulness promiseth to his friend, and maketh him his enemy for nothing.

26 A lie is a foul blot in a man, and yet if will be continually in the mouth of men without discipline.

27 A thief is better than a man that is always lying: but both of them shall inherit destruction.

28 The manners of lying men are without honour: and their confusion is with them without ceasing.

29 A wise man shall advance himself with his words, and a prudent man shall please the great ones.

30 He that tilleth his land shall make a high heap of corn: and he that worketh justice shall be exalted; and he that pleaseth great men shall escape iniquity.

31 + Presents and gifts blind the eyes of judges, and make them dumb in the mouth, so that they cannot correct.

Cautions against sin in general, and some sins in particular.

Y son, hast thou sinned? do so no more, but for thy former sins also pray that they may be forgiven thee.

2 Flee from sins as from the face of a serpent, for if thou comest near them, they will take hold of thee.

3 The teeth thereof are the teeth of a lion, killing the souls of men.

4 All iniquity is like a two edged sword, there is no remedy for the wound thereof. 5 Injuries and wrongs will waste riches; and the house that is very rich shall be brought to nothing by pride: so the substance of the proud shall be rooted out. 6 The prayer out of the mouth of the poor shall reach the ears of God, and judgment shall come for him speedily.

7 He that hateth to be reproved walketh in the trace of a sinner; and he that feareth God will turn to his own heart 8 He that is mighty by a bold tongue is 19 The talking of a fool is like a burden in the way: but in the lips of the wise, grace shall be found.

26 The mouth of the prudent is sought after the church, and they will think upon his kurds in their hearts.

21 As a house that is destroyed, so is wisdom to a fool: and the knowledge of the unwise is as words without sense.

22 Doctrine to a fool is as fetters on the feet, and like manacles on the right hand.

23 A fool lifteth up his voice in laughter: but wise man will scarce laugh low to himself. 24 Learning to the prudent is as an ornament of gold, and like a bracelet upon his right arm. 25 The foot of a fool is soon in his neighbour's house but a man of experience will be abashed at the person of the mighty.

26 A fool will peep through the window into the house: but he that is well taught, will stand without.

27 It is the folly of a man to hearken at the door and a wise man will be grieved with the disgrace.

28 The lips of the unwise will be telling fooltch things: but the words of the wise shall be weighed in a balance.

29 The heart of fools is in their mouth: and the mouth of wise men is in their heart.

30 While the ungodly curset! the devil, he

12 Then the creator of all things commanded, and said t) me: and he that made me, rested

14 * From the beginning, and before the world, was I created, and unto the world to wine I shall not cease to be, and in the holy ewelling-place I have ministered before him.

15 And so was I established in Sion, and in the hely city likewise I rested, and my power was in Jerusalem.

16 And I took root in an honourable people, and in the portion of my God his inheritance, and my abode is in the full assembly of saints.

17 I was exalted like a cedar in Libanus, and as a cypress-tree on mount Sion.

18 I was exalted like a palm-tree in Caden,

Documents of wisdom on several subjects.

TITH three things my spirit is pleased which are approved before God, and mon:

2 The concord of brethren, and the love of neighbours, and man and wife that agree well together.

3 Three sorts my soul hateth, and I am greatly grieved at their life:

8 The oblation of the just maketh the altar fat, and is an odour of sweetness in the sight of the most High.

9 The sacrifice of the just is acceptable, and the Lord will not forget the memorial thereof. 10 Give glory to God with a good heart: and diminish not the first-fruits of thy hands. 11 T In every gift shew a cheerful countenance, and sanctify thy tithes with joy. 12 Give to the most High according to what he hath given to thee, and with a good eye do seconding to the ability of thy hands:

13 For the Lord maketh recompense, and will rive thee seven times as much.

14  Do not offer wicked gifts, for such he 'Il not receive.

15 And look not upon an unjust sacrifice, for the Lord is judge, if and there is not with him respect of person.

16 The Lord will not accept any person against a poor man, and he will hear the prayer of him that is wronged.

17 He will not despise the prayers of the fatherless: nor the widew, when she poureth out her complaint.

18 Do not the widew's tears run down the cheek, and her cry against him that causeth them to fall?

A prayer for the church of God. Of a good heart, and good wife.

HAVE mercy upon us, O God of all, and behold us, and shew us the light of the mercies:

2 And send thy fear upon the nations, tha have not sought after thee: that they may know that there is no God beside thee, and that the may shew forth thy wonders.

3 Lift up thy hand over the strange nations

Of the choice of friends and counsellors.

PVERY friend will say: I also am his friend:
but there is a friend, that is only a friend in name. Is not this a grief even to death?

2 But a companion and a friend shall be turned to an enemy.

3 O wicked presumption, whence camest thon to cover the earth with thy malice and deceit-

8 Every connsellor giveth out counsel, but here is one that is a counsellor for himself.

9 Beware of a counsellor. And know before what need he hath: for he will devise to his own mind:

10. Lest he thrust a stake into the ground, and say to thee:

11 Thy way is good; and then stand on the ther side to see what shall beful thec.

12 Treat not with a man without religion concerning holiness, nor with an unjust man concerning justice, nor with a woman touching ter of whom she is jealous, nor with a coward oncerning war, nor with a merchant about raffic, nor with a buyer of selling, nor with an nvious man of giving thanks, 13 Nor with the ungodly of plety, nor with he dishonest of honesty, nor with the field laourer of every work,

14 Nor with him that worketh by the year of te finishing of the year, nor with an idle serint of much business: give no heed to these any matter of counsel.

* Exod. 15. 25.

Lo But be continually with a holy man whomsoever thou shalt know to observe the fear of God,

16 Whose soul is according to thire own soul: and who, when thou shalt stumble in the dark, will be sorry for thee.

17 And establish within thyself a heart of good counsel: for there is no other thing on more worth to thee than it. 18 The soul of a holy man discovereth sometimes true things, more than seven watch-men that sit in a high place to watch.

19 But above all these things pray to tha most High, that he may direct thy way in cruth. 20 In all thy works let the true word go before thee, and steady counsel before every action.

21 A wicked word shall change the heart: oot of which four manner of things arise, good and evil, life and death: and the tongue is continually the ruler of them. There is a man that is subtle and a teacher of many, and yet is unprofitable to his own soul.

22 A skilful man had taught many, and is sweet to his own soul.

23 He that speaketh sophistically, is hateful: he shall be destitute of every thing.

24 Grace is not given him from the Lord: for he is deprived of all wisdom.

25 There is a wise man that is wise to his own soul: and the fruit of his understanding is commendable.

26 A wise man instructeth his own people, and the fruits of his understanding are faithful 27 A wise man shall be filled with blessings, and they that see shall praise him.

28 The life of a man is in the number of his days: but the days of Israel are innumerable. 29 A wise man shall inherit honour among his people, and his name shall live for ever. 30 My son, prove thy soul in thy life: and if it be wicked, give it no power:

31 For all things are not expedient for all and every kind pleaseth not every soul. 32 Be not greedy in any feasting, and pour not out thyself upon any meat:

33 For in many meats there will be sickness, and greediness will turn to choler.

CHAP. XXXIX

The Lord is to be glorified The exercise of the wise 'man for his works.

THE wise man will seek out the wisdom of all the ancients, and will be occupied in the prophets.

2 He will keep the sayings of renowned men, and will enter withal into the subtilties of parables.

3 He will search out the hidden meanings of proverbs, and will be conversant in the secrets of parables.

4 He shall serve among great men, and appear before the governor.

5 He shall pass into strange countries: for he shall try good and evil among men.
6 He will give his heart to resort early to the Lord that made him, and he will pray in the sight of the most High 7 He will open his mouth in prayer, and will make supplication for his sins.

8 For if it shall please the great Lora, he will fill him with the spirit of understanding: 9 And he will pour forth the words of his wisdom as showers, and in his prayer he wil confess to the Lord. 10 And he shall direct his counsel, and his knowledge, and in his secrets shall he meditate. 11 He shall shew forth the discipline he lath learned, and shall glory in the law of the covenant of the Lord.

12 Many shall praise his wisdom, and it shall never be forgotten.

13 The memory of him shall not depart away, and his name shall be in request from generation to generation.

14 Nations hall declare his wisdom, and the church shall shew forth his praise.

15 If he continue, he shall leave a name above a thousand: and if he rest, it shall be to his advantage.

16 I will yet meditate that I may declare: for I am filled as with a holy transport.

17 By a voice he saith : Hear me, ye divine offspring, and bud forth as the rose planted by the brooks of waters.

shall be turned into evil.

these things and left them in writing.

Of the remembrance of death: If an evil and of a good name: of what things we ought to be ashamed.

DEATH, how bitter is the remembrance of thee to a man that hath peace in his possessions.

2 To a man that is at rest, and whose ways are prosperous in all things, and that is yet able to take meat!

3 O death, thy sentence is welcome to the man that is in need, and to him whose strength faileth.

4 Who is in a decrepit age, and that is in care about all things, and to the distrustful that .oseth patience!

5 Fear not the sentence of death. Rememper what things have been before thee, and what shall come after thee: this sentence is from the Lord upon all flesh.

6 And what shall come upon thee by the good pleasure of the most High? whether ten, or a hundred, or a thousand years.

7 For among the dead there is no accusing of life. 8 The children of sinners become children of abominations, and they that converse near the houses of the ungodly.

9 The inheritance of the children of sinners shall perish, and with their posterity shall be a perpetual reproach.

10 The children will complain of an ungodly father, because for his sake they are in reproach.

23 O how desirable are all his works, and what we can know is but as a spark !

24 All these things live, and remain for ever, and for every use all things obey him.

25 All things are double, one against another, and he hath made nothing defective.

26 He hath established the good things of every one. And who shall be filled with beholding his glory?

The works of God are exceedingly glorious and wonderful: no man is able sufficiently to praise him. HE firmament on high is his beauty, the

5 In lifting up his hand, with the stone in the sling he beat down the boasting of Goliah:

6 For he called upon the Lord the Almighty, and he gave strength in his right hand, to take away the mighty warrior, and to set up the horn of his nation.

7 || So in ten thousand did he glorify him and praise him in the blessings of the Lord, in offering to him a crown of glory:

8 For he destroyed the enemies on every side, and extirpated the Philistines, the adversaries unto this day : he broke their horn for ever.

9 In all his works he gave thanks to the holy One, and to the most High, with words of glory,

10 With his whole heart he praised the Lord, and loved God that made him: and he gave him power against his enemies:

11 And he set singers before the altar, and by their voices he made sweet melody.

12 And to the festivals he added beauty, and set in order the solemn times even to the end of his life, that they should praise the holy name of the Lord, and magnify the holiness of God in the morning.

and to David of the same stock.

What joy shall come after affictions by the outh and kingdom of Christ; which shall hourish for ever. Judg ments upon Isruel for their sins.

T the first time the land of Zabulon, and A the land of Nephthali was lightly touched: and at the last the way of the sea beyond the Jordan of the Galilee of the Gentiles was heavily loaded.

2 The people that walked in darkness, have seen a great light: to them that dwelt in the region of the shadow of death, light is risen.

3 Thou hast multiplied the nation, and has. not increased the joy. They shall rejoice before thee, as they that rejoice in the harvest, as conquerors rejoice after taking a prey, when they divide the spoils.

4 For the yoke of their burden, and the rod of their shoulder, and the sceptre of their oppressor thou hast overcome, ; as in the day of

5 For every violent taking of spoils, will; tumult, and garment mingled with blood, shall be burnt, and be fuel for the fire.

7 His empire shall be multiplied, and there shall be no end of peace: he shall sit apon the throne of David, and upon his kingdom: to establish it and strengthen it with judgment and with justice, from henceforth and for ever: the zeal of the Lord of hosts will perform this.

8 The Lord sent a word into Jacob, and it hath lighted upon Israel.

9 And all the people of Ephraim shall know, and the inhabitants of Samaria that say in the pride and haughtiness of their heart:

10 The bricks are fallen down, but we will build with square stones: they have cut down the sycamores, but we will change them for cedars.

11 And the Lord shall set up the enemies of Rasin over him, * and shall bring on his enemies in a crowd:

12 The Syrians from the east, and the Philistines from the west: and they shall devour Israel with open mouth. For all this his indignation is not turned away, but his hand is stretched out still.

13 And the people are not returned to him who hath struck them, and have not sought efter the Lord of hosts.

14 And the Lord shall destroy out of Israel the head and the tail, him that bendeth down, and him that holdeth back, in one day.

15 The aged and honourable, he is the head: and the prophet that teacheth lies, he is the tail. 16 And they that call this people blessed, shall cause them to err: and they that are called blessed, shall be thrown down headlong.

17 Therefore the Lord shall have no joy in their young men: neither shall he have mercy on their fatherless, and widows: for every one is a hypocrite and wicked, and every mouth hath spoken folly. For all this his indignation is not turned away, but his hand is stretched cut still.

18 For wickedness is kindled as a fire, it shall devour the brier and the thorn : and shall kindle in the thicket of the forest, and it shall be wrapped up in smoke ascending on high.

19 By the wrath of the Lord of hosts the land is troubled, and the people shall be as fuel for the fire: no man shall spare his brother.

20 And he shall turn to the right hand, and shall be hungry: and shall eat on the left hand, and shall not be filled: every one shall eat the flesh of his own arm: Manasses Ephraim, and Ephraim Manasses, and they together shall be against Juda.

21 After all these things his indignation is not turned away, but his hand is stretched out still.

Samaria.

11 Shall I not, as I have done to Samaria and her idols, so do to Jerusalem and her idols?

12 And it shall come to pass, that when the Lord shall have performed all his works i; mount Sion, and in Jerusalem, I will visit the truit of the proud heart of the king of † Assyria and the glory of the hanghtiness of his eyes.

The punishment of Egypt: their call to the shurch. THE burden of Egypt. Behold the Lord will ascend upon a swift cloud, and will enter into Egypt, and the idols of Egypt shall be moved at his presence, and the heart of Egypt shall melt in the midst thereof.

2 And I will set the Egyptians to fight against the Egyptians: and they shall fight brother against brother, and friend against friend, city against city, kingdom gainst kingdom.

3 And the spirit of Egypt shell be broken in the bowels thereof, and I will cast down their counsel: and they shall consult their idols, and their diviners, and their wizards, and soothsayers.

4 And I will deliver Egypt into the hand of cruel masters, and a strong king shall rule ove them, saith the Lord the God of hosts.

5 And the water of the sea shall be dried up gone up to the house tops?

2 Full of clamour, a populous city, a joyous city: thy slain are not slain by the sword, nor dead in battle.

3 All thy princes are fled together, and are bound hard : all that were found, are bound together, they are fied far off.

4 Therefore have I said: Depart from me, I will weep bitterly: labour not to comfort me, for the devastation of the daughter of my people.

5 For it is a day of slaughter, and of treading down, and of weeping to the Lord the God or hosts in the valley of vision, searching the wall, and magnificent upon the mountain.

6 And Elam took the quiver, the chariot of the horseman, and the shield was taken down from the wall.

7 And thy choice valleys shall be full of chariots, and the horsemen shall place themselves in the gate.

The destruction of Tyre. It shall be repaired again after seventy years.

THE burden of Tyre. Howl, ye ships of the sea, for the house is destroyed, from whence they were wont to come : from the land of Cethim it is revealed to them.

2 Be silent, you that dwell in the island: the merchants of Sidon passing over the sea, have filled thee.

3 The seed of the Nile in many waters, the harvest of the river is her revenue: and she is become the mart of the nations.

4 Be thou ashamed, O Sidon: for the sea speaketh, even the strength of the sea, saying: I have not been in labour, nor have I brought forth, nor have I nourished up young men, nor brought up virgins.

5 When it shall be heard in Egypt, they w.ll be sorry when they shall hear of Tyre:

the sea, thou hast a girdle no more.

11 He stretched out his hand over the sea, he troubled kingdoms: the Lord hath given a charge against Chanaan, to destroy the strong ones thereof.

12 And he said: Thou shalt glery no more, O virgin daughter of Sidon, who art oppressed: arise and sail over to Cethim, there also thou shalt have no rest.

13 Behold the land of the Chaldeans, there was not such a people, the Assyrian founded it: they have led away the strong ones thereof into captivity, they have destroyed the houses thereof, hey have brought it to ruin.

14 Howl, O ye ships of the sea, for your strength is laid waste.

15 And it shall come to pass in that day, that thou, O Tyre, shalt be forgotten, seventy years, according to the days of one king: but after seventy years, there shall be unto Tyre as the song of a harlot.

16 Take a harn, go about the city, thou harlot that hast been forgotten: sing well, sing many a song, that thou mayst be remembered.

17 And it shall come to pass after seventy years, that the Lord will visit Tyre, and will bring her back again to her traffic: and she shall commit fornication again with all the kingdoms of the world upon the face of the earth.

18 And her merehandise and her hire shall be sanctified to the Lord: they shall not be kept in store, nor laid up: for her merchandise shall be for them that shall dwell before the Lord, that they may eat unto fulness, and be clothed for a continuance.

Sennacherib invades Juda: his blasphemies. ND it came to pass in the fourteenth year* of king Ezechias, that Sennacherib king of the Assyrians came up against all the fenced cities of Juda, and took them.

2 And the king of the Assyrians sent Rabsaces from Lachis to Jerusalem, to king Ezechias with a great army, and he stood by the conduit of the upper pool in the way of the Fuller's field.

3 And there went out to him Eliacim the son of Helcias, who was over the house, and Sobna the scribe, and Joahe the son of Asaph the recorder.

4 And Rabsaces said to them: Tell Ezcehias: Thus saith the great king, the king of the Assyrians: What is this confidence wherein thou trustest?

5 Or with what counsel or strength dost thou prepare for war? on whom dost thou trust, that thou hast revolted from me?

6 Lo thou trustest upon this broken staff of a reed, upon Egypt: upon which if a man lean, it will go into his hand, and pierce it: so is Pharao king of Egypt to all that trust in him.

7 But if thou wilt answer me: We trust in the Lord our God: is it not he whose high places and altars Ezechias hath taken away, and hath said to Juda and Jerusalem: You shall worship before this altar?

8 And now deliver thyself up to my lord the king of the Assyrians, and I will give thee two (bonsand horses, and thou wilt not be able on Ezechias, his mourning and prayer. God's proxise of protection. The Assyrian army is destroyed. Schau cherib is slain.

A ND t it came to pass, when king Ezechias had heard it, that he rent his garments and covered himself with sackcloth, and wont into the house of the Lord.

2 And he sent Eliacim who was over the house, and Sobna the seribe, and the ancients of the priests covered with sackcloth, to Isaia.

the son of Amos the prophet.

3 And they said to him: Thus saith Ezechias. This day is a day of tribulation, and of rebuke, and of blasphemy: for the children are come to the birth, and there is not strength to bring forth.

4 It may be the Lord thy God will hear the words of Rabsaces, whom the king of the Assyrians his master hath sent to blaspheme the living God, and to reproach with words which the Lord thy God hath heard: wherefore lift up thy prayer for the remnant that is left.

5 And the servants of Ezechias came to Isaias. 6 And Isaias said to them: Thus shall you say to your master: Thus saith the Lord: Ba not afraid of the words that thou hast heard. with which the servants of the king of the Assyrians have blasphemed me.

7 Behold, I will send a spirit upon him, and he shall hear a message, and shall return to his own country, and I will cause him to fall by the sword in his own country.

8 And Rabsaces returned, and found the king of the Assyrians besieging Lobna. § For he had heard that he was departed from Lachis.

9 And he heard say about Tharaca the king of Ethiopia: He is come forth to fight against thee. And when he heard it, he sent measure gers to Ezechias, saying:
10 Thus shall you speak to Ezechias the iding of Juda, saying: Let not thy God doceive thee, in whom thou trustest, saying: Jerusalem shall not be given into the hands of the king of the Assyrians.

11 Behold thou hast heard all that the kings of the Assyrians have done to all countries which they have destroyed, and canst thou be Tellvered ?

12 Have the gods of the nations delivered them whom my fathers have destroyed, Gozam, and Haram, and Reseph, and the children of Eden, that were in Thalassar?

13 Where is the king of Emath, and the king of Arphad, and the king of the city of Sephar-vaim, of Ana, and of Ava?*

14 And Ezechias took the letter from the hand of the messengers, and read it, and went up to the house of the Lord, and Ezechias spread It before the Lord.

15 And Ezechias prayed to the Lord, saying: 16 O Lord of hosts God of Israel, who sittest upon the Cherubims, thou alone art the God of all the kingdoms of the earth, thou hast made heaven and earth.

17 Incline, O Lord, thy ear, and hear: open, O Lord, thy eyes, and see, and hear all the words of Sennacherib, which he hath sent to blaspheme the living God.

18 For of a truth, O Lord, the kings of the Assyrians have laid waste lands, and their coun-

19 And they have cast their gods into the fire, br they were not gods, but the works of men's hands, of wood and stone: and they broke them in pieces.

20 And now, O Lord our God, save us out of his hand : and let all the kingdoms of the earth know, that thou only art the Lord.

21 And Isaias the son of Amos sent to Ezochias, saying: Thus saith the Lord the God of Israel: For the prayer thou hast made to me concerning Sennacherib the king of the Assyrians:

22 This is the word which the Lord hath spoken of him: The virgin the daughter of Sion buth despised thee, and laughed thee to scorn: the daughter of Jerusalem hath wagged the head after thee.

23 Whom hast thou reproached, and whom hast thou blasphemed, and against whom hast thou exalted thy voice, and lifted up thy eyes on high? Against the holy One of Israel.

34 By the hand of thy servants thou hast reproached the Lord: and hast said: With the multitude of my chariots I have gone up to the height of the mountains, to the top of Libanus : and I will cut down its tall cedars, and its choice tr-trees, and will enter to the top of its height, o the forest of its Carmel.

25 I have digged, and drunk water, and have ried up with the sole of my foot all the rivers hut up in banks.

26 Hast thou not heard what I have done to im of old? from the days of old I have formed and now I have brought it to effect: and it ath come to pass that hills fighting together, ad fenced cities should be destroyed.

32 For out of Jerusalem shall go forth a remnant, and salvation from mount Sion: the zeal of the Lord of hosts shall do this.

37 And Sennacherib the king of the Assyrians went out and departed, and returned, and dwell in Ninive.

38 And it came to pass, as he was worshipping in the temple of Nesroch his god, that Adramelech and Sarasar his sons slew him with the sword : and they fled into the land of Ararat, and Asarhaddon his son reigned in his stead.

Exechias being advertised that he shall die, obtains by prayer a prolongation of his life: in confirmation of which the sun goes back. The cunticle of Exechias.

IN t those days Ezechias was sick even to death, and Isaias the son of Amos the prophet came unto him, and said to him: Thu saith the Lord: Take order with thy house, for thou shalt die, and not live.

2 And Ezechias turned his face toward the wall, and prayed to the Lord,

3 And said: I beseech thee, O Lord, remember how I have walked before thee in truth, and with a perfect heart, and have done that which is good in thy sight. And Ezechias wept with great weeping.

4 And the word of the Lord came to Isaias, saying;

5 Go and say to Ezechias: Thus saith the Lord the God of David thy father: I have heard thy prayer, and I have seen thy tears : behold I will add to thy days fifteen years:

6 And I will deliver thee and this city out of the hand of the king of the Assyrians, and I will protect it.

7 And this shall be a sign to thee from the Lord, that the Lord will do this word which he tieth spoken:

8 . Behold I will bring again the chadow of the lines, by which it is now gone down in the sun-dial of Achaz with the sun, ten lines backwar l, And the sun returned ten lines by the degrees by which it was gone down.

10 I said: In the midst of my days I shall go to the gates of hell: I sought for the residue of my years. 11 I said: I shall not see the Lord God in the land of the living. I shall behold man no more, nor the inhabitant of rest.

12 My generation is at an end, and it is rolled away from me, as a shepherd's tent. My life is cut off, as by a weaver: whilst I was yet but beginning, he cut me off: from morning even to night thou wilt make an end of me.

13 I hoped till morning, as a lion so hath he broken all my bones: from morning even to night wilt thou make an end of me.

14 I will cry like a young swallow, I will meditate like a dove: My eyes are weakened looking upward: Lord, I suffer violence, answer thou for me.

15 What shall I say, or what shall he answer for me, whereas he himself hath done it? I will recount to thee all my years in the bitterness of my soul.

16 O Lord, if man's life be such, and the life of my spirit be in such things as these, thou shalt correct me, and make me to live.

17 Behold in peace is my bitterness most bitter: but thou hast delivered my soul that it should not perish, thou hast cast all my sins behind thy back.

18 For hell shall not confess to thee, neither shall death praise thee: nor shall they that go down into the pit, look for thy truth. 19 The living, the living, he shall give praise to thee, as I do this day: the father shall make thy truth known to the children. 20 O Lord, save me, and we will sing our psalms all the days of our life in the house of the Lord.

21 Now Isaias had ordered that they should take a lump of figs, and lay it as a plaster upon the wound, and that he should be healed.

22 And Ezechias had said : What shall be the sign that I shall go up to the house of the Lord?

5 One shall say: I am the Lord's, and another shall call himself by the name of Jacob, and another shall subscribe with his hand, To the Lord, and surname himself by the name of Israel

6 Thus saith the Lord the king of Israel, and his redeemer the Lord of hosts: § I am the first, and I am the last, and besides me there is no God.

7 Who is like to me? let him call and declare: and let him set before me the order, since I appointed the ancient people: and the things to come, and that shall be hereafter, lef them shew unto them.

8 Fear ye not, neither be ye troubled, from that time I have made thee to hear, and have declared: you are my witnesses. Is there a God besides me, a maker, whom I have not known?

9 The makers of idols are all of them nothing, and their best beloved things shall not profit them. They are their witnesses, that they do not see, nor understand, that they may be ashamed.

10 Who hath formed a god, and made a graven thing that is profitable for nothing?

11 Behold, all the partakers thereof shall be confounded: for the makers are men: they shall all assemble together, they shall stand and fear, and shall be confounded together.

12 | The smith hath wrought with his file, with coals, and with hammers he hath formed it, and bath wrought with the strength of his arm : he shall hunger and faint, he shall drink no water, and shall be weary.

13 The carpenter hath stretched out his rule, he hat's formed it with a plane: he hath mude it with corners, and hath fashioned it roun with the compass: and he hath made the image of a man as it were a beautiful may dwelling in a house.

14 He hath cut down cedars, taken the holm and the oak that stood among the trees of the forest : he hath planted the pine tree, which the rain hath nourished.

15 And it hath served men for fuel: he too'r thereof, and warried himself; and he kindled to and baked bread: but of the rest he made a gud, and adored it: he made a graven thing, and bowed down before it.

16 Part of it he burnt with fire, and with part of it he dressed his meat: he boiled pottage, and was filled, and was warmed, and said: Aha, am warm, I have seen the fire.

17 But the residue thereof he made a god, and a graven thing for himself: he boweth down before it, and adoreth it, and prayeth unto it, saying: Deliver me, for thou art my God.

18 They have not known, nor understood: for their eyes are covered that they may not see, and that they may not understand with their heart

19 They do not consider in their mind, nor know, nor have the thought to say: I have burnt part of it in the fire, and I have baked bread upon the coals thereof: I have broiled flesh and have eaten, and of the residue thereof shall I make an idol? shall I fall down before the stock of a tree?

20 Part thereof is ashes: his foolish heart adoreth it, and he will not save his soul, nor say: Perhaps there is a lie in my right hand.

21 Remember these things, O Jacob, and krael, for thou art my servant. I have formed thee, thou art my servant, O Israel, forget me not.

22 I have blotted out thy iniquities as a cloud, and thy sins as a mist: return to me, for

I have redeemed thee.

23 Give praise, O ye heavens, for the Lord hath shewn merey: shout with joy, ye ends of the earth: ye mountains, resound with praise, thou, O forest, and every tree therein: for the Lord hath redeemed Jacob, and Israel shall be giorified.

24 Thus saith the Lord thy redeemer, and thy maker, from the womb: I am the Lord, that make all things, that alone stretch out the heavens, that establish the earth, and there is hone with me.

25 That make void the tokens of diviners, and make the soothsayers mad. That turn the wise backward, and that make their knowledge foolish

26 That raise up the word of my servant, and perform the counsel of my messengers, who say to Jerusalem: Thou shalt be inhabited: and to the cities of Juda: You shall be built, and I will raise up the wastes thereof.

27 Who say to the deep: Be thou desolate, and I will dry up thy rivers.

28 Who say to Cyrus: Thou art my shepherd, and thou shalt perform all my pleasure. Who say to Jerusalem: Thou shalt be built: and to the temple: Thy foundations shall be laid.

16 They are all confounded, and ashamed the forgers of errors are gone together into confusion.

17 Israel is saved in the Lord with an eternal salvation: you shall not be confounded, and you shall not be ashamed for ever and ever.

18 For thus saith the Lord that created the heavens, God himself that formed the earth and made it, the very maker thereof: he did not create it in vain: he formed it to be inhabited. I am the Lord, and there is no other.

19 I have not spoken in secret, in a darl place of the earth: I have not said to the seet on Jacob: Seek me in vain. I am the Lor that speak justice, that declare right things.

20 Assemble yourselves, and come, and drawnear together, ye that are saved of the Gentiles they have no knowledge that set up the wood of their graven work, and pray to a God that cannot save.

21 Tell ye, and come, and consult together who hath declared this from the beginning, thath foretold this from that time? Have not the Lord, and there is no God else besides me a just God and a Saviour, there is none besidos me.

22 Be converted to me, and you shall be saved, all ye ends of the earth : for I am God, and there is no other.

23 I have sworn by myself, the word of justice shall go out of my youth, and shall not return:

every tongue shall swear.

8 And now hear these things, thou that art delicate, and dwellest confidently, that sayest in thy heart: § I am, and there is none else besides me: I shall not sit as a widow, and I shall not know barrenness.

9 | These two things shall come upon thee suddenly in one day, barrenness and widowhood. All things are come upon thee, because of the multitude of thy sorceries, and for the great hardness of thy enchanters.

10 And thou hast trusted in thy wickedness, and hast said: There is none that seeth me Thy wisdom, and thy knowledge, this hath deceived thee. And thou hast said in thy heart: I am, and besides me there is no other.

which thou shalt not know.

12 Stand now with thy enchanters, and with the multitude of thy sorceries, in which thou hast laboured from thy youth, if so be it may profit thee any thing, or if thou mayst become stronger.

13 Thou hast failed in the multitude of thy counsels: let now the astrologers stand and save thee, they that gazed at the stars, and counted the months, that from them they might tell the things that shall come to thee.

the sword reacheth even to the soul?

11 At that time it shall be said to this people, and to Jerusalem: A burning wind is in the ways that are in the desert of the way of the daughter of my people, not to fan, nor to cleanse.

12 A full wind from these places shall come to me: and now I will speak my judgments with them.

13 Behold he shall come up as a cloud, and his chariets as a tempest : his horses are swifter than eagles: wo unto us, for we are laid waste.

14 Wash thy heart from wickedness, O Jerusalem, that thon mayst be saved: how long shall hurtful thoughts abide in thee?

15 For a voice of one declaring from Dan, and giving notice of the idol from mount Ephraim.

16 Say ye to the nations: Behold it is heard in Jerusalem, that guards are coming from a far country, and give out their voice against the cities of Juda.

17 They are set round about her, as keepers of fields: because she hath provoked me to 21 How long shall I see men fleeing away, how long shall I hear the sound of the trumpet?

22 For my foolish people have not known me: they are foolish and senseless children: they are wise to do evils, but to do good they have go knowledge.

23 I beheld the earth, and lo it was void, and nothing: and the heavens, and there was no light in them.

24 I looked upon the mountains, and behold they trembled: and all the hills were troubled. 25 I beheld, and lo there was no man: and all the birds of the air were gone.

26 I looked, and behold Carmel was a wilderness: and all its cities were destroyed at the presence of the Lord, and at the presence of the wrath of his indignation.

29 At the voice of the horsemen, and the archer, all the city is fled away: they have entered into thickets and have climbed up the rocks: all the cities are forsaken, and there dwelleth not a man in them.

30 But when thou art spoiled what wilt thou do? though thou clothest thyself with scarlet, though thou deckest thee with ornaments of gold, and paintest thy eyes with stibic-stone, thou shalt dress thyself out in vain: thy lovers have despised thee, they will seek thy life.

31 For I have heard the voice as of a woman in travail, anguishes as of a woman in labour of a child. The voice of the daughter of Sion, dying away, spreading her hands: We is me, for my soul hath fainted because of them that are slain.

CHAP. V.

The judgments of God shall fall upon the Jews for their manifold sins.

O about through the streets of Jerusalem,

G and see, and consider, and seek in the broad places thereof, if you can find a man that executeth judgment, and seeketh faith: and I will be merciful unto it.

2 And though they say: The Lord liveth;

this also they will swear falsely.

3 O Lord, thy eyes are upon truth: thou hast struck them, and they have not grieved: thou hast bruised them, and they have refused to recelve correction: they have made their faces ourder than the rock, and they have refused to

4 But I said: Perhaps these are poor and foolish, that know not the way of the Lord, the judgment of their God.

I will go therefore to the great men, and will speak to them: for they have known the way of the Lord, the judgment of their God: and behold these have altogether broken the yoke more, and have burst the bonds.

6 Wherefore a lion out of the wood hath slain them, a wolf in the evening hath spoiled them, a leopard watcheth for their cities : every one that shell go out thence shall be taken, because their transgressions are multiplied, their rebelliens are strengthened.

7 How can I be merciful to thee? thy chikdren have forsaken me, and swear by them that are not gods: I fed them to the full, and they committed adultery, and rioted in the hariots

10 Scale the walls thereof, and throw them down, but do not utterly destroy: take away the branches thereof, because they are not the Lord's.

11 For the house of Israel and the house of Juda have greatly transgressed against nie, saith the Lord.

12 They have denied the Lord, and said, It is not he: and the evil shall not come upon us: we shall not see the sword and famine.

13 The prophets have spoken in the wind, and there was no word of God in them: these things therefore shall befall them.

14 Thus saith the Lord the God of hosts: Because you have spoken this word : behold I wil'. make my words in thy mouth as fire, and this people as wood, and it shall devour them.

15 Behold I will bring upon you a nation from afar, O house of Israel, saith the Lord : a strong nation, an ancient nation, a nation whose language thou shalt not know, nor understand what they say.

16 Their quiver is as an open sepulchre, they are all valiant.

17 And they shall eat up thy corn, and thy bread: they shall devour thy sons, and thy daughters: they shall eat up thy flocks, and thy herds: they shall eat thy vineyards, and the figs: and with the sword they shall destroy thy strong cities, wherein thou trustest.

18 Nevertheless in those days, saith the Lord

I will not bring you to utter destruction.

19 † And if you shall say: Why hath the Lord our God done all these things to us? thou shalt say to them : As you have forsaken me and servod a strange god in your own land, so shall you serve strangers in a land that is not your own.

20 Declare ye this to the house of Jacob, and publish it in Juda, saying:

21 Hear, O foolish people, and without understanding: who have eyes, and see not: and cars, and hear not.

22 Will not you then fear me, saith the Lord: and will you not repent at my presence? I have set the sand a bound for the sea, an everlasting ordinance, which it shall not pass overand the waves thereof shall toss themselves, and shall not prevail: they shall swell, and shall not pass over it.

23 But the heart of this people is become hard of belief and provoking, they are revolted and gone away.

24 And they have not said in their heart Let us fear the Lord our God, who giveth us the early and the latter rain in due season: who preserveth for us the fulness of the yearly harvest

25 Your iniquities have turned these things away, and your sins have withholden good things from you.

26 For among my people are found wicked men, that lie in wait as fowlers, setting snares and traps to catch men.

27 As a net is full of birds, so their houses are full of deceit: therefore are they become great and enriched.

28 They are grown gross and fat: and thost wickedly transgressed my words. * They have not judged the cause of the widow, they lave not managed the cause of the fatherless, and they have not judged the judgment of the bor.

29 Shall I not visit for these things, saith the Lord? or shall not my soul take revenge on such a nation.

30 Astonishing and wonderful things have been done in the land.

31 The prophets prophesied falsehood, and the priests clapped their hands: and my people loved such things: what then shall be done in the end thereof?

TRENGTHEN yourselves, ye sons of Benjamin, in the midst of January the trumpet in Thecua, and set up the standard over Bethacerem: for evil is seen out of the north, and a great destruction.

2 I have likened the daughter of Sion to a Leautiful and delicate woman.

3 The shepherds shall come to her with their Jocks: they have pitched their tents against her round about: every one shall feed them that are under his hand.

4 Prepare ye war against her: arise, and let as go up at mid-day: wo unto us, for the day is declined, for the shadows of the evening are grown longer.

5 Arise, and let us go up in the night, and destroy her houses.

6 For thus saith the Lord of hosts: Hew down her trees, cast up a trench about Jerusalem : this is the city to be visited, all oppression is in the midst of her.

7 As a cistern maketh its water cold, so hath she made her wickedness cold: violence and spoil shall be heard in her. infirmity and stripes are continually before me.

8 Be thou instructed, O Jerusalem, lest my , sorl depart from thee, lest I make thee desolate, 9 Thus saith the Lord of hosts: They shall pather the remains of Israel, as in a vine, even one cluster: turn back thy hand, as a grapegutherer into the basket.

10 To whom shall I speak? and to whom ihall I testify, that he may hear? behold, their cars are uncircumcised, and they cannot hear: behold the word of the Lord is become unto them a reproach: and they will not receive it.

15 They were confounded, because they com mitted abomination: yea, rather they were not confounded with confusion, and they knew not how to blush: wherefore they shall fall among them that fall: in the time of their visitation they shall fall down, saith the Lord.

19 Hear, O earth: Behold I will bring evils upon this people, the fruits of their own thoughts: because they have not heard my words, and they have cast away my law

20 § To what purpose do you bring me frankincense from Saba, and the sweet-smelling cane from a far country? your holocausts are not acceptable, nor are your sacrifices pleasing to me.

21 Therefore thus saith the Lord: Behold I will bring destruction upon this people, by which fathers and sons together shall fall, neighbour and kinsman shall perish.

22 Thus saith the Lord: Behold a people cometh from the land of the north, and a great nation shall rise up from the ends of the earth.

23 They shall lay hold on arrow and shield: they are cruel, and will have no mercy. Their voice shall roar like the sea; and they shall mount upon horses, prepared as men for war, against thee, O daughter of Sion.

24 We have heard the fame thereof, our hands grow feeble : anguish hath taken hold of us, as a woman in labour.

25 Go not out into the fields, nor walk in the high way: for the sword of the enemy, and fear is on every side.

26 Gird thee with sackcloth, O daughter of my people, and sprinkle thee with ashes: make thee mourning as for an only son, a bitter lamentation, because the destroyer shall suddenly come upon us.

27 I have set thee for a strong trier among my people : and thou shalt know, and prove their way

28 All these princes go out of the way, the walk deceitfully, they are brass and iron: they are all corrupted.

29 The bellows have failed, the lead is consumed in the fire, the founder hath melted in vain : for their wicked deeds are not consumed.

THE word that came to Jeremias from the Lord, saying:

2 Stand in the gate of the house of the Lord, and proclaim there this word, and say: Hear ye the word of the Lord, all ye men of Juda, that enter in at these gates, to adore the Lord.

3 Thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel: * Make your ways and your doings good: and I will dwell with you in this place.

4 Trust not in lying words, saying: The temole of the Lord, the temple of the Lord, it is the icinple of the Lord.

5 For if you will order well your ways, and your doings: if you will execute judgment between a man and his neighbour,

6 If you oppress not the stranger, the fatherless, and the widow, and shed not innocent blood in this place, and walk not after strange gods to your own hurt :

7 I will dwell with you in this place: in the land, which I gave to your fathers from the beginning and for evermore.

8 Behold you put your trust in lying words, which shall not profit you:

9 To steal, to murder, to commit adultery, to swear falsely, to offer to Baalim, and to go after strange gods, which you know not.

10 And you have come, and stood before me in this house, in which my name is called upon, and have said: We are delivered, because we have done all these abominations.

II † Is this house then, in which my name Jath been called upon, in your eyes become a den of robbers? I, I am he: I have seen it, saith the Lord.

12 Go ye to my place in Silo, where my name welt from the beginning: and see what I did to it for the wickedness of my people Israel.

13 And now, because you have done all these works, saith the Lord: and I have spoken to you rising up early, and speaking, and you have not heard: ‡ and I have called you, and you have not answered:

14 § I will do to this house, in which my name is called upon, and in which you trust, and to the place which I have given you and your fathers, as I did to Silo.

15 And I will cast you away from before my face, as I have cast away all your brethren, the whole seed of Ephraim.

16 || Therefore do not thou pray for this people, nor take to thee praise and supplication for them, and do not withstand me: for I will not hear thee.

17 Seest thou not what they do in the cities

5 That I may accomplish the oath which I swore to your fathers, to give them a land flowing with milk and honey, as it is this day. And I answered and said: Amen, O Lord.

6 And the Lord said to me: Proclaim aloud all these words in the cities of Juda, and in the streets of Jerusalem, saying: Hear ye the words of the covenant, and do them:

7 For protesting I conjured your fathers in the day that I brought them out of the land of Egypt even to this day: rising early I conjured them, and said : Hearken ye to my voice:

2 And they obeyed not, nor inclined their ear: but walked every one in the perverseness of his own wicked heart: and I brought upon them all the words of this covenant, which I commanded them to do, but they did them not.

9 And the Lord said to me: A conspiracy is found among the men of Juda, and among the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

10 They are returned to the former iniquities of their fathers, who refused to hear my words: so these likewise have gone after strange gods, to serve them: the house of Israel, and the nouse of Juda have made void my covenant, which I made with their fathers.

11 Wherefore thus saith the Lord: Behold I will bring in evils upon them, which they shall not be able to escape: and they shall ery to me, and I will not hearken to them.

12 And the cities of Juda, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem shall go, and cry to the gods to whom they offer sacrifice, and they shall not save them in the time of their affliction.

13 * For according to the number of thy cities were thy gods, O Jada: and according to the number of the streets of Jerusalem thou hast set up altars of confusion, altars to offer sacrifice to Baalim.

THUS saith the Lord: Go, and take a porter's earthen bottle, and take of the ancients of the people, and of the ancients of the priests:

2 And go forth into the valley of the son of Ennom, which is by the entry of the earthen gate : and there thou shalt proclaim the words that I shall tell thee.

3 And thou shalt say: Hear the word of the Lord, O ye kings of Juda, and ye inhabitants of Jerusalem: Thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Behold I will bring an affliction npon this place: so that whosoever shall hear it, his ears shall tingle.

4 Because they have forsaken me, and have profaned this place: and have sacrificed therein to strange gods, whom neither they, nor their fathers knew, nor the kings of Juda: and the have filled this place with the blood of innocents.

5 And they have built the high places of Baalim, to burn their children with fire for a holocanst to Baalim: which I did not command, nor speak of, neither did it once come into my mind.

6 Therefore behold the days come, saith the Lord, that this place shall no more be called Topheth, nor the valley of the son of Ennom, but the valley of slaughter.

7 And I will defeat the counsel of Juda and of Jerusalem in this place; and I will destroy them with the sword in the sight of their enemies, and by the hands of them that seek their lives: and I will give their carcasses to be meat for the fowls of the air, and for the beasts of the 10 And thou shalt break the bottle in the gight of the men that shall go with thee.

11 And thou shalt say to them: Thus saith the Lord of hosts: Even so will I break this people, and this city, as the potter's vessel is broken, which cannot be made whole again: and they shall be buried in Topheth, because there is no other place to bury in.

12 Thus will I do to this place, saith the Lord, and to the inhabitants thereof: and I will make this city as Topheth.

13 And the houses of Jerusalem, and the houses of the kings of Juda shall be unclean as the place of Topheth : all the houses upon whose roofs they have sacrificed to all the host of heaven, and have poured out drink-offerings to strange gods.

14 Then Jeremias came from Topheth, whither the Lord had sent him to prophesy, and he stood in the court of the house of the Lord, and said to all the people:

The prophet's answer to the messengers of Sedecias, when Jerusalem was besieged.

THE word that came to Jeremias from the Lord, when king Sedecias sent unto him Phassurthe son of Melchias, and Sophonias the son of Maasias the priest, saying :

2 Inquire of the Lord for us, for Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon maketh war against us: if so be the Lord will deal with us accord ing to all his wonderful works, that he may de part from us.

3 And Jeremias said to them: Thus shall you say to Sedecias:

4 Thus saith the Lord, the God of Israel: Behold I will turn back the weapons of war that are in your hands, and with which you fight against the king of Babylon, and the Chaldeans, that besiege you round about the walls: and I will ather them together in the midst of this city.

5 And I myself will fight against you with an outstretched hand, and with a strong arm, and in fury, and in indignation, and in great wrath

6 And I will strike the inhabitants of the city, men and beasts shall die of a great pestilence. 7 And after this, saith the Lord, I will give Sedecias the king of Juda, and his servants, and his people, and such as are left in this city from the pestilence, and the sword, and the famine, into the hand of Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon, and into the hand of their enemies, and into the hand of them that seek their life, and he shall strike them with the edge of the sword, and he shall not be moved to pity, not spare them, nor shew mercy to them.

3 Thus saith the Lord : † Execute judgment and justice, and deliver him that is oppressed out of the hand of the oppressor : and afflict not the stranger, the fatherless and the widow, nor oppress them unjustly: and shed not innocent blood in this place.

4 For if you will do this thing indeed, then shall there enter in by the gates of this house, kings of the race of David sitting upon his throne, and riding in chariots and on horses, they and their servants, and their people.

5 But if you will not hearken to these words: I swear by myself, saith the Lord, that this house shall become a desolation.

6 For thus saith the Lord to the house of the king of Juda: Thou art to me Galaad the head of Libanus: yet surely I will make thee a wilierness, and cities, not habitable.

7 And I will prepare against thee the destroyer and his weapons: and they shall cut lown thy chosen cedars, and shall cast them

12 And when the seventy years shall be ex pired, I will punish the king of Babylon, an that nation, sgith the Lord, for their iniquity and the land of the Chaldeans : and I will make !

it perpetual desolations. 13 And I will bring upon that land all my words, that I have spoken against it, all that is written in this book, all that Jeremias hath prophesied against all nations:

14 For they have served them, whereas they were many nations, and great kings: and I will repay them according to their deeds, and 4ecording to the works of their hands.

15 For thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel: Take the cup of wine of this fury at iny hand: and thou shalt make all the nations to drink thereof, unto which I shall send thee.

16 And they shall drink, and be troubled, and be mad because of the sword, which I shall send among them.

17 And I took the cup at the hand of the Lord, and I presented it to all the nations to Jrink of it, to which the Lord sent me :

18 To wit, Jerusalem, and the cities of Juda. and the kings thereof, and the princes thereof: to make them a desolation, and an astonishment, and a hissing, and a curse, as it is at this day.

19 Pharao the king of Egypt, and his servants, and his princes, and all his people,

20 And all in general: all the kings of the land of Ausitis, and all the kings of the land of the Philistines, and Ascalon and Gaza, and Accaron, and the remnant of Azotus.

21 And Edom, and Moab, and the children of Ammon.

22 And all the kings of Tyre, and all the kings of Sidon: and the kings of the land of the islands that are beyond the sea.

26 And all the kings of the north far and near, every one against his brother: and all the kingdoms of the earth, which are upon the face thereof: and the king of Sesac shall drink after them.

27 And thou shalt say to them: Thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel: Drink ye, and be drunken, and vomit: and fall, and rise no more, because of the sword, which I shall send among you.

28 And if they refuse to take the cup at thy and to drink, thou shalt say to them: Thus saith the Lord of hosts: Drinking you shall

CHAP. XXVI.

The prophet is apprehended and accused by the priests.
but discharged by the princes.

N the beginning of the reign of Joakim the son of Josias king of Juda, came this word from the Lord, saying:

2 Thus saith the Lord: Stand in the court of the house of the Lord, and speak to all the cities of Juda, out of which they come, to adore in the house of the Lord, all the words which I have commanded thee to speak unto them: leave not out one word.

3 If so be they will hearken and be converted every one from his evil way; that I may repen. me of the evil that I think to do unto them for the wickedness of their doings.

4 And thou shalt say to them: Thus saith the Lord: If you will not hearken to me to walk in my law, which I have given you, 5 To give ear to the words of my servant the prophets, whom I sent to you rising up early, and sending, and you have not heark

6 § I will make this house like Silo, | and 1 will make this city a curse to all the nations of the earth.

7 And the priests, and the prophets, and all the people heard Jeremias speaking these words in the house of the Lord.

8 And when Jeremias had made an end of speaking all that the Lord had commanded him to speak to all the people: the priests, and the propliets, and all the people laid hold on him saying: Let him be put to death.

O War hath he prophesied in the name of the Lord, saying: This house shall to like Silo: and this city shall be made desolate, without an inhabitant? And all the people were gathered together against Jeremias in the house of the Lord.

10 And the princes of Juda heard these words: and they went up from the king's house into the house of the Lord, and sat in the entry of the new gate of the house of the Lord.

11 And the priests and the prophets spoke to the princes, and to all the people, saying: The judgment of death is for this man: because he bath prophesied against this city, as you have heard with your ears.

12 Then Jeremias spoke to all the princes, and to all the people, saying: * The Lord sent me, to prophesy concerning this house, and concerning this city all the words that you have heard.

13 † Now therefore amend your ways, and your doings, and hearken to the voice of the Lord your God: and the Lord will repent him of the evil that he hath spoken against you.

14 But as for me, behold I am in your hands: do with me what is good and right in your eyes:

15 But know ye, and understand, that if you put me to death, you will shed innocent blood against your ownselves, and against this city, and the inhabitants thereof. For in truth the Lord sent me to you, to speak all these words in your hearing.

16 Then the princes, and all the people said to the priests, and to the prophets: There is no judgment of death for this man: for he hath spoken to us in the name of the Lerd our God.

17 And some of the ancients of the lan! rose up: and they spoke to all the assembly of the people, saying:

18 Micheas of Morasthi was a prophet in the days of Ezechias king of Juda, and he spoke to all the people of Juda, saying: Thus saith the Lord of hosts: $ Sion shall be ploughed like a field, and Jerusalem shall be a heap of stones: and the mountain of the house the high places of woods.

19 Did Ezechias king of Juda, and all Juda, condemn him to death? did they not fear the Lord, and beseech the face of the Lord: and the Lord repented of the evil that he had spoken against them? therefore we are doing a great evil against our souls.

20 There was also a man that prophesied in the name of the Lord, Urias the son of Semei of Cariathiarim: and he prophesied against this city, and against this land, according to all the words of Jeremias.

21 And Joakim, and all his men in power, and his princes heard these words: and the king sought to put him to death. And Urias heard it, and was afraid, and fled and went into Egypt.

22 And king Joakim sent men into Egypt, alnathan the son of Achobor, and men with him into Egypt.

23 And they brought Urias out of Egypt: and brought him to king Joakim, and he slew him

CHAP. XXVII.

The prophet sends chains to discreteings, signifying the they must bend their neces under the yoke of the king of Babylon. The vessels of the timple shall not be brough back till all the rest are carried away.

N $ the beginning of the reign of Joakiur the son of Josias king of Juda, this word came to Jeremias from the Lord, saying:

2 Thus saith the Lord to me: Make the bands, and chains: and thou shalt put them on thy neck.

3 And thou shalt send them to the king of Edom, and to the king of Moab, and to the king of the children of Ammon, and to the king of Tyre, and to the king of Sidon: by the hand of the messengers that are come to Jerusalem to Sedecias the king of Juda.

4 And thou shalt command them to speak to their masters: Thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Irrael: Thus shall you say to your masters:

I I made the earth, and the men, and the beasts that are upon the face of the earth, by my great power, and by my stretched out arm: and I have given it to whom it seemed good in my eyes.

6 And now I have given all these lands into the hand of Nabucodonosor king of Babylo: my servant: moreover also the beasts of the field I have given him to serve him.

7 And all nations shall serve him, and his son, and his son's son: till the time come for his land and himself: and many nations and great kings shall serve him.

8 But the nation and kingdom that will nee serve Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, and whosoever will not bend his neck under the yoke of the king of Babylon: I will visit upon that nation with the sword, and with famine, and with pestilence, saith the Lord : till I consume them by his hand.

9 | Therefore hearken not to your prophets and diviners, and dreamers, and soothsayers, and sorcerers, that say to you: You shall not serve the king of Babylon.

10 For they prophesy lies to you . to remove you far from your country, and cast you out, and to make you rerish.

11 But the nation that shall bend down their neck under the yoke of the king of Babylon and shall serve him; I will let them remain in their own land, saith the Lord : and they shall till it, and dwell in it.

12 And I spoke to Sedecias the king of Juda according to all these words, saying : Bend down your neeks under the voke of the king of Babylon, and serve him, and his people, and you shall live.

13 Why will you die, thou and thy people by the sword, and by famine, and by the pestilence. as the Lord hath spoke against the nation that will not serve the king of Babylon?

14 Hearken not to the words of the prophete that say to you : You shall not serve the king of Babylon: for they tell you a lie.

15 For I have not sent them, saith the Lord: and they prophesy in my name falsely : to drive you out, and that you may perish, both you said the prophets that prophesy to you.

16 I spoke also to the pricats, and to this people, saying : Thus saith the Lord : Hearken not to the words of your prophets, that prophesy to you, saying: Behold the vessels of the Lord hall now in a short time be brought again from Babylon: for they prophesy a lie unto you.

17 Therefore hearken not to them, but serve the king of Babylon, that you may live. should this city be given up to desolation?

18 But if they be prophets, and the word of the Lord be in them : let them interpose themselves before the Lord of hosts, that the vessels which were left in the house of the Lord, and in the house of the king of Juda, and in Jerusalem, may not go to Babylon.

19 For thus saith the Lord of hosts * to the pillars, and to the sea, and to the bases, and to the rest of the vessels that remain in this city:

20 Which Nabuchodonosor the king of Babyfon did not take, when he carried away Jechonias the son of Joakim the king of Juda, from Jerusalem to Babylon, and all the great men of Juda and Jerusalem.

21 For thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel, to the vessels that are left in the house of the Lord, and in the house of the king of

Juda and Jerusalem:

22 They shall be carried to Babylon, and there they shall be until the day of their visitaion, saith the Lord: and I will cause them to e brought, and to be restored in this place.

CHAP. XXVIII. The face prophecy of Hanunias: he dies that same year, as Jeremias foretold.

ND it came to pass in that year, in the beginning of the reign of Sedecias king of Juda, in the fourth year, † in the fifth month, that Hananias the son of Azur a prophet of Gabaon spoke to me, in the house of the Lord before the priests, and all the people, saying:
2 Thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel: I have broken the yoke of the king of Babylon.

3 As yet two years of days, and I will cause all the vessels of the house of the Lord to be prought back into this place, which Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon took away from this place, and carried them to Babylon.

4 And I will bring back to this place Jechonias the son of Joakim king of Juda, and all the captives of Juda, that are gone to Babylon, saith the Lord: for I will break the yoke of the king of Babylon.

5 And Jeremias the prophet said to Hananias the prophet in the presence of the priests, and in the presence of all the people that stood in the house of the Lord :

6 And Jeremias the prophet said : Amen, the Lord do so: the Lord perform thy words, which thou hast prophesicd: that the vessels may be grought again into the house of the Lord, and all the captives may return out of Babylon to this place.

7 Nevertheless hear this word, that I speak In thy ears, and in the ears of all the people:

8 The prophets that have been before me, und before thee from the beginning, and have prophesied concerning many countries, and con-perning great kingdoms, of war, and of afflic-Ion, and of famine.

9 The prophet that prophesied peace: when

- Charles

his word shall come to pass, the prophet shall be known, whom the Lord hath sent in truth.

10 And Hananias the prophot took the chair from the nack of Jeremias the prophet, and broke it.

11 And Hananias spoke in the presence of al. the people, saying : Thus saith the Lord : Ever so will I break the yoke of Nabuchodonosci the king of Babylon after two full years from off the neck of all the nations.

12 And Jeremias the prophet went his way. And the word of the Lord came to Jeremias after that Hananias the prophet had broken the chain from off the neck of Jeremias the prophet, saying:

13 Go, and tell Hananias: Thus saith the Lord: Thou hast broken chains of wood, and thou shalt make for them chains of iron.

14 For thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Istuel: I have put a yoke of iron upon the neck of all these nations, to serve Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, and they shall serve him: moreover also I have given him the beasts of the earth.

15 And Jeremias the prophet said to Hananias the prophet: Hear now, Hananias: the Lord hath not sent thee, and thou hast made this people to trust in a lie.

16 Therefore thus saith the Lord: Behold I will send thee away from off the face of the earth: this year shalt thou die: for thou hast spoken against the Lord.

17 And Hananias the prophet died in that year, in the seventh month.

CHAP. XXIX.

Jeremias writeth to the captives in Babylon, exhirting them to be easy there, and not to hearken to fuke prophets. That they shall be delivered after eventy years. But those that remain in Jerusalem shall perish by the sword, famine, and pestilence. And that Achab, sections, and Semens, false prophets, shall die miserably.

Now these are the words of the letter which Jeremias the prophet sent from Jerusalem to the residue of the success that were rusalem to the residue of the aucients that were carried into captivity, and to the priests, and to the prophets, and to all the people, whom Nabuchodonosor had carried away from Jerusalem to Babylon:

2 After that Jechonias the king, and the queen, and the eunuchs, and the princes of Juda, and of Jerusalem, and the craftsmen, and the engravers were departed out of Jerusalem:

3 By the hand of Elasa the son of Saphan, and Gamarias the son of Helcias, whom Sedecias king of Juda sent to Babylon to Nabuchod onosor king of Babylon, saying:

4 Thus gaith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel, to all that are carried away captives whom I have caused to be carried away from Jerusalem to Babylon:

5 Build ye houses, and dwell in them: and plant orchards, and eat the fruit of them.

6 Take ye wives, and beget sons and daughters: and take wives for your sons, and give your daughters to husbands, and let them bell sons and daughters: and be ye multiplied there, and be not few in number. 7 And seek the peace of the city, to which l have caused you to be carried away captives: and pray to the Lord for it : for in the peace thereof shall be your peace. 8 For thus saith the Lord of hosts the God o

25 Thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel: Because thou hast sent letters in thy name to all the people that are in Jerusslem, and to Sophonias the son of Maasias the priest, and to all the priests, saying:

28 For he hath also sent to us in Babylon saying: It is a long time: build ye houses, and dwell in them: and plant gardens, and eat the fruits of them.

29 So Sophonias the priest read this letter in the hearing of Jeremias the prophet.

30 And the word of the Lord came to Jere-mias, saying :

CHAP. XXX.

God will deliver his people from their captivity: Christ shall be their king; and his church shall be glorious for

THIS tis the word that came to Jeremias from the Lord, saying:

2 Thus saith the Lord, the God of Israel, saying: Write thee all the words that I have spoken to thee, in a book.

3 For behold the days come, saith the Lord, and I will bring again the captivity of my people Israel and Juda, saith the Lord: and I will cause them to return to the land which I gave to their fathers, and they shall possess it.

4 And these are the words that the Lord hath spoken to Israel and to Juda:

5 For thus saith the Lord: We have heard a voice of terror: there is fear and no peace.

6 Ask ye, and see if a man bear children? why then have I seen every man with his Lands on his loins, like a woman in labour, and all faces are turned yellow?

7 § Alas, for that day is great neither is there the like to it: and it is the time of tribulation to Jacob, but he shall be saved out of it.

8 And it shall come to pass in that day, saith the Lord of hosts, that I will break his yoke from off thy neck, and will burst his bands: and strangers shall no more rule over him:

9 But they shall serve the Lord their God, and David their king, whom I will raise up w them.

10 || Therefore fear thou not, my servant Jecob, saith the Lord, neither be dismayed, U Israel: for behold, I will save thee from acoun'17 afar off, and thy seed from the land of their tree tivity: and Jacob shall return, and be at 1 . ! and abound with all good things, and there stell be none whom he may fear;

1: For I am with thee, suith the Lord, to said theo: for I will utterly consume all the nations, among which I have scattered thee: but I will not utterly consume thee: but I will chastise thee in judgment, that thou mayst not seem to thyself innocent.

12 For thus saith the Lord: Thy bruise is incurable, thy wound is very grievous.

13 There is none to judge thy judgment to bind it up: thou hast no healing medicines.

14 All thy lovers have forgotten thee, and will not seek after thee: * for I have wounded thee with the wound of an enemy, with a cruel chastisement: by reason of the multitude of thy iniquities, thy sins are hardened.

15 Why criest thou for tny affliction? thy sorrow is incurable: for the multitude of thy iniquity, and for thy hardened sins I have done these things to thee.

16 Therefore all they that devour thee, shall be devoured: and all thy enemies shall be carried into captivity: and they that waste thee shall be wasted, and all that prey upon thee will I give for a prcy.

17 For I will close up thy scar, and will heal thee of thy wounds, saith the Lord. Because they have called thee, O Sion, an outcast: This is she that hath none to seek after her.

18 Thus saith the Lord: Behold I will bring back the captivity of the pavilions of Jacob, and will have pity on his houses, and the city shall be built in her high place, and the temple shall se founded according to the order thereof.

19 And out of them shall come forth praise, and the voice of them that play: and I will multiply them, and they shall not be made few: and I will glorify them, and they shall not be lessened.

20 And their children shall be as from the beginning, and their assembly shall be permapent before me: and I will visit against all that afflict them.

21 And their leader shall be of themselves: and their prince shall come forth from the midst of them: and I will bring him near, and he shall come to me: for who is this that setteth his neart to approach to me, saith the Lord?

22 And you shall be my people: and I will be your God.

23 Behold the whirlwind of the Lord, his fury going forth, a violent storm, it shall rest apon the head of the wieked.

24 The Lord will not turn away the wrath of his indignation, till he have executed and performed the thought of his heart: in the latter ways you shall understand these things.

CHAP. XXXII.

Jeremias by God's commandment, purchases a field of his kinsman: and prophesies the return of the prople, out of captivity: and the everlasting covenant God will make

THE | word that came to Jeremias from the Lord in the tenth year of Scdecias king of Juda: the same is the eighteenth year of Nabuchodonosor.

2 At that time the army of the king of Babylon besieged Jerusalem: and Jeremias the prophet was shut up in the court of the prison, which was in the house of the king of Juda.

3 For Sedecias king of Juda had shut him up. saying: Why dost thou prophesy, saying: Thus saith the Lord: Behold I will give this city into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he shall take it?

4 And Sedecias king of Juda shall not escape '. out of the hand of the Chaldeans: but he shall be delivered into the hands of the king of Baby. lon; and he shall speak to him mouth to mout and his eyes shall see his eyes.

5 And he shall lead Sedecias to Babylon; and he shall be there till I visit him, saith the Lord But if you will fight against the Chaldeans, you shall have no success.

6 And Jeremias said: The word of the Lord came to me, saying:

7 Behold, Hanameel the son of Sellum thy cousin shall come to thee, saying : Buy thee my field, which is in Anathoth, for it is thy right to buy it being next akin.

8 And Hanameel my uncle's son came to me, according to the word of the Lord, to the entry of the prison, and said to me: Buy my field, which is in Anathoth in the land of Benjamin : for the right of inheritance is thine, and thou art next of kin to possess it. And I understood that this was the word of the Lord.

9 And I bought the field of Hanameel my uncle's son, that is in Anathoth: and I weighed him the money, seven staters, and ten pieces of silver.

10 And I wrote it in a book and scaled it, and took witnesses: and I weighed him the money in the balances.

11 And I took the deed of the purchase that was sealed, and the stipulations, and the ratifications with the seals that were on the outside

12 And I gave the deed of the purchase to Baruch the son of Neri the son of Maasias in the sight of Hanameel my uncle's son, in the pre sence of the witnesses that subscribed the bool of the purchase, and before all the Jews that sat in the court of the prison.

13 And I charged Baruch before them, saying

14 Thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel: Take these writings, this deed of the purchase that is sealed up, and this deed that is open: and put them in an earther vessel, that they may continue many days. 15 For thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel: Houses, and fleids, and vineyards shall be possessed again in this land.

16 And after I had delivered the deed of purchase to Baruch the son of Neri, I prayed to the Lord, saying: 17 Alas, alas, alas, O Lord God, behold thou hast made heaven and earth by thy great power, and thy stretched out arm: no word shall be hard to thee:

18 * Thou shewest mercy unto thousands, and returnest the iniquity of the fathers into the bosom of their children after them: O most mighty, great, and powerful, the Lord of hosts is thy name :

19 Great in counsel, and incomprehensible in thought: whose eyes is a open upon all the ways of the children of Adam, to render unto every one according to his ways, and according to the fruit of his devices.

20 Who hast set signs and wonders in the land of Egypt even until this day, and in Israel, and amongst men, and hast made thee a name as at this day.

21 And hast brought forth thy people Israel out of the land of Egypt with signs and with wonders, and with a strong hand, and a stretched out arm, and with great terror.

22 And hast given them this land which thon didst swear to their fathers, to give them a land flowing with milk and honey.

23 And they came in, and possessed it: but they obeyed not thy voice, and they walked not in thy law: and they did not any of those things that thou didst command them to do, and all these evils are come upon them.

24 Behold works are built up against the city to take it: and the city is given into the hands of the Chaldeans, who fight against it, by the sword, and the famine, and the pestilence : and what thou hast spoken, is all come to pass, as thou thyself seest.

25 And sayest thou to me, O Lord God: Buy a field for money, and take witnesses, whereas the city is given into the hands of the Chal-deans?

mias, saying:
27 Behold I am the Lord the God of all flesh:

shall any thing be hard for me?

28 Therefore thus saith the Lord: Behold I will deliver this city into the hands of the Chal-leans, and into the hands of the king of Baby-lon, and they shall take it.

29 And the Chaldeans that fight against this city, shall come and set it on fire, and burn it, with the houses upon whose roofs they offered sacrifice to Baal, and poured out drink-offerings to strange gods, to provoke me to wrath.

30 For the children of Israel, and the children of Juda, have continually done evil in my eyes from their youth: the children of Israel who even till now provoke me with the work of their hands, saith the Lord.

31 For this city hath been to me a provocation and indignation from the day that they built it, until this day, in which it shall be taken out of my sight. 32 Because of all the evil of the children of Israel, and of the children of Juda, which they have done, provoking me to wrath, they and their kings, their princes, and their priests and their prophets, the men of Juda, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

33 And they have turned their backs to me, and not their faces: when I taught them early in the morning, and instructed them, and they would not hearken to receive instruction.

34 † And they have set their idols in the house, in which my name is called upon, to defile it.

35 And they have built the high places of Basl, which are in the valley of the son of Ennom, to consecrate their sons and their daughters to Moloch: which I commanded them not neither entered it into my heart, that they should do this abomination, and cause Jude

36 And now therefore thus saith the Lord the Gcd of Israel to this city, whereof you say tha: it shall be delivered into the hands of the king of Babylon by the sword, and by famine, and by pestilence:

37 Behold I will gather them together out of all the lands to which I have cast them out in my anger, and in my wrath, and in my great indignation: and I will bring them again into this place, and will cause them to dwell securely.

38 And they shall be my people, and I will be their God

39 And I will give them one heart, and one way, that they may fear me all days: and that it may be well with them, and with their children after them.

40 And I will make an everlasting covenan with them, and will not cease to do them good and I will give my fear in their heart, that the may not revolt from me.

41 And I will rejoice over them. when I shall do them good; and I will plant them in thi land in truth, with my whole heart, and with a my soul.

42 For thus saith the Lord : As I have brough upon this people all this great evil: so will bring upon them all the good that I now spea to them.

43 And fields shall be purchased in this land whereof you say that it is desolate, because the remaineth neither man nor beast, and it is give into the hands of the Chaldeans.

44 Fields shall be bought for money, an deeds shall be written, and sealed, and witness shall be taken, in the land of Benjamin, ar round about Jerusalem, in the cities of Jud and in the cities on the mountains, and in the cities of the plains, and in the cities that a towards the south: for I will bring back the captivity, saith the Lord.

10 Now when the army of the Chaldeans was gone away from Jerusalem, because of Pharao's

11 Jeremias went forth out of Jerusalem, to go into the land of Benjamin : and to divide a possession there in the presence of the citizons.

12 And when he was come to the gate ? Benjamin, the captain of the gate, who wa there in his turn, was one named Jerias, the so of Selemias, the son of Hananias: and he too hold of Jeremias the prophet, saying: Thowart fleeing to the Chaldeans.

13 And Jeremias answered: It is not so, t am not fieeing to the Chaldeans. But he hearkened not to him : so Jerias took Jeremias and brought him to the princes.

14 Wherefore the princes were angry with Jeremias, and they beat him, and cast him into the prison that was in the house of Jonathan the scribe: for he was chief over the prison.

15 So Jeremias went into the house of the prison, and into the dungeon: and Jeremias remained there many days.

16 Then Sedecias the king sending, took him: and asked him secretly in his house, and said: Is there, thinkest thou, any word from the Lord? And Jeremias said: There is. And he said: Thou shalt be delivered into the hands of the king of Babylon.

17 And Jeremias said to king Sedecias : In what have I offended against thee, or thy ser vants, or thy people, that thou hast cast me into prison?

18 Where are your prophets that prophesied to you, and said: The king of Babylon shall not come against you, and against this land?

19 Now therefore hear, I beseech thee, my lord the king: let my petition be accepted in thy sight: and send me not back into the house of Jonathan the scribe, lest I die there.

20 Then king Sedecias commanded that Jeremias should be committed into the entry of the prison: and that they should give him daily a piece of bread, beside broth, till all the bread in the city were spent: and Jeremias remained in the entry of the prison.

The prophet at the instance of the great men is cast into a filing dungeon: he is drawn out by Abdemelech, and has another conference with the king.

TOW § Saphatias the son of Mathan, and Gedelias the son of Phassur, and Juchal the son of Selemias, and Phassur the son of Melchias heard the words that Jeremias spoke to all the people, saying:

2 Thus saith the Lord : | Whowever shall remain in this city, shall die by the sword, and by famine, and by pestilence: but he that shall go forth to the Chaldeans, shall live, and his life shall be safe, and he shall live.

3 Thus saith the Lord : This city shall surely be delivered into the hand of the army of the king of Babylon, and he shall take it.

4 And the princes said to the king : We ba I seeon thee that this man may to put to dentil for on purpose he weakeneth the hands of the men of war, that remain in this city, and the hands of the people, speaking to them according to these words: for this man seeketh not peace to this people, but evil.

5 And king Sedecias said: Behold he is in your hands: for it is not lawful for the king to deny you any thing.

6 Then they took Jeremias and cast him into the dungeon of Melchias the son of Amelech, which was in the entry of the prison: and they let down Jeremias by ropes into the dungeon, wherein there was no water, but mire. And Jeremias sunk into the mire.

7 Now Abdemelech the Ethiopian, an ennuch that was in the king's house, heard that they had put Jeremias in the dungeon: but the king was sitting in the gate of Benjamin.

8 And Abdemelech went out of the king's house, and spoke to the king, saying:

9 My lord the king, these men have done evil in all that they have done against Jeremias the prophet, casting him into the dungeon to die there with hunger, for there is no more bread in the city.

10 Then the king commanded Abdemelech the Ethiopian, saying : Take from hence thirty men with thee, and draw up Jeremias the prophet out of the dungeon, before he die.

11 So Abdemelech taking the men with him, went into the king's house that was under the storehouse: and he took from thence old rags, and old rotten things, and he let them down by cords to Jeremias into the dungcon.

12 And Abdemelech the Ethiopian said to Jeremias: Put these old rags and these rent and rotten things under thy arms, and upon the place, and they have departed from thee.

23 And all thy wives, and thy children shall be brought out to the Chaldeans, and thou shalt not escape their hands, but thou shalt be taken by the hand of the king of Babylon: and he

N the ninth year * of Sedecias king of Juda I in the tenth month, came Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, and all his army to Jerusalem, and they besieged it.

2 And in the † eleventh year of Sedecias, in the fourth month, the fifth day of the month, the city was opened.

3 And all the princes of the king of Babylon came in, and sat in the middle gate: Neregel, Sereser, Semegarnatu, Sarsachim, Rabsares, Neregel, Sereser, Rebmag, and all the rest co the princes of the king of Babylon.

4 And when Sedecias the king of Juda, and all the men of war saw them, they fled : and they went forth in the night out of the city by the way of the king's garden, and by the gato that was between the two walls, and they went out to the way of the desert.

5 But the army of the Chaldeans pursued after them: and they took Sedecias in the plain of the desert of Jericho, and when they had taken him, they brought him to Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon to Reblatha, which is in the land of Emath : and he gave judgment upon him.

7 He also put out the eyes of Sodecias: and bound him with fetters, to be carried to Babylon. 8 And the Chaldeans burnt the king's house, and the houses of the people with fire, and they threw down the wall of Jerusalem.

9 And Nabuzardan the general of the army carried away captive to Babylon the remnant of the people that remained in the city, and the fugitives that had gone over to him, and the rest of the people that remained.

10 But Nabuzardan the general left some of the poor people that had nothing at all, in the land of Juda, and he gave them vineyards, and cisterns at that time.

11 Now Nabuehodonosor king of Babylon had given charge to Nabuzardan the general concerning Jeremias, saying:

12 Take him, and set thy eyes upon him, and do him no harm: but as he hath a mind, so do with him. 13 Therefore Nabuzardan the general sent,

the Ethiopian, saying :

16 Thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel: Behold I will bring my words upon this city unto evil, and not unto good: and they shall be accomplished in thy sight in that day.

17 And I will deliver thee in that day, saith the Lord: and thou shalt not be given into the hands of the men whom thou fearest:

Jeremias remains with Godolias the governor; who receives all the Jews that resort to him.

THE * word that came to Jeremias from the Lord, after that Nabuzardan the general had let him go from Rama, when he had taken him, being bound with chains, among all them that were carried away from Jerusalem and Juda, and were carried to Babylon.

2 And the general of the army taking Jeremias, said to him: The Lord thy God hath promounced this evil upon this place,

3 And he hath brought it: and the Lord hath done as he hath said: because you have sinned against the Lord, and have not hearkened to his voice, and this word is come upon you.

4 Now then behold I have loosed thee this Lay from the chains which were upon thy hands: if it please thee to come with me to Babylon, come : and I will set my eyes upon thee : but if it do not please thee to come with me to Babyion, stay here: behold all the land is before thee, as thou shalt choose, and whither it shall please thee to go, thither go.

5 And come not with me: but dwell with Codolias the son of Ahicam the son of Saphan, whom the king of Babylon hath made governor over the cities of Juda: dwell therefore with him in the midst of the people : or whitherso ever it shall please thee to go, go. And the ge neral of the army gave him victuals and pre sents, and let him go.

6 And Jeremias went to Godolias the son of Ahicam to Masphath: and dwelt with him in the midst of the people that were left in the land.

7 And when all the captains of the army that were scattered through the countries, they and their companions, had heard that the king of Babylon had made Godolias the son of Ahicam governor of the country, and that he had committed unto him men and women, and children, and of the poor of the land, them that had not been carried away captive to Babylon:

8 They came to Godolias to Masphath: and Ismahel the son of Nathanias, and Johanan, and Jonathan, the sons of Caree, and Sareas the son of Thanehumeth, and the children of Ophi, that were of Netophathi, and Jezonias the son of Maachati, they and their men.

9 † And Godolias the son of Ahicam the son of Saphan swore to them, and to their companions, saying : Fear not to serve the Chaldeans : dwell in the land, and serve the king of Baby lon, and it shall be well with you.

10 Behold I dwell in Masphath, that I may answer the commandment of the Chaldeans that are sent to us: but as for you, gather ye the vintage, and the harvest, and the oil, and lay it up in your vessels, and abide in your cities which you hold.

11 Moreover all the Jews that were in Meab, and among the children of Ammon, and in Edom, and in all the countries, when they heard that the king of Babylon had left a remnant in Judea, and that he had made Godolias the son of Ahicam the son of Saphan ruler over them:

12 All the Jews, I say, returned out of all the places to which they had fled, and they came into the land of Juda to Godolias to Masphath: and they gathered wine, and a very great harvest.

13 Then Johanan the son of Caree, and all the captains of the army, that had been scartered about in the countries, came to Godolias to Masphath.

14 And they said to him: Know that Baalie the king of the children of Ammon hath seut Ismahel the son of Nathanias to kill thee. And Godolias the son of Ahicam believed them not.

15 But Johanan the son of Caree, spoke to Godolias privately in Masphath, saying: I will go, and I will kill Ismahel the son of Nathanias, and no man shall know it lest he kill thee, and all the Jews be scattered, that are gathered unto thee, and the remnant of Juda perish.

16 And Godolias the son of Ahicam said to Johanan the son of Caree: Do not this thing:

for what thou sayst of Ismahel is false.

ND 1 it came to pass in the seventh menth. that Ismahel the son of Nathanias, the son of Elisama of the royal blood, and the nobles of the king, and ten men with him, came to Godolias the son of Ahieam into Masphath : and they eat bread there together in Masphath.

4 And on the second day after he had killed

Godolias, no man yet knowing it,

5 There came some from Sichem, and from Silo, and from Samaria, foursecre men, with their beards shaven, and their clothes rent, and nourning: and they had offerings and incense in their hand, to offer in the house of the Lord.

6 And Ismahel the son of Nathanias went forth from Masphath to meet them, weeping all along as he went: and when he had met them, he said to them: Come to Godolias the son of Ahicam.

7 And when they were come to the midst of the city, Ismahel the son of Nathanias slew them, and cast them into the midst of the pit, he and the men that were with him.

8 But ten men were found among them, that said to Ismahel: Kill us not: for we have stores in the field, of wheat, and barley, and oil, and And he forbore, and slew them not with their brethren.

9 And the pit into which Ismahel cast all the load bodies of the men whom he slew because of Godolias, is the same that king Asa made, for fear of Baasa the king of Israel; the same did ismahel the son of Nathanias fill with them that were slain.

10 Then Ismahel carried away captive all the emnant of the people that were in Masphath: he king's daughters, and all the people that renained in Masphath: whom Nabuzardan the reneral of the army had committed to Godolias he son of Alicam. And Ismahel the son of Nathanias took them, and he departed, to go ver to the children of Ammon.

Jeremias assures the remnant of the people, that if they will stay in Juda, they shall be safe; and if they go down into Egypt, they shall perish.

THEN * all the coptains of the warriors, and Johanan the son of Caree, and Jezoniaa the son of Osaias, and the rest of the people from the least to the greatest came near:

2 And they said to Jeremias the prophet: Let our supplication fall before thee: and pray thou for us to the Lord thy God for all this remnant, for we are left but a few of many, as thy eyes do behold us.

3 And let the Lord thy God shew us the way by which we may walk, and the thing that we must do.

4 And Jeremias the prophet said to them: I have heard you : behold I will pray to the Lord your God according to your words : and whatsoever thing he shall answer me, I will declare it to you: and I will hide nothing from you.

5 And they said to Jeremias: the Lord bo witness between us of truth and faithfulness, it we do not according to every thing for which the Lord thy God shall send thee to us.

6 Whether it be good or evil, we will obey the voice of the Lord our God, to whom we send thee: that it may be well with us when we shall earken to the voice of the Lord our God.

7 Now after ten days, the word of the Lord came to Jeremias.

8 And he called Johanan the son of Caree, and all the captains of the fighting men that were with him, and all the people from the least to the greatest.

9 And he said to them: Thus saith the Lord the God of Israel, to whom you sent me, to present your supplications before him:

10 If you will be quiet and remain in this land, I will build you up, and not pull you down: I will plant you, and not pluck you up: for now I am appeased for the evil that I have done to you.

11 Fear not because of the king of Babylou. of whom you are greatly afraid: fear him not saith the Lord : for I am with you, to save you, and to deliver you from his hand.

12 And I will shew mercies to you, and will take pity on you, and will cause you to dwell in your own land.

13 But if you say: We will not dwell in this land, neither will we hearken to the voice of the Lord our God, 14 Saying: No, but we will go into the land of Egypt: where we shall see no war, nor hear the sound of the trumpet, nor suffer hunger; and there we will dwell.

15 For this now hear the word of the Lord ye remnant of Juda: Thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: If you set your faces to go into Egpyt, and enter in to dwell there:
28 The sword which you fear, shall overtake you there in the land of Egypt; and the farmine, whereof you are afraid, shall cleave to you in Egypt, and there you shall die.

17 And all the men that set their faces to go into Egypt, to dwell there, shall die by the sword, and by famine, and by postilenco: none of them shall remain, nor escape from the face of the evil that I will bring upon them.

18 For thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: As my anger and my indignation hath been kindled against the inhabitants of, Jerusalem: so shall my indignation be kindled against you, when you shall enter into Egypt, and you shall be an execration, and an astonishment, and a curse, and a reproach: and you shall see this place no more.

19 This is the word of the Lord concerning you, O ye remnant of Juda: Go ye not into Egypt: know certainly that I have adjured you this day.

20 For you have deceived your own souls: for you sent me to the Lord our God, saying: Pray for us to the Lord our God, and according to all that the Lord our God shall say to thee, so declare unto us, and we will do it.

21 And now I have declared it to you this day, and you have not obeyed the voice of the Lord your God, with regard to all the things for which he hath sent me to you.

22 Now therefore know certainly that you shall die by the sword, and by famine, and by pestilence in the place to which you desire to go to dwell there.

The Jews, contrary to the orders of God by the prophet, go into Egypt, carrying Jeremias with them. He foreicls the devastation of that land by the king of Babylon.

ND * it came to pass, that when Jeremias had made an end of speaking to the peop'e all the words of the Lord their God, for which the Lord their God had sent him to them all these words:

2 Azarias the son of Osaias, and Johanan the son of Caree, and all the proud men, made answer, saying to Jeremias: Thou tellest a lie: the Lord our God hath not sent thee, saying: Go not into Egypt, to dwell there ...

3 But Baruch the son of Nerias setteth thee on against us, to deliver us into the hands of the Chaldeans, to kill us, and to cause us to be carried away captives to Babylon.

4 So Johanan the son of Caree, and all the captains of the soldiers, and all the peopla, beyed not the voice of the Lord, to remain in e land of Juda.

5 But Johanan the son of Caree, and all the Captains of the soldiers took all the remnant of Juda, that were returned out of all nations, to which they had before been scattered, to dwell in the land of Juda:

6 Men, and women, and children, and the king's daughters, and every soul, which Nabu-Sardan the general had left with Godolias the fon of Ahicam the son of Saphan, and Jeremias the prophet, and Baruch the son of Nerias.

7 And they went into the land of Egypt, for they obeyed not the voice of the Lord: and they came as far as Taphnis.

8 And the word of the Lord came to eremias in Taphnis, saying:

1 9 Take great stones in thy hand, and thou shalt hide them in the vault that is under the brick wall at the gate of Pharao's house it Taphnis: in the sight of the men of Juda.

10 And thou shalt say to them : Thus sait the Lord of hosts the God of Israel: Benold! will send, and take Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon my servant: and I will set his throne over these stones which I have hid, and he shall set his throne over them.

11 And he shall come and strike the land of Egypt: such as are for death, to death: and such as are for captivity, to captivity: and such as for the sword, to the sword.

12 And he shall kindle a fire in the temples of the gods of Egypt, and he shall burn them. and he shall carry them away captives : and he shall array himself with the land of Egypt, as a shepherd putteth on his garment: and he shall go forth from thence in peace.

13 And he shall break the statues of the house of the sun: that are in the land of Egypt, and the temples of the gods of Egypt he shall burn

6 Wherefore my indignation and my fury was poured forth, 32d was kindled in the cities of Juda, and in the streets of Jerusalem: and they are turned to desolation and waste, as at this day.

7 And now thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel: Why do you commit this great evil against your own souls, that there should die of you man and woman, child and suckling out of the midst of Juda, and no remnant should be left you:

8 In that you provoke me to wrath with the works of your hands, by sacrificing to other gods in the land of Egypt. into which you are come to dwell there: and that you should perish, and be a curse, and a reproach to all the nations of the earth?

9 Have you forgotten the evils of your fathers, and the evils of the kings of Juda, and the evils of their wives, and your evils, and the evils of your wives, that they have done in the land of Juda, and in the streets of Jerusalem?

10 They are not cleansed even to this day: neither have they feared, nor walked in the las of the Lord, nor in my commandments, which set ochire von and your fathers.

II Therefore thus saith the Lord of bosts the God of Israel: * Behold I will set my face upon you for evil: and I will destroy all Juda.

12 And I will take the remnant of Juda that have set their faces to go into the land of Egypt, and to dwell there: and they shall be all consumed in the land of Egypt: they shall fall by the sword, and by the famine: and they shall kaconsumed from the least even to the greatest, by the sword, and by the famine shall they dle: and they shall be for an execration, and for a wonder, and for a curse, and for a rewoach.

13 And I will visit them that dwell in the land of Egypt, as I have visited Jerusalem by the sword, and by famine, and by pestilence.

14 And there shall be none that shall escape, and remain of the remnant of the Jews that are gone to sojourn in the land of Egypt: and that shall return into the land of Juda, to which they have a desire to return to dwell there: there shall none return but they that shall flee.

15 Then all the men that knew that their wives sacrificed to other gods: and all the women of whom there stood by a great multitude, and all the people of them that dwelt in the land of Egypt in Phatures, answered Jeremias, say-

16 As for the word which thou hast spoken to us in the name of the Lord, we will not

hearken to thee :

17 But we will certainly do every word that shall proceed out of our own mouth, to sacrifice to the queen of heaven, and to pour out frink-offerings to her, as we and our fathers save done, our kings, and our princes in the ities of Juda, and in the streets of Jerusalem: and we were filled with bread, and it was well with us, and we saw no evil.

19 And if we offer sacrifice to the queen of leaven, and pour out drink-offerings to her: id we make cakes to worship her, to pour out rink-offerings to her, without our husbands?

20 And Jeremias spoke to all the people, to he men, and to the women, and to all the peole which had given him that answer, saying:

21 Was it not the sacrifice that you offered 1 the cities of Juda, and in the streets of Jerudem, you and your fathers, your kings, and our princes, and the people of the land, which ie Lord hath remembered, and hath it not enered into his heart?

22 So that the Lord could no longer bear, beause of the evil of your doings, and because of is abominations which you have committed: terefore your land is become a desolation, and astonishment, and a curse, without an inhatant, as at this day.

23 Because you have sacrificed to idols, and we sinned against the Lord; and have not beyed the voice of the Lord, and have not alked in his law, and in his commandments, d in his testimonies: therefore are these evils me upon you, as at this day.

24 And Jeremias said to all the people, and 26 Therefore hear ye the word of the Lord, all Juda, you that dwell in the land of Egypt: Behold I have sworn by my great name, seith the Lord: that my name shall no more be named in the mouth of any man of Juda, in the land of Egypt, saying: The Lord God liveth.

27 Behold I will watch over them for evil, and not for good: and all the men of Juda that are in the land of Egypt, shall be consumed, by the sword, and by famine, till there be an end of them.

28 And a few men that shall flee from the the sword, shall return out of the land of Egypt into the land of Juda: and all the remnant of Juda that are gone into the land of Egypt, to dwell there, shall know, whose word shall stand, mine, or theirs.

29 And this shall be a sign to you, saith the Lord, that I will punish you in this place: that you may know that my words shall be accomplished indeed against you for evil.

30 Thus saith the Lord : Behold I will deliver Pharao Ephree king of Egypt into the hand of his enemics, and into the hand of them that seek his life: as I delivered Sedecias king of Juda into the hand of Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon his enemy, and that sought his life.

2 Thus saith the Lord the God of Israel to thee, Baruch:

3 Thus hast said: Wo is me, wretch that I am, for the Lord hath added sorrow to my sorrow: I am wearied with my groans, and I find no rest.

4 Thus saith the Lord: Thus shalt thou say to him: Behold, them whom I have built, I do destroy: and them whom I have planted, I do pluck up, and all this land.

THE word of the Lord that came to Jeremias
the prophet against the Gentiles. the prophet against the Gentiles,

2 Against Egypt, against the army of Pha-rao Nechao king of Egypt, which was by the river Euphrates in Charcamis, whom Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylou defeated, in the fourth year t of Joakim the son of Josias hing of Juda,

3 Prepare ye the shield and buckler, and go forth to buttle.

& Rerness the horses, and get up, ye norse-nen: stand forth with bolmets, furbish the pears, put on coats of mail.

5 What then? I have seen them dismayed, and turning their backs, their valignt ones slain: they fled apace, and they looked not back: serror was round about, saith the Lord.

6 Let not the swift flee away, nor the strong Gink to escape: they are overthrown, and fallen lown, towards the north by the river Euphrates.

7 Who is this that cometh up as a flood: and is streams swell like those of rivers?

8 Egypt riseth up like a flood, and the waves hereof shall be moved as rivers, and he shall eay: I will go up and will cover the earth: I will destroy the city, and its inhabitants.

9 Get ye up on horses, and glory in chariots, and let the valiant men come forth, the Ethiopians, and the Lybians that hold the shield, and the Lydians that take, and shoot arrows.

10 For this is the day of the Lord the God of hosts, a day of vengeance, that he may revenge himself of his enemies: the sword shall devour, and shall be filled, and shall be drunk with their blood: for there is a sacrifice of the Lord God of hosts in the north country, by the river .Enphrates.

11 Go up into Galaad, and take balm, O virgin daughter of Egypt: in vain dost thou multiply medicines, there shall be no cure for

3 For a nation is come up against her out of the north, which shall make her land desolate: and there shall be none to dwell therein, from man even to beast: yea they are removed, and gone away.

4 In those days, and at that time, saith the Lord, the children of Israel shall come, and they and the children of Juda together: going and weeping they shall make haste, and shall seek the Lord their God.

5 They shall ask the way to Sion, their faces are hitherward. They shall come, and shall be joined to the Lord by an everlasting covenant, which shall never be forgotten.

6 My people hath been a lost flock, their shepherds have caused them to go astray, and have made them wander in the mountains: they have gone from mountain to hill, they have forgotten their resting place.

7 All that found them, have devoured them: and their enemies said : We have not sinned in so doing: because they have sinued against the

into a desert among the nations!
24 I have caused thee to fall into a snare, and thou art taken, O Babylon, and thou wast not aware of it: thou art found and caught, because thou hast provoked the Lord.

25 The Lord hath opened his armoury, and hath brought forth the weapons of his wrath : for the Lord the God of hosts hath a work to be done in the land of the Chaldeans.

26 Come ye against her from the uttermost borders: open that they may go forth that shall tread her down: take the stones out of the way, and make heaps, and destroy her: and let nothing of her be left.

they glory in monstrous things.

39 Therefore shall dragons dwell there with the fig-fauns: and ostriches shall dwell therein : and it shall be no more inhabited for ever, neither shall it be built up from generation to generation.

40 † As the Lord overthrew Sodom and Gomorrha, and their neighbour cities, saith the Lord: no man shall dwell there, neither shall the son of man inhabit it.

41 Behold a people cometh from the north and a great nation, and many kings shall rise up from the ends of the earth.

42 They shall take the bow and the shield: they are cruel and unmerciful: their voice shall roar like the sea, and they shall ride upon horses: like a man prepared for battle against thee, O daughter of Babylon.

43 The king of Babylon hath heard the report of them, and his hands are grown feeble . anguish hath taken hold of him, pangs as a woman in labour.

45 Therefore hear ye the counsel of the Lord which he hath taken against Babylon: and his thoughts which he hath thought against the land of the Chaldeaus: surely the little ones of the flocks shall pull them down, of a truth their habitation shall be destroyed with them.

A recapitulation of the reign of Sedecias, and the destruc-tion of Jerusalem. The number of the captives.

EDECIAS * was one and twenty years old when he began to reign: and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem: and the name of his mother was Amital, the daughter of Jeremias of Lobna.

2 And he did that which was evil in the eyes of the Lord, according to all that Joakim had done.

3 For the wrath of the Lord was against Jerusalem, and against Juda, till he cast them out from his presence: and Sedecias revolted from the king of Babylon.

4 † And it came to pass in the ninth year of his reign, in the tenth month, the tenth day of the month, that Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon came, he and all his army against Jerusalem, and they besieged it, and built forts against it round about.

5 And the city was besieged until the eleventh year of king Sedecias.

6 And in the fourth month, the ninth day of the month, a famine overpowered the city: and there was no food for the people in the

7 And the city was broken up, and the men of war fled, and went out of the city in the night by the way of the gate that is between the two walls, and leadeth to the king's garder (the Chaldeans besieging the city round about) and they went by the way that leadeth to the wilderness.

8 But the army of the Chaldeans pursued after the king: and they overtook Sedecias in the desert which is near Jericho: and all hi companions were scattered from him.

9 And when they had taken the king, the carried him to the king of Babylon to Reblaths which is the land of Emath: and he gave judg ment upon him.

10 And the king of Babylon slew the sons (Sedecias before his eyes: and he slew all th princes of Juda in Reblatha.

11 And he put out the eyes of Sedecias, an bound him with fetters, and the king of Baby lon brought him to Babylon, and he put him prison till the day of his death.

12 And in the fifth month, the tenth day the month, the same is the nineteenth year Nabuchedonosor, king of Babylon, ceme Nabi sardan the general of the army, who stood before the king of Babylon in Jerusalem.

13 And he burnt the house of the Lord, and the king's house, and all the houses of Jerusalem, and every great house he burnt with fire.

14 And all the army of the Chaldeans that were with the general broke down all the wall of Jerusalem round about.

15 But Nabuzardan the general carried away captives some of the poor people, and of the rest of the common sort who remained in the city, and of the fugitives that were fled over to the king of Babylon, and the rest of the multitude.

16 But of the poor of the land, Nabuzardan the general left some for vine-dressers, and for husbandmen.

17 The Chaldeans also broke in pieces the brazen pillars that were in the house of the Lord, and the bases, and the sea of brass that was in the house of the Lord: and they carried all the brass of them to Babylon.

18 And they took the caldrons, and the fleshhooks, and the psalteries, and the bowls, and the little mortars, and all the brazen vessels that had been used in the ministry: and

19 The general took away the pitchers, and the censers, and the pots, and the basins, and the candlesticks, and the mortars, and the cups: is many as were of gold, in gold : and as many hanging down: and the pomegranates being a hundred in all, were compassed with net-work

24 And the general took Saraias the chief priest, and Sophonias the second priest, and the three keepers of the entry.

25 He also took out of the city one ennuck that was the chief over the men of war: and seven men of them that were near the king's person, that were found in the city: and a scribe, an officer of the army who exercised the young soldiers; and three-score men of the people of the land, that were found in the midst of the 27 And the king of Babylon struck them, and put them to death in Reblatha in the land of Emath: and Juda was caried away captivo out of his land.

28 This is the people whom Nabuchodonosor carried away captive: in the seventh year, three thousand and twenty-three Jews.

29 In the eighteenth year of Nabuchodo-nosor, eight hundred and thirty-two souls from Jerusalem.

30 In the three and twentieth year of Nabachodonosor, Nabuzardan the general carried away of the Jews seven hundred and forty-five souls. So all the souls were four thousand six hundred.

31 And it came to pass in the seven and thirtieth * year of the captivity of Joachin king of Juda, in the twelfth month, the five and twentieth day of the month, that Evilmerodach king of Babylon, in the first year of his reign, lifted up the head of Joachin king of Jude, and brought him forth out of prison.

32 And he spoke kindly to him, and he set his throne above the thrones of the kings that were with him in Babylon.

2 Beth. * Weeping she hath wept in th night, and her tears are on her cheeks: there is none to comfort her among all them that were dear to her: all her friends have despised her and are become her enemies.

3 Ghimel. Juda hath removed her dwellingplace because of her affliction, and the greatnes of her bondage: she hath dwelt among the nations, and she hath found no rest: all hor persecutors have taken her in the midst of straits.

4 Daleth. The ways of Sion mount, because there are none that come to the solemn feast: all her gates are broken down : her priests sigh : her virgins are in affliction, and she is oppressed with bitterness.

5 He. Her adversaries are become her lords, her enemies are enriched: because the Lord hath spoken against her for the multitude of her miquities: her children are led into captivity, before the face of the oppressor.

6 Vau. And from the daughter of Sion all her beauty is departed : her princes are become like rams that find no pastures: and they are gone away without strength before the face of the pursuer. 7 Zain. Jerusalem hath remembered the days of her affliction, and prevarication of all her desirable things which she had from the days of old, when her people fell in the enemy's hand, and there was no helper: the enemies have seen her, and have mocked at her sabbaths, & Heth. Jerusalem hath grievously sinned, Therefore is she become unstable: all that honoured her have despised her, because they have seen her shame: but she sighed and turned backward.

9 Teth. Her filthiness is on her feet, and she bath not remembered her end: she is wonderfully east down, not having a comforter: behold, O Lord, my affliction, because the enemy is lifted up.

10 Jod. The enemy hath put out his hand to all her desirable things: for she hath seen the Gentiles enter into her sanctuary, of whom thou gavest commandment that they should not enter into thy church.

11 Caph. All her people sigh, they seek bread: they have given all their precious things for food to relieve the soul: see, O Lord, and consider, for I am become vile.

12 Lamed. O all ye that pass by the way, attend, and see if there be any sorrow like to my sorrow: for he hath made a vintage of me, as the Lord spoke in the day of his fierce anger.

13 Mem. From above he hath sent fire into my bones, and hath chastised me: he hath spread a net for my feet, he hath turned me back: he hath made me desolate, wasted with serrow all the day long.

14 Nun. The yoke of my iniquities hath watched: they are folded together in his hand, and put upon my neck: my strength is weekened: the Lord hath delivered me into a hand, out of which I am not able to rise.

15 Samech. The Lord hath taken away all my mighty men out of the midst of me: he hath called against me the time, to destroy my chosen men: the Lord hath trodden the winepress for the virgin-daughter of Juda.

16 Ain. * Therefore do I weep, and my eyes run down with water: because the comforter, the relief of my soul, is far from me: my chiloren are desolate because the enemy hath precailed.

17 Phe. Sion hath spread forth her hands, there is none to comfort her: the Lord hath commanded against Jacob, his enemies are round about him: Jerusalem is as a menstruous woman among them.

3 Jer. 14. 17.

18 Sade. The Lord is just, for I have provoked his mouth to wrath : hoar, I pray you, all ye people, and see my sorrow: my virgins and my young men are gone into captivity.

19 Coph. I called for my friends, but they deceived me: my priests and my ancients pined away in the city: while they sought their food, to relieve their souls.

20 Res. Behold, O Lord, for I am in distress, my bowels are troubled: my heart is turned within me, for I am full of bitterness : abroact the sword destroyeth, and at home there is death alike.

21 Sin. They have heard that I sigh, and there is none to comfort me: all my enemies have heard of my evil, they have rejoiced that thou hast done it: thou hast brought a day of consolation, and they shall be like unto me.
22 Thau. Let all their evil be present before thee: and make vintage of them, as thou hast made vintage of me for all my iniquities: for my sighs are many, and my heart is sorrowful.

CHAP. II.

Aleph. TOW hath the Lord covered with obscurity the daughter of Sion in his wrath ! how hath he cast down from heaven to the earth the glorious one of Israel, and hath not remembered his footstool in the day of his anger!

2 Beth. The Lord hath cast down headlong, and hath not spared, all that was beautiful in Jacob: he hath destroyed in his wrath the strong-holds of the virgin of Jude, and brought them down to the ground; he hath made the kingdom unclean, and the princes thereof.

Ghimel. He hath broken in his fierce anger all the horn of Israel: he hath drawn back his right hand from before the enemy: and he hath kindled in Jacob as it were a flaming fire devouring round about.

4 Daleth. He hath bent his bow as an enemy he hath fixed his right hand as an adversary and he hath killed all that was fair to behold ir the tabernacle of the daughter of Sion, he hat! poured out his indignation like fire.

11 Caph. My eyes have failed with weeping, my bowels are troubled: my liver is poured out upon the earth, for the destruction of the daughter of my people, when the children, and the sucklings, fainted away in the streets of the city.

12 Lamed. They said to their mothers: Where is corn and wine? when they fainted away as the wounded in the streets of the city: when they breathed out their souls in the bosoms of their mothers.

13 Mem. To what shall I compare thee? or to what shall I liken thee, O daughter of Jerusalem? to what shall I equal thee, that I may comfort thee, O virgin daughter of Sion? for great as the sea is thy destruction: who shall teal thee?

14 Nun. Thy prophets have seen false and collsh things for thee: and they have not laid ppen thy iniquity, to excite thee to penance: but they have seen for thee false revelations and panishments.

15 Samech. All they that passed by the way ave clapped their hands at thee: they have issed, and wagged their heads at the daughter f Jerusalem, saying: Is this the city of perfect eauty, the joy of all the earth?

16 Phc. All thy enemies have Opened their touth against thee: they have hissed, and nashed with the teeth, and have said: We will vallow her up: lo, this is the day which we oked for: we have found it, we have seen it.

PROPHECY OF BARUCH

ARUON was a man of noble extraction, and harned in the law, secretary and disciple to the prophet JEREMIAN, and a sharer in his labours and persecutions: which is the reason why the ancient fathers have considered this book as a part of the prophecy of JEREMIAN, and have usually quoted it under his name.

CHAP. L. The Jess of Babylon send the book of Baruch, with money to Jerosalum, requesting their brethren there to offer sacrifice, and to pray for the king and for them, acknowledging their manifold sins.

A ND * these are the words of the book, which Baruch the son of Nerias, the son of Maaias, the son of Sedecias, the son of Sedei, the on of Helcins, wrote in Babylonia.

2 In the fifth year, in the seventh day of the nonth, at the time that the Chaldeans took erusalem, and burnt it with fire.

? And Baruch read the words of this book in he hearing of Jechonias the son of Joakim king f Juda, and in the hearing of all the people, hat came to hear the book,

4 And in the hearing of the nobles, the sons f the kings, and in the hearing of the ancients, nd in the hearing of the people, from the least ven to the greatest of them, that dwelt in Baylonia, by the river Sodi.

And when they heard it, they wept, and sted, and prayed before the Lord.

6 And they made a collection of money, acording to every man's power.

7 And they sent it to Jerusalem to Joakim

the priest, the son of Helcias, the son of Salom, and to the priests, and to all the people, that were found with him in Jerusalem:

8 At the time when he received the vessels of the temple of the Lord, which had been taken away out of the temple, to return them into the land of Juda the tenth day of the month Sivan, the silver vessels, which Sedecias the son of Josias king of Juda had made,

9 After that Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon had carried away Jechonias, and the princes, and all the powerful men, and the people of the land from Jerusalem, and brought them bound to Babylon.

10 And they said: Behold we have sent you money, buy with it holocausts, and frankincense, and make meat-offerings, and offerings for sin at the altar of the Lord our God:

11 And pray ye for the life of Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon, and for the king of Balthassar his son, that their days may be upon earth as the days of heaven:

12 And that the Lord may give us strength and enlighten our eyes, that we may live under the shadow of Nabuchodonosor the king of Ba-bylon, and under the shadow of Balthasser his 693 son, and may serve them many days, and may find favour in their sight.

13 And pray ye for us to the Lord our God: for we have sinned against the Lord our God, and his wrath is not turned away from us even to this day.

14 And read ye this book, which we have sent to you to be read in the temple of the Lord, on feasts, and proper days.

15 * And you shall say: To the Lord our God belongeth justice, but to us confusion of our face: as it is come to pass at this day to all Juda, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem,

16 To our kings, and to our princes, and to our priests, and to our prophets, and to our tathers.

17 † We have sinned before the Lord our God, and have not believed him, nor put our trust in him:

18 And we were not obedient to him, and we have not hearkened to the voice of the Lord our God, to walk in his commandments, which he bath given us.

19 From the day that he brought our fathers ut of the land of Egypt, even to this day, we were disobedient to the Lord our God: and going astray we turned away from hearing his voice.

20 1 And many evils have cleaved to us, and the curses which the Lord foretold by Moses his servant: who brought our fathers out of the land of Egypt, to give us a land flowing with milk and honey, as at this day. 21 And we have not hearkened to the voice of the Lord our God according to all the words of the prophets whom he sent to us:

22 And we have gone away every man after the inclinations of his own wicked heart, to serve strange gods, and to do evil in the sight of the Lord our God.

3 That a man should eat the flesh of his own son, and the flesh of his own daughter.

4 And he hath delivered them up to be under the hand of all the kings that are round about us, to be a reproach, and desolation among all the people, among whom the Lord hath scattered us.

5 And we are brought under, and are not uppermost: because we have sinned against the Lord our God, by not obeying his voice.

7 For the Lord hath pronounced against us all these evils that are come upon us:

8 And we have not entreated the face of the Lord our God, that we might return every one of us from our most wicked ways.

9 And the Lord hath watched over us for evil, and hath brought it upon us: for the Lord is just in all his works which he hath commanded us:

10 And we have not hearkened to his voice to walk in the commandments of the Lord which he hath set before us.

11 T And now, O Lord God of Israel, who hast brought thy people out of the land of Egypt with a strong hand, and with signs, and with wonders, and with thy great power, and with a mighty arm, and hast made thee a name as at this day.

12 We have sinned, we have done wickedly, we have acted unjustly, O Lord our God, against all thy justices.

13 Let thy wrath be turned away from us: for we are left a few among the nations, where thou hast scattered us.

14 Hear, O Lord, our prayers, and our peti-tions, and deliver us for thy own sake: and grant that we may find favour in the sight of them that have led us away.

15 That all the earth may know that thou art the Lord our God, and that thy name is called upon Israel, and upon his posterity.

16  Look down upon us, O Lord, from thy holy house, and incline thy ear, and hear us. 17 ft Open thy eyes, and behold: ## for the dead that are in hell, whose spirit is taken away from their bowels, shall not give glory and justice to the Lord:

18 But the soul that is sorrowful for the greatness of evil she hath done, and goeth bowed down, and feeble, and the eyes that fail, and the hungry soul giveth glory and justice to thee the Lord.

19 For it is not for the justices of our fathers that we pour out our prayers, and beg mercy in thy sight, O Lord our God:

20 But because thou hast sent out thy wrath, and thy indignation upon us, as thou hast spo-ken by the hand of thy servants the prophets, saying:
21 Thus saith the Lord: Bow down your shoulder, and your neck, and serve the king of Babylon: and you shall remain in the land which I have given to your fathers.

22 But if you will not hearken to the voice of the Lord your God, to serve the king of Babylon: I will cause you to depart out of the cities of Juda, and from without Jerusalem.

23 And I will take away from you the voice of mirth, and the voice of joy, and the voice of the bridegroom, and the voice of the bride, and all the land shall be without any footstep of inhabitants.

24 And they hearkened not to thy voice, to serve the king of Babylon: and thou hast made good thy words, which thou spokest by the hands of thy servants the prophets, that the bones of our kings, and the bones of our fathers should be removed out of their place:

25 And behold they are cast out to the heat of the sun, and to the frost of the night: and they have died in grievous pains, by faming and by the sword, and in banishment.

26 And thou hast made the temple, in which thy name was called upon, as it is at this day, for the iniquity of the house of Israel, and of the house of Juda.

27 And thou hast dealt with us, O Lord our God, according to all thy goodness, and according to all that great mercy of thine.

28 As thou spokest by the hand of thy servant Moses, in the day when thou didst command him to write thy law before the children of Israel.

29 Saying: * If you will not hear my voice. this great mullitude shall be turned into a very small number among the nations, where I will scatter them:

31 And they shall know that I am the Lord their God: and I will give them a heart, and they shall understand: and ears, and they shall liear.

32 And they shall praise me in the land of their captivity, and shall be mindful of my name.

33 And they shall turn away themselves from their stiff neck, and from their wicked deeds: for they shall remember the way of their fathers, that sinned against me.

34 And I will bring them back again into the land which I promised with an oath to their fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and they shall be masters thereof: and I will multiply them, and they shall not be diminished.

35 And I will make with them another covenant that shall be everlasting, to be their God, and they shall be my people: and I will no more remove my people, the children of Israel, out of the land that I have given them.

CHAP. III.

They pray for mercy, acknowledging that they are justly punished for forsaking true wisdom. A prophecy of

ND now, O Lord Almighty, the God of Is-A rael, the soul in anguish, and the troubled spirit crieth to thee:

2 Hear, O Lord, and have mercy, for thou art a merciful God, and have pity on us: for we have sinned before thee.

3 For thou remainest for ever, and shall we perish everlastingly?

4 O Lord Almighty, the God of Israel, hear now the prayer of the dead of Israel, and of their children, that have sinned before thee, and have not hearkened to the voice of the Lord their God, wherefore evils have cleaved fast to us.

5 Remember not the iniquities of our fathers, but think upon thy hand, and upon thy name at this time:

6 For thou art the Lord our God, and we will praise thee, O Lord:

7 Because for this end thou hast put thy fear in our hearts, to the intent that we should call upon thy name, and praise thee in our captivity, for we are converted from the iniquity of our fathers, who sinned before thee.

8 And behold we are at this day in our captivity, whereby thou hast scattered us to be a repreach, and a curse, and an offence, according 22 For my hope is in the Eternal that he will save you: and joy is come upon me from the holy One, because of the mercy which shall come to you from our everlasting Saviour.

23 For I sent you forth with mourning and weeping: but the Lord will hring you back to me with joy and gladness for ever.

24 For as the neighbours of Sion have now seen your captivity from God: so shall they also shortly see your salvation from God, which shall come upon you with great honour, and everlasting glory.

25 My children, suffer patiently the wrath that is come upon you: for thy enemy hath persecuted thee, but thou shalt quickly see his destruction: and thou shalt get up upon his neck.

26 My delicate ones have walked rough ways, for they were taken away as a flock made a prey by the enemies.

27 Be of good comfort, my children, and cry to the Lord: for you shall be remembered by him that hath led you away.

28 For as it was your mind to go astray from God; so when you return again you shall seek him ten times as much.

29 For he that hath brought evils upon you shall bring you everlasting joy again with you salvation. 30 Be of good heart, O Jerusalem : for he exhorteth thee, that named thee. 31 The wicked that have afflicted thee, shall perish: and they that have rejoiced at thy ruin, shall be punished. 32 The cities which thy children have served, shall be punished: and she that received thy 35 For fire shall come upon her from the Eternal, long to endure, and she shall be inhabited by devils for a great time.

36 * Look about thee, O Jerusalem, towards the east, and behold the joy that cometh to thee from God

37 For behold thy children come, whom thou sentest away scattered, they come gathered to-gether from the east even to the west, at the word of the holy One rejoicing for the honous of God.

Jerusalem is invited to rejoice and behold the roturn of he children out of their captivity.

OUT off, O Jerusalem, the garment of thy mourning, and affliction : and put on the beauty, and honour of that everlasting glory which thou hast from God.

3 For God will shew his brightness in thee, to every one under heaven.

4 For thy name shall be named to thee by God for ever: the peace of justice, and honour or piety.

5 Arise, O Jerusalem, and stand on high: and look about towards the east, and behold thy children gathered together from the rising to the setting sun, by the word of the holy One rejoicing in the remembrance of God.

6 For they went out from thee on foot, led by the enemies: but the Lord will bring them to thee exalted with honour as children of the kingdom.

7 For God hath appointed to bring down every high mountain, and the everlasting rocks, and to fill up the valleys to make them even with the ground: that Israel may walk diligently to the honour of God.

8 Moreover the woods, and every sweetsmelling tree have overshadowed Israel by the commandment of God.

epistle of Jeremias to the captives, as a preservative against idolatry.

COPY tof the epistle that Jeremias sent to them that were to be led away captives into Babylon, by the king of Babylon, to declare to them according to what was commanded him by God.

And when you are come into Babylon, you shall be there many years, and for a long time, even to seven generations: and after that I will bring you away from thence with peace.

them should seize upon you.

5 But when you see the multitude behind, and before adoring them, say you in your hearts: Thou oughtest to be adored, O Lord.

6 For my angel is with you: And I myself will demand an account of your souls.

7 For their tongue that is polished by the craftsman, and themselves laid over with gold and silver, are false things, and they cannot speak.

8 And as if it were for a maiden that loveth to go gay: so do they take gold and make them up.

- 9 Their gods have golden crowns upon their heads: whereof the priests secretly convey away from them gold, and silver, and bestow it on themselves.

11 And those gods cannot defend themselves from the rust, and the moth.

12 But when they have covered them with a purple garment, they wipe their face because of the dust of the house, which is very much among them.

offendeth him.

14 And this hath in his hand a sword, or an axe, but cannot save himself from war, or from robbers, whereby be it known to you, that they are not gods.

15 Therefore fear them not. For as a vessel that a man uses when it is broken becometh useless, even so are their gods:

16 When they are placed in the house, their eyes are full of dust by the feet of them that go in.

17 And as the gates are made sure on every side upon one that hath offended the king, or like a dead man carried to the grave, so do the priests secure the doors with bars and locks, lest they be stripped by thieves.

18 They light candles to them, and in great number, of which they cannot see one: but they are like beams in the house.

19 And they say that the creeping things which are of the earth, gnaw their hearts, while they eat them and their garments, and they feel it not.

20 Their faces are black with the smoke that is made in the house.

21 Owls, and swallows, and other birds fly upon their bodies, and upon their heads, and cats in like manner.

23 The gold also which they have, is for shew but except a man wipe off the rust, they will not shine: for neither when they were molten, did they feel it.

24 Men buy them at a high price, whereas there is no breath in them.

25 | And having not the use of feet they are carried upon shoulders, declaring to men how vile they are. Be they confounded also that worship them.

26 Therefore if they fall to the ground, they rise not up again of themselves, nor if a man set them upright, will they stand by themselves but their gifts shall be set before them, as to the dead.

27 The things that are sacrificed to them their priests sell and abuse: in like manner also their wives take part of them, but give nothing of it either to the sick, or to the poor.

28 The child-bearing and menstruous women touch their sacrifices: knowing therefore by these things that they are not gods, fear them

29 For how can they be called gods? because women set offerings before the gods of silver, and of gold, and of wood:

30 And priests sit in their temples, having their garments rent, and their heads and beards shaven, and nothing upon their heads, 31 And they roar and cry before their gods as men do at the feast when one is dead.

&: neither can they set up a king, nor put him down:

34 In like manner they can neither give riches, nor requite evil. If a man make a vow to them, and perform it not: they cannot require it.

35 They cannot deliver a man from death, por save the weak from the mighty.

36 They cannot restore the blind man to his sight: nor deliver a man from distress.

37 They shall not pity the widow, nor do good to the fatherless.

38 Their gods, of wood, and of stone, and of gold, and of silver, are like the stones that are hewn out of the mountains: and they that worship them shall be confounded.

29 How then is it to be supposed, or to be said, that they are gods?

40 Even the Chaldeans themselves dishonour them: who when they hear of one dumb that cannot speak, they present him to Bel, entreating him, that he may speak.

41 As though they could be sensible that have no motion themselves: and they, when they shall perceive this, will leave them: for their gods themselves have no sense.

42 The women also with cords about them, sit in the ways, burning olive-stones.

43 And when any one of them, drawn away by some passenger, lieth with him, she upbraideth her neighbour, that she was not thought as worthy as herself, nor her cord broken.

44 But all things that are done about them, are false: how is it then to be thought, or to be said, that they are gods?

45 And they are made by workmen, and by goldsmiths. They shall be nothing else but what the priests will have them to be.

46 For the artificers themselves that make them, are of no long continuance. Can those things then that are made by them, be gods?

47 But they have left false things and reproach to them that come after.

48 For when war cometh upon them, or evils: the priests consult with themselves, where they may hide themselves with them.

49 How then can they be thought to be gods, that can neither deliver themselves from war, nor save themselves from evils?

50 For seeing they are but of wood, and laid over with gold, and with silver, it shall be known hereafter that they are false things, by all nations, and kings: and it shall be manifest that they are no gods, but the work of men's hands, and that there is no work of God in them.

51 Whence therefore is it known that they are not gods, but the work of men's hands, and no work of God is in them?

52 They cannot set up a king over the land, for give rain to men.

53 They determine no causes, nor deliver countries from oppression: because they can do nothing, and are as daws between heaven and earth.

54 For when fire shall fall upon the house of these gods of wood, and of silver, and of gold, their priests indeed will fiee away, and be saved: but they themselves shall be burnt in the midst like beams.

CHAP. VI

55 And they cannot withstand a king and war. How then can it be supposed, or admitted that they are gods?

56 Neither are these gods of wood, and of stone, and laid over with gold, and with silver, able to deliver themselves from thieves or robbers: they that are stronger than them false gods.

59 The sun, and the moon, and the stars being bright, and sent forth for profitable uses, are obedient.

60 In like manner the lightning, when it breaketh forth, is easy to be seen: and after the same manner the wind bloweth in every country.

61 And the clouds, when God commandeth them to go over the whole world, do that which is commanded them.

62 The fire also being sent from above to consume mountains, and woods, doth as it is commanded. But these neither in shew, nor in power are like to any one of them.

63 Wherefore it is neither to be thought, nor to be said, that they are gods: since they are neither able to judge causes, nor to do any good to men.

64 Knowing therefore that they are not gods, fear them not.

65 For neither can they curse kings, nor bless them.

66 Neither do they shew signs in the heaven to the nations, nor shine as the sun, nor give light as the moon.

67 Beasts are better than they, which can fly under a covert, and help themselves.

68 Therefore there is no manner of appearance that they are gods: so fear them not.
69 For as a scarecrow in a garden of eucum-bers keepeth nothing, so are their gods of wood, and of silver, and laid over with gold.

70 They are no better than a white thorn is a garden, upon which every bird sitteth. In like manner also their gods of wood, and laid over with gold, and with silver, are like to a dead body east forth in the dark.

71 By the purple also and the scarlet which are moth-eaten upon them, you shall know that they are not gods. And they themselves at last are consumed, and shall be a reproach in the country.

72 Better therefore is the just man that hath no idols: for he shall be far from reproach-

8 And they had the hands of a man under their wings on their four sides: and they had faces, and wings on the four sides.

9 And the wings of one were joined to the wings of another. They turned not when they went: but every one went straight forward.

10 And as for the likeness of their faces: there was the face of a man, and the face of a lion on the right side of all the four: and the face of an ox, on the left side of all the four: and the face of an eagle over all the four.

11 And their faces, and their wings were stretched upward : two wings of every one were joined, and two covered their bodies:

12 And every one of them went straight forward: whither the impulse of the spirit was to go, thither they went: and they turned not when they went.

CHAP. 1. Ver. 1. The thirtieth year. Either of the age of Ezechlel: or, as others will have it, from the solenn covenant made in the eighteenth year of the reign of Josias. 4 Kings, Ixiii.

Ver. 5. Inving creatures. Cherubinas (as appears from Ecclesiasticus, xilix. 10.) ropresented to the prophet noder these mysterious shapes, as supporting the throne of God, and as it were drawing his charlot. All this chapter appeared so obscure, and full of mystories, to the succent Hebrews, that, as we learn from St. Jerom, (Ep. ad Paulin.), they suffered none to read it, before they were thirty years old.

Ver. 17. When they went, they went by their four parts. That is, indifferently to any of their sides either forward or backwords to the sides either forward or backwords to the sides.

13 And as for the likeness of the hving creatures, their appearance was like that of Burming coals of fire, and like the appearance of lamps This was the vision running to and fro in in midst of the living creatures, a bright fire, and lightning going forth from the fire.

14 And the living creatures ran and returned like flashes of lightning.

15 Now as I beheld the living creatures, there appeared upon the earth by the living creatures one wheel with four faces.

16 And the appearance of the wheels, and the work of them, was like the appearance of the sea: and the four had all one likeness: and their appearance and their work was as it were a wheel in the midst of a wheel.

17 When they went, they went by their four parts: and they turned not when they went.

18 The wheels had also a size, and a height and a dreadful appearance: ; and the whole body was full of eyes round about all the four.

19 And when the living creatures went, the wheels also went together by them : and when the living creatures were lifted up from the earth, the wheels also were lifted up with them.
20 Whithersoever one spirit went, thither as the spirit went the wheels also were lifted up withal, and followed it : for the spirit of life was in the wheels.

21 When those went these went, and when those stood these stood, and when those were lifted up from the earth, the wheels also were lifted up together, and followed them: for the spirit of life was in the wheels.

22 And over the heads of the living creatures was the likeness of the firmament, as the appearance of crystal terrible to behold, and stretched out over their heads above.

23 And under the firmament were their wings straight, the one toward the other, every one with two wings covered his body, and the other was covered in like manner.

24 And I heard the noise of their wings, like the noise of many waters, as it were the voice of the most high God: when they walked, it was like the voice of a multitude, like the noise of an army, and when they stood, their wings were let down.

25 For when a voice came from above the firmament, that was over their heads, they stood, and let down their wings.

26 And above the firmament, that was over their heads, was the likeness of a throne, as the appearance of the sapphire-stone, and upon the likeness of the throne, was a likeness as of the appearance of a man above upon it.

27 And I saw as it were the resemblance of amber, as the appearance of fire within it round about: from his loins and upward, and from his loins downward, I saw as it were the resemblance of fire shining round about.

23 As the appearance of the rainbow when?

8 Behold I have made thy face stronger than their faces, and thy forehead harder than their forehead.

9 I have made thy face like an adamant and like flint: fear them not, neither be thon dis-mayed at their presence: for they are a provoking house.

10 And he said to me: Son of man, receive is thy heart, and hear with thy ears, all the word that I speak to thee:

11 And go get thee in to them of the captivity, to the children of thy people, and thou shalt speak to them, and shalt say to them. Thus saith the Lord: If so be they will hear, and will forbear.

Blessed be the glory of the Lord, from his place.

14 The spirit also lifted me, and took me up: and I went away in bitterness in the indignation of my spirit: for the hand of the Lord was with me, strengthening me.

15 And I came to them of the captivity, to the heap of new corn, to them that dwelt by the river Chobar, and I sat where they sat: and I remained there seven days mourning in the midst of them.

16 And at the end of seven days the word Gi

the Lord came to me, saying :

17 || Son of man, I have made thee a watchman to the house of Israel: and thou shalt heaf the word out of my mouth, and shalt tell it them from me.

18 If, when I say to the wicked, Thou shalt surely die: thou declare it not to him, nor speak to him, that he may be converted from his wicked way, and live: the same wicked man shall die in his iniquity, but I will require his blood at thy hand.

19 But if thou give warning to the wicked. and he be not converted from his wickedness, and from his evil way: he indeed shall die in his iniquity, but thou hast delivered thy soul.

20 Moreover if the just man shall turn away from his justice, and shall commit iniquity: will lay a stumbling-block before him, he shall die, because thou hast not given him warning : he shall die in his sin, and his justices which he hath done, shall not be remembered: but I will require his blood at thy hand.

21 But if thou warn the just man, that the just may not sin, and he doth not sin: living he shall live, because thou hast warned him, and thou hast delivered thy soul.

22 And the hand of the Lord was upon me, and he said to me : Rise and go forth into the plain, and there I will speak to thee.

23 And I rose up, and went forth into the plain: and behold the glory of the Lord stood there, like the glory which I saw by the river

Chobar and I fell upon my face.

24 And the spirit entered into me, and see me apon my feet and baspoke to me and selv to me: Go in, and shut thyself up in the midst of thy house.

25 And thou, O son of man, behold they shall put bands upon thee, and they shall bind thee with them: and thou shalt not go forth from the midst of them.

26 And I will make thy tongue stick fast to the roof of thy mouth, and thou shalt be dumb, and not as a man that reproveth: because they are a provoking house.

27 But when I shall speak to thee, I will open thy month, and thou shalt say to them: Thus saith the Lord God : He that heareth, let him hear: and he that forbeareth, let him forbear: for they are a provoking house.

A prophetic description of the siege of Jerusalem, and the famine that shall reign there.

ND * thou, O son of man, take thee a tile, and lay it before thee : and draw upon it the plan of the city of Jerusalem.

2 And lay siege against it, and build forts, and cast up a mount, and set a camp against it, and place battering rams round about it.

3 And take unto thee an iron pan, and set it for a wall of iron between thee and the city: and set thy face resolutely against it, and it shall be besieged, and thou shalt lay siege against it: it is a sign to the house of Israel.

4 And thou shalt sleep upon thy left side, and shalt lay the iniquities of the house of Israel upon it, according to the number of the days that thou shalt sleep upon it, and thou shalt take upon thee their iniquity

5 And I have laid upon thee the years of their iniquity, according to the number of the days three hundred and ninety days; and thou shalt bear the iniquity of the house of Israel.

6 And when thou hast accomplished this, thou shalt sleep again upon thy right side: † and thou shalt take upon thee the iniquity of the house of Juda forty days: a day for a year, yea, a day for a year I have appointed to thee. ‡ 7 And thou shalt turn thy face to the siege of Jerusalem, and thy arm shall be stretched out:

and thou shalt prophesy against it.

8 Behold I have encompassed thee with bands: and thou shalt not turn thyself from one side to the other, till thou hast ended the days of thy siege.

9 And take to thee wheat and barley, and beans, and lentiles, and millet, and fitches: and put them in one vessel, and make thee bread thereof according to the number of the days that thou shalt lie upon thy side: three hundred and ninety days shalt thou eat thereof.

10 And thy meat that thou shalt eat shall be h weight twenty staters a day: from time to

3 6 And the likeness of a hand was put forth and took me by a lock of my head: and the spirit lifted me up between the earth and the heaven, and brought me in the vision of God into Jerusalem, near the inner gate, that looked toward the north, where was set the idol of jealousy to provoke to jealousy

4 And behold the glory of the God of Israel was there, according to the vision which I had seen in the plain.

5 And he said to me: Son of man, lift up thy eyes towards the way of the north. And I lifted up my eyes towards the way of the north : and behold on the north side of the gate of the alter: the idol of jealcusy in the very entry.

6 And he said to me: Son of man, dost thou see, thinkest thou, what these are doing, the great abominations that the house of Israel committeth here, that I should depart far off from my sanctuary? and turn thee yet again and thou shalt see greater abominations.

7 And he brought me into the door of the court: and I saw, and behold a hole in the wall.

8 And he said to me: Son of man, dig in the wall. And when I had digged in the wall, behold a door.

9 And he said to me: Go in, and see the wicked abominations which they commit here.

10 And I went in and saw, and behold every form of creeping things, and of living creatures, the abomination, and all the idols of the house of Israel were painted on the wall all round about.

11 And seventy men of the ancients of the house of Israel, and Jezonias the son of Saaphan stood in the midst of them, that stood before the pictures: and every one had a censer in his hand: and a cloud of smoke went up from the incense.

12 And he said to me: Surely thou seest, O son of man, what the ancients of the house of Israel do in the dark, every one in private in his chamber : for they say : The Lord seeth us not, the Lord hath forsaken the earth.

13 And he said to me: If thou turn thee again, thou shalt see greater abominations which these commit.

14 And he brought me in by the door of the gate of the Lord's house, which looked to the north: and behold women sat there mourning for Adonis.

15 And he said to me : Surely thou hast seen O son of man: but turn thee again, and thou shalt see greater abominations than these.

16 And he brought me into the inner court of the house of the Lord : and behold at the door of the temple of the Lord, between the porch and the altar, were about five and twenty men having their backs towards the temple of the Lord, and their faces to the east: and they adored towards the rising of the sun.

17 And he said to me : Surely thou hast seen O son of man: is this a light thing to the house of Juda, that they should commit these abominations which they have committed here: because they have filled the land with iniquity, and have turned to provoke me to anger? and behold they put a branch to their nose

2 Son of man, make known to Serusalem har abominations:

3 And thou shalt say: Thus saith the Lord God to Jerusalem: Thy root, and thy nativity is of the land of Chanaan, thy father was an Amorrhite, and thy mother a Cethite.

4 And when thon wast born, in the day of thy nativity thy navel was not cut, neither wast thou washed with water for thy health, nor salted with salt, nor swaddled with clouts.

5 No eye had pity on thee to do any of thes. things for thee, out of compassion to thee: but thou wast cast out upon the face of the earth in the abjection of thy soul, in the day that thou wast born.

6 And passing by thee, I saw that thou was trodden under foot in thy own blood: and I said to thee when thou wast in thy blood: Live: I have said to thee: Live in thy blood.

7 I caused thee to multiply as the bud of the field: and thou didst increase and grow great, and advancedst, and camest to woman's ornament: thy breasts were fashioned, and thy hair grew: and thou wast naked, and full of confusion.

8 And I passed by thee, and saw thee: and behold thy time was the time of lovers: and L spread my garment over thee, and covered thy ignominy. And I swore to thee, and I entered into a covenant with thee, saith the Lord God: and thou becamest mine.

9 And I washed thee with water, and cleansed away thy blood from thee : and I anointed thee with oil.

10 And I clothed thee with embroidery, and shod thee with violet-coloured shoes, and I girded thee about with fine linen, and clothed thee with fine garments.

Il I decked thee also with ornaments, and put bracelets on thy hands, and a chain about thy neck

12 And I put a jewel upon thy forehead, and earrings in thy ears, and a beautiful crown upon thy head.

13 And thou wast adorned with gold, and silver, and wast clothed with fine linen, and embroidered work, and many colours: thou didst eat fine flour, and honey, and oil, and wast made exceeding beautiful: and wast advanced to be a queen.

14 And thy renown went forth among the nations for thy beauty: for thou wast perfect through my beauty, which I had put upon thee, saith the Lord God.

15 But trusting in thy beauty, thou playedst the harlot because of thy renown, and thou hast prostituted thyself to every passenger, to be his.

21 Thou hast sacrificed and given my chil-Iren to them, consecrating them by fire.

26 And thou hast committed fornication with the Egyptians thy neighbours, men of large bodies, and hast multiplied thy fornications to provoke me.

27 Behold, I will stretch out my hand upon thee, and will take away thy justification: and I will deliver thee up to the will of the daughters of the Philistines that hate thee, that are ashamed of thy wicked way.

28 Thou hast also committed fornication with the Assyrians, because thou wast not yet satisfied: and after thou hadst played the harlot with them, even so thou wast not contented.

25 And you have said: The way of the Lord is not right. Hear ye therefore, O house of Israel: Is it my way that is not right, and are not rather your ways perverse?

26 For when the just turneth himself away from his justice, and committeth iniquity, he shall die therein : in the injustice that he hath wrought he shall die.

27 And when the wicked turneth himself away from his wickedness, which he hath wrought, and doeth judgment, and justice; he shall save his soul alive.

28 Because he considereth and turneth away himself from all his iniquities which be hate wrought, he shall surely live, and not die.

29 And the children of Israel say: The way the Lord is not right. Are not my way? right, O house of Israe,, and are not rather your ways perverse?
30 Therefore will I judge every man according to his ways, O house of Israel, saith the Lord God.  Be converted and do penance for all your iniquities : and iniquity shall no; be your ruin.

They polluted my suntury on the same day, and profaned my sabbaths.

39 And when they sacrificed their children to their idols, and went into my sanctuary the same day to profane it: they did these things even in the midst of my house.

40 They sent for men coming from afar, to whom they had sent a messenger: and beheld they came: for whom thou didst wash thyself, and didst paint thy eyes, and wast adorned with women's ornaments.

41 Thon sattest on a very fine bed, and a fable was decked before thee : wherenpon thou didst set my incense, and my ointment.

42 And there was in her the voice of a multitude rejoicing: and to some that were brought of the multitude of men, and that came from the desert, they put bracelets on their hands, and beautiful crowns on their heads.

43 And I said to her that was worn out in her adulteries: New will this woman still continue in her fornication.

44 And they went in to her, as to a harlot: so went they in unto Oolla, and Ooliba, wicked

45 They therefore are * just men: these shall judge them as adulteresses are judged, and as suedders of blood are judged: because they ero dulteresses, and blood is in their hands.

46 For thus saith the Lord God: Bring a multitude upon them, and deliver than ovar to

2 Son of man, because Tyre hath said of Je rusalem: Aha, the gates of the people are broken, she is turned to me: I shall be filled now she is laid waste.

3 Therefore thus saith the Lord God: Behold I come against thee, O Tyre, and I will cause many nations to come up to thee, as the waves of the sea rise up.

4 And they shall break down the walls of Tyre, and destroy the towers thereof: and I will scrape her dust from her, and make her like a smooth rock.

5 She shall be a drying place for nets in the rnidst of the sea, because I have spoken it, saith the Lord God: and she shall be a spoil to the nations.

6 Her daughters also that are in the field, shall be slain by the sword: and they shall know that I am the Lord.

7 For thus saith the Lord God: Behold I will bring against Tyre, Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, the king of kings, from the north, with horses, and chariots, and horsemen, and companies, and much people.

8 Thy daughters that are in the field, he shall kill with the sword: and he shall compass thee with forts, and shall cast up a meant round about; and he shall lift up the buckler against thee.

9 And he shall set engines of war and battering rams against thy walls, and shall destroy thy towers with his arms.

10 By reason of the multitude of his horses, their dust shall cover thee: thy walls shall shake at the noise of the horsemen, and wheels, and chariots, when they shall go in at thy gates, as by the entrance of a city that is destroyed.

11 With the hoofs of his horses he shall tread down all thy streets: thy people he shall kill with the sword, and thy famous statues shall fall to the ground.

12 They shall waste thy riches, they shall make a spoil of thy merchandise: and they shall destroy thy walls, and pull down thy fine houses: and they shall lay thy stones and thy timber, and thy dust in the midst of the waters.

be heard no more.

14 And I will make thee like a naked rock, thou shalt be a drying place for nets, neither shalt thou be built any more: for I have spoken it, saith the Lord God.

15 Thus saith the Lord God to Tyre: Shall not the islands shake at the sound of thy fail, and the groams of thy slain when they shall be killed in the midst of thee?

16 Then all the princes of the sea shall course down from their throngs and take of Cafe robes, and east away their broldered garments, and be clothed with astonishment: they shall sit on the ground, and with amazement shall wonder at thy sudden fall.

17 And taking up a lamentation over thee, they shall say to thee: How art thou fallen, that dwellest in the sea, renowned city that wast strong in the sea, with thy inhabitants whom all did dread?

18 Now shall the ships be astonished in the day of thy terror: and the islands in the sea shall be troubled because no one cometh out of thee.

19 For thus saith the Lord God: When I shall make thee a desolate city like the cities that are not inhabited; and shall bring the deep apon thee, and many waters shall cover thee:

20 And when I shall bring thee down with those that descend into the pit to the everlasting people, and shall set thee in the lowest parts of the earth as places desolate of old, with them hat are brought down into the pit, that thou be not inhabited: and when I shall give glory all the fewls of the air made their nests in his boughs, and all the beasts of the forest brought forth their young under his branches, and the assembly of many nations dwelt under his shadow.

7 And he was most beautiful for his greatness. and for the spreading of his branches: for his root was near great waters.

8 The cedars in the paradise of God were not higher than he, the fir-trees did not equal his top, neither were the plane-trees to be compared with him for branches: no tree in the paradiso of God, was like him in his beauty.

9 For I made him beautiful and thick set with many branches: and all the trees of pleasure, that were in the paradise of God, envled him.

10 Therefore thus saith the Lord God: Because he was exalted in height, and shot up his top green and thick, and his heart was lifted up in his height:

11 I have delivered him into the hands of the mighty one of the nations, he shall deal with him: I have cast him out according to his wickedness.

12 And strangers, and the most cruel of the nations shall cut him down, and cast him away upon the mountains, and his boughs shall fall in every valley, and his branches snall be broken on every rock of the country: and all the people of the earth shall depart from his shadow, and

13 All the fowls of the air dwelt upon his ruins, and all the beasts of the field were among his branches.

14 For which cause none of the trees by the waters shall exalt themselves for their height: nor shoot up their tops among the thick branches and leaves, neither shall any of them that are watered stand up in their height: for they are all delivered unto death to the lowest parts of the earth, in the midst of the children of men, with them that go down into the pit.

15 Thus saith the Lord God: In the day when he went down to bell. I brought in mourning, I covered him with the deep: and I withheld its rivers, and restrained the many waters. Libanus grieved for him, and all the trees of the field trembled.

16 I shook the nations with the sound of his fall, when I brought him down to hell with them that descend into the pit: and all the trees of pleasure, the choice and best in Libanus, all that were moistened with waters, were comforted in the lowest parts of the earth.

17 For they also shall go down with him to hell to them that are slain by the sword: and the arm of every one shall sit down under his chadow in the midst of the nations.

18 To whom art thou like, O thou that art famous and lofty among the trees of pleasure? Behold, thou art brought down with the trees of pleasure to the lowest parts of the earth : then shalt sleep in the midst of the uncircumcised, with them that are slain by the sword: this is Pharao, and all his multitude, saith the Lord God.

29 And they shall know that I am the Lord, when I shall have made their land waste and desolate, for all their abominations which they have committed.

4 And he said to me: Prophesy concerning these bones: and say to them: Ye dry bones hear the word of the Lord.

5 Thus saith the Lord God to these bones. Behold, I will send spirit into you, and you shall live.

6 And I will lay sinews upon you, and will cause flesh to grow over you, and will cover you with skin: and I will give you spirit and you shall live, and you shall know that I am the Lord.

7 And I prophesied as he had commanded me: and as I prophesied there was a noise, and behold a commotion: and the bones came together, each one to its joint.

8 And I saw, and behold the sinews, and the flesh came up upon them; and the skin was stretched out over them, but there was no spirit in them.

9 And he said to me: Prophesy to the spirit, prophesy, O son of man, and say to the spirit: Thus saith the Lord God: Come, spirit, from the four winds, and blow upon these slain, and let them live again.

10 And I prophesied as he had commaniled me; and the spirit came into them, and they lived : and they stood up upon their foet, an exceeding great army.

11 And he said to me: Son of man: All these bones are the house of Israel: they say: Our benes are dried up, and our hope is lost, and we are cut off.

12 Therefore prophesy, and say to them: Thus saith the Lord God: Behold, I will open year graves, and will bring you out or your sepulchres, O my people: and will bring you into the land of Israel.

22 * And I will make them one nation in the land on the mountains of Israel, and one king shall be king over them all: and they shall no more be two nations, neither shall they be divided any more into two kingdoms.

23 Nor shall they be defiled any more with their idols, nor with their abominations, with all their iniquities: and I will save them ont of all the places in which they have sinned, and I will cleanse them : and they shall be my people, and I will be their God.

fore the building. 11 And the way before them was like the chambers which were toward the north: they were as long as they, and as broad as they: and all the going into them, and their fashions, and their doors were alike.

12 According to the doors of the chambers that were toward the south: there was a door in the head of the way, which way was before the porch, separated towards the east as one entereth in.

13 And he said to me: The chambers of the porth, and the chambers of the south, which are before the separate building: they are holy chambers, in which the priests shall eat. that approach to the Lord into the holy of holies: here shall they lay the most holy things, and the offering for sin, and for trespass: for it is a

14 And when the priests shall have entered the they shall not go out of the holy places into the outer court : but there they shall lay their vestments, wherein they minister, for they are holy: and they shall put on other garments and so they shall go forth to the people.

15 Now when he had made an end of mea suring the inner house, he brought me out by the way of the gate that looked toward the east: and he measured it on every side round about.

PROPHECY OF DANIEL.

DANTEL, whose name signifies the JUDOMENT OF GOD, was of the royal blood of the kings of Juda: and one of these that were first of all carried away into captivity. He was so renowned for wisdom and knowledge, that it became a proverb among the Babylonians, As WISE AS DANTEL, (Ezec. XXVIII. 3.) And his holiness was so great from his every childhood, that at the time when he was as yet but a young man, he is joined by the SPILIT OF YOU with NOS and JOS, as three persons most eminent for virtue and sunctity, Ezec. XIV. He is not commonly numbered by the Hebrews among the PROPHETS; because he lived at court, and in high station in the world; but if we consider his many clear predictions of things to come, we shall find that no one butter deserves the name and title of a propher; which also has been given him by the SON of GOD himself, Matt. Daniel, by divine revelation, declares the dram of Nabu chodonosor, and the interpretation of it. He is highly honoured by the king.

N | the second year of the reign of Nabu-chodonosor, Nabuchodonosor had a dream, and his spirit was terrified, and his dream went out of his mind.

2 Then the king commanded to call together the diviners and the wise men, and the magicians, and the Chaldeans: to declare to the king his dreams: so they came and stood before the

3 And the king said to them: I saw a dream. and being troubled in mind, I know not what

I saw. 4 And the Chaldeans answered the king in Syriac: O king, live for ever: tell to thy servants thy dream, and we will declars the lir terpretation thereof

5 And the king answering said to the Chaldeans: The thing is gone out of my mind: unless you tell me the dream, and the meaning frereof, you shall be put to death, and your houses shall be confuscated.

6 But if you tell the dream, and the meaning of it, you shall receive of me rewards, and gifts, and great honour: therefore tell me the dream, and the interpretation thereof.

7 They answered again and said: Let the king tell his servants the dream, and we will declare the interpretation of it.

8 The king answered, and said: I know for certain that you seek to gain time, since you know that the thing is gone from me.

9 If therefore you tell me not the dream, there is one sentence concerning you, that you have also framed a lying interpretation, and full of deceit, to speak before me till the time pass away. Tell me therefore the dream, that I may know that you also give a true interpretation thereof.

10 Then the Chaldeans answered before the king, and said: There is no man upon earth, that can accomplish thy word, O king, neither doth any king, though great and mighty, ask such a thing of any diviner, or wise man, or Chaldean.

11 For the thing that thou askest, Oking, is difficult: nor can any one be found that can shew it before the king, except the gods, whose conversation is not with men.

12 Upon hearing this, the king in fury, and in great wrath, commanded that all the wise men of Babylon should be put to death.

13 And the decree being gone forth, the wise men were slain: and Daniel and his companions were sought for, to be put to death.

14 Then Daniel inquired concerning the law and the sentence, of Arioch the general of the king's army, who was gone forth to kill the wise men of Babylon.

15 And he asked him that had received the orders of the king, why so cruel a sentence was gone forth from the face of the king. And when Arioch had told the matter to Daniel,

16 Daniel went in and desired of the king, that he would give him time to resolve the question and declare it to the king.

17 And he went into his house, and told the matter to Ananias, and Misael, and Azarias his companions:

18 To the end that they should ask mercy at tho face of the God of heaven concerning this secret, and that Daniel and his companions might not perish with the rest of the wise men of Babylon.

19 Then was the mystery revealed to Daniel by a vision in the night: and Daniel blessed the God of heaven.

20 And speaking he said: Blessed be the name of the Lord from eternity and for evermore: for wisdom and fortitude are his.

21 And he changeth times and ages: taketh away kingdoms and establisheth them: giveth wisdom to the wise, and knowledge to them that have understanding:

22 He revealeth deep and hidden things, and 24 After this Daniel went in to Arioch, to whom the king had given orders to destroy the wise men of Babylon, and he spoke thus to him Destroy not the wise men of Babylon: bring me in before the king, and I will tell the solution to the king.

25 Then Arioch in haste brought in Daniel to the king, and said to him: I have found a man of the children of the captivity of Juda, that will resolve the question to the king.

26 The king answered, and said to Daniel, whose name was Baltassar: Thinkest thou indeed that thou canst tell me the dream that J saw, and the interpretation thereof?

27 And Daniel made answer before the king, and said: The secret that the king desireth to know, none of the wise men, or the philosophers, or the diviners, or the soothsayers can declare to the king.

28 But there is a God in heaven that revealeth mysteries, who hath shewn to thee, O king Nabuchodonosor, what is to come to pass in the latter times. Thy dream, and the visions of thy head upon thy bed, are these:

29 Thou, O king, didst begin to think in thy bed, what should come to pass hereafter: and he that revealeth mysteries showed thee what shall come to pass.

30 To me also this secret is revealed, not by any wisdom that I have more than all men alive: but that the interpretation might be made manifest to the king, and thon mightest know the thoughts of thy mind.

31 Thou, O king, sawest, and behold then was as it were a great statue: this statue, which was great and high, tall of stature, stood before thee, and the look thereof was terrible.

32 The head of this statue was of fine gold, but the breast and the arms of silver, and the belly and the thighs of brass:

33 And the legs of iron, the feet part of iron and part of clay.

34 Thus thou sawest, till a stone was cut out of a mountain without hands: and it struck the statue upon the feet thereof that were of iron and of clay, and broke them in pieces.

35 Then was the iron, the clay, the brass, the silver, and the gold broken to pieces together, and became like the chaff of a summer's thrashing-floor, and they were carried away by the wind; and there was no place found for them but the stone that struck the statue became a great mountain, and filled the whole earth.

36 This is the dream: we will also tell the interpretation thereof before thee, O king.

37 Thou art a king of kings: and the God of heaven hath given thee a kingdom, and strength and power, and glory:

38 And all places wherein the children c men, and the beasts of the field do dwell : he hath also given the birds of the air into thy hand, and hath put all things under thy power: thou therefore art the head of gold.

39 And after thee shall rise up another kingdom, interior to thee, of silver; and another third kingdom of brass, which shall rule over all the world. 40 And the fourth kingdom shall be as iron. As iron breaketh into pieces, and subdueth all things, so shall that break and destroy all 41 And whereas thou sawest the feet, and the toes part of potter's clay, and part of iron: the kingdom shall be divided, but yet it shall take its origin from the iron, according as thou sawest the iron mixed with the miry clay.

42 And as the toes of the feet were part of ron, and part of clay : the kingdom shall be jurtly strong, and partly broken.

43 And whereas thou sawest the iron mixt aith miry clay, they shall be mingled indeed together with the seed of man, but they shall not stick fast one to another, as iron cannot be mixed with clay.

44 But in the days of those kingdoms the God of heaven will set up a kingdom that shall Lever be destroyed, and his kingdom shall not be delivered up to another people: and it shall break in pieces, and shall consume all these kingdoms: and itself shall stand for ever.

45 According as thou sawest, that the stone was cut out of the mountain without hands, and broke in pieces the clay and the iron, and the brass, and the silver, and the gold, the great God hath shewn the king what shall come to pass hereafter, and the dream is true, and the interpretation thereof is faithful.

46 Then king Nabuchodonosor fell on his face, and worshipped Daniel, and commanded that they should offer in sacrifice to him victims and incense.

47 And the king spoke to Daniel, and said: Verily your God is the God of gods, and Lord of kings, and a revealer of hidden things: seeing then couldst discover this secret.

48 Then the king advanced Daniel to a kigh station, and gave him many and great gifts: and he made him governor over all the prorinces of Babylon: and chief of the magistrates over all the wise men of Babylon.

49 And Daniel requested of the king, and he appointed Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago over the works of the province of Babylon: but Daniel himself was in the king's palace.

princes of the provinces were gathered together to come to the dedication of the statue, which king Nabuchodonosor had set up. And they stood before the statue which king Nahuehodonosor had set up.
4 Then a herald cried with a strong voice?

To you it is commanded, O nations, tribes, and languages:

5 That in the hour that you shall hear the sound of the trumpet, and of the flute, and of the harp, of the sackbut, and of the psaltery, and of the symphony, and of all kind of music; ye fall down and adore the golden statuo which king Nabuchodonosor hath set up.

6 But if any man shall not fall down and adore, he shall the same hour be cast into a furnace of burning fire.

7 Upon this therefore, at the time when all the people heard the sound of the trumpet, the flute, and the harp, of the sackbut, and the psaltery, of the symphony, and of all kind of nussle: all the nations, tribes, and languages fell down and adored the golden statue which king Nabuchodonosor had set up.

8 And presently at that very time some Chal-deans came and accused the Jews,

9 And said to king Nabuchodonosor: O king, live for over:

10 Thou, O king, hast made a decree that every man that shall hear the sound of the trumpet, the flute, and the harp, of the sackbut, and the psaltery, of the symphony, and of all kind of music, shall prostrate himself, and adore the golden statue:

11 And that if any man shall not fall down and adore, he should be cast into a furnace of burning fire.

12 Now there are certain Jews whom thou hast set over the works of the province of Babylon, Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago: these men, O king, have slighted thy decree: they worship not thy gods, nor do they adore the golden statue which thou hast set up.

13 Then Nabuchodonosor in fury, and in wrath, commanded that Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago should be brought: who immediately were brought before the king.

14 And Nabuchodonosor the king spoke to them, and said: Is it true, O Sidrach, Misach. and Abdenago, that you do not worship my gods, nor adore the golden statue that I have set up?

15 Now therefore if you be ready, at what hour soever you shall hear the sound of the trumpet, flute, harp, sackbut, and psaltery, and symphony, and of all kind of music, prostrate yourselves, and adore the statue which I have made: but if you do not adore, you shall be cast the same hour into the furnace of burning fire: and who is the God that shall deliver you out of my hand?

16 Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago answerec and said to king Nabuchodonosor: We have no occasion to answer thee concerning this matter.

17 For behold our God, whom we worship is able to save us from the furnace of burning fire, and to deliver us out of thy hands, O king.

18 But if he will not, be it known to thee, O king, that we will not worship thy gods, nor adore the golden statue which thou had eet up.
29 Then was Nabuchodonosor filled which

20 And he commanded the strongest men hat were in his army, to bind the feet of Si-drach, Misach, and Abdenzgo, and to cast them into the furnace of burning fire.

21 And immediately these men were bound and were cast into the furnace of burning fire, with their coats, and their caps, and their shoes, and their garments.

22 For the king's commandment was urgent, and the furnace was heated exceedingly. And the flame of the fire slew those men that had cast in Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago.

23 But these three men, that is, Sidrach, sisach, and Abdenago, fell down bound in the thirdst of the furnace of burning fire-

24 And they walked in the midst of the flame, praising God and blessing the Lord.

25 Then Azarias standing up prayed in this manner, and opening his mouth in the midst of the fire, he said:

26 Blessed art thou, O Lord the God of our futhers, and thy name is worthy of praise, and glorious for ever:

27 For thou art just fu all that thou hast done to us, and all thy works are true, and thy ways ight, and all thy judgments true.

28 For thou hast executed true judgments in il the things that thou hast brought upon us, nd upon Jerusalem the holy city of our fathers: ir according to truth and judgment, thou ast brought all these things upon us for our ins.

29 For we have sinned, and committed ininity, departing from thee: and we have tresessed in all things:

30 And we have not hearkened to thy comandments, nor have we observed nor done as on hast commanded us, that it might go well Ith us.

31 Wherefore all that thou hast brought upon , and every thing that thou hast done to us, on hast done in true judgment:

32 And thou hast delivered us into the hands

our enemies that are unjust, and most wicked, d prevaricators, and to a king unjust, and ost wicked beyond all that are upon the earth. 33 And tow we cannot open our mouths: we e become a shame and reproach to thy sernts, and to them that wership thee.

Ver. 38. Nabuchodonosor, &c. These three last verses are a kind of preface to the following chapter, which is written in the style of an epistle from the king. OHAP, IV. Ver 5 Baltassur, according to the name of my god. He says this, because the name of Baltassur, or Baltashazzar, is derived from the name of Sel, the chief god of the Behylodians.

Then Nabuchodonosor the king was asfinished, and rose up in hasto, and said to his Did we not cast three men bound into the midst of the fire? They answered the king, and said: True, O king.

92 He answered, and said: Behold I see four men loose, and walking in the midst of the fire, and there is no hurt in them, and the form of the fourth is like the son of God.

93 Then Nabuehodonosor came to the door of the burning fiery furnace, and said : Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago, ye servants of the most high God, go ye forth, and come. And immodiately Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago went out from the midst of the fire.

94 And the nobles, and the magistrates, and the judges, and the great men of the king being gathered together, considered these men, that the fire had no power on their bodies, and that not a hair of their head had being singed, nor their garments altered, nor the smell of the fire had passed on them.

95 Then Nabuchodonosor breaking forth, said: Blessed be the God of them, to wit, of Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago, who hath sent his Angel, and delivered his servants that believed in him: and they changed the king's word, and dehvered up their bodies that they might not serve, nor adore any god, except their own God.

96 By me therefore this decree is made, that every people, tribe, and tongue, which shall speak blasphemy against the God of Sidrach, Miszch, and Abdenago, shall be destroyed, and their houses laid waste: for there is no other God that can save in this manner.

97 Then the king promoted Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago, in the province of Babylon.

98 Nabuehodonosor the king, to all peoples, nations, and tongues, that dwell in all the earth, peace be multiplied unto you.

99 The most high God hath wrought signs and wonders toward me. It hath seemed good to me therefore to publish

100 His signs, because they are great: and his wonders, because they are mighty: and his kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, * and his power to all generations.

CHAP. IV. Nabuchodonosor's dream, by which the judyments of Gos are denounced against him for his pride, is interpreted by Daniel, and verified by the event.

Nabuchodonosor was at rest in my house,

† and flourishing in my palace:
2 I saw a dream that affrighted me: and my thoughts in my bed, and the visions of my head troubled me.

3 Then I set forth a decree, that all the wise men of Babylon should be brought in before me, and that they should shew me the interpretation of the dream.

4 Then came in the diviners, the wise men, the Chaldeans, and the soothsayers, and I told the dream before them: but they did not shew me the interpretation thereof:

Till their colleague Daniel came in before me, whose name is Baltassar, according to the name of my god, who hath in him the spirit of the holy gods: and I told the dream before him.

6 Baltassar, prince of the diviners, because I know that thou hast in thee the spirit of the hely gods, and that no secret is impossible to thee: tell me the visions of my droams that I have seen, and the interpretation of them.

7 This was the vision of my head in my bed : I saw, and behold a tree in the midst of the earth, and the height thereof was exceeding great.

8 The tree was great, and strong: and the height thereof reached unto heaven : the sight thereof was even to the ends of all the earth.

9 Its leaves were most beautiful, and its fruit exceeding much: and in it was food for all: under it dwelt cattle and beasts, and in the branches thereof the fowls of the air had their abode: and all flesh did eat of it.

10 I saw in the vision of my head upon my bed, and behold a watcher, and a holy one came down from heaven.

11 He cried aloud, and said thus: Cut down the tree, and chop off the branches thereof: shake off its leaves, and scatter its fruits: et the beasts fly away that are under it, and he birds from its branches.

12 Nevertheless leave the stump of its roots in the earth, and let it be tied with a band of iron, and of brass, among the grass, that is without, and let it be wet with the dew of heaven, and let its portion be with the wild beasts in the grass of the earth.

13 Let his heart be changed from man's, and let a beast's heart be given him : and let seven times pass over him.

14 This is the decree by the sentence of the watchers, and the word and demand of the holy ones till the living know, that the most High rueth in the kingdom of men: and he will give it o whomsoever it shall please him, and he will appoint the basest * man over him.

15 I king Nabuchodonosor saw this dream: thon therefore, O Baltassar, tell me quickly the interpretation: for all the wise men of my kingdom are not able to declare the meaning of it to me: but thou art able, because the spirit of the Loly gods is in thee.

16 Then Daniel whose name was Baltassar, beg an silently to think within himself for about one hour: and his thoughts troubled him. But the king answering, said : Baltassar, let not the dream and the interpretation thereof trouble thee. Baltassar answered, and said : My Lord, the dream be to them that hate thee, and the interpretation thereof to thy enemies.

17 The tree which thou sawest which was ligh and strong, whose height reached to the kies, and the sight thereof into all the earth:

18 And the branches thereof were most beaniful, and its fruit exceeding much, and in it vas fc od for all, under which the beasts of the leld dwelt, and the birds of the air had their bode in its branches.

19 It is thou, O king, who art grown great, nd become mighty: for thy greatness hath grown, and hath reached to heaven, and thy power unto the ends of the earth.

20 And whereas the king saw a watcher, and a holy one come down from heaven, and say: Cut down the tree and destroy it, but leave the stump of the roots thereof in the earth, and let it be bound with iron and brass among the grass without, and let it be sprinkled with the dew of heaven, and let his feeding be with the wild beasts, till seven times pass over him.

21 This is the interpretation of the sentence of the most High, which is come upon my lord the king.

22 They shall cast thee out from among men, and thy dwelling shall be with cattle and with wild beasts, + and thou shalt eat grass as an ox, and shalt be wet with the dew of heaven: and seven times shall pass over thee, till thou know that the most High ruleth over the kingdom of men, and giveth it to whomsoever he will.

23 But whereas he commanded, that the stump of the roots thereof, that is, of the tree, should be left: thy kingdom shall vennain te thee after thou shalt have known that power is from heaven.

24 Wherefore, O king, let my counsel be acceptable to thee, $\frac{1}{2}$ and redeem thou thy sins with alms, and thy iniquities with works of mercy to the poor: perhaps he will forgive thy offences.

25 All these things came upon king Nabuchodonosor.

26 At the end of twelve months he was walking in the palace of Babylon.

27 And the king answered, and said: Is not this the great Babylon, which I have built to be the seat of the kingdom, by the strength of my power, and in the glory of my excellence?

28 And while the word was yet in the king's mouth, a voice came down from heaven: To thee, O king Nabuchodonosor, it is said: Thy kingdom shall pass from thee,

29 And they shall cast thee out from amoug men, and thy dwelling shall be with cattle and wild beasts: thou shalt eat grass like an ox, and seven times shall pass over thee, till thou know that the most High ruleth in the kingdom of men, and giveth it to whomsoever he will.

30 The same hour the word was fulfilled upon Nabuchodonosor, and he was driven away from among men, and did eat grass like an ox, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven: till his hairs grew like the feathers of eagles, and his nails like birds' claws.

31 Now at the end of the days, § I Nabuchodonosor lifted up my eyes to heaven, and my sense was restored to me; and I blessed the most High, and I praised and glorified him that liveth for ever: || for his power is an everlasting power, and his kingdom is to all generations.

32 And all the inhabitants of the earth are reputed as nothing before him: for he doth according to his will, ¶ as well with the powers of heaven, as among the inhabitants of the earth. and there is none that can resist his hand, and say to him: Why hast thou done it?

33 At the same time my sense returned to me, and I came to the honour and glory of my kingdom: and my shape returned to me: and my nobles, and my magistrates sought for me, and I was restored to my kingdom; and greater majesty was added to me.

34 Therefore I Nabuchodonosorc'o now prai.

and magnify and glorify the King of heaven: tocause all his works are true, and his ways addgments, and them that walk in pride he is uble to abase.

CHAP. V.
Baltussur's profane banquet: his sentence is denounced by a hand writing on the wall, which Duniel reads and interprets.

B ALTASSAR * the king made a great feast for a thousand of his nobles; and every one drank according to his age.

2 And being new drunk he commanded that they should bring the vessels of gold and silver which Nabuchodonosor his father had brought away out of the temple, that was in Jerusalein, that the king and his nobles, and his wives and his concubines, might drink in them.

3 Then were the golden and silver vessels trought, which he had brought away out of the cample that was in Jerusalem; and the king and his nobles, his wives and concubines, drank in them.

4 They drank wine, and praised their gods of gold, and of silver, of brass, of iron, and of wood, and of stone.

5 In the same hour there appeared fingers as it were of the hand of a man, writing over against the candlestick upon the surface of the wall of the king's palace: and the king beheld the joints of the hand that wrote.

6 Then was the king's countenance changed, and his thoughts troubled him : and the joints of his loins were loosed, and his knees struck one against the other.

7 And the king cried out aloud to bring in the wise men, the Chaldeans and the soothsayers. And the king spoke, and said to the wise men of Babylon: Whosoever shall read this writing, and shall make known to me the interpretation thereof, shall be clothed with purple, and shall have a golden chain on his neck, and shall be the third man in my kingdom.

8 Then came in all the king's wise men, but they could neither read the writing, nor declare the interpretation to the king.

9 Wherewith king Baltassar was much troubled, and his countenance was changed: and his nobles also were troubled.

10 Then the queen, on occasion of what had happened to the king, and his nobles, came into the banquet-house: and she spoke and said: O king. live for ever: let not thy thoughts trouble thee, neither let thy countenance be changed.

11 There is a man in thy kingdom that hath the spirit of the holy gods in him: and in the days of thy father knowledge and wisdom were found in him: for king Nabuehodonosor thy father appointed him prince of the wise men, enchanters, Chaldeans, and soothsayers, thy ather, I say, O king:

12 Because a greater spirit, and knowledge, and understanding, and interpretation of dreams, and shewing of secrets, and resolving of difficult things, were found in him, that is, in Daniel: whom the king named Baltassar. fore 'et Daniel be called for, and he will tell the luterpretation.

13 Then Daniel was brought in before the And the king spoke, and said to him Art thou Daniel of the children of the captivity of Juda, whom my father the king brought our of Judea?

14 I have heard of thee, that thou hast the spirit of the gods, and excellent knowledge, and understanding, and wisdom are found in thee.

15 And now the wise man the magicians have come in before me, to read this writing, and shew me the interpretation thereof: and they could not declare to me the meaning of this

16 But I have heard of thee, that thou const interpret obscure things, and resolve difficult things: now if thou art able to read the writing and to shew me the interpretation thereof, thou shalt be clothed with purple, and shalt have a chain of gold about thy neck, and shalt be the third prince in my kingdom.

17 To which Daniel made answer, and said before the king: Thy rewards be to thyself, and the gifts of thy house give to another: but the writing I will read to thee, O king, and shew thee the interpretation thereof.

18 O king, the most high God gave to Nabu-chalonosor thy father a kingdom, and greatness, and glory, and honour. 19 And for the greatness that he gave to him, all people, tribes, and languages trembled, and were afraid of him: whom he would, he slew; and whom he would, he destroyed: and whom he would, he set up: and whom he would, he brought down.

20 But when his heart was lifted up, and his spirit hardened unto pride, he was put down from the throne of his kingdom, and his glory wes taken away.

21 † And he was driven out from the sors of men, and his heart was made like the beasts, and his dwelling was with the wild asses, and he did eat grass like an ox, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven: till he knew that the most High ruled in the kingdom of men. and that he will set over it whomsoever it shall please him.

22 Thou also his son, O Baltassar, hast no humbled thy heart, whereas thou knewest all these things:

23 But hast lifted thyself up against the Lord of heaven; and the vessels of his house have been brought before thee: and thou, and thy nobles, and thy wives, and thy concubines have drunk wine in them; and thou hast praised the gods of silver, and of gold, and of brass, of iron, and of wood, and of stone, that neither see, nor hear, nor feel: but the God who hat thy breath in his hand, and all thy ways, thou hast not glorified.

24 Wherefore he hath sent the part of the hand which hath written this that is set down. 25 And this is the writing that is written:

MANE, THECEL, PHARES.

26 And this is the interpretation of the word. MANE: God hath numbered thy kingdom, and hath finished it.

27 THECEL: thou art weighed in the balance, and art found wauting.

28 PHARES: thy kingdom is divided, and is given to the Medes and Persians.

5 Then these men said: We shall not find ny occasion against this Daniel, unless perhaps oncerning the law of his God.

6 Then the princes, and the governors craftily iggested to the king, and spoke thus unto him:

ing Darius, live for ever :

7 All the princes of the kingdom, the magisates, and governors, the senators and judges we consulted together, that an imperial decree, id an edict be published: That whosoever all ask any petition of any God, or man, for irty days, but of thee, O king, shall be cast to the den of the lions.

8 Now, therefore, O king, confirm the senace, † and sign the decree : that what is deed by the Medes and Persians may not be ered, nor any man be allowed to transgress it.

9 So king Darius cet forth the decree, and ablished it.

10 Now when Daniel' knew this, that is to , that the law was made, he went into his use: and opening the windows in his upper mber towards Jerusalem, he knelt down three ies a day, and adored, and gave thanks bee his God, as he had been accustomed to do ore.

1 Wherefore those men carefully watching a, found Daniel, praying and making suppliion to his God.

2 And they came and spoke to the king cerning the edict: O king, hast thou not deed, that every man that should make a rest to any of the gods, or men, for thirty days, to thyself, O king, should be cast into the of the lions? And the king answered them, ng: The word is true according to the deof the Medes and Persians, which it is not ul to violate.

Then they answered, and said before the : Daniel, who is of the children of the ivity of Juda, hath not regarded thy law, 14 Now when the king had heard these words he was very much grieved, and in behalf of Daniel he set his heart to deliver him, and ever till sun-set he laboured to save him.

15 But those men perceiving the king's design, said to him: Know thou, O king, that the law of the Medes and Persians is, that no decree which the king hath made, may be altered.

16 Then the king commanded, and they brought Daniel, and cast him into the den at the lions. And the king said to Daniel: Thy God, whom thou always servest, he will delived

17 And a stone was brought, and laid upon the mouth of the den : which the king scale. with his own ring, and with the ring of his nobles, that nothing should be done against

18 And the king went away to his house and laid himself down without taking supper, and meat was not set before him, and even sleep departed from him.

19 Then the king rising very early in the morning, went in haste to the lions' den :

20 And coming near to the den, cried with a Daniel, servant of the living God, hath thy God whom thou servest always, been able, thinkest thou, to deliver thee from the lions?

21 And Daniel answering the king, said:

king, live for ever :

22 t My God hath sent his Angel, and hath shut up the mouths of the lions, and they hav not hurt me: forasmuch as before him justice hath been found in me: yea and before there O king, I have done no offence.

23 Then was the king exceeding glad for him, and he commanded that Daniel should be taken out of the den : and Daniel was taken out of the den, and no hurt was found in him, because he believed in his God.

24 And by the king's commandment, those men were brought that had accused Daniel . and they were cast into the lions' den, they and and they did their children, and their wives: and they did not reach the bottom of the den, before the lions caught them, and broke all their bones in

25 Then king Darius wrote to all people, tribes, and languages, dwelling in the whole earth : Peace be multiplied unto you.

26 It is decreed by me, that in all my empire and my kingdom all men dread and fear the God of Daniel. For he is the living and eternal God for ever: and his kingdom shall not be destroyed, and his power shall be for ever.

27 He is the deliverer, and savious, doing signs, and wonders in heaven, and in earth who hath delivered Daniel out of the lipns' den.

28 § Now Daniel continued unto the reign of Darius, and the reign of Cyrus the Persian.

Daniel's vision of the four beasts, signifying four king doms: of God sitting on his throne: and of the opport kingdoms of Christ and Antichrist.

N the first year of Baltassar king of Babylon, Daniel saw a dream: and the vision of his head was upon his bed : and writing the dream. he comprehended it in few words : and relating the sum of it in short, he said:

2 I saw in my vision by night, ar a behold the Tour winds of the beavens errors upon the great

3 And four great beasts, different one from another, came up out of the sea.

4 The first was like a lioness, and had the wings of an eagle: I beheld till her wings were plucked off, and she was lifted up from the earth, and stood upon her feet as a man, and the heart of a man was given to her.

5 And behold another beast like a bear stood up on one side: and there were three rows in the mouth thereof, and in the teeth thereof, and thus they said to it: Arise, devour much desh.

6 After this I beheld, and lo, another like a popard, and it had upon it four wings as of a Sowl, and the beast had four heads, and power was given to it.

7 After this I beheld in the vision of the night, and lo, a fourth beast, terrible and wonderful, and exceeding strong, it had great iron teeth, eating and breaking in pieces, and treading down the rest with its feet : and it was unlike to the other beasts which I had seen before it, and had ten horns.

8 I considered the horns, and behold another little horn sprung out of the midst of them: and three of the first horns were plucked up at the presence thereof: and behold eyes like the eyes of a man were in this horn, and a mouth speaking great things.

9 I beheld till thrones were placed, and the Ancient of days sat: his garment was white as snow, and the hair of his head like clean wool: his throne like flames of fire : the wheels of it like a burning fire.

10 A swift stream of fire issued forth from before him: * thousands of thousands ministered to him, and ten thousand times a hundred thousand stood before him: the judgment sat, and the books were opened.

11 I beheld because of the voice of the great words which that horn spoke: and I saw that the beast was slain, and the body thereof was destroyed, and given to the fire to be burnt:

12 And that the power of the other beasts was taken away: and that times of life were appointed them for a time, and a time.

13 I beheld therefore in the vision of the night, and lo, one like the Son of man came with the clouds of heaven, and he came even to the Ancient of days: and they presented him before him.

14 And he gave him power, and glory, and a kingdom: and all peoples, tribes, and tongues shall serve him: † his power is an everlasting

15 My spirit trembled, I Daniel was afrighted at these things, and the visions of my head troubled me.

16 I went near to one of them that stood by, and asked the truth of him concerning all these things, and he told me the interpretation of the words, and instructed me:

17 These four great beasts, are four kingdoms, which shall arise out of the earth.
18 But the saints of the most high God shall take the kingdom: and they shall possess the kingdom for ever and ever

19 After this I would diligently learn concerning the fourth beast, which was very dif-ferent from all, and exceeding terrible: his teeth and claws were of iron: he devoured and broke in pieces, and the rest he stamped upon with his feet:

20 And concerning the ten horns that he has on his head: and concerning the other that came up, before which three horns fell: and of that horn that had eyes, and a mouth speaking great things, and was greater than the rest.

21 I beheld, and lo, that horn made war against the saints, and prevailed over them,

22 Till the Ancient of days came and gave judgment to the saints of the most High, and the time came, and the saints obtained the kingdom.

23 And thus he said: The fourth beast shall be the fourth kingdom upon earth, which shall be greater than all the kingdoms, and shall deyour the whole earth, and shall tread it down, and break it in pieces.

24 And the ten horns of the same kingdom, shall be ten kings: and another shall rise up after them, and he shall be mightier than the former, and he shall bring down three kings.

25 And he shall speak words against the High One, and shall crush the saints of the most; High: and he shall think himself able to change times and laws, and they shall be delivered into his hand until a time, and times, and half

26 And judgment shall sit, that his power may be taken away, and be broken in pieces, and perish even to the end.

27 And that the kingdom, and power, and the greatness of the kingdom, under the whole head ven, may be given to the people of the saints o the most High: whose kingdom is an everlast ing kingdom, and all kings shall serve him, and shall obey him.

28 Hitherto is the end of the word. I Danie was much troubled with my thoughts, and m) countenance was changed in me but I kept the word in my heart.

Daniel's vision of the ram and he-grav, utterpreted by the Angel Gabriel.

N the third year of the reign of king Bal tassar, a vision appeared to me. I Danie after what I had seen in the beginning,

2 Saw in my vision when I was in the castle of Susa, which is in the province of Elam: and I saw in the vision that I was over the gate ? Ulai.

3 And I lifted up my eyes, and saw: and be hold a ram stood before the water, having tu high horns, and one higher than the other and growing up. Afterward

4 I saw the ram pushing with his horns against the west, and against the north, and against the south: and no beasts could withstand him, nor be delivered out of his hand : and he did according to his own will, and became

5 And I understood: and behold a he-goat came from the west on the face of the whole earth, and he touched not the ground, and the he-goat had a notable horn between his eyes.

7 And when he was come near the ram, he was enraged against him, and struck the ram: and broke his two horns, and the ram could not withstand him: and when he had cast him down on the ground, he stamped upon him, and none could deliver the ram out of his band.

8 And the he-goat became exceeding great: and when he was grown, the great horn was broken, and there came up four horns under it towards the four winds of heaven.

9 And out of one of them came forth a little horn: and it became great against the south, and against the east, and against the strength.

10 And it was magnified even unto the strength of heaven: and it threw down of the strength, and of the stars, and trod upon hem.

11 And it was magnified even to the prince of the strength: and it took away from him the continual sacrifice, and cast down the place of his sanctuary.

12 And strength was given him against the continual sacrifice because of sins: and truth shall be east down on the ground, and he shall lo and shall prosper.

13 And I heard one of the saints speaking, and one saint said to another, I know not to whom that was speaking: How long shall be he vision, concerning the continual sacrifice, nd the sin of the desolation that is made: and he sanctuary, and the strength be trodden uner foot?

14 And he said to him: Unto evening and norning two thousand three hundred days: and Ulai: and he called, and said: Gabriel, make this man to understand the vision.

17 And he came and stood near where I stood: and when he was come, I fell on my face trembling, and he said to me: Understand, O son as man, for in the time of the end the vision shall be fulfilled.

18 And when he spoke to me I fell flat on the ground: and he touched me, and set me upright, his nation, but not with his strength.

23 And after their reign, when iniquities shall be grown up, there shall arise a king of a shameless face, and understanding dark sentences.

24 And his power shall be strengthened, but not by his own force: and he shall lay all things waste, and shall prosper, and do more than can be believed. And he shall destroy the mighty, and the people of the saints,

25 According to his will, and craft shall be successful in his hand; and his heart shall be puffed up, and in the abundance of all things he shall kill many: and he shall rise up against the prince of princes, and shall be broken without hand.

26 And the vision of the evening and the morning, which was told, is true: thou therefore seal up the vision, because it shall come to pass after many days.

27 And I Daniel languished, and was sick for some days: and when I was visen up, I did the king's business, and I was astonished at the vision, and there was none that could interpret it.

Daniel's confession and prayer: Gabriel informs him concerning the seventy weeks to the coming of Christ.

N * the first year of Darius the son of As-sucrus of the seed of the Medes, who reigned over the kingdom of the Chaldeans:

2 The first year of his reign, I Daniel un derstood by books the † number of the years concerning which the word of the Lord came to Jeremias the prophet, that seventy years should be accomplished of the desolation of Jerusalem.

3 And I set my face to the Lord my God, to pray and make supplication with fasting, and sackcloth, and ashes.

4 And I prayed to the Lord my God, and 1 made my confession, and said : ‡ I beseech three, O Lord God, great and terrible, who keepest the covenant, and mercy to them that love thee, and keep thy commandments.

5 § We have sinned, we have committed iniquity, we have done wickedly, and have revolted: and we have gone aside from thy commandments, and thy judgments.

6 We have not hearkened to thy servants the prophets, that have spoken in thy name :c our kings, to our princes, to our fathers, and to all the people of the land.

8 O Lord, to us belongeth confusion of face, w our princes, and to our fathers that have faned.

9 But to thee, the Lord our God, mercy and forgiveness, for we have departed from thee:

10 And we have not hearkened to the voice of the Lord our God, to walk in his law, which be set before us by his servants the prophets.

11. And all Israel have transgressed thy law, and have turned away from hearing thy voice, and the malediction, and the curse, * which is written in the book of Moses, the servant of God, is fallen upon us, because we have sinned against him.

12 And he hath confirmed his words which he spoke _gainst us, and against our princes that judged us, that he would bring in upon us a great evil, such as never was under all the heaven, according to that which hath been done in Jerusalem.

13 As it is written in the law of Moses, all this evil is come upon us: and we entreated not thy face, O Lord our God, that we might turn from our iniquities, and think on thy truth.

14 And the Lord bath watched upon the evil, and hath brought i upon us: the Lord our God is just in all his works which he hath done: for we have not hearkened to his voice.

15 † And now, O Lord our God, who hast brought forth thy people out of the land of Egypt with a strong hand, and hast made thee name as at this day: we have sinned, we have

ommitted iniquity,

16 O Lord, against all that justice: let thy wrath and thy indignation be turned away, I beseech thee, from thy city Jerusalem, and from thy holy mountain. For by reason of our sins, and the iniquities of our fathers, Jerusalem, and thy people are a reproach to all that are round about us.

17 Now therefore, O our God, hear the supplication of thy servant, and his prayers: and shew thy face upon thy sanctuary which is deso-ate, for thy own sake.

18 Incline, O my God, thy ear, and hear: open thy eyes, and see our desolation, and the rity upon which thy name is called: ‡ for it is not for our justifications that we present our prayers before thy face, but for the multitude of thy tender mercies.

CHAP. XIII. The history of Susanna, and the two elders. NOW || there was a man that dwelt in Babylon, and his name was Joakim:

2 And he took a wife whose name was Susanna, the daughter of Helcias, a very beautiful woman, and one that feared God.

3 For her parents being just, had instructed their daughter according to the law of Moses.

4 Now Joakim was very rich, and had an orchard near his house: and the Jews resorted to him, because he was the most honourable of

7 And when the people departed away at noon, Susanna went in, and walked in her hus 8 And the old men saw her going in every day, and walking: and they were inflamed with lust towards her: 9 And they perverted their own mind and turned away their eyes that they might not look unto heaven, nor remember just judgments.

10 So they were both wounded with the love of her, yet they did not make known their grief one to the other: 11 For they were ashamed to declare to one enother their not being deletous 's have to do

12 And they watched carefully every day to see her. And one said to the other:

13 Let us now go home, for it is dinner time. So going out they departed one from another

14 And turning back again, they came both to the same place: and asking one another the cause, they acknowledged their lust, and then they agreed upon a time, when they might find

15 And it fell out, as they watched a fit day, she went in on a time, as yesterday and the day before, with two maids only, and was desirous to wash herself in the orchard: for it was hot weather.

16 And there was nobody there, but the two old men that had hid themselves and were benolding her.

17 So she said to the maids: Bring me oil, and washing balls, and shut the doors of the orchard, that I may wash me.

18 And they did as she bade them: and they shut the doors of the orchard, and went out by a back door to fetch what she had commanded them, and they knew not that the elders were hid within.

19 Now when the maids were gone forth, the two elders arose, and ran to her, and said:

20 Behold the doors of the orchard are shut, and nobody seeth us, and we are in love with thee: wherefore consent to us, and lie with us.

21 But if thou wilt not, we will bear witness against thee, that a young man was with thee, and therefore thou didst send away thy maids from thee. 22 Susanna sighed, and said: I am straitened or every side: for if I do this thing, it is death to me: and if I do it not, I shall not escape your nands. 23 But it is better for me to fall into your hands without doing it, than to sin in the sight of the Lord.

24 With that Susanna cried out with a loud voice: and the elders also cried out against

25 And one of them ran to the door of the orchard, and opened it.

26 So when the servants of the house heard the cry in the orchard, they rushed in by tho back door, to see what was the matter.

27 But after the old men had spoken, the serrants were greatly ashamed: for never had there been any such word said of Susanna. And on the next day, 28 When the people were come to Joakim her husband, the two elders also came full of wicked device against Susanna, to put her to leath.

29 And they said before the people : Send to Susanna daughter of Helcias the wife of Joakim. And presently they sent.

30 And she came with her parents, and children, and all her kindred.

31 Now Susanna was exceeding delicate and beautiful to behold.

32 But those wicked men commanded that her face should be uncovered (for she was covered) that so at least they might be satisfied with her beauty.

33 Therefore her friends, and all her acquaintance wept

1 Liver 93, 2

32 Dut the two clders rising up in the mide? of the people, laid their hands upon her head.

35 And she weeping looked up to heaven, &r her heart had confidence in the Lord.

36 And the elders said: As we walked in the orchard alone, this woman came in with two maids, and shut the doors of the orchard, and sent away the maids from her.

37 Then a young man that was there hid came to her, and lay with her.

38 But we that were in a corner of the orchard, seeing this wickedness, ran up to them, and we saw them lie together.

39 And him indeed we could not take him. because he was stronger than us, and opening the doors he leaped out:

40 But having taken this woman, we asked who the young man was, but she would not tell us: of this thing we are witnesses.

41 The multitude believed them as being the elders and the judges of the people, and they condemned her to death.

42 Then Susanna cried out with a loud voice, and said: O eternal God, who knowest hidden things, who knowest all things before they come to pass.

43 Thou knowest that they have borne false witness against me: and behold I must die whereas I have done none of these things, which these men have maliciously forged against me.

44 And the Lord heard her voice.

45 And when she was led to be put to death, the Lord raised up the holy spirit of a young whose name was Daniel.

46 And he cried out with a loud voice: I am clear from the blood of this woman.

47 Then all the people turning themselves towards him, said: What meaneth this word that thou hast spoken?

48 But he standing in the midst of them, said: Are ye so foolish, ye children of Israel, that without examination or knowledge of the truth, you have condemned a daughter of Israel?

49 Return to judgment, for they have borne false witness against her.

50 So all the people turned again in baste, and the old men said to him: Come, and sit thou down among us, and shew it us: seeing God hath given thee the honour of old age.

51 And Daniel said to the people : Separate these two far from one another, and I will examine them.

52 So when they were put asunder one from the other, he called one of them, and said to him: O thou that art grown old in evil days now are thy sins come out, which thou hast committed before:

53 In judging unjust judgments, oppressing the innocent, and letting the guilty to go free whereas the Lord saith: The innocent and the just thou shalt not kill.

54 Now then, if thou sawest her, tell me under what tree thou sawest them conversing together. He said: Under a mastic tree.

55 And Daniel said: Well hast thou lied against thy own head: for behold the Angel of God having received the sentence of him, snall out thee in two.

56 And having put him aside, he commanded that the other should come, and he said to him: O thou seed of Chansan, and not of Jude beauty bath deceived thee, and lust hath perverted thy heart:

57 Thus did you do to the daughters of Israck, and they for fear conversed with you: but a daughter of Juda would not abide your Wickedness

58 Now therefore tell me, under what tree didst thou take them conversing together. And he answered: Under a holm tree.

59 And Danlel said to him: Well hast thou also lied against thy own head: for the Angel of the Lord waiteth with a sword to cut thee in wo, and to destroy you.

60 With that all the assembly cried out with loud voice, and they blessed God, who saveth hem that trust in him.

PROPHECY OF OSEE.

DEBU, or Hooda, whose name signifies a seriour, was the first in the order of time among those who are commonly called lesser prophets, because their prophecies are short. He prophesied in the kingdom of Israel, that is, of the kill tribes, about the same time that Isaias prophesied in the kingdom of Juda.

PROPHECY OF JONAS.

A MAS prophesied in the reign of Jeroboam the second: as we learn from 4 Kings, xiv. 35. To whom also he forcted his success in restoring all the borders of Israel. He was of Germ-Ophen in the tribe of Zabulon, and consequently of Gallier: which confutes that assertion of the Pharisees, John, vii. 52., that no prophet ever rose out of Gallier. He prophesied and prefigured in his own person the death and resurrection of Christ; and was the cally one around the prophets that was sent to preach to the Gentiles. only one among the prophets that was sent to preach to the Gentiles.

Tonas being seen to preach in Ninive, fleeth away by sea: a tempest riseth: of which he being found, by lot, to be the cause, is cast into the sea, which thereupon is calmed.

NOW * the word of the Lord came to Jonas the son of Amathi, saying:

2 Arise, and go to Ninive the great city, and Teach in it : for the wickedness thereof is come up before me.

3 And Jonas rose up to flee into Tharsis from the face of the Lord, and he went down to Joppe, and found a ship going to Tharsis: and he paid the fare thereof, and went down into it, to go with them to Tharsis from the face of the Lord.

4 But the Lord sent a great wind into the sea: and a great tempest was raised in the sea, and the ship was in danger to be broken.

5 And the mariners were afraid, and the men ried to their god: and they cast forth the wares that were in the ship, into the sea, to

7 Be silent before the face of the Lord God: for the day of the Lord is near, for the Lord hath prepared a victim, he hath sanctified his guests.

8 And it shall come to pass in the day of the cictim of the Lord, that I will visit upon the princes, and upon the king's sons, and upon all such as are clothed with strange apparel

9 And I will visit in that day upon every one that entereth arrogantly over the threshold: them that fill the house of the Lord their God with iniquity and deceit. 10 And there shall be in that day, saith the Lord, the noise of a cry from the fish-gate, and howling from the Second, and a great destruction from the hills. 11 Howl, ye inhabitants of the Morter. he people of Chanaan is hush, all are cut off

14 The great day of the Lord is near, it is near and exceeding swift: the voice of the day of the Lord is bitter, the mighty man shall there meet with tribulation.

15 1 That day is a day of wrath, a day of tribulation and distress, a day of calamity and misery, a day of darkness and obscurity, a day of clouds and whirlwinds,

16 A day of the trumpet and alarm against the fenced cities, and against the high bulwarks.

17 And I will distress men, and they shall walk like blind men, because they have sinned against the Lord: and their blood shall be poured out as earth, and their bodies as dung. 18 § Neither shall their silver and their gold

CHAP. II.
An exhortation to repentance. The judgment of the Phblistines, of the Moubites and the Ammonites; of the Ethiopians, and the Assyrians.

SSEMBLE yourselves together, be gathered together, O nation not worthy to be loved:

2 Before the decree bring forth the day as dust passing away, before the fierce anger of the Lord come upon you, before the day of the Lord's indignation come upon you.

3 Seck the Lord, all ye meek of the earth, you that have wrought his judgment: seek the just, seek the meek: if by any means you may be hid in the day of the Lord's indignation.

4 For Gaza shall be destroyed, and Ascalon shall be a desert, they shall east out Azotus at noon-day, and Accaron shall be rooted up.

5 Wo to you that inhabit the sea-coast, O nation of reprobates: the word of the Lord upon you, O Chanaan, the land of the Philistines, and I will destroy thee, so that there shall not be an inhabitant.

6 And the sea-coast shall be the resting-place of shepherds, and folds for cattle:

7 And it shall be the portion of him that shall remain of the house of Juda, there they shall feed: in the houses of Ascalon they shall rest in the evening: because the Lord their God will visit them, and bring back their captivity.

8 I have heard the reproach of Moab, and the olasphemies of the children of Ammon, with which they reproached my people, and have magnified themselves upon their borders.

9 Therefore 23 I live, 82 th the Lord of hosts the God of Israel, Mcab shall be as Sodom, and the children of American as Gomorrha, the drynoss of thorns, and heups of salt, and a desert even for ever: the remnant of my people shall make a spoil of them, and the residue of my nation shall possess them.

10 This shall befall them for their pride: because they have blasphemed, and have been magnified against the people of the Lord of hosts.

11 The Lord shall be terrible upon them, and chall consume all the gods of the earth: and they shall adore him every man from his own place, all the islands of the Gentiles.

12 You Ethiopians, also shall be slain with my sword.

13 And he will stretch out his hand upon the north, and will destroy Assyria: and he will make the beautiful city a wilderness, and as a place not passable, and as a desert.

14 * And flocks shall lie down in the midst thereof, all the beasts of the nations: and the bittern and the urchin shall lodge in the threshold thereof: the voice of the singing bird in the window, the raven on the upper post, for I will consume her strength.

15 This is the glorious city that dwcit in security: that said in her heart: I am, and there is none beside me: how is she become a desert, place for beasts to lie down in? every one that passeth by her, shall hiss, and wag his hand.

vill not do iniquity: in the morning, in the morning he will bring his judgment to light, and it shall not be hid: but the wicked man hath not known shame.

8 Wherefore expect me, saith the Lord to the day of my resurrection that is to come, for my judgment is to assemble the Gentiles, and to gather the kingdoms; and to pour upon them my indignation, all my fierce anger: $ for with the fire of my jealousy shall all the earth be devoured.

12 And I will leave in the midst of thee poor and needy people: and they shall hope in the name of the Lord

13 The remnant of Israel shall not do iniquity, nor speak lies, nor shall a deceitful tengue be found in their mouth: for they shall feed, and shall lie down, and there shall be none to make them afraid.

14 Give praise, O daughter of Sion: shout, O Israel: be glad, and rejoice with all thy heart, O daughter of Jerusalem.

15 The Lord hath taken away thy judgment he hath turned away thy enemies: the king of Israel the Lord is in the midst of thee, thou shalt fear evil no more.

16 In that day it shall be said to Jerusalem: Fear not: to Sion: Let not thy hands be weakened.

17 The Lord thy God in the midst of thee is mighty, he will save : he will rejoice over thes with gladness, he will be silent in his love, he will be joyful over thee in praise.

18 The triflers that were departed from the law, I will gather together, because they were of thee: that thou mayst no more suffer reproach for them.

19 Behold I will cut off all that have afflicted thee at that time: and I will save her that halteth, and will gather her that was cast out: and I will get them praise, and a name, in all the land where they had been put to confu sion.

20 At that time, when I will bring you: and at the time that I will gather you: for I wil-give you a name, and praise among all the people of the earth, when I shall have brough back your captivity before your eyes, saith the

was one of those that returned from the captivity of Pabylon, in the first year of the reign of king Cyrus. He was sent by the Lord in the second year of the reign of king Durius, the sen of Hystaspes, to exhort Zorobabd the prince of Juda, and Jesus the high-priest, to the building of the temple; which they had begun, but left of again through the opposition of the Samaritans. In consequence of this exhortation they proceeded in the building and through the emple. And the prophet was commissioned by the Lord to assure them that this second temple should be more gloridis than the former, because the Messiah should know it with his presence: signifying withat hos much the church of the New Testament should excel that of the Old Testament.

They are encouraged to set about the work.

N * the second year of Darius † the king, in the sixth month, in the first day of the month, the word of the Lord came by the hand of Aggeus the prophet, to Zorobabel the son of Salahiel, governor of Juda, and to Jesus the son of losedse the high priest, saying:

2 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, saying : This people saith: The tirne is not yet come for building the house of the Lord.

3 And the word of the Lord came by the hand of Aggeus the prophet, saying:
4 Is it time for you to dwell in celled houses, and this house lie desolate?

5 And now thus saith the Lord of hosts : Set your hearts to consider your ways. 6 ? You have sowed much, and brought in little: you have eaten, but have not had enough: you have drunk, but have not been filled with drink: you have clothed yourselves, but have not been warmed: and he that hath earned
